

Dement's Best Flour. It's not a cheap flour. We bought several cars before the big advance (of nearly $1 per barrel). That accounts for these low prices. When this is gone we think it will be higher. Better buy soon. COOPER & LEVY, Grocers, 104 and 106 Commercial St., first door south of Yesler Av.

HOME PRODUCT. Imperial Hams and Bacon. ASK YOUR GROCER FOR THEM.

WHEN WE ADVERTISE COST SALES Profits Are Dropped. HAVING ARRANGED WITH REED & BARTON, OF TAUNTON, MASS., TO HANDLE EXCLUSIVELY THEIR LINE OF ELEGANT SILVER PLATED AND STERLING SILVERWARE, WE HAVE DECIDED TO CLOSE OUT EVERY PIECE OF SILVERWARE NOW ON HAND AT ABSOLUTE COST IN ORDER TO MAKE ROOM FOR THESE LINES.

Empire Jewelry Co. Inc. 513 Second Avenue. FACTORY AND WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT, NO. 116 YESLER WAY.

M. SELLER & CO., INCORPORATED. Nos. 627 and 629 First Avenue. CROCKERY, GLASSWARE, GRANITE IRONWARE AND LAMP GOODS

Albert Hansen... MANUFACTURING JEWELER. RICH CUT GLASS. 706 FIRST AV., SEATTLE.

Watch Repairing. FRISCH BROS., Jewelers, 720 First Av.

ASK FOR Hams and Bacon F.B. Co. BRAND. PURE LARD... Seattle Products.

LAUNDRY SOAP... Of the Very Best Quality. CONNER BROS., Grocers, 720 Second Av., Boston Block.

Here is another Secret! Pure soap and borax make Boraxaid—5, 10, and 25 cents at every grocer's. Try it—5 or 10 cents—instead of your usual soap-powder or soap. Perhaps you don't use soap-powders, because, whatever advertisements say, they are harsh. It is worth a few cents to know whether Boraxaid is harsh, too; but you needn't waste even 5 cents in trying; your grocer refunds your money if Boraxaid doesn't suit you. The makers of Boraxaid pay the grocers. And Borax is useful in a hundred ways you do not dream of. It makes life easy, and comfortable, and safe. Send to us for Borax book (free).

PENSION BILL PASSED.

Senate Spends Ten Minutes on $142,000,000 Appropriation.

BOND RESOLUTION GOES OVER.

Hill Talks It Back to the Calendar, to Tillman's Indignation.

The House Passes the Agricultural Appropriation Bill, Carrying $150,000 for Seeds to Be Distributed Among the People—The Senate Passes the Military Academy Appropriation.

Washington City, Feb. 18.—The pension appropriation bill, carrying $142,000,000, was passed after ten minutes' debate in the senate today.

When the senate met at noon Allen, Pop., Neb., asked the finance committee what steps were to be taken toward a conference with the house on the silver bond bill. It was explained that the committee had not asked for a conference on its non-concurrence, and no further action was taken.

Allen declared that there was conspicuous evidence the country over of the Alliance's existence. "Why does not the Nebraska senator in form his alleged constituents of this hearing?" asked Wolcott. "Possibly securing them passes, as they would doubtless decline to come at government expense as contrary to their principles."

Hill waved Stewart back, and declined to yield to the interruption. "But let me make the charge," insisted Stewart, rising and moving down the middle aisle.

Hill proceeded to argue against senate inquiries into rumors, when he was again interrupted by Tillman. The latter raised his right arm and was about to frame an energetic question when Hill positively declined to yield to a question, saying that only a few minutes remained before 2 o'clock, when the expiration of the morning hour would cut him off.

Hill turned about, facing the South Carolina senator and addressing him personally, said: "I will be the judge of how long and when I shall speak."

The military academy appropriation bill was then passed substantially as reported. The pension appropriation bill was then taken up. The debate proceeded on the amendment of Vilas, Dem., Wis., for an increase of military cad appointments by two from each state.

IN THE HOUSE.

The Agricultural Appropriation, With a Seed Proviso, Passed. Washington City, Feb. 18.—The house today passed the agricultural appropriation bill. It carries $150,000. The section of the Revised Statutes for the purchase and distribution of "rare and uncommon" seeds, which Secretary Morton declined to execute in the current appropriation law, was repealed, the appropriation for seeds was increased from $300,000 to $150,000, and its execution was made mandatory upon the secretary.

