Bark Zinita Forced on the Sands of North Beach.

NEAR THE ABERCORN'S GRAVE.

Captain and Crew All Saved, but a Sailor is Slightly Hurt—The Vessel, Once Caught by the Current, is Unable to Shake Herself Free—Anchors Fall to Hold Her Away From the Breakers, and Tugs Arrive Too Late—Like the Glenamerag, the Zinita is Uninjured.

Hogium, Nov. 9.—Special.—The British bark Zinita, of Greenock, forty days from Nagasaki, Japan, in ballast for Portland to load wheat, is high on Damon's beach, five miles north of the entrance to Gray's harbor, Sunday morning at daylight the vessel was sighted four miles south of Cape Elizabeth. Strong westerly gales were blowing and it was impossible to work off shore. She anchored outside the breakers at 1 p. m., but dragged ashore in the night. Capt. James Fraser and crew came off in lifeboats. The vessel is apparently uninjured, but is too high on the beach to justify an attempt to tow her off.

Aberdeen, Nov. 9.—The British bark Zinita, which is a new iron vessel of 1,645 tons, went ashore close to where the bark Abercorn was wrecked a few years ago. The vessel first sighted land on Sunday morning about 9 o'clock, being then about five miles off the coast and abreast of Quilley.

BARK CANADA GOES ON SHORE.

Captain Refuses to Tug, and Hits a Mud Bank.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—The bark Canada went ashore near Fort Mason last night, but was hauled off the sands there by a tug this morning.

The vessel met with her mishap about midnight. Capt. Wickberg refused all offers from towboats for a safe pilotage into port. He got the vessel under way early yesterday morning and hovered in the vicinity of the Farallones all day. The crew made a desperate struggle to carry the bark across the bar, but at 4 p. m. she was driven back to sea. At 5 p. m. she was driven back to sea. At 6 p. m. she was driven back to sea. SCHOOL TROUBLE NOT OVER.

Radical Differences Between the Conservatives and Liberals.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—Major Sam Hughes, of Lindsay, Canada, editor and publisher of the Victoria Warder and a Conservative member of the Canadian parliament, is in the city. He is deeply interested in the school question in Manitoba, and had considerable to say concerning the settlement which, according to the press dispatches, was effected a few days ago. He said:

"The settlement of the school question in Manitoba is not as satisfactory as has been indicated in the newspapers. The Conservatives, who were defeated in the last general election, I am confident, would have settled the question much to the satisfaction of the Roman Catholics, had they been given the opportunity. The Conservatives took the stand that the Roman Catholics should have the right to use their own text-books in the schools. The Liberals, on the other hand, insisted that the school should be a non-sectarian institution, and that the text-books should be selected by a committee of laymen. The settlement which was effected a few days ago, according to the press dispatches, was a compromise between the two positions. It provided that the text-books should be selected by a committee of laymen, but that the committee should be composed of an equal number of Roman Catholics and Protestants. This, in my opinion, is a very satisfactory settlement."

The reorganization of the Short Line will probably occur February 1, said Mr. Snow, in answer to a question, "and certainly not later than that date. I am not in a position to state anything definite, but I believe that the reorganization will be completed by that time. The bondholders of the Short Line will be in a position to vote on the reorganization at that time. The reorganization will be a consolidation of the Short Line and the Utah Northern into a single system. This will be a very important step in the development of the Pacific Northwest."
