would report unfavorably to have been expected, but a plain business proposition in accordance with a policy he has hitherto endorsed it was thought, although not with confidence, would receive Jones' approval. It was a vain hope. The free silver solution which has for years been injected into his system has sapped his vitality, and he has nearly reached the stage when he will only mutter incoherently, "free silver, free silver." His action is not loyalty to a cause; it is simply personal foolishness, without sense, method, or foresight. He is lending his aid to block a measure, which might possibly pass, in order to advance another which he knows can never become a law. This destructive, dog-in-the-manger action may meet the approval of his own conscience, but it cannot fail to justify the great majority of people that of Nevada has reached the period of useless senility, beyond all hope of restoration to sound ideas, and fit only for the ward of incurable lunatics.

THE PROBABLE ISSUE. No matter how many side parties are formed with a view of making a campaign on a single issue, it becomes more and more apparent every day that the great contest this year will be particularly on the lines drawn in 1912, and that the great question to be determined is whether the work of breaking down the policy of protection is to be continued or there shall be a return to the economic system which aimed to make the country prosperous and the people happy and contented. The idea that we must lower the tariff in order to get into the markets of the world has proved to be the veriest bosh. Our home market is what we should look after first, and when we have supplied the demands of that we can then look for other fields to conquer.

The Democratic tariff policy, or rather, the policy exemplified in the Wilson-Gorman bill, has turned out a disastrous one. We have not only made no progress in getting hold of the so-called markets of the world, but we have lost a part of the home market we once supplied. The preservation of the home market is not demanded in the interest of the manufacturer alone. It is necessary to the prosperity of the American laborer and essential to the welfare of agricultural producers. The highest rates of wages ever paid in manufacturing industries were reached under the last Republican tariff, which the Democrats have so ignominiously failed to improve upon. These wages were paid largely to men who were supplying a market in the United States, and they would still have been paid had not the people in a fatal moment elected a president and congress pledged to overthrow the policy of protection. They have regretted it ever since, and the regrets have been none the less because the change of administration was largely responsible for one of the greatest industrial and business depressions ever recorded in our history.

The result of the new tariff policy was to close up many industrial enterprises, shorten the hours of labor in others and bring about reductions in wages in nearly all that remained in operation. The losses of labor during the last three years from illness and reduced wages have amounted to millions. This necessarily has reduced consumption and the loss because of this diminished consumption has fallen principally upon the farmers. With other countries now supplying in part the demand for our great staples abroad, it is the home consumer who our agriculturist wants, and it is possible to have him only when American labor is employed and receiving good wages. This condition of prosperity, it has been very clearly demonstrated within the past three years, will never be brought about by the Democratic policy of allowing foreigners to furnish what the United States herself should produce.

STREET GRADE ASSESSMENTS. Judge Langley, following the general principles laid down by the supreme court, has affirmed the re-assessment for the grading of Waller street. The court of last resort has now taken such a decided stand that there is nothing to hope for by contumacious delinquents. They will probably find it to their interest now to submit their grievances to the superior court, and be content with such equitable relief as the law has always afforded them, instead of attempting to escape payment of the entire assessment and subjecting the city to the expense of a re-assessment, with no advantage to themselves.

Omaha is making a heroic struggle, not only for a trans-Mississippi exposition there, but also to build up the state of which it is the great city, and yet Omaha seems to be not "in it." The city has been at the mercy of so many people and for so long a time that it has been losing ground, and is behind Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It should have been greater than any of the three, because it was a large town long ago, with many advantages, and if it had not been killed by had from the first time in thirty years the state is under Republican administration, and at its inaugural Gov. Griggs said that he would veto every law that had not some positive and convincing reason to justify its passage. How many states in the far West are there, filled up with young men who want to incorporate in Western laws the statutes of their own states, which laws have no positive and convincing reason to justify their passage? We should have a man like Griggs to kill all of them.

A good deal of talk has been heard recently about people who say they will not go into the primaries for fear that men will be nominated for whom they do not want to vote. This is a very wrong idea, for the only way to get the kind of a man whom you want to vote for nominated is to go into the primaries and help nominate him. If a man is nominated whom you cannot conscientiously support, you can rest assured that it is largely the fault of yourself and the man who talks the matter over with you. Both of you never turn out.

In spite of all the deadweight talked of, America did not, after all, come out so badly in the chess tournament at St. Petersburg. Lasker won the first prize with 12½ victories, Steinitz was second with 9½, Pillsbury third with 8 and Tschigrin fourth with 7. As between Lasker and Pillsbury, the American was the victor. Pillsbury beat Lasker twice, Lasker beat Pillsbury once and they were tied three times. As Americans would say, Pillsbury is all right, when they ask what is the matter with him.

