THE WOODEN SOCIETY

The cotillon has never been in such vogue as it has the past winter. To be sure it has always been danced in New York, where the after-dinner party is the principal feature of a ball of any pretensions. Indeed, the preponderance of cotillon has been so great that it has been the favorite of the latter will fall to one's share as warranted to hold every close attention of the belle who has been "out" ten seasons.

The chief interest of course, centers around the favors. A german without favors would be as tasteless as a plume without plumes. They are the trophies—the scalp—and are to be worn proudly, for they represent just so much popularity, the maid or the man may be gauged by the number of gay souvenirs with which he is bedecked.

Just received, a few samples in advance of our new stock of Capes and Jackets, in the latest spring styles. An elaborately braided and Colored Broadcloth Cape, only $2.75.

NOTICES.

Bone Crochet Hooks, at 5c, 3c and 2c each.

Private theatricals were given Friday and Saturday evenings at the residence of Mr. F. A. Wing by John B. Wing, Coll Murray and Louise Cragin. The plays presented were "Wanted—A Young Lady" and "Box and Cox." Friday evening the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wing were invited to celebrate his birthday. The visitors joined with the hostess in making the occasion so pleasant that Mr. Basse will not object when another birthday comes around.

The sad intelligence announcing the death at Phoenix, Arizona, of Phillip A. Eisenberg, formerly of Seattle, was received by friends of the deceased Friday. During his residence in this city Mr. Eisenberg made a number of friends and took a deep interest in society affairs, being a member of the older set. He was 72 years of age at the time of his death.

There was no meeting of the Wednesday Card Club last week, owing to the illness of Mr. J. P. Hayes. Mrs. David Kellogg will entertain the club this week at her home on the corner of Fifth avenue and Madison street.

Surprise and Birthday Parties.

Master Leon Knapp celebrated the sixth anniversary of his birth last Tuesday by giving a birthday party to a few of his little friends and schoolmates at his home on the corner of Third and Madison streets. The party was given from 3 to 5:30 p. m., and at the appointed time the young people arrived and at once entered into the enjoyment that can only be formed from a gathering of youthful company.

Saturday evening, March 20, Miss Neva Christopher, the eldest daughter of the pioneer, Thomas Christopher, of Christopher, attained her twenty-first birthday.

For the college cotillon ribbon is perhaps the most useful basis. There are so many trinkets read to the heart of the collegian that it can be difficult to find a piece of ribbon long enough to hold three or four inches turned up to form a pocket to hold photos. The remaining inches are decorated by the date in large figures at every inch.

Cards announcing the wedding of Mr. J. V. A. Smith and Miss Nellie Howard were issued. The nuptials will be solemnized April 2 at the house of Miss Hubbard's sister, Mrs. A. P. Burwell, of 2219 Fourth avenue, and after a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside at the new smart cottage on Olympic place. Anniversary Party.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bernard, of 413 Thirteenth avenue north, celebrated the fifth (or wooden) anniversary of their marriage Tuesday evening. The Bernard home, which is one of the prettiest in the city, was decorated artistically with choice cut flowers, which, with the brilliant lights, and tan-colored gowns of the company, made the scene one of unusual splendor.

House and Card Parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence S. Booth entertained twenty friends very pleasantly last Tuesday evening at their home, 513 Union street. Each guest was given a card and a pencil. On one card was a pen and ink drawing of a bicycle and a rider, and a set of questions as to what could be found on a wheel. On the other card the answers were to be written. Miss Wood and Mr. Clayton Crawford answered correctly the greatest number of questions and received artistically drawn cards. The drawings on the cards were done by Mr. James H. Young and ranged from the new woman wheel to the old man. They were done in such an original and amusing manner that all the cards were kept as souvenirs. The game of Art came next. Each guest received a piece of drawing paper and a pencil and was required to draw a picture or animal named on the paper. When the drawings were finished the ladies selected by ballot the best made by a gentleman, while the men voted upon those drawn by the ladies. The drawings were Mr. Wood and Mr. Young received the prizes. Following this Mr. Harry Leland sang "Zita," "Dreams of My Own Land" and "I'll Find a Sweetheart." The evening followed and was continued without interruption, save for refreshments, till the close of the evening.

Card Parties.

Card Clubs.

The Saturday Afternoon Whist Club was delighted to entertain last week by Mrs. Clarence Preston on Drexel avenue. The first prize was carried off by Mrs. Harold Preston, and the second prize by Mrs. Howard Simpson. The previous meeting was with Mrs. S. M. Preston on Rainier street. A number of the members being absent, the club entertained Mrs. Kirk, Mrs. Harold Preston and Mrs. Rauben Jones. The first prize was awarded to Mrs. Clarence Preston and the consolation prize to Mrs. Johnson.