Costs of Iowa introduced his amendment to reduce Secretary Morton's salary from $8,000 to $25,000 until he expended the appropriation in the current law, but the amendment was ruled out on a point of order.

Several amendments to the most important act of 1881, recommended by Secretary Morton, which would have given him additional power to enforce resolutions and have strengthened the law by the imposition of penalties for violations, were stricken out.

THE NEW WAR VESSELS.

More Will Be Built Than Herber's Message Called For.

Washington City, Feb. 18.—A considerable increase in the number of battleships for the navy is likely if the views prevailing of the sub-committee of the house naval affairs committee having in charge the preparation of the naval appropriation bill. The sub-committee was in session several hours today, and the discussion disclosed a majority in favor of making provision for at least four and probably six line-of-battle ships.

The sum of $20,000 will be appropriated toward the construction of guns for the vessels under construction by the government, such as the Paris and the New York, and which may be called on for naval purposes in cases of necessity.

AMELIE RIVES AND A RUSSIAN PRINCE.

Charlotteville, Va., Feb. 18.—Amelia Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

THE MURDERERS OF PEORI BRYAN.

Cincinnati, Feb. 18.—Following the incidental advertisement calling for 1,000 men at Court and Sycamore streets at 8:30 this morning "ready for work" there was an apprehension that a mob was to be gathered to lynch the prisoners Jackson and Walling on the way from jail to the police court. A crowd did assemble, but a heavy force of police was on hand, and the prisoners had been quietly removed to the jail two hours before the time when it was supposed they would leave the jail.

OTHER ROADS THREATEN SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—The riot act was read today to the Southern Pacific road by its associates in the Transcontinental Association. It was told that if the mutual either hands off Colorado business or the life would be cut out of California rates.

A PROMPT OBOLO MAN KILLED.

Cleveland, Feb. 18.—While Alfred Whitaker, chairman of the Democratic county central committee and proprietor of the Brooks Oil Co., and his stepsons, Dana and Don Cannon, were driving in Bedford this morning, a Cleveland, Canton & Southern fast train struck their car, hurling Whitaker fifty feet, killing him instantly, inflicting probable fatal injuries on Dana Cannon, and seriously injuring the driver, John Rich.

ONLY THREE WERE KILLED.

Troy, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Several fire engines are still pouring water upon the ruins of the burned building, according to Deputy State Fire Inspector Devine, avenues of escape from the building were plentiful. The fifth floor, where the flames broke out, divided by a partition into two parts, with a door in the center, known as a fire door, to be opened only in such an emergency. The south part, where the fire started, was occupied by Stetson, E. C. Co., and the north part by the Van Zant-Jacobs Company. From one of these two departments there was a stairway leading to the street level, and the door in the partition separating the two departments

MAHER'S CHANCES POOR.

Even Were His Eyes Well He'd Be in No Condition.

PETER'S BEST PLAN IS TO RUSH, AND BOB LIKES THAT SORT OF THING.

On the Day After Tomorrow the Men Will Meet, Unless the Irishman Finds a Way to Back Out—Only Two or Three Hundred Spectators Expected.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 18.—Prizefight matters were very quiet today. Not more than a corporal's guard of sporting men are in the city waiting for Friday, and it is not sure that all of them will remain that long.

Fitzsimmons laughed when told of the interchange of telegrams between Corbett and Julian, and repeated what he had said in the early morning about his willingness to meet Corbett. "I will fight him anywhere he likes, at any time he likes, in London or in this country. All I ask is a place where we can be safe from interference. I would not go through a main what I have been through down here for all the championships that were ever made. I can lick Corbett, and I will lick him if ever we get in the ring of good honest training. I will whip him. When I have whipped Maher I will be champion of the world by virtue of Corbett's own action in giving the championship to Maher."

THE STOCK OF A MISSING TACOMA MERCHANT FOUND.

Tacoma, Feb. 18.—Barnhart charcoal pits in the woods five miles southeast of the city, lawyers, a receipt of eight days from Sheriff this afternoon found thirteen sacks of gold and silverware and jewelry. Their value is estimated at from $3,000 to $5,000. They were found in the course of clearing three sacks and two boxes more which are stored in a house there.

