

AT TACOMA, APRIL 14
Time and Place of State Democratic Convention Fixed.

NO DISCUSSION OF FUSION.
Twenty-eight Counties Represented—
No Rivalry Among the Cities to Secure the Convention.

Tacoma, March 23.—Special.—Twenty-eight of the members of the Democratic state central committee met in this city this afternoon to set the time and place for holding the convention for nominating delegates to the national Democratic convention at Chicago, and fixing the representation of counties to the state convention. A portion of the committee met at 11 o'clock at the Democratic headquarters in the Wallace building, but, as a number of committeemen were to arrive on the 1:45 train, adjournment was taken at 2 o'clock, when the committee assembled and transacted the business that came before it with neatness and dispatch.

Tacoma was chosen as the place for holding the convention for nominating delegates, and the time was fixed at April 14, representation was fixed at one delegate for every 100 votes cast for the two Democratic candidates for congress in 1894, with the delegates-at-large.

Fusion of the Democracy with the Populists was a subject studiously avoided. There was little or no talk of fusion at the meeting, although many of the state committeemen are known to be strongly in favor of it being undertaken by the dire failure of the scheme in Seattle, and its impending loss in the municipal election here. The committee decided, in view of the uncertainties that lie in the pathway of a successful combination of the two parties, to have the vexed question to be decided by the nominating convention, to be held here on April 14. This was the most hands-on way to dispose of the proposition, and one that will be the means of avoiding the assumption of any responsibilities by the committee in the premises.

The expected delegates having arrived at 2 o'clock, the meeting adjourned until 10 o'clock, when the committee to order. On roll call it was found that twenty-eight of the thirty-five members of the committee were present. Those represented were: Adams, 1; Chehalis, 1; Clallam, 1; Columbia, 1; Franklin, 1; Jefferson, 1; King, 1; Kitsap, 1; Kootenai, 1; Lewis and Clark, 1; Mason, 1; Pierce, 1; San Juan, 1; Skagit, 1; Snohomish, 1; Spokane, 1; Stevens, 1; Waukegan, 1; Walla Walla, 1; Whitman, 1; Yakima, 1.

The first important business was the appointment of a committee of delegates to the nominating convention. The chair appointed a committee, of which Edmeister, of Columbia, was chairman, to whom the committee referred. The committee reported that the counties represented on the basis of one delegate for every 100 votes cast for congressmen, adding the delegates-at-large, the Democratic candidates in 1894, with one at large. The report was adopted. As distributed, the representation by counties will be as follows:

Adams 4
Chehalis 1
Clallam 1
Columbia 1
Franklin 1
Jefferson 1
King 1
Kitsap 1
Kootenai 1
Lewis and Clark 1
Mason 1

Skagit 1
Snohomish 1

NEWS FROM HONOLULU.

An Englishman Insults Our Flag—Port Honolulu, March 15.—Dr. H. V. Murray, formerly surgeon on the steamship Mo-wera, now practicing here, is in bad odor with the American residents in this community. At a dinner party given on Washington's birthday, Murray took an American flag from the table, dropped it to the floor, and then stepped on it. He then jumped upon it. There were present at the dinner Lieut. Elliott and Surgeon Hibbit, both officers of the Bennington. They did not resent the insult to their flag. The episode has been severely criticized here.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Third Avenue.
The aim of the "U and I" people is to amuse the audience, and judging by the amount of uproarious laughter at the Third Avenue theater last night the audience was amply repaid. The comedy, a disappointment that Miss Sayne was too hoarse to sing, but a cold is something no manager or prima donna is proof against. Miss Sayne has taken a fine amount of physic, and had gotten through her rehearsal all right, or she would not have attempted to sing last night. She will probably sing in the evening, but restored for the performance this evening.

