

mate and while engaged in hard labor, they should also be supplied with the best and warmest clothing. In this particular many new wrinkles have been placed on the market since the rush to Alaska has attracted the attention of manufacturers of all kinds of clothing.

Another requisite is a small assortment of medicines, for even the healthiest man is liable to certain diseases, especially when making a sudden change in his mode of life and in climate, and it will be impossible to procure medicine in the country. This should include a certain amount of ether acid to tone up the system and prevent the common ailments living on salt meat are peculiarly liable to.

Evaporated Vegetables.
In its Sunday edition the Post-Intelligencer published an article showing how thoroughly the trade with Alaska ports and the mines in the interior is monopolized by this city. The unprecedented demand for provisions and all the articles that go to make up the complete miner's outfit, it was shown, had resulted in a great increase in business and in scenes of activity in the commercial districts of the city never before equaled.

One of the chief articles which are absolutely necessary to complete an outfit of provisions for Alaska is evaporated vegetables and fruits. Evaporated vegetables are comparatively new, and to supply the ordinary needs of the business between this city and the placer mines of the north a number of factories have been started here in the past few years. They have been small and with a capacity not exceeding one-half of a ton per day. During the weeks past all the stocks of goods held by these establishments have vanished like a snow bank beneath a chinook wind, and the result has been that the merchants and outfitting houses of the city have been compelled to rely upon Eastern concerns to supply their wants. More than one house has found it necessary to have evaporated vegetables of various kinds sent here by express.

This condition of affairs is not to be charged against the manufacturers of this city, whose ordinary resources were found inadequate to the enormously increased demand for their products. They began immediately operating their factories day and night, and set about increasing the capacity of their establishments. As the rush to the new gold fields of the north shows no sign of abatement, and is likely to last for at least six months and probably for a year yet, the great profit and continuous demand for these goods, which are sold at a higher price for all sorts of vegetables should ultimately result, putting money in the pocket of the farmer and throwing to the evaporator a fair margin of profit.

Every miner going into the country should carry from twenty-five to thirty pounds of evaporated vegetables to last him one year. Of course this amount in weight represents a much greater bulk in the green vegetable, about 80 per cent. being lost by the process which the vegetables are put through. The staple article is the nutritious and sustaining corn which stands the drying process well, emerging as a delectable and extremely wholesome article of food. Onions are also used in considerable quantities, and an outfit containing a variety would require turnips, parsnips, carrots and beets.

One of the most valuable of the dried articles made here is evaporated eggs. These are cooked, the water thoroughly drawn off, and then packed in airtight tins, holding from one to five pounds each. They are readily made available for use, and are highly prized by men who during a great part of the long Alaskan winters subsist principally on bacon and sour dough bread. The evaporated eggs, so a Post-Intelligencer representative was informed yesterday by a wholesale dealer, are warranted not to evolve into spring chickens, no matter how venerable they may get before being used.

The Washington Evaporating and Preserving Company is one of the pioneers in the business, and has a capacity of 1,500 pounds per day, the company has been forced to run day and night, and is shortly to increase the size of its plant in North Seattle. The Puget Sound Evaporating Company is another, and has a well equipped plant in operation, capable of turning out two tons per day.

There is a small evaporating plant at Auburn, and W. K. Merwin for St. Michaels and Dawson City. It is probable that others will enter the field as the growth of the business demands.

A GOOD ILLUSTRATION.
How Fast the Clondyke News Traveled—Some Mistaken Notions.

As a good illustration of the rapidity with which the news from the Clondyke traveled the United States, and yet at the same time as an example of the mistaken notions which people at a distance are apt to get of the "lay of the land" in Alaska and the adjacent country, there is an article in the Memphis Commercial-appeal of last Saturday, the main part of which is taken up with telling about a party organizing in that city to go to the Clondyke under the direction of C. E. Lynn and O. C. Norrest.

Mr. Lynn is the promoter of the affair, and was for a time a citizen of Memphis, and was in the employ of Brooks, Neely & Co. He says he has spent a number of years in the Western country, and is thoroughly familiar with the gold fields of the western portion of the United States. He was also for a time connected with a steamship company that plied between San Francisco and Alaska, and while he has not been in the actual Alaska gold fields, he is as familiar as one could be with the country from hearing of them through friends that mined there.

The Commercial-appeal says: "The party has not decided upon the route that it will take, and it will not do so until the parties have been completely organized. The two ways part at Seattle, where the party will ship for the proposed land route. One route lies by way of St. Michaels and thence up the tortuous Yukon river, and the other to Sitka, thence across the mountains with the Yukon river nearly to St. Michaels. All of the recent excitement that has come from the men that are supposed to have found large placer fields in the Clondyke country, that is near St. Michaels and Norton, have reached that country would be the best way to reach that country, and it is safe to state that if Messrs. Lynn and Norrest have their way, the other route will be selected in speaking of the matter last night, Mr. Lynn said:

"The great sums of money that have been brought down from that country in the past few days have been from the working of the sand in the Yukon river, and the Clondyke country, but if the gold exists in the quartz state above there, it is not in the upper country, and they have told me that it was there. Hence it is that we will probably go by the Sitka route and get into the head fountain of the entire gold field before the others that are going to that country have time to do so. That will give us the first whack at what there is worth having there."