BARKENTINE DISCOVERY LOST.

San Francisco, Feb. 18.—Hope is almost abandoned for the barkentine Discovery, owned by Pope & Talbot, of this city. The vessel is now out twenty-eight days from Port Gamble with lumber for this city. She was commanded by Capt. Christensen. There were twelve men in her and there turning up alive.

POLICE CONFERENCE.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 18.—Fitzsimmons this morning received the following telegram from Chicago: "I read in tonight's papers that you said I was a cur. The next time I see you I will make you take it back like I did before. James J. Corbett."

SAN FRANCISCO BANK ROBBER.

San Francisco, Feb. 18.—Three masked men entered the Market Street bank, a short time after 10 o'clock this morning and ordered Cashier Hopkins and Bookkeeper Hayhurst to throw up their hands. Hopkins, who was in the east end, he revolved and one robber fired, the bullet passing his head but striking neither official. The three robbers then climbed through the hole in the wall, and the cashier and bookkeeper were taken to the police court.

NO CORPSES IN THE RUINS OF THE TROY FACTORY.

Troy, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Several fire engines are still pouring water upon the ruins of the burned building, according to Deputy State Fire Inspector Devine, avenues of escape from the building were plentiful. The fifth floor, where the flames broke out, divided by a partition into two parts, with a door in the center, known as a fire door, to be opened only in such an emergency. The south part, where the fire started, was occupied by Stetson, E. C. Co., and the north part by the Van Zant-Jacobs Company. From one of these two departments there was a stairway leading to the street level, and the door in the partition separating the two departments

BLACK FOR MAYOR.

John K. Brown Named for Corporation Counsel.

MEACHAM FOR TREASURER.

R. F. Stewart, the Present City Clerk, to Succeed Himself.

A HARMONIOUS CONVENTION.

No Factions, Cliques or Combinations Nothing but Republicans.

A THOROUGHLY WELL-BALANCED TICKET.

Of Able, Responsible Men, and an Excellent Working Platform—Seven Candidates for Mayor—A Close Contest Between Angus W. Young and Frank D. Black—Alonso Hull's Large Vote on the Second Ballot—Hot Contest for the Nomination for Treasurer—Many Candidates for the Office of City Clerk—Splendid Work of the Convention—Several Ballots for Each Office, Yet the Whole Concluded Before Midnight.

For Mayor, FRANK D. BLACK, Of the First Ward.

For Corporation Counsel, JOHN K. BROWN, Of the Fourth Ward.

For Treasurer, GEORGE F. MEACHAM, Of the Seventh Ward.

For Clerk, R. F. STEWART, Of the Third Ward.

For Fire Commissioners, Seventh Ward... CHARLES WATSON, Eighth Ward... GEORGE HOOD, Ninth Ward... FRANK E. ADAMS

For Aldermen, First Ward... ERNEST CARSTENS, Second Ward... HIRAM C. GILL, Fourth Ward... J. A. JAMES, Fifth Ward... GEORGE F. RAYMOND, Sixth Ward... H. P. RUDE

For Delegates, First Ward... BENJAMIN WILLIAMS, Second Ward... D. G. RUDY, Third Ward... EZRA A. BERGMAN, Fourth Ward... R. F. DODGE, Fifth Ward... F. H. HURD, Sixth Ward... GEORGE N. GILSON, Seventh Ward... JOHN TAYLOR, Eighth Ward... J. E. CRICHTON, Ninth Ward... WILLIAM CHAPMAN

The Republican city convention resulted yesterday in a neck and neck race between Angus W. Young and Frank D. Black for the nomination for mayor, ending in favor of the latter by a majority over Young of eleven votes. Maj. W. S. Harlan, Alexander Anderson, J. M. E. Atkinson, Alonso Hull and William Voigt. For the office of corporation counsel the candidates were J. K. Brown, R. B. Albertson, W. T. Scott and James Leddy, the balloting resulting in favor of the first named. For city treasurer the candidates were G. F. Meacham, F. W. Goodhue, L. A. Treen and E. Brown, and Mr. Meacham carried off the nomination. For city clerk there were seven candidates, Stewart, Correll, Hooper, Winchell, Allen, Franch and E. Brown, and Mr. Stewart was elected by a majority of eleven votes over the present incumbent of the office, R. F. Stewart.

