

UNION IN CONTROL.

SEAMAN FORCE WAGES UP TO $25 PER MONTH.

Good Men Scarce, Owing to the Fishing Season—Supply of Non-Union Men Is Exhausted, and the Union Does Not Lose Its Opportunity—Wages May Yet Touch $25 Per Month.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. PORT TOWNSEND, May 8.—For the first time in many years the Sailors' Union of the Pacific Coast, an organization composed entirely of seamen engaged in the coastwise trade, has control of Puget sound shipping. The few deep water arrivals from foreign and the scarcity of non-union sailors, together with the fact that a profitable fishing season is close at hand, accounts for the union suddenly acquiring control. Owing to a war between the Tacoma and Port Townsend deep-water or boarding houses, which lasted for several months, the standard of deep water wages maintained by the union was lowered from $20 to $17.50, and in a few instances to $15 per month.

Under the guidance of shrewd agents, the union closely watched the situation, and when the supply of non-union seamen was exhausted wages were not only restored, but as a slight punishment for having lowered the rate in the first instance, the standard was made $5 per month for deep-water voyages.

The success of the movement will no doubt cause the union to advance the rate to Hawaii and Central America to $20 or $25 per month. That proposition is under consideration, and owing to the scarcity of men it will no doubt be successful. Among the vessels forced to accept the rate was the Wachusett, John Smith and Hawaiian Isles. Capt. Hogan, of the former ship, engaged a crew in Victoria for $20 a month, but the union soon got word of the move and thwarted the effort, and he was forced to take a crew at this port for the voyage to Australia and return for $25 a month. The British ship Andria is in port and is making a desperate effort to get a crew of $20. Just before leaving Port Gamble she was fortunate enough to get three men for $15.

The present indications warrant the belief that union seamen will remain masters of the situation during the summer, to the great detriment of ship owners, who are carrying cargoes at very low rates.

He will sit as a committing magistrate Monday and take testimony to ascertain if there is sufficient evidence to warrant the prisoners being extradited.

ONCE RICH, NOW A PAUPER.

Gustave Richelieu, Formerly of Oregon, Knocks at the Poor House Door.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. BOSTON, Mass., May 8.—Gustave Richelieu, formerly a wealthy Oregonian, and the first American citizen imprisoned in Spainlands in Cuba, applied to the Boston police today for the shelter of the poor house.

Richelieu has had quite a career, and had plenty of money several times in his life. He was in Oregon and ran a restaurant there when the gold fever was on. He claims to have left Oregon with about $200,000. This money he sunk in the Panama scheme. While on a fishing venture with August Baiten in 1896 he was held by the Spanish authorities. When near the United States consulate at Santiago they were arrested without warning or process by the administrative or military authorities of Spain and thrown into a bathhouse prison, where they were held sixty-two days, notwithstanding the production of their citizenship papers establishing their citizenship. Identity and character. At the expiration of sixty-two days they were released without explanation or apology, but the boat and passports and personal papers were retained.

JAPS ASKED TO GO.

ORDERED FROM EVERETT BY WHITE WORKINGMEN.

Employees of a Box Factory Declared Objectionable—Meeting Held and a Committee Sent to the Foreigners—They Ask Time to Consult With Their Countrymen in Tacoma—Are Given Until Tomorrow Night to Get Out of Town.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. EVERETT, May 8.—Several hundred workmen from the industries of this city and Lowell met on the corner of Hewitt avenue and Chestnut street tonight, and appointed a committee to notify sixteen Japs brought here to work on the night shift of the Everett box factory of the objection of the white workmen to their commencing work.

The Japanese representative first referred them to Mr. Logan, of the box factory, and further said they would have to consult the Japanese consul in Tacoma before they could act in the matter. At a later interview they were notified to leave the city before Monday night, the time at which they were expecting to commence work. The meeting was conducted in an orderly manner, and no harsh language was used either of the interviews with the Japanese.

They brought supplies and will be used to take the cable up to the lower tunnel a distance of 2,600 feet. The snow is all gone at Headquarters camp. On Monday six men will be put to work on the Silverton side of the trail.

RAILROAD SOLD FOR A SONG.

Burrrows Bay Line Brings $700—A Selloe of Boom Days.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. ANACORTES, May 8.—The Burrrows Bay Improvement Company's railway was sold here yesterday by Sheriff Millett, to satisfy a judgment in favor of Harry Trowbridge. The judgment, including costs, amounted to $2,000. The road was bid in by W. D. Hofus & Co., of Seattle, for $700. A contract for tearing up the track has been let to J. C. Phelps, and work will begin at once. There is about 200 back taxes against the property. The railway is about two and one-half miles in length, and was built in 1893, when speculators were figuring on building a great city on the shores of Burrrows bay, clearing of land and construction of the wharf at Fidalgo island, and connected with the Seattle & Northern. It is said that the original cost, including the big wharf at Burrrows bay, the depot building, clearing of land and construction of the railway, reached about $72,000. Not a train, other than the construction train, was ever run over it. The depot was never opened, and it is not likely that a pound of freight was ever landed on the wharf. Burrrows bay is an excellent harbor, and is directly opposite the Straits of Fuca. In boom days it was predicted that the chief city of Puget sound would be built there.

The Island Packing Company is adding largely to its buildings and driving traps. The Oceanic company is planning to erect buildings at Richardson. The owners of different trap locations have crews at work. The Salmon banks, off the southern shores of San Juan and Lopez islands, being the point of greatest activity. Three new canneries are now under construction in the lower Sound county.

