

NO JORDAN FOR THEM

Respectable Democrats Opposed to Affiliation.

THEY WILL HOLD A CONVENTION.

Representative Republicans Hold a Large Meeting to Discuss the New Law as to Primaries.

The Democratic city central committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of Handolph & Chapin, Occidental block, and practically decided to hold a convention, and on the 23d, but there is a doubt about what has could be obtained for the purpose, the meeting adjourned until to-morrow, when all the arrangements for a convention are to be completed. This does not carry with it, however, much of a probability that the Democrats will put a name in nomination, but this all depends, so they say, upon the candidate selected at the Republican convention. If he is a good man they will not hesitate to give their support to him instead of Dr. Jordan. This means that all the efforts they have so far made to "sicker" have met with but scant encouragement.

Pulled Back the $1000.

The first approach to a combination with the Jordan party have proved an unqualified failure. The $300 subscribed last week by prominent Democrats for the purpose of preparing the organization for its primaries and convention was deposited with a Democratic councilman subject to the orders of the city central committee, and with the assistance of the Jordan men and in furtherance of the proposed combine. A. G. Lane was chosen secretary of the central committee. When it was brought to the attention of the committee of the $300 that Lane was a lieutenant of Jordan and was about to swoop down upon their little donation for the benefit of the Jordan ticket, the committee members were at once notified that not a cent should be turned into the Jordan camp. When the meeting assembled yesterday it was to face this deadlock, which has temporarily prevented the preparations for the regular organization of the party. There were so many perplexing circumstances connected with the adjournment to today was necessary to harmonize them.

By Petition. In all probability the city central committee will today adopt the course suggested in these columns several days ago as the probable action of the party. That is to say, they will nominate by petition, the only expense of which will be the cost of the petition, and will call the nomination a Citizens ticket. Then the convention will endorse this ticket and adjourn.

Possible Candidates. Although Mr. Goldsmith has positively refused to allow the use of his name for any office, he is still mentioned for mayor, and Battle, Schram and Daulton are the rest of the proposed ticket, for corporation counsel, treasurer and city clerk. This is the ticket the Democrats have in their minds, but the general feeling is that if they nominate at all, it will be a ticket as unpartisan as possible, in name and outside appearance.

The practical politicians of the party are wholly against naming a Democratic ticket, "to be thrown into the gutter," as they say, and they are devoting their speculation more particularly toward the choice of the Republican convention. They will have nothing to do with Jordan, they say, but some of the Republicans do not put up a broad, liberal-minded man, and as a sample of this kind of man, Col. Ledy is prominently mentioned. It is not true that he has left the Populist camp, and that he has no intention of doing so.

The Republican Meeting. The Republican city central committee held a meeting in room C, Seattle National Bank building, last night, at which were present two representatives from each precinct and three from each ward, and many other leading Republicans, altogether numbering nearly 200. Chairman Mitten, of the central committee, had thought it advisable to call a meeting in regard to the state of 1896, so that the party might be fully acquainted with the construction the committee had adopted in regard to it, and judge if this construction met their approval.

W. H. Gorham explained the new statute very carefully and clearly. The committee had construed it, he said, that at the caucus in each precinct the nominations for delegates should be by acclamation, and should not be confined to any number, so that the law was complied with by naming at least double the number to be selected, and that no faction, being in majority at the caucus, should have the power to operate a gag rule upon the minority in placing in nomination names to be printed on the tickets. This construction was criticized by Maj. Harlan, Ralph Simon, Angus Young, John Wiley, E. W. Craven, J. J. McOliver and others in a good-humored manner, but when its meaning became clear, that it was to throw the caucus gate wide open for every Republican to take part in the state and primaries, the committee's suggestion was adopted without a single dissentient voice. It was also decided that the names be printed on the tickets in the order of their nomination.