Club Parties and Hops.

The Sunset Club gave its first annual ball last Wednesday evening at the Interbay Nixon house, a large crowd attending. The affair was a complete success and participated in by Mr. and Mrs. J. Pycheon, Mr. and Mrs. A. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. S. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Newell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Graves.

Club Parties and Hops.

The Nineteenth Century Literary Club will meet next Thursday afternoon in the Seattle National Bank building as usual. The programme includes two sketches: "The Program" as a Literary Center," by Miss Carrie Shumway, and "Women's Club-iques in New England," by Miss Miller.

These attractive subjects will be made exceptionally interesting, as each writer speaks from personal knowledge. The last meeting of the club in Miss Bush's home was a most enjoyable one. Miss Bush spoke at length upon the American masters, Sargent and Abbey, exhibiting magazine cuttings in illustration. The thanks of the club members are due the artists for the delightful entertainment.

In Art and Literary Circles.

Sappho's undying fame received a graceful acknowledgment, at the hands of Miss Blanche De Mers and Miss Mattie Bray before the Seattle Art League and School of Design on Tuesday evening last in the form of a lecture delivered by Miss Bray, who had been collaborated with Miss De Mers in preparing the review of the immortal Grecian and her verse. Woman's claim to be at least man's literary peer was implied in this review, and the assumption of superlative genius in that as in the other arts and sciences, Sappho was pronounced "inherently a society being, being the world has ever seen. No Greek woman of the Ionian race is known to have excelled in poetry; and no Aeolian or Dorian poetess of a later age is known to have made poetry the personal expression of an intense life. She was added therein not only by the glow of the Aeolian blood which fired her genius, but also by the large and rich life with which Aeolian society surrounded women of the higher rank. This it is which imparts the unique interest to the few fragments remaining of Sappho's work. Fragments of form and sound, whose passionate energy found a natural expression in verse, she uttered therein her worship of the beautiful. Her own personal charms, numerous and of every order, were the inspiration then, as they would be now, of slanderous tongues, but Alcaeus testifies that the attractions and loveliness of Sappho did not degenerate from her mortal worth. Byron's allusion in "Childe Harold" to her tragic fate was quoted, but the young ladies gave no credence to the tale, which was regarded as more poetic imagery. The Aeolian leap was a religious rite, belonging to the expiatory festivals of Apollo, celebrated throughout Greece. At appointed times criminals, male and female, victims were thrown from the high overhanging rock into the sea. Poets applied the custom in various ways descriptive of lovers' desperation. Sappho's passionate and excitable nature found expression in a direct frankness foreign to modern manners, but which possessed redeeming traits of simple grace and naïveté. Thus, in her "I do not understand the charming Manon he invited, if the feast is to bring enjoyment to me," she addresses a distinguished youth in these words: "Thou art a young man, I enter the sweetness which dwells in thine eyes bend upon me." Yet we can nowhere find grounds for reproaching her with having tried to please men, or to attract the attention of a young man. On the contrary, she says: "Thou art my friend; I therefore advise thee to seek a younger wife; I cannot bring myself to share thy house as an elderly man. Only old Sappho's fame spread throughout all Greece; the whole voice of antiquity pronounced her poetry as unrivaled in grace and sweetness." The subject of the entertainment was the character of the entertainment to be celebrated on Saturday afternoon next, at the studio and art gallery will be thrown open to visitors from 2 o'clock in the afternoon till 9 o'clock at night. The reception committee will be Mrs. H. S. Struve, Mrs. H. Henry, Mrs. Ernest Bernard, Mrs. A. M. Brookes, Mrs. John Leary, Mrs. F. A. Wing, Mrs. A. B. Stewart and Mrs. W. R. Forrest.

In Church Circles.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Edgewater Congregational Church gave a pleasant and unique entertainment Friday evening. The feature of the evening was the recitation of the "Mystic of the Ages" by a chorus of 20 voices, led by a stringed orchestra and organ. In addition to the plantation melodies, Miss Minnie Perennan sang "The Mystic of the Ages," Joseph Blumenthal, by the organ, and Joseph Blumenthal, the bridegrooms were: Selah Abrams and Bessie Flora Levy, both of whom were prettily gowned. A magnificent spread followed, congratulatory to the bride and groom, and the evening being brought to a close a most joyous time. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brookes, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. George, Miss George, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Ricketts, Mr. and Mrs. Max Cohn, Mr. and Mrs. K. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Patrick, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brookes, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin G.
