

CLAIMS AS AUDITED

NEW COUNTY COMMISSIONER BOYCE CHANGED THE FIGURES.

Boys' own statement of his reasons for this reducing his claims has already been substantially given, and need not be repeated here. No new feature in the situation developed yesterday. Mr. Boyce did not resign, and stated that he certainly would not do so for another week.

J. M. Wolfe, who was reported yesterday as a candidate to fill the possible vacancy was at the courthouse yesterday, and called at the commissioners' rooms, although he took pains to explain to a Post-Intelligencer reporter that his visit was solely to confer with Mr. Ryan about some work.

The fact is, he said, "I don't believe Boyce is going to resign at all, when it comes to that. My own candidacy is easily explained. I've had a good deal of practical experience in doing just the kind of work the commissioners have to supervise, and I ought to know something about it. Some of my friends suggested the matter, and I have said I would take the place if it were offered me."

Marriage Licenses. Licenses to wed were issued yesterday by Gabriel Rosford (32) and Carrie Sundall (23), both of Seattle; William Wallace Stanton (31), of Seattle, and Nora Henrietta Conner (21), of Minneapolis, Minn.; Gilbert S. Olsen (31), of Clinton, Wash., and Maria N. Thorshelm (28), of Seattle; William W. Richeberger (39), and Atry (or Ally) Jackson (28), both of Tacoma (written Tacoma).

New Suits Filed. The following new suits were filed yesterday in the superior court: Harriet Chase Green vs. Carrie V. S. Rice and Allen C. Mason—Promissory note of August 16, 1930, $2,000; interest and late notes, $115; attorney's fee, $105.76, and foreclosure.

Matthew Rings vs. Chopard & Cosgrove—Appeal from judgment for costs in favor of defendants in Justice Ingersoll's court. Thomas S. Krutz vs. Beatrice Beattie et al.—Promissory note of June 1, 1931, $1,212. Interest, $100 attorney's fee, and foreclosure.

State vs. H. H. Peterson—Abusing minor children; transcript from Justice Ingersoll's court. State vs. H. H. Peterson—Abusing minor children; transcript from Justice Ingersoll's court.

Court Notes. The Rouse divorce case has been set for hearing on May 24. Sheriff's sale of real estate was conducted yesterday in the case of F. P. Cooper vs. Adelbert M. Fisher.

Charlotte Johnson was yesterday awarded judgment for $21.80 and foreclosure, against Kristian Ostensen.

The suit of the city against the Spring Hill Water Company was yesterday continuing work by agreement.

Permission was yesterday granted to Mary D. Malone to sue the receiver of the Guaranty Loan and Trust Company.

Judge Jacobs yesterday granted Louisa Cooke a decree of divorce from James T. Cooke, with title to the community property, and permission to resume her former name, Louisa Beaumont.

In the Watson divorce case Judge Moore yesterday ordered John Watson to pay to Alice Watson $5 per week for the support cut down his claims as supervisor, why not say in so many words or figures by just what amount he reduced it? The scratchings and blotches really serve no purpose, except to call attention to themselves as an apparent but clumsy effort at concealment.

of the children, pending a motion to modify the decree of divorce.

Judge Moore yesterday found William A. McGary entitled to judgment for $2,450 and costs against George F. Cotterill and wife on a promissory note of May 4, 1932.

The Queen City Printing Company case was yesterday transferred from the equity to the civil department in all matters except those of the receivership. The motion for a change of venue was denied by Judge Moore.

In the Carpenter divorce case Judge Jacobs yesterday ordered Thomas J. Carpenter to pay $2,000 to his wife. The judgment was on three promissory notes of February and March, 1935, for $300.

The Security Savings bank and its receiver, H. H. Jones, filed a motion in the suit of the Northwest and Pacific Hypotheek against Frank W. Goodhue et al. yesterday for a cross-complaint asking judgment against the Goodhues for $1,567.50, interest and attorney's fee, on a note of June 3, 1932.

THE PASSING THROG.

"Deep Creek" Jones is in the city, and he acts and talks as though his fur had been stroked in the wrong direction. When asked yesterday whether the colloquy reported to have taken place between himself and Gov. Rogers had actually occurred, he smiled rather grimly and said that he and the governor had exchanged ideas in a conversation held the day before at Olympia.