The convention was one of the most harmonious and good-humored political gatherings that has ever assembled in this or any other city. The committee on credentials was a success, for there were no contests of any kind as to seats. There was not an objectionable personal remark made during the whole proceedings, and the result of the balloting was in every instance received with the greatest good humor. No faction or clique marred the smooth manner in which the business of the convention was conducted, and it may be safely said that when it closed there was not a single "sore head" in this large representative gathering of the Republican party of this city. On the contrary, every nomination was made unanimously with a hearty readiness that speaks well for the thorough harmony throughout the whole party.

There were six candidates for mayor before the convention when the voting opened, and there was only that number until the Third ward was reached, and J. E. McClellan voted the solitary vote in the fourth precinct "solid for Frank Black." The gentleman's name was mentioned with much favor over a week ago, but he had never said that he was a candidate, and that he was not placed in nomination with the rest did not seem to cause any surprise. In fact, only yesterday morning he read to his friends a letter declining the nomination, but was persuaded to hold it back. He polled but ten votes on the first ballot, so was not regarded as a dangerous competitor, though in a day or two the result seemed to be between Hull, with 865, the latter leading all others in the race by over a score.

On the second ballot, Harlan, who had five votes, was withdrawn, Anderson took fifteen votes, and Voigt thirteen, which put him out of the race. Only one of these went to Hull, however, although the convention was one of the most harmonious and good-humored political gatherings that has ever assembled in this or any other city. The committee on credentials was a success, for there were no contests of any kind as to seats. There was not an objectionable personal remark made during the whole proceedings, and the result of the balloting was in every instance received with the greatest good humor. No faction or clique marred the smooth manner in which the business of the convention was conducted, and it may be safely said that when it closed there was not a single "sore head" in this large representative gathering of the Republican party of this city. On the contrary, every nomination was made unanimously with a hearty readiness that speaks well for the thorough harmony throughout the whole party.

There were six candidates for mayor before the convention when the voting opened, and there was only that number until the Third ward was reached, and J. E. McClellan voted the solitary vote in the fourth precinct "solid for Frank Black." The gentleman's name was mentioned with much favor over a week ago, but he had never said that he was a candidate, and that he was not placed in nomination with the rest did not seem to cause any surprise. In fact, only yesterday morning he read to his friends a letter declining the nomination, but was persuaded to hold it back. He polled but ten votes on the first ballot, so was not regarded as a dangerous competitor, though in a day or two the result seemed to be between Hull, with 865, the latter leading all others in the race by over a score.

On the second ballot, Harlan, who had five votes, was withdrawn, Anderson took fifteen votes, and Voigt thirteen, which put him out of the race. Only one of these went to Hull, however, although the convention was one of the most harmonious and good-humored political gatherings that has ever assembled in this or any other city. The committee on credentials was a success, for there were no contests of any kind as to seats. There was not an objectionable personal remark made during the whole proceedings, and the result of the balloting was in every instance received with the greatest good humor. No faction or clique marred the smooth manner in which the business of the convention was conducted, and it may be safely said that when it closed there was not a single "sore head" in this large representative gathering of the Republican party of this city. On the contrary, every nomination was made unanimously with a hearty readiness that speaks well for the thorough harmony throughout the whole party.

There were six candidates for mayor before the convention when the voting opened, and there was only that number until the Third ward was reached, and J. E. McClellan voted the solitary vote in the fourth precinct "solid for Frank Black." The gentleman's name was mentioned with much favor over a week ago, but he had never said that he was a candidate, and that he was not placed in nomination with the rest did not seem to cause any surprise. In fact, only yesterday morning he read to his friends a letter declining the nomination, but was persuaded to hold it back. He polled but ten votes on the first ballot, so was not regarded as a dangerous competitor, though in a day or two the result seemed to be between Hull, with 865, the latter leading all others in the race by over a score.

On the second ballot, Harlan, who had five votes, was withdrawn, Anderson took fifteen votes, and Voigt thirteen, which put him out of the race. Only one of these went to Hull, however, although the convention was one of the most harmonious and good-humored political gatherings that has ever assembled in this or any other city. The committee on credentials was a success, for there were no contests of any kind as to seats. There was not an objectionable personal remark made during the whole proceedings, and the result of the balloting was in every instance received with the greatest good humor. No faction or clique marred the smooth manner in which the business of the convention was conducted, and it may be safely said that when it closed there was not a single "sore head" in this large representative gathering of the Republican party of this city. On the contrary, every nomination was made unanimously with a hearty readiness that speaks well for the thorough harmony throughout the whole party.