The Good Haroun Al Raschid.
Not many English-speaking children of average culture reach the age of 19 without learning something of the great city of Bagdad and the caliph Haroun al Raschid, but not to every man and woman, even of university training, is given such an approach to and view of that monarch of romance and legend as the "U and I" people, as Mr. Charles W. Seymour treated his audience to last night at the Seattle theater. It is not too much praise of Mr. Seymour's lecture to say that the subject matter alone would make it interesting even if delivered in a commonplace way, while his delivery is such as would make far weaker utterances pleasing to hear. His sketch of the growth of the Mohammedan faith, his summary of its tenets, his vivid portrayal of Arabic life and customs, his sketch of the growth of the Saracen power, and the building of Bagdad, and his portrait of the magnificent caliph, given here and there in sentences that must have cost days of patient research, and upon in gorgeously wrought lines, the fragrance of Moore's Lalla Rookh with the very odors of the Orient described—all this gave the lecture a character of interest and speaks to produce, namely, a definite and vivifying impression.

John L. Sullivan Tonight.
Every dramatic season brings us new aspirants for public favor. Eugene O'Rourke feels himself able justified from long experience to tempt the public in a more exalted sphere than he has hitherto essayed. He comes here at the head of a scenic production of Mark Price's Irish melodrama, "The Wicklow Postman." Mr. O'Rourke has much to commend him as the hero of a genuine Irish story; wide experience, a charming personality, combined with a voice of unusual musical possibilities, all important factors in an Irish comedian. "The Wicklow Postman" deals with the Irish people of today. The cunning Scotchman is brought face to face with the genuine native of the soil. During the developments, conflicting interests present themselves, hopes clash, passions are aroused, exciting episodes occur, and through it all, the inherent love of music and song in the Irish character is never forgotten. "The Wicklow Postman" will be at the Seattle theater tonight. The cast of the world for twelve years, John L. Sullivan and Paddy Ryan, will appear, giving a three-hour exhibition of being. They will be introduced by Charles E. Davies, more generally known as "Parson" Davies, the celebrated manager and backer of athletes.

"Finnigan's Hall"
Murray & Mack, in "Finnigan's Hall" will be at the Seattle theater Friday and Saturday evenings. What Murray & Mack do not know in the line of Irish comedy is hard to find, and the company supporting them is a capable one. The songs, dances, choruses and specialties are new and novel. "Broken Nose" Mike's Hard Fall.
"Broken Nose" Mike was out late Saturday night. Figuring time by the clock he was out early. However that may be, he had struck luck somewhere, for the number of drinks he had taken made him impervious to weather and hard falls. Slowly he came down a pair of stairs until his foot slipped. Then he shot forward and landed on his head. Officer Powers rushed up, expecting to find a dead man, but to his surprise Mike staggered to his feet and declared that it was just like falling in a feather bed. He scorned assistance, and plodded along the street in a zig-zag path until he met a sailor, who had also been imbibing.

"Der yer want to fight?" said Mike. "Mind your business," replied the sailor. Mike straightened himself up, and as he gazed upon the blue overalls of his companion, replied: "Ter Jude, yer sportin' on yer figger." The first round would have commenced in a short time if Officer Powers had not interrupted. Then Mike told how the sailor had made an unprovoked attack upon him.

$12,000 Offered for Corbett and Mitchell.
New York, March 23.—The following cablegram from George W. Atkinson, of the Sporting Life, London, to Richard K. Fox, was received today: "The Boiling Brook Club offers $12,000 for Mitchell and Corbett. Mitchell accepts. Does Corbett?"

Cincinnati, March 23.—James J. Corbett, when shown the proposition from the Boiling Brook Club, said: "I would gladly accept this offer if I were after money, because I count it easy money, but my game is Fitzsimmons."

Good Pool Playing.
Although the S. A. C. handicap pool tournament does not begin until tomorrow evening some of the players have taken time by the forelock and settled the question of supremacy. Holcomb, who has been moved up from 65 to 75, beat Taylor 100, by a score of 75 to 73. Ingersoll, 100, had no trouble in disposing of Allan, 90, to the tune of 100 to 52. The star game so far as one side went was that last evening between W. H. Morris and E. H. Warner, each 100 men. Morris took everything in sight and won out by a score of 100 to 51. He made large runs from the opening to finish of the game. It is evident that Morris is out for another try at Ames.

One-man Wallace Ross Defeated.
Newcastle-on-Tyne, March 23.—W. A. Barry defeated Wallace Ross, of New Brunswick, in a sculling match on the Tyne today for a purse of £100.