"When a man professes the friendship for another that Gov. Rogers professed for me," said Mr. Jones, "and then blames a commission or board of men for his own acts, what is the other man to think? I never in my life, and Mr. Jones grew impressive and repeated his words to give emphasis, "I never in my life saw a man who was a liar that was not a thief; I never saw a thief that was not a venal. Look at the appointments that Rogers has made," (and Mr. Jones placed the forefinger of his right hand in the palm of his left) "they are all venal. Rogers couldn't blame the board. He had in his possession letters from the leading people of Spokane—from the leading people of the fusionist party in the state—and these letters the board could not have ignored, and I would have received the appointment as warden of the penitentiary instead of Catron. Instead of sending these letters to the board Rogers kept them in his possession, and it was over this matter that we had our heated conversation at Olympia.

"Catron was appointed in the face of the fact that he had opposed not only Rogers, but the directors of the United States Marshal Drake, that he would not vote for a single Populist, and so he worked for the support of the present gold Democrat. The old board is going to take the matter up and square me with the public."

Mr. Jones stated for the elevator in the Washington building, and then returning said: "Rogers spoke to me something about whisky drinking. I told him that he had drunk twice as much as I had, and that I had paid for it perfectly sober. He didn't say a word to that," and Mr. Jones pressed the button—the elevator did the rest.

Lincoln Brooks, manager of the maritime department of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, accompanied his young son over to Ellensburg last week, where the latter went to take the examination for the navy academy at Annapolis. "I can speak of the quiet that broods over Ellensburg," said Mr. Brooks yesterday. "There was a tailor over there that went to bed perfectly sober, last Saturday night. When he awoke he arose and dressed himself carefully for the day. When he shaved he noticed that his beard was unusually stubby, but paid little attention to that, and upon his complete arrayal he sallied forth with his cane and boutonniere prepared to spend his day of rest in a manner befitting the sunshine and the happy air. His watch had stopped, and he hurried to a jeweler's to see if it was out of order. He remarked upon the unusual hum of business and his own make-up attracted attention. People asked him if he intended getting married, and he felt hurt and affronted at what he supposed to be jests. To make a long story short, he discovered by inquiry and observation that he had slept about thirty-two hours straightaway and that it was Monday instead of Sunday morning. He immediately went to his room, changed his clothes and started at his work without having had any Sunday, except for his trance. He now wonders how his friends overlooked him and did not try to make a case of suicide out of him. It is a quiet, busy town," said Mr. Brooks, "and the story is no tailor's dream."

When Chief of Police Reed had mastered the intricacies of the bicycle and the patches of epidemics that gravely roads and sharp corners had removed were replaced by the curbside of a city of light, he entered into an agreement with R. C. Stevens, the general Western passenger agent of the Great Northern, to ride Sunday mornings when the weather permitted. This agreement was kept, except in the case of the chief's recent trip to Spokane, where he attended a Chinese necktie party. Mr. Stevens stated that it was his intention to go fishing, and he procured his transportation at the office of the Great Northern, and started at the purpose of the chief's trip. During the past week Mr. Reed confessed that it was his intention to go fishing, and he procured his transportation at the office of the Great Northern, and started at the purpose of the chief's trip. Allen Cameron, district freight agent, and George McL. Brown, district passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific road were both in Seattle yesterday.

G. M. McKinzie, traveling agent of the freight department of the Northern Pacific, was a Seattle visitor yesterday.

Moses P. Keefe, of Omaha, who has the contract for the government work at the Spokane army post, is in the city for the purpose of purchasing lumber supplies for the contract. Before returning to Spokane Mr. Keefe will visit the Magnolia Bluffs site and will probably go to Port Townsend, where the contracts for the rehabilitation of Port Townsend and the fortifications at Point Wilson, Marrowstone Point and Admiralty head will soon be let. The war department has already ready ordered the post near Port Townsend prepared for occupancy and condemnation proceedings are already underway for the fortification sites. Mr. Keefe has already had several war department contracts, besides that at Spokane.

A. F. McEwan and P. D. Curtis went over to Tacoma yesterday afternoon to attend a meeting of the committee that has in hand the details of entertainment of the lumbermen's excursion to Puget sound from the East. They were in the office of General Freight and Passenger Agent Fred Allen, of the Seattle & International, before leaving for Tacoma, arranging for a side trip to Snoqualmie falls for the excursionists. After they had done Mr. Allen said:

"The first arrangements for that excursion provided that the lumbermen should come out over the Soo and the Canadian Pacific and back by one of the other roads. If they had come that way they would have visited the falls and all of the logging and shingle camps on our line, and finished that part of their trip in a day. The committee expects that there will be a great thing for this country. Nobody has been able to figure out why the Canadian Pacific did not stand for its share of the excursion. The Soo line was after it, but was not sustained by the Canadian Pacific. I have heard it said that the reason was that the Canadian Pacific did not believe it was to be a great thing that it was to be, and thought that its starting away from Minneapolis just as the Grand Lodge of Elks aljourns was a scheme for cheap rates out to the coast and back, that was being engineered by scoundrels."

