WHEAT STILL CLIMBS.

Exultant Bulls Toss the Price Up to a Dollar.

GROWL OF BEARS DROWNED.

With Roars and Shouts the Promised Goal is Reached in Chicago, the Price Leaping as Every Lot Offered is Hungry Gobbled-Undaunted, the Boomers Start to Make It $1.25 Before Long-Europe Readily Responds, and Local Markets Follow Closely - The Farmers Holding Out for More, Though Big Sales Are Made in Eastern Washington.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.-Dollar wheat was reached in Chicago today. The September option reached that figure a few minutes before the close and wound up an excited day's session at 99c, an advance of 6c since yesterday. December closed at an equal gain. For the first time since the recent phenomenal advance began the bull clique led a large block of their holdings, and a measure relieved the strain. The excitement in wheat was shared in all other markets, trading in corn especially being tremendous. Corn closed at a 2c advance, and oats wound up the higher.

MIGHT SEIZE CRETE.

England's Probable Action Worries the Powers.

SHE'S AN ELEMENT OF DISCORD

Insists on Evacuation of Thessaly Without Indemnity and the Concert Objects-The Crisis on the Indian Frontier-New Discoveries May Revolutionize Telegraphy-Gloomy Outlook for Cuba.

LONDON, Aug. 21.-The Marquis of Salisbury's definite commitment of Great Britain to the policy of insisting upon the evacuation of Thessaly by the Turkish troops, whether the Great indemnity is paid or unpaid, is universally approved by the British press, and is equally commended by the continental newspapers. It is difficult to foresee the outcome. The British premier proposed that Greece should pay a small sum annually, representing the interest on the indemnity, and an installment of the total amount, as in the case of the Russo-Turkish indemnity, but there seems to be little chance of the powers accepting the propositions. The great gripe of the Marquis of Salisbury on the powers is found in the latter's intense desire to get peace settled, and the Turkish army disbanded, as understood last spring, with the withdrawal of the peace of Europe will be continually menaced. It is suggested that Great Britain may abandon the concert of the great powers of the present moment in the character of Europe, as the rooted belief that Great Britain is anxious to seize the island of Crete, consequently, were Great Britain to desert the concert of the powers at the present moment, her action would produce a general scramble among the powers, followed by a free fight or a menacing anti-British combination. However, it is still hoped that Greece will manage to untie the knot, by finding a sum sufficient to induce the Turkish government to order the withdrawal of its troops to the frontiers designated in the draft of the treaty of peace.

GOLD COMES OVERLAND.

Thorp Party Reaches Seattle by the George E. Starr.

THEY BRING OUT NEARLY $20,000

Large Prospective Fortunes Left Behind in the Klondike-Thousands of Dollars Taken Out in a Few Days-The Thorp Brothers, Stewart, Wintenhollen and Bound Fell in Luckily-Fractional Claim Adjoining Berry's-The Biggest Pan of Gold Yet Mined-A Rush to Civilization for Supplies-Discoveries of Rich Placers on Stewart River.

Ten Thousand Dollars a month was the earnings of each of four men who obtained a lay of thirty days on claim No. 30 above discovery, on Eldorado creek. The claim is owned by "Big Alex" McDonald and "Nigger Jim." The latter is a colored man, but his true appellation is unknown to either Thorp or Stewart. Charles Myers was one of the lucky four that secured a share from McDonald. They sunk a hole to bedrock, where they found the glittering nuggets nesting against each other as thick as peas in a pod. The first pan made the record for the Klondike-$800. In thirty days the men, working nearly night and day, took out $80,000. They divided this with the owners of the claim, and then each man had a sack of gold equal to a year's salary of a justice of the United States supreme court. On the steamer Geo. E. Starr, arriving here yesterday morning at 10:15 o'clock, came three Klondikers carrying 90 pounds of virgin gold, aggregating in value about $18,000. The returning miners are: Edwin Alvan Thorp, of Seattle; George Stewart, of Tacoma, and Joe Wintenhollen, of Juneau. They left Dawson City, Northwest Territory, on the evening of July 4, three weeks after Clarence Berry and sixty-two others from the Klondike went down the river Yukon to board the North American Transportation and Trading Company's steamer Portland at St. Michaels. Thorp and his party came out from the interior by the Yukon river to the Pelly, and thence overland by the old Jack Dalton trail to the Chilkat river. They reached Udenwater August 13. The party was guided out of the country by an Indian named Schwatka, who was employed by Lieut. Frederick Schwatka to guide him through the interior of Alaska in 1858. The party carried the gold out on their backs with their provisions. This is the first of the Klondike gold to reach Seattle by the overland route. Five Claims Soaked With Gold. Edwin Thorp, his brother William, or "Murphy" Thorp, George Stewart and George Bound, cousin of the Thorps, own a half interest in a claim adjoining the claim of Clarence Berry, on Eldorado creek. Berry's claim is one of the richest in the district and is said to contain from $50,000 to $2,000,000 in gold. A paystreak, 100 feet wide, runs through the claim in which the Thorps and their associates own one-half.

King of the Skagway. Prince makes the heart beat faster. Struck a snag. Sin Wilson dispenses patronage. The market's greedy pole. A gentle reminder.

of September amid much excitement. This price was held only for an instant, however, plenty of wheat coming on the market about this time and at the close September was bringing 99c, while 98c was bid for December. Business in the corn pit was on an immense scale, with the market changing hands during the session. The pit was crowded all day and price fluctuations were rapid and violent. Shorts wrote a mad rush to cover the September wheat offered at 96c, May at the same time bringing $1. The continental markets were about as excited as the English markets, and this fact had much to do with the price from 95c. The Paris advance was 4 1/2c per bushel, and Antwerp 6 1/2c per bushel. Dollar Mark Reached. About ten minutes before the close the dollar was bid and accepted for a block thing, and next time the campaign will be directed less to the gold standard than to the standard of public life. In Washington Wheat Belt. Special Despatch to the Post-Intelligencer. SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 21.-The wheat market on the Palouse and Big Bend countries today the farmers gathered at the nearest wheat market and discussed the phenomenal condition of the market. In most places sales were light, farmers holding out for higher prices than the dealers offered. At Walla Walla large sales were made. That city was filled with excited farmers all day. Early small lots of club and bluestem sold at 70c and 75c, respectively. Later, when reports came from the coast and Chicago markets, dealers were forced to offer higher prices, until they reached 75c for club and 80c for bluestem. Sales were made of about 20,000 bushels at these prices. A sale of $3,000 bushels of bluestem was made during the day for 80c, later a half million bushels at this point. Throughout the Palouse country about 6,000 bushels were sold at 70c. At Moscow, Idaho, 2,000 bushels sold for 80c, at Burley, 80c, at Pocatello, 80c, at Reardan, club is quoted at 70c, bluestem, 75c; at Lavenport, 80c and 85c; at Creston, 80c and 85c; at Wilbur, 80c and 85c; at Altura, 70c and 75c; at Oakes City, 80c and 85c. Rapid Rise in Walla Walla. Special Despatch to the Post-Intelligencer. WALLA WALLA, Aug. 21.-The excitement in the wheat market today was the greatest ever known in Walla Walla country. When the market opened this morning a few small lots of bluestem were sold for 80c, but the wheat market today was the greatest ever known in Walla Walla country. Many were eager to dispose of their grain, some were undecided, while others were inclined to hold out for 80c. About 20,000 bushels of bluestem sold for 80c, while one lot of 30,000 brought 85c, and still another small lot brought 80c. The dealers quoted 75c for club and 80c for bluestem.