Honor for a Prize Ward. Dr. Mitten suggested that a silk banner be ordered by the city central committee to be awarded to the ward making the best showing at the coming city election, and that the ward winning it be called the banner ward, and be entitled to certain precedence and privileges to be fixed by a committee of the city central committee. The suggestion was enthusiastically received. Maj. Harlan at once volunteered a subscription of $25 toward the cost of the banner. Chairman Mitten, for the committee, will have the matter in charge of the presidents of the Republican ward clubs.

Importance of Registration. In connection with the Republican banner that is to be presented to the ward making the best showing, a large registration will be esteemed one of the very first points of excellence, so that to win these Republican prizes, and to enter at all in their wards, or sufficient to enter the competition, should at once set about having every Republican voter registered. The banner ward has an equal chance with the largest to win the proud distinction of the banner ward.

The Republicans have been very slow to register this year. They out but a relatively small figure in the number so far registered, which last night totaled 5,109. There is no business excuse for this tardiness. City Clerk Stewart keeps the books open every night until a late hour. The total registration in the various wards is now as follows: First ward, 542; Second, 643; Third, 529; Fourth, 579; Fifth, 524; Sixth, 581; Seventh, 529; Eighth, 529; Ninth, 529; total, 5,109.

First of the Seventh. The Republicans of the First precinct of the Seventh ward will hold a meeting at Pinksney hall, Broadway and Denny way, immediately upon the adjournment of the ward meeting Wednesday evening, February 5. WILLIAM M. CALHOUN, Vice President.

The Colored Independent Club. The Colored Independent Club met in regular session in Redmen's hall last night and the reports of committees show the club to be in good condition. The committee on La Grippe promptly cured.

S. T. Wiley, a well known school teacher at Gilson Glade, Favett Co., Pa., says of an very much pleased to testify to the efficacy of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, one bottle of which I purchased of James O'Neal, of this place. It gave me prompt and permanent relief from a severe attack of the grip. Since then, I have used it, whenever attacked by any throat trouble, and it has always effected a prompt cure.

It is usually a sign that a woman has more than enough to do; that all her time and strength are utilized in doing heavy work; that she does not use GOLD DUST WASHING POWDER. If she did use this great cleanser, her heavy work would be so lightened that the little things needn't be neglected. GOLD DUST WASHING POWDER gives a woman time to rest, time to go, time to read, and time to sew. Every housewife should have a supply of this great help. THE N. K. Lieut. Daniels Sorry That Healy's Fall at Unalaska Didn't "Break His Bloody Neck."

San Francisco, Feb. 3.—The investigation of the charges against Capt. Healy, of the revenue cutter Bear developed today several incidents of importance. The prosecution closed its case with the testimony of a few witnesses, and their evidence demonstrated that the accused captain was not a model of sobriety in the northern seas. The defense opened its case with the testimony of the relations between the captain and his subordinate officers were frequently strained almost to the breaking point. One of the lieutenants not only becoming a gentleman, but went so far as to indicate that it was his purpose to get Healy out of service.

Before the prosecution closed, one fact at least was very evident. From whatever cause, Capt. Healy was not loved by his subordinate officers. Even one day after officers who have preferred the charges against the accused captain also had designs upon the official position of others who have been in the service for years. It is not probable that the investigation will be closed this week. There was no expectation that the testimony would close today, but more witnesses than were at first thought necessary will be called.

Dr. Thomas B. Bowlin, of the Bear, was the most important witness of the day. The physician was with Healy from April to November of last year. He testified that the captain was suffering from congestion of the lungs and the grip, and that the times was in a dangerous condition. Whisky and quinine had been prescribed for these ailments, and the captain was placed under medical treatment. He testified that he had never seen him intoxicated; that had he been so he would have noticed it. After the unfortunate incident at Unalaska, Dr. Bowlin was ordered, he heard Lieut. Daniels say, with several profane epithets, that he wished that Healy had "broken his bloody neck." In closing his testimony the physician said a high tribute to Healy's efficiency as an officer, and his conduct as a man, particularly in his courtesy to subordinates and his kindness to the crew.

SAVED FROM THE QUICKSANDS. Perilous Adventure of James Wilson in the Snohomish River.