The report from the senate foreign relations committee regarding the war in Cuba is that the fact cannot be longer overlooked that the destructive character of the conflict is doing serious harm to the island, and interests of our people in the protection and freedom of which is safeguarded by treaty obligations. It is estimated that the losses already sustained by American interests in Cuba amount to not less than $20,000,000, and the prolongation of the conflict may increase them to double that sum, which many event will undoubtedly be irreparable, for in case Spain suppresses the insurrection she will never make any restitution, simply because she will never be in a financial condition to do so, while should the insurrection succeed and independent republican government be established, it would hardly be expected to consider any claims for indemnity, should they be presented by our government.

It is no discredit for all these Republican candidates to wish to get into the White House. Grover Cleveland was elected president in 1884, and his capital was something less than $10,000. He was a fair lawyer, a friend of the boys and loyal. He had no financial standing, and of course, as is well known, his social reputation was not of the best. Still, he has made a sturdy record, which the country liked, and, instead of $10,000 as a capital, he will retire with $1,000,000. Who wouldn't be president?

There have been a great many international squabbles, and it is funny that when it comes to the matter of England, which has nothing but humanity, civilization and Christianity for its object, Russia, Germany, France, Holland, Austria, Italy, Spain and the United States regard England as a robber, and yet she claims to be working only for Christian objects.

Ohio legislators are wrestling with the proposal to substitute electricity for hemp in executions. It is not the method, but the certainty of execution that makes the law feared, and if the Ohio legislators can do something to make hemp certain punishment for crime, it will do more for the order of the state than to adopt new methods of execution.

Boston is to have no more night lunch carts, the mayor having voted a bill granting them licenses. The reason urged is that they take up too much room in the public streets and impede travel. It is evident the restaurants have already begun to work the high-toned, civil service reform mayor, as everybody in Boston expected they would.

Senator Hill has generally been thought a Democrat, a cheap politician, and, while many claim that he has grown stronger since he went into the senate, it is seen that he works the same politics there that he did at Elmira and Albany. In other words, they say he is a cheap fellow, and there are indications that what they say is true.

The story is brought from the isthmus that employs on the Panama railroad are threatening a strike because they have not been paid their overdue wages. This, too, is a country where the silver standard prevails. It is possible that free silver coinage does not cure all the ills of laboring men and wage workers?

Attention is called to a manifest error in article II. of the new charter. In the definition of the city boundary line south of Ballard the word "northwesterly" is used instead of "northwesterly." In the description of the Ninth ward, which follows the same line, the correct word is used.

Some say Reed has the District of Columbia delegates, and some say they belong to McKinley. The tidings concerning the preferences of the delegates in different quarters very much resemble the Cuban war news. It all depends on which side gets hold of the wire.

Austin is a very poor laureate. Nobody denies that. So was Tennyson. His great poems, which have touched the hearts of so many people, were written long before he was a laureate. In that capacity, it is generally admitted, he only detracted from his reputation.

THE STATE PRESS. Chelan Leader of January 31 says it "is the liveliest newspaper ever in the Evergreen state. It begins with this issue the latter half of its fifth year of existence, and we are glad to believe, with brighter prospects for the paper has its correspondents joined. Paste that in your hat."

Elbe Union: The downfall of any noted man clearly illustrates the fact that to sustain a reputation of high standard requires as much ability and energy as the gaining of it. It seems to be true that some people cannot sustain success beyond a certain degree. Very often has the public been startled by the reports of misdoing of some prominent business man or public official in whom the people had placed implicit faith and who undoubtedly was worthy of the confidence until he had received more than he could sustain, become careless and unduly relied too much on the popularity already gained to carry him through his career. It would be far better for a man to occupy a humble station in life, and fill it with credit to himself, than to reach a pinnacle ever so high if he must needs lose his balance when there.

THE KISSING PUPILS. Tacoma, Jan. 29, 1916. To the Editor: In your editorial columns of yesterday you say, "Two students at the Puget Sound Methodist university were caught in the act of kissing, and were summoned before the faculty, under the presidency of Chancellor Thoburn." In justice to all concerned will you not give equal prominence to the statement that the above was as much news to the chancellor and faculty as to any of your readers. No such action was ever taken by my knowledge.