There were six candidates for mayor before the convention when the voting opened, and there was only that number until the Third ward was reached, and J. E. McClellan voted the solitary vote in the fourth precinct "solid for Frank Black." The gentleman's name was mentioned with much favor over a week ago, but he had never said that he was a candidate, and that he was not placed in nomination with the rest did not seem to cause any surprise. In fact, only yesterday morning he read to his friends a letter declining the nomination, but was persuaded to hold it back. He polled but ten votes on the first ballot, so was not regarded as a dangerous competitor, though in a day or two the result seemed to be between Hull, with 865, the latter leading all others in the race by over a score.

On the second ballot, Harlan, who had five votes, was withdrawn, Anderson took fifteen votes, and Voigt thirteen, which put him out of the race. Only one of these went to Hull, however, although the convention was one of the most harmonious and good-humored political gatherings that has ever assembled in this or any other city. The committee on credentials was a success, for there were no contests of any kind as to seats. There was not an objectionable personal remark made during the whole proceedings, and the result of the balloting was in every instance received with the greatest good humor. No faction or clique marred the smooth manner in which the business of the convention was conducted, and it may be safely said that when it closed there was not a single "sore head" in this large representative gathering of the Republican party of this city. On the contrary, every nomination was made unanimously with a hearty readiness that speaks well for the thorough harmony throughout the whole party.

There were six candidates for mayor before the convention when the voting opened, and there was only that number until the Third ward was reached, and J. E. McClellan voted the solitary vote in the fourth precinct "solid for Frank Black." The gentleman's name was mentioned with much favor over a week ago, but he had never said that he was a candidate, and that he was not placed in nomination with the rest did not seem to cause any surprise. In fact, only yesterday morning he read to his friends a letter declining the nomination, but was persuaded to hold it back. He polled but ten votes on the first ballot, so was not regarded as a dangerous competitor, though in a day or two the result seemed to be between Hull, with 865, the latter leading all others in the race by over a score.

On the second ballot, Harlan, who had five votes, was withdrawn, Anderson took fifteen votes, and Voigt thirteen, which put him out of the race. Only one of these went to Hull, however, although the convention was one of the most harmonious and good-humored political gatherings that has ever assembled in this or any other city. The committee on credentials was a success, for there were no contests of any kind as to seats. There was not an objectionable personal remark made during the whole proceedings, and the result of the balloting was in every instance received with the greatest good humor. No faction or clique marred the smooth manner in which the business of the convention was conducted, and it may be safely said that when it closed there was not a single "sore head" in this large representative gathering of the Republican party of this city. On the contrary, every nomination was made unanimously with a hearty readiness that speaks well for the thorough harmony throughout the whole party.

There were six candidates for mayor before the convention when the voting opened, and there was only that number until the Third ward was reached, and J. E. McClellan voted the solitary vote in the fourth precinct "solid for Frank Black." The gentleman's name was mentioned with much favor over a week ago, but he had never said that he was a candidate, and that he was not placed in nomination with the rest did not seem to cause any surprise. In fact, only yesterday morning he read to his friends a letter declining the nomination, but was persuaded to hold it back. He polled but ten votes on the first ballot, so was not regarded as a dangerous competitor, though in a day or two the result seemed to be between Hull, with 865, the latter leading all others in the race by over a score.

On the second ballot, Harlan, who had five votes, was withdrawn, Anderson took fifteen votes, and Voigt thirteen, which put him out of the race. Only one of these went to Hull, however, although the convention was one of the most harmonious and good-humored political gatherings that has ever assembled in this or any other city. The committee on credentials was a success, for there were no contests of any kind as to seats. There was not an objectionable personal remark made during the whole proceedings, and the result of the balloting was in every instance received with the greatest good humor. No faction or clique marred the smooth manner in which the business of the convention was conducted, and it may be safely said that when it closed there was not a single "sore head" in this large representative gathering of the Republican party of this city. On the contrary, every nomination was made unanimously with a hearty readiness that speaks well for the thorough harmony throughout the whole party.

