FRANCE IS DETERMINED TO CONQUER THE HAITIEN REBELS. For Years the Islanders Have Persevered in Defiance—They Count on the Protection of England—Men-of-War Sent to Shell the Gunning Old Chief and His Dusky Followers.

PORT TOWNSEND, Jan. 20.—Special.—The brig Courtney Ford, from Tahiti, arrived here today. The French have at last succeeded in stamping out the rebellion in the island of Raiatea. Two men-of-war and a government transport were in readiness to proceed to the island the day after the Courtney Ford's arrival. The commanders had orders to shell the island and subdue the natives at all hazards. For many years the natives, under the command of a treacherous and cunning chief, have refused to recognize the authority of the French or to pay their taxes. By some means or other they obtained possession of an English flag and hoisted it from the highest peak of their island. That was several years ago. The island is of a volcanic character, mountainous and almost impenetrable. As the French would establish settlements among the natives would come down and drive them off the island. When a man-of-war was in sight they sought safety in the wilds of the mountains. Frequently they ambushed the soldiers and killed a few. All the while the English flag floated over the island, and the inhabitants insisted upon claiming allegiance to the queen of Great Britain. Then it was that the British government dispatched a consular representative to advise with the chief and tell them that the flag belonged to France and that England was powerless to afford them a protector. The consul was landed from a French man-of-war and advanced under a flag of truce. He explained the situation and asked that her majesty's emblem be hauled down. The old chief listened attentively to the consul and then said: "You lie; you came in that warship, and you are a French consul."

Waterpout a Mile High Formed at Sea—Thrilling Sight From the Courtney Ford. PORT TOWNSEND, Jan. 20.—Special.—Capt. McLeod, of the brig Courtney Ford, reports that a waterpout, formed about a mile in height, was seen at 10 o'clock on the morning of the 19th. The waterpout was a curious phenomenon witnessed at sea. He reports that a revolving waterpout passed within a mile of his vessel, and in the most graphic manner describes the scene. It was in south latitude 15.15, and west longitude 148.00, at 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The waterpout was a column of water, about 100 feet in diameter, and was carried up to the almost instant formation of a mammoth waterpout. Winding and twisting like a bending spiral, it swallowed up thousands upon thousands of tons of water, and reached an altitude of five miles in height, where it seemed to deposit the great volume of sea water into a cirrus cloud.

Remarkable Hieroglyphics on Vancouver Island Rocks. VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 20.—Special.—During a recent hazardous journey through the hitherto unexplored interior of Vancouver island, J. W. Laing, M. A., a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, made a remarkable discovery, which is certain to excite the curiosity of students and scientists throughout all the world. The explorers were at the time crossing Great Central lake, the largest body of water on the island, when a length of thirty miles, when the curious markings on the face of a giant rock attracted Mr. Laing's attention. The canoes were stopped, and investigation disclosed that a message had been left by some prehistoric dwellers of the lake, deep-traced in the imperishable rock.

TO BRING OUT THE MIC-MACS.

Leading Captains Leave for the Famous Indian Spearman. VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 20.—Special.—In connection with the present season's annual hunting in the Bering sea, Balcom and Steward are now on their way to Lunenburg, N. S., to bring back fourteen canoes and hunters from the famous Mic-Mac nation. Besides being fearless and experienced hunters, they also have a tribal history that is inseparable from that of Canada—a record of martial triumphs in wars waged against the Mic-Macs and other equally powerful nations before the white men came, a narrative inseparable from Acadian history, in which the tribe proved valiant and faithful allies to the whites.

For Killing His Sweetheart.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 20.—Lewis Muhler was today sentenced to ten years imprisonment for killing his sweetheart, Jennie Lewis. Muhler, 26, government telegraph operator, quarreled with Miss Lewis and called at her house to secure his ring and letters. After he left the young woman was found dead with a bullet through her heart. Muhler testified that he shot her and the evidence against him was circumstantial. He was found guilty of manslaughter, but Judge Frick ordered a new trial, deeming that it was murder or nothing. The supreme court overruled Judge Frick.

Canovos Willing to Give Up.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The correspondent at Paris of the Daily News says: During the negotiations with the United States last week Senor Canovas, the Spanish premier, was surprised and dismayed to receive an intimation from Washington that Secretary Olney would have no time to settle the Cuban question and he would leave President McKinley's hands free to deal with it. Two days later Senor Canovas issued an official denial that negotiations were proceeding. It is a great blow to Senor Canovas, who has confidence in the ability of the United States to resist rebellion. He is credited with an intention to resign if Gen. Weyler has not given a deadly blow to the revolution by the beginning of the rainy season.

VALUABLE INFORMATION FOR INTENDING YUKON PROSPECTORS. The Amount of Provisions and Clothing You Will Need—Table of Distances From Juneau to Forty-Six and Intermediate Points—The Alaska Information Bureau in Seattle.

"How to Reach the Yukon." is the title of a circular just issued by George W. Johnson, of the Alaska Information Bureau. It is complete and up to date, giving such information as the intending Yukoner requires. Some of the suggestions are particularly valuable, as the season when the Yukon trail will begin its fast approaching. The route via Juneau and the Chilkoot pass is recommended as being the shortest, quickest and cheapest. The best time for the start from Juneau is placed between the middle of March and April 1. No man should attempt the journey alone, but in a party of four or five. A boat-builder is a valuable and almost necessary member of such a party. The following outfit, costing between $50 and $150, is approved: "Four, 50 pounds; baking powder, 1½ pounds; dried fruit, 15 pounds; bacon (salt), 20 pounds; beans, 5 pounds; sugar (loaf), 10 pounds; coffee, 3 pounds; tea, 1 pound; salt, 3 pounds; pepper, ½ pound; desiccated onions, 1 pound; matches, 2 bunches; butter, milk, rice, corn meal, oat meal, etc. (optional). "The above amount of food is sufficient to last one man sixty days. If you intend to remain, it is advisable to take every pound of provisions one's purse will permit.