Seattle's Alaska Trade. Seattle is anxious to give to the benefits of its Alaska trade, and it is taking steps to head off competition. This competition does not come from Portland, where it would be manifest, but from San Francisco. It seems as if the time has arrived in Portland's history when some concerted and adequate effort should be made and not be left to develop itself. You say with Alaska, but the coast ports of Oregon and the coast ports of Oregon, with South Africa, with Australia, and with the Orient. It is not to our credit that San Francisco and the divide between them the Alaska trade to the north of us, and the African trade to the south. This trade is growing apace. People are rushing into the mining fields of both countries. Lumber, flour, produce and fruits will be in demand. Could not the Chamber of Commerce ascertain useful facts for our merchants to profit by?

Washington's splendid fruit. Chicago Inter-Ocean. "The peach crop of Washington is too far off." Well, it is only three days and a half from Chicago. The time is coming when the splendid fruits of Washington will be common in this market. The fruit raisers, the railways and the people are all interested that this shall prove true.

NOTABLE PEOPLE. Rev. Father Hoban has been appointed Catholic Bishop of Scranton, Pa. Miss Louise Aldrich-Blake is the first woman to receive the degree of Master of Science from the University of California. Col. C. P. Crocker, of San Francisco, will pay the expenses of the Lick observatory expedition to Japan to observe the eclipse of the sun next summer. Senator John M. Thurston, of Nebraska, says he is a descendant of that Torstein, son of Einar, the Red, of Scandinavia, who is said to have made an expedition to Vineland (New England) in 1066. At a later period he finally settled in England, and one of his members was Thurston, twenty-eighth archbishop of York.

When Senator Stephen B. Elkins was in Philadelphia the other day, the Record of that city says he told an interesting story of his election to his present seat. "I was sitting in my study at my country home," awaiting the returns that he had made whether or not he had been chosen to take the place of Senator Camden. The operator at the telegraph station had orders to open the line and address to me, and to telephone their contents to me immediately. Suddenly the telephone bell rang and the children's governess, who answered the phone, came to me and told me that the person at the other end of the wire was saying something about "shoes." She couldn't make it out, but she said she was my wife's shoemaker probably. Tell him to let the matter rest until tomorrow. She said she would not carry a shoe to my house, and she would not let me say to her that the man insisted on talking to me. I went to the telephone station and the telephone operator told me the message he was trying to transmit to me was: "When shall I send you a pair of shoes?" I had been chosen to fill the shoes of that worthy gentleman.

PERSONAL. Hon. John Leary announces that he is not a candidate for mayor. Lewis Paquet, master shipbuilder of Portland, is the guest of Capt. J. D. Miller at the Diller house. Dr. A. R. Kibbe left last night for a trip to New York, Washington City and other points. J. E. Lennon, captain of the Willapa, is taking a short vacation, owing to a severe cold, and is at the Diller house. A. B. Charlton, superintendent of the Pacific Navigation Company, returned yesterday from a vacation upon the Willapa. He has not all been vacation, however, for some of the planes he took in on his return, on the matter of business. He visited Chicago, Clinton, Ind., Terre Haute, Massachusetts, and several other points. The current Youth's Companion is a story by C. H. Lugin, editor of the Times, in which he tells the little of "Snowed Under," which is a serious adventure on a northern lake. In former years, Mr. Lugin was a contributor to the Companion, and the literary quality of the present story shows that he has always been given a prominent place.

LOSSES BY FIRE IN JANUARY. Galt Bros. Had No Insurance on Their Stock. The report of Chief Cook of the fire department for January shows that the loss at the Seattle National Bank building was $2,655.75. Galt Bros. sustained $1,000 loss on their stock. The expense of the department was $5,570, as compared with $4,822 for December. The increase was due to the purchase of 1,000 feet of hose, repairs to engine, purchase of four Cooper hose jackets, two dozen service hats and repairs to fireboat. There was a decrease of $100 in actual running expenses. Following is a table of losses and insurance: Loss on buildings $ 699.59 Insurance on buildings 4,053.15 Loss on contents 149,100.00 Insurance on contents 4,000.00 Insurance paid 2,165.75

WHY THEY STAYED. Some Tacoma Gentlemen Have to Use the Local Dis-ance Phone. When Louis Saroni had to leave Tacoma yesterday afternoon, he had not quite finished a business consultation which he had started in the afternoon. A happy thought occurred to him, and he suggested that the entire party board the Flyer, round up their conversation on board, and then arrive in Tacoma. This was the Tacoma gentlemen to get back home on the Northern Pacific train. Part of the party worked admirably, and part, it is said, was not so successful. The train came out all right, but when the Flyer touched at the dock of her destination, the train was just pulling out of Tacoma. There was some fast spinning done across the plank wharf and along the slippery surface of Railroad avenue, and the fastest runner came within fifteen feet of making contact with the highest coach. Later in the evening the long distance telephone was busy with such messages as: "Say, send word to my family, No. 112 Blake street, that I can't get back home tonight." And this is why the hotel registers were enriched with several Tacoma autographs last night.