There were six candidates for mayor before the convention when the voting opened, and there was only that number until the Third ward was reached, and J. E. McClellan voted the solitary vote in the fourth precinct "solid for Frank Black." The gentleman's name was mentioned with much favor over a week ago, but he had never said that he was a candidate, and that he was not placed in nomination with the rest did not seem to cause any surprise. In fact, only yesterday morning he read to his friends a letter declining the nomination, but was persuaded to hold it back. He polled but ten votes on the first ballot, so was not regarded as a dangerous competitor, though in a day or two the result seemed to be between Hull, with 865, the latter leading all others in the race by over a score.

On the second ballot, Harlan, who had five votes, was withdrawn, Anderson took fifteen votes, and Voigt thirteen, which put him out of the race. Only one of these went to Hull, however, although the convention was one of the most harmonious and good-humored political gatherings that has ever assembled in this or any other city. The committee on credentials was a success, for there were no contests of any kind as to seats. There was not an objectionable personal remark made during the whole proceedings, and the result of the balloting was in every instance received with the greatest good humor. No faction or clique marred the smooth manner in which the business of the convention was conducted, and it may be safely said that when it closed there was not a single "sore head" in this large representative gathering of the Republican party of this city. On the contrary, every nomination was made unanimously with a hearty readiness that speaks well for the thorough harmony throughout the whole party.

There were six candidates for mayor before the convention when the voting opened, and there was only that number until the Third ward was reached, and J. E. McClellan voted the solitary vote in the fourth precinct "solid for Frank Black." The gentleman's name was mentioned with much favor over a week ago, but he had never said that he was a candidate, and that he was not placed in nomination with the rest did not seem to cause any surprise. In fact, only yesterday morning he read to his friends a letter declining the nomination, but was persuaded to hold it back. He polled but ten votes on the first ballot, so was not regarded as a dangerous competitor, though in a day or two the result seemed to be between Hull, with 865, the latter leading all others in the race by over a score.

On the second ballot, Harlan, who had five votes, was withdrawn, Anderson took fifteen votes, and Voigt thirteen, which put him out of the race. Only one of these went to Hull, however, although the convention was one of the most harmonious and good-humored political gatherings that has ever assembled in this or any other city. The committee on credentials was a success, for there were no contests of any kind as to seats. There was not an objectionable personal remark made during the whole proceedings, and the result of the balloting was in every instance received with the greatest good humor. No faction or clique marred the smooth manner in which the business of the convention was conducted, and it may be safely said that when it closed there was not a single "sore head" in this large representative gathering of the Republican party of this city. On the contrary, every nomination was made unanimously with a hearty readiness that speaks well for the thorough harmony throughout the whole party.

There were six candidates for mayor before the convention when the voting opened, and there was only that number until the Third ward was reached, and J. E. McClellan voted the solitary vote in the fourth precinct "solid for Frank Black." The gentleman's name was mentioned with much favor over a week ago, but he had never said that he was a candidate, and that he was not placed in nomination with the rest did not seem to cause any surprise. In fact, only yesterday morning he read to his friends a letter declining the nomination, but was persuaded to hold it back. He polled but ten votes on the first ballot, so was not regarded as a dangerous competitor, though in a day or two the result seemed to be between Hull, with 865, the latter leading all others in the race by over a score.

On the second ballot, Harlan, who had five votes, was withdrawn, Anderson took fifteen votes, and Voigt thirteen, which put him out of the race. Only one of these went to Hull, however, although the convention was one of the most harmonious and good-humored political gatherings that has ever assembled in this or any other city. The committee on credentials was a success, for there were no contests of any kind as to seats. There was not an objectionable personal remark made during the whole proceedings, and the result of the balloting was in every instance received with the greatest good humor. No faction or clique marred the smooth manner in which the business of the convention was conducted, and it may be safely said that when it closed there was not a single "sore head" in this large representative gathering of the Republican party of this city. On the contrary, every nomination was made unanimously with a hearty readiness that speaks well for the thorough harmony throughout the whole party.

AMELIE RIVES.

Amelie Rives, wife of the late Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.

Amelie Rives Chanler and Prince Pierre Troubetskoy, a Russian nobleman, were married this afternoon at Castle Hill, the home of Col. Alfred Rives, father of the bride.