State Superintendent of Education Browne was in the city yesterday, and in answer to questions which have recently been sent into this office in connection with the registration of voters at school elections, stated to a Post-Intelligencer reporter:

"The new law provides that in cities and towns and voting precincts in which the registration of voters is a separate provided for, there shall be made a separate registry of female voters entitled to vote at school elections, and in such districts the law applying to elections shall be, so far as registration is concerned, in force and effect."

The county commissioners should see to it that there be a registration officer in every such district, and the directors should provide this officer with suitable registration books.

The election occurring on June 12, the registration books must be closed June 2, if they are to become necessary, that the matter should be given prompt attention."

Mr. Browne said he had nothing to say for publication, for the present at least, concerning the election of the old board of control and the governor.

Personal. S. M. Butler, of Edison, is at the Diller, Attorney A. W. Frater, of Snohomish, is at the Butler.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Jose, of Port Crockett, arrived at the city yesterday. M. Callaghan, a lumberman of Leavenworth, arrived at the Northern yesterday. Joseph Sweeney, an old-time business man of Friday Harbor, is stopping at the Diller.

Customs Inspector W. A. Hutchinson, of Port Townsend, is a guest of the Hotel Northern.

A. S. Taylor, a leading attorney of Everett, is among yesterday's arrivals at the Rainier-Grand hotel.

J. E. Gandy, M. D., of Spokane, registered at the Diller on his way to visit Byron Young, his brother-in-law, of this city.

Mrs. F. LaRoche has returned from California after a four-months' visit in San Diego and Los Angeles, much improved in health.

L. C. Jenkins, Jr., and wife and Miss Julia Jenkins, daughter of Secretary of State Will D. Jenkins, are guests of Judge T. H. Hittner.

E. D. Stair and wife, of Detroit, are guests of the Rainier-Grand. Mr. Stair is the manager and actor of the comedy company.

Henry E. Miller, a mining expert and assayer of Spokane, is registered at the Diller. Mr. Miller is on his way to Alaska, representing an Eastern syndicate.

H. R. Gould, R. H. Hill, William Hill, James Stewart, R. Moore, R. Daugherty, J. Shaughnessy, W. Van Veelton, C. Burrman, F. C. Purvis, Tom Kennedy and W. M. Hinton made up a party of Whitworth college boys who were in attendance upon the intercollegiate range party. The boys were registered at the Hotel Butler.

If you go to Spokane or East try the Great Northern and you will enjoy the library observation car.

After a bicycle ride take a glass of Wagner's Band, Madison Park, Sunday.

The Constantly Growing Confidence Between

This store and the public is not due to lowness of prices alone, but rather its union with highness of quality that has achieved our present popularity and reputation, as the following items will sufficiently show:

Wrapper Bargains.

Every one in the department that was marked $1.75, $1.88 is marked 30c for Monday's selling. The material in them cost somebody more than this. Two strong points about our wrappers are, they fit and they're well made. Another strong point about these particular wrappers is they are cheaper than you've been in the habit of paying for the goods of this class. Note these lots, and be on hand for first pick:

Ladies' Wrapper, made of best quality of saten, in Persian effects, of medium and light shades, reversed ruffle, shirred over the shoulders, edged with lace, puffed sleeve, inside waist lining, a very neat and dresy wrapper, regular price $1.75, special price for Monday only 30c.

Ladies' Wrapper, made of dimity, in handsome shades of light blue, green and heliotrope in bolero effect, with bolero and revers edged with dainty lace, puffed sleeves, inside waist lining, a very dainty wrapper, regular price $1.75, special for Monday only 30c.

Ladies' Wrapper, made of Sea Island Peacock, of the very choicest spring colorings, blotched and Varden effects, gathered front and back, with a revers over the front and shoulder, also trimmed over shoulder with satin ribbon, finished with bows, inside waist lining, puffed sleeves, regular price $1.88, special for Monday only 30c.

Wash Dress Goods Bargains.

We have just opened a handsome line of French Flannel Cloth in beautiful designs and colorings. It's the regular 10c quality. We'll sell it Monday only at 5c a yard.

A Sale of Short Lengths of Wash Fabrics.

We showed during this season a greater variety of Wash Dress Goods than any other retailer in the West. The result of it is an accumulation of a great variety of remnants of Gingham, Calicoes, Percales, Figured Lawns, Dimities, Organdies and White Goods. We'll place the entire lot on sale for Monday only at about half their real value.

Special Lots of Notions.

The bargain bigness of our notion department has assumed astonishing proportions. One little dollar will do the work you expected two to do elsewhere. These prices are for Monday only.