Setting the Tide Land Contests. "Thus far our task has been far easier than we expected," said Chairman W. R. Forrest, of the state board of tide land commissioners, as he rested in the Rainier-Grand rotunda last night; "and if all things move along harmoniously we may close our season in about ten days. You say what a doctor we had set for today; well, we finished it by noon. This is largely because so many of the cases have been settled by stipulation. In fact, we have had but one case to go to trial, and that involves the taking of much evidence and a voluminous hearing. "In some cases where there is an apparent contest there is really none. The Seattle, Levee Shore & Eastern road, for example, not being able to locate its right-of-way definitely, made itself safe by filing a sort of blanket claim. As it wishes to retain only what it needs, the process of surrendering the remainder to other claimants is now a mere matter of form. "Yes, I think the small number of contests due largely to hard times. People are no longer able to hire men to get out and fight with shovels and sledgehammers over claims and rights-of-way, as they did in the days of the gold rush, when large industrial interests are at stake and men or corporations are contemplating the immediate erection of factories or wharves, the contest increase in interest."

A Whale Caught in Willapa River. South Bend, Feb. 5.—Special.—A young whale is on exhibition here which was captured in the Willapa river. It measures 15 feet 6 inches in length. It was first seen by some trap fishermen up the river at River-side, about a week ago. Norton, a fisherman on the river bank just above South Bend, but was still very much alive. U. G. Norton and John P. Black, who went after it, hatched a rope around its tail and started to tow it across the river. As soon as the whale reached its native element a very brief fight ensued between Norton and the whale resulted in the boat being towed by the whale and at such a rate as to nearly swamp her. Fortunately the whale had quickly become exhausted. Prof. Hudson, who was taxidermist for the Washington state world's fair commission, proposes to stuff it and exhibit it throughout the state.

Not Too Sudden. New York Sun. "Oh, aled suddenly, did he!" murmured the Westporter rose from his chair and stretched himself, preparatory to walking away from the reporter. "Well, kinder," he said slowly. "Anyhow, as sudden as a man could die in Philadelphia."

A man's life may be saved in many ways. A man may commit suicide in many ways. Shooting himself through the head is quicker, but it is no more certain than neglecting his health. If a woman saw her husband with a pistol in his hand, she would take prompt and vigorous action; but the same woman might see her husband on the down-grade to disease and death without seeing the seriousness of it. One sixth of all the people who die, die of consumption. Consumption doesn't come of it are seemingly insignificant. The seeds of it are scattered in the air. Most people do not know how it starts. Thousands of people are on the road to consumption and don't know it. When there is a loss of flesh—paleness—wasting away—look out. Consumption easily finds a foot-hold in a weakened body. Low vitality, impure or poor blood, imperfect digestion, nervousness, sleeplessness—all these lead to consumption.

Taken in time, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will prevent the development of the disease. Taken according to directions, it will positively and perfectly cure ninety-eight per cent. of all cases of consumption, whether incipient or fully developed. Consumption is a disease of the blood. The Golden Medical Discovery is a cure for all blood diseases, no matter in what part or how they manifest themselves. If you want to know all about it, and what it has done for other people, send twenty-one (21) one-cent stamps to cover the cost of mailing only for a FREE COPY of Dr. Pierce's great 1008 page work, "Common Sense Medical Adviser."

A Living Witness. Indigestion Cured for $1.00. To the Manufacturers of Moore's Revealed Remedy: I am gratified to be able to certify to the benefits I have received from taking Moore's Revealed Remedy. For three years I have been a sufferer from dyspepsia and indigestion, and have tried doctors and remedies without getting any relief, and have spent much money and lost much time in search of health. When you recommended Moore's Revealed Remedy to me I had but little faith in it, but before the bottle was half gone my health was greatly improved, and I am glad to say that two bottles have done more for me in one month than all the doctors and medicines in three years. I am going to Kansas, and will take some with me to be sure to have it in my own use and for my friends. JOHN W. JACKSON, Howard, Kan. The writer of the above is a real, live man, and will answer any inquiries.