Everett, Feb. 3.—Special.—A most thrilling experience and a rescue in the face of a slow death by drowning happened a few days ago. The story is as follows: James Wilson, a native of California, master, is engaged in towing logs from Cherry Valley to Priest point, on the Snohomish river. Coming down stream the other day he was nearly struck by a landing and the up the raft to save running against the incoming tide. It was between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when he drew up near a mill a mile below. Wilson not showing up, the steamer went back after him, where he was found fast in a bed of quicksands, with the waters rising about his neck. He was in a perilous situation, and the crew, full of sympathy for their comrade, stood by to make every effort to cheer and save him. It was certain that his head would rise nearly a foot above his head before the water would begin to recede. What could be done? Like an inspiration, in the midst of the perilous situation, came the plan of rescue. A small iron pipe about four feet in length was brought from the boat and placed in Wilson's mouth. He could use his arms to steady it. The oakum was used to cover his mouth around the pipe, and over the oakum was placed a covering of white lead, making it water tight. The mast of the steamer and the crew were plugged up in like manner with oakum and white lead. It was found that he could breathe freely through the pipe, and this equipped, Wilson, relieved of fear and content of his release in a short time, calmly waited the rising of the tide, which finally covered his head to the depth of six or eight inches. His companions stood by him faithfully in a small boat and it was not more than about three-quarters of an hour, although it seemed an age, when the waters had receded far enough to let his head out of water and a cool feel that the crisis was passed. When the tide had gone out sufficiently to uncover the flat, willing hands soon did the work of shoving the sand away, and amid general rejoicing Wilson was taken safely aboard the steamer, apparently none the worse for his thrilling adventure. But he has had enough of the river to get married and settle down on his ranch near Snohomish. The crew of the Florence Henry, in addition to the master, Capt. Fairbairn, consists of Capt. George Hill, pilot; Mr. Hinderer, engineer, and Mr. Lida, mate. The story is unique in the marine incidents of the waters and tributaries of Puget sound, but its veracity will be fully vouched for by Capt. Fairbairn, from whose lips the representative of the Post-Intelligencer received the story, and the other members of the crew, not to mention the man most concerned, James Wilson himself.

Mrs. Huntington Still Missing. Tacoma, Feb. 3.—Mrs. John Huntington, wife of a well-known brickmaker and politician, and who disappeared Friday, has not yet been located by the police, and the mystery surrounding her case remains as deep as ever. Renewed efforts are to be put forth tomorrow in searching for her. Mrs. Huntington and Mrs. Cody, relatives of the latter will organize bands of searching parties tomorrow, which will scour the city and vicinity for the missing woman.

The Bank of Puyallup's Debts. Tacoma, Feb. 3.—Special.—Willis B. Boatman, of Puyallup, filed a petition in the superior court today asking that Thomas Watterson and other creditors of the Bank of Puyallup be debarred from sharing in the assets of the bank. The petition recites that Watterson recently secured a judgment for himself and other creditors of the institution against the stockholders of the bank, which Mr. Boatman is one of, and claims they had as depositors. The case is now in the supreme court. Mr. Boatman brings the action in behalf of himself and other stockholders, who are aggrieved, having sought relief in a suit against the stockholders directly, by declaring to have no share in the assets retained by the bank.

THE TACOMA HOTEL DEBTS. Bank Receiver Titlow's Charge Against Nelson Bennett.

Tacoma, Feb. 3.—Special.—Receiver A. R. Titlow, of the Bank of Tacoma, today filed a petition for leave to intervene in the recent suit brought by Robert Wingate receiver of the Mercantile National bank, to enjoin and restrain the Tacoma Hotel Company from disposing of any of its property, and to declare void a certain chattel mortgage executed by the company to F. D. Henstis for $27,500. Mr. Titlow alleges that the Tacoma Hotel Company is not indebted to Mr. Bennett in $20,000, the amount of the claim Mr. Bennett assigns to W. Dickinson, of the Northern Pacific, went to Montana this afternoon on Northern Pacific business. The city council will meet tomorrow night to consider the proposed charter amendments. W. T.