There is Nothing Half as Good!

HOME RULE FOR ALASKA.

Territory Has Been Long Enough a Political Dumping Ground—Judge Brady in the East.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. BOSTON, Mass., May 8.—Judge J. G. Brady, of Sitka, Alaska, is here urging home rule for Alaska, and studying interests that bear on the welfare of Alaska. He states that for thirteen years Alaska has been a political dumping ground for both parties, and under the organic act passed in 1884 her citizens have been voiceless with reference to the governmental policy pursued there, while among forty-six United States officials created by that act few have comprehended the duties of their position or have been in sympathy with the wants of the district. They have been for the most part political pensioners broken down at home, with only influence enough left to secure a distant appointment. The government, says Judge Brady, has appointed not only one, but continually, as rulers and administrators of the law, men who, in the states, would not be accepted, either because of legal or moral qualifications, as justices of the peace. Home rule for Alaska, he adds, is not only demanded loudly by the inhabitants of the territory, but the Christian church all over the East has begun to realize the magnitude and importance of this step, and to recognize that it is a fundamental basis for its work.

SAFE SARSAPARILLA. You get it when you ask for Ayer's. WHAT makes Ayer's Sarsaparilla the favorite family remedy? That's a question worth considering. There is a certain censorship exercised in respect of family affairs which endeavors to defend the home life from dangers. The Mother Watches the books that are read, the friends that are made, the people and things that are introduced to the family circle. No parent would bring an unknown person into his home, a person without a known record, no matter what appearance the person in question made, or what position he claimed. And wise parents are as watchful of medicines as of men. They want to know what the medicine is that they bring into the family, to be sure there is nothing injurious or hurtful in the remedy that is to be intrusted with health or even life itself. Enquiry shows that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the only sarsaparilla that presents itself to the home, its "character" in its hand, like a good and honest servant. It takes time to make character. Reputation is of shorter growth; it is what we are said to be or appear to be. Character is what we are. Reputation is like the paint on the actor's face, it can be rubbed off. Character is like the wrinkles and lines that time makes, which cannot be erased. Character is what is graven in granite. Reputation is what is written in sand. Shakespear well calls reputation a "bubble," and character may well be the medal with its indelible record of achievement. It has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla half a century to engrave its character. But its character is fixed. It has rivals who blow great bubbles of reputation. It only points to its medals of merit which are permanent while a million bubbles are blown and burst. Fifty years of cures. That is the record of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The record is too plain to be ignored; too great to be imitated. "You know what you're getting when you get Ayer's Sarsaparilla." That's the open sesame that admits Ayer's to the family. Ayer's is the only sarsaparilla of which this can be said. The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is sent free to any reputable physician on request, and so the remedy goes into thousands of families by a physician's introduction. The physician knows it is a pure remedy and a safe one. Does this fact strike you with all the force it should? Turn it around. Put it this way: You don't know what you are getting under the name of sarsaparilla, unless you get Ayer's. There's a depth of possibility in that statement you will do well to try to fathom. Any chemical compound may be palmed off as sarsaparilla, if you are not permitted to know what you get when you ask for "sarsaparilla." therefore to be classed as "nostrums and dangerous." Read the rule governing the admission of exhibits to the Fair, known as Rule 15: "Articles that are in any way dangerous or offensive, also patent medicines, nostrums, and empirical preparations, whose ingredients are concealed, will not be admitted to the exposition." You can understand in the light of this fact, the value of Ayer's medals. They mean character. Other sarsaparillas came to the World's Fair gates with a rainbow bubble of reputation. But the judges said: "It's not what you look like or what you call yourself. It's what you are. What are you?" And as they could not say what they were the gates of the Fair were shut against them. It was only Ayer's Sarsaparilla that could say: "I am called sarsaparilla and I am sarsaparilla. Prove me, and see." The family can't afford to admit what the Fair excluded. It can't afford to confuse character with reputation, the bubble with the medal. The man with an alias is dangerous, even if the alias is one of the names given him in baptism. The man whose name is John Jones, and who comes into the family as Mr. John, is dangerous. He's not to be trusted. It's the same with the medicine. If it borrows the name sarsaparilla, because it has a little sarsaparilla flavor or a sarsaparilla smell, it's dangerous. It's a fraud. The man with the mask may be all right, but you don't want him around the house. Masked Medicines, like masked men, are unknown quantities. The masked man may be a philanthropist, wanting to do his good deeds in secret, and so choosing night and wearing a mask that he may hide his benevolence. He may be—but the chances are he's a burglar. The Veiled Prophet of Khorassan is the type of all these motley maskers. He veiled his face on the claim that his beauty was too rare for the common eye to gaze on. But underneath the veil was the face of a demon. Every sarsaparilla that promises healing, but wears a veil over its formula is of the veiled prophet class. It's easy to be a prophet. You have only to promise. Ayer's Sarsaparilla deals with history. It points back to its fifty years of cures, a record which cannot be imitated, as the remedy is, by Imitation Sarsaparilla. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the favorite of the family, because it has a record which stands for character; because you know what you are getting when you get it. Remember: You don't know what you're getting unless you get Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "AYER'S CUREBOOK," A story of cures told by the cured, will effectually answer any questions as to what Ayer's Sarsaparilla does. A book of 100 pages, 16 half-tone portraits, royal Holland covers.