"The climate of the coast of Alaska is mild, temperate and very rainy. The effect of the Japan stream that comes warm from the tropics. But it is only a few miles in the interior until the mountains are reached, and by the time that the wind from the sea has crossed them all the moisture and all the heat of the best is gone, and the mercury goes down to near freezing point. The Yukon river flows for some 500 miles in a wavy, remarkably short time. Harry Close, Clarence Thimner, Charles A. Lee and James Brown, members of the Union Circle Club, have also emigrated to the gold fields.

PROSPECTORS MUST PAY.
Dominion Customs Regulations Enforced Against Them.
G. A. Kirk, president of the British Columbia board of trade, has written a letter to the Post-Intelligencer in regard to the levying of duties on prospectors' outfits by the Dominion government. He says:

In order that prospectors may not be disappointed, I deem it necessary to ask you to inform them that the Dominion customs regulations apply throughout Canada, and that no exception will be made in the case of prospectors entering the Northwest Territory.
Dominion customs officers will be stationed at Dyea to advise prospectors of the duties to be levied. Other officers will be stationed at Tagish, where the proper duties will be collected. These officers left for the north on the steamship Islander."

Prospectors' Catechism.
A practical mining engineer publishes in one of the Ottawa papers a catechism, which, he says, every would-be gold hunter should ask himself before he starts:
Have I a capital of at least $500? Am I subject to any organic or chronic disease, especially rheumatism? Am I physically sound in every way and able to walk thirty miles a day with a fifty-pound pack on my back? Am I willing to put up with the rough fare, sleep anywhere and anywhere? Do my own cooking and washing; mend my own clothes? Can I leave Ottawa perfectly free, leaving no one dependent on me in any manner for support? Can I do without the usual comforts and luxuries of life? Can I work like a galley slave for months if need be, on poor fare, and sometimes not enough of that, still keep up a cheerful and brave spirit? Can I do without the usual tools and not subject to lazy fits? Can I swim and handle boats and canoes; put up with extremes of heat and cold, and the usual discomforts of a wilderness swarms of mosquitoes, gnats and sandflies?

The Exodus From Mount Vernon.
Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. MOUNT VERNON, July 29.—In addition to the twenty odd people who have already left Mount Vernon for the Clondyke, the following will leave here between now and August 2: C. S. Moody, Dr. J. N. Harris, T. M. Gares, J. M. McCree, W. S. Riblett, Ole Dickson, John Matson, John Luck, John Beidcott, Arthur Eversett, William Moss, John Moley, Eugene Taylor, John Lloyd, F. J. Slack, William Knox and F. A. Gardner. Several more have the trip under serious consideration and are expected to leave in a month, while a large number are making preparations to leave in the spring. Skagit county has never known such an exodus, it being estimated that not less than sixty people will leave the county, this fall for the Yukon basin.

To Send Them Through With Outlets.
Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, July 29.—A company of well-known Tacoma business men was incorporated today to transport people from any part of the country to the gold fields of Alaska. W. D. Hamilton is president; George McCabe, vice president, and Harry Foster, treasurer and manager. The company will establish agencies in all of the States, and will issue tickets to the people who intend making the trip, which tickets will entitle them to an outfit in this city and passage from their homes to the coast. A man has already been sent to Alaska with horses to be used as a pack train from Dyea over the pass. The company expects to do a big business before winter sets in.

From Portland for the Clondyke.
PORTLAND, Or., July 29.—The steamer State of California arrived here today with a big list of prospectors, many of whom will take passage on the steamer Eldor, which sails from this port tomorrow night for Alaska. The Southern Pacific has a number of passengers who are bound for the Clondyke and who will sail on the Eldor.

Some of Those Going.
There is little doubt that the number of persons outfitting here to go to the Clondyke this season. Among them are: Dr. J. W. Reed, Chris Keenan, H. D. Holt, of St. Joseph, Mo.; I. N. Davidson and W. H. Hughes, of this city.

First to Go From Stanwood.
Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. STANWOOD, July 29.—William Yates, William Connors and Ole Nealon left for Clondyke today via Seattle. They are the first to go, but according to indications not the last.

From the Kootenays.
The Kootenay country is contributing its share to the Clondyke rush. J. M. Yates, George Le Duke and W. S. Riblett have already gone from Sandon by way of this city.

Milestones on the Road to Health.
The recovery of health, and the resumption of activity by the liver, bowels and progress on the road to health, they speedily become perceptible when Hostetter's Kidney and Bladder Pills are used. Nothing surely and expeditiously consumes the distance to the desired goal, without impairing the general health of the system, so the system can never acquire strength. They will have to take for instance, digestion, a suspension of which is invariably the result of a long and arduous journey, and a hundred other symptoms supervene, and a indicate unmistakably the beneficial general influence of dyspepsia. The symptoms of all these symptoms, through the use of Hostetter's, show with what thoroughness it removes their cause.

Pack Horses for Dyea.
Persons taking passage on the steamer Williamette, sailing for Dyea and Sitka on August 2, can procure a limited number of well broken pack horses with passage reservation on that steamer, by applying to Alenworth & Dunn, wharf foot of Pike street.

For Skagway, Dyea and Dyea.
Steamer George E. Starr leaves August 21. Room for one hundred horses. Inquire Arlington dock.
