SONS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION

Inviting Speeches Made in Response to the Toasts.

At the banquet of the Sons of the American Revolution on the night of February 22, among the after dinner speakers were: Hon. Will H. Govey, of this city, and Hon. John F. Thompson, of Olympia. Some of the graceful manner in which each of these gentlemen entered the subject assigned to them may be gathered from extracts from the speeches delivered.

Mr. Thompson was called upon on short notice to respond to the toast, "The honored and honored name of George Washington." Andrew F. Burleigh had been originally selected, but owing to his absence the duty fell upon Mr. Thompson.

After a modest allusion to his inability to fill the place of the absent speaker, and an allusion to the fact that he had not the usual amount of preparation, he addressed the gathering in a way that attracted to the speaker's face, and with lifted glasses drank in silence the sentiment that is written in every patriotic heart.

Mr. Preston, the newly elected poet, was called upon for an offering from his muse, but modestly recited instead the "National Ode of the Sons of the Revolution," by Samuel P. Smith, D. D. It begins thus:

Praise to the brave and true, Men prompt to dare and do, Hallowed on history's page, Men for their duty true, Scouring to fly. The thought thus expressed is carried on through six stanzas, the last reaching sublimity in:

THE BOWLERS IN LINE

Women's Contest at the S. A. C. Next Thursday.

AVERAGES OF OTHER PLAYERS.

Jaguaria, the Swordsman, Going to Athens—Leadley Predicts a Good Baseball Season.

Of all the bowling contests that have taken place at the S. A. C. alley no one will compare with that which has been scheduled for next Thursday morning. The ladies are going to take the field in frames and games, and already they are dancing before their eyes visions of strikes and spares.

Albert Hansen has promised a beautiful gold medal to the one making the highest score, so the interest is intense. As usual, the men will be barred out of the clubhouse while the contest is going on.

Bankers Are After the Lawyers. The victory of the lawyers over the doctors has caused a challenge to be issued by the bankers. Formal acceptance has not been announced by the lawyers, but it is hardly probable that they will refuse.

Averages of the Bowlers. The members of the S. A. C. who have become regular devotees of the bowling alleys are taking great interest nowadays in their averages. There is hardly a day or evening that some more or less keen poring over figures to find out if he came anywhere near an average of 30 or more points a game.

Records of the M. A. A. C. To give the S. A. C. men a chance to compare their work with the records of the Malmstrom bowlers, the following record, taken from the Oregonian, is appended.

Table with columns: Name, Games, Average. Includes players like A. J. Porter, J. S. Farrell, R. H. Brierley, etc.

THE ARMY SPLIT UP.

Ballington Booth Required to Return to England.

WHAT WILL BE THE RESULT? Will the New Commander Attempt to Anglicize the Converts of the Salvation Army?

New York, Feb. 23.—Ballington Booth appeared at the Salvation Army headquarters tonight for the first time since he left on his return to England. He was accompanied by the United States. Neither Col. Nicol nor Acting Commander Eadie had been told that Booth would be at the meeting.

Some of the officers of the army were summoned to the room where Ballington Booth had gone. Among them were Brig. Evans and Brig. Fielding, of Chicago; Maj. Stillwell, of Michigan; Ensign Taylor, Adj. and Mrs. Damon, Maj. Glenn and Staff Captain Crafts. A meeting took place behind closed doors.

Immediately after the meeting Ballington Booth hurried from the building. He refused to make any statements of what had occurred in the meeting, and all the others who were present, it is known that he read a long paper.

Col. Nicol, before the arrival of Ballington Booth, gave out a statement. He said that the changes in Gen. Booth's position to the army are absurd. The policy of the army has always been to follow the habits and customs of every country in which it is located.

Ballington-Booth's Statement. New York, Feb. 23.—Commandant Herbert Booth tonight telegraphed the Associated Press from Toronto, Ont., a denial that any of the affairs of the Salvation Army are under his control, or that he had taken his brother's place in New York, as "his father," he said, "directing the affairs of the army in Canada, and at present an entirely ignorant of my future appointment."

Booth-Tucker to Command. London, Feb. 23.—It is announced that Booth-Tucker and wife will succeed Mr. and Mrs. Ballington Booth in command of the Salvation Army in the United States. Branwell Booth on February 15 mailed a long letter to Chauncey M. Depew in reply to one of Mr. Depew's, as chairman of a mass meeting in New York, to protest against the removal of the Ballington Booths, explaining the changes in the Salvation Army in the United States.

Religious Tolerance. The citizens of the United States of America have a right to applaud themselves for having given to mankind examples of an enlarged and liberal policy—a policy worthy of their noble race. All who are alike worthy of conscience and immunities of citizenship. It is now more than ever that tolerance is spoken of as if it was by the indifference of one class of people to another. They are enjoying the exercise of their inherent natural rights.

What Bally Corbett Says. Detroit, Feb. 23.—Corbett, the pugilist, and his company yielded to a packed house at the Lyceum theater tonight. To an Associated Press reporter Corbett said: "I expect fighting in the country. I don't mean to fight here. He has shown again that he does not want to fight me, that he never did and never will, if he can help it."

A Challenge for Fitzsimmons. London, Feb. 23.—The Sporting Life says Frank Slavin has challenged Fitzsimmons for £1,000 a side, the fight to come off in England, or he will bet Corbett £1,000 that he can stop him in six rounds.

John Waldron, 46 years old, known in dramatic circles as Actor Paul Egan, died yesterday at Bellevue hospital, New York.

Will the "Baron" Come? The proposed mounted sword contest between Capt. Jennings, of this city, and Sergt. Owen Davis, of San Francisco, will probably never take place. Davis has re-entitled in the army and this act as a barrier. Jennings has received a challenge from Frank Malchin, who says he has recently fought a draw with Davis, prior to the latter's enlistment. Malchin has the word "baron" as a prefix to his name. Jennings has agreed to meet the "baron," only proviso being that the contest shall take place in Seattle.

THE GREAT SWORDSMAN. Jaguarina, Who Will Represent America at the Olympic Games. The Olympic games which will take place at Athens next April will now have special interest to the people of the Pacific coast owing to the fact that Jaguarina, the champion mounted broadsword fencer of the world, will be there as the sole representative of America in her special line.
