

REGENTS AT PULLMAN

GOV. ROGERS FILLS THE VACANCIES IN THE BOARD.

Board of Audit and Control Find a Way to Use the Revolving Fund Even Without an Appropriation—Artillery Board Examining Sites.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. OLYMPIA, Oct. 9.—The governor today appointed the following named gentlemen to serve as regents for the state agricultural colleges at Pullman for the term ending March 9, 1899, viz: J. L. Powell, resigned.

R. C. McCroskey, of Garfield, for the term ending March 9, 1899, vice H. S. Bradford, resigned.

George M. Witt, of Harrington, for the term ending March 9, 1899, vice W. V. Windus, resigned.

Canfield and Witt are Populists; McCroskey is a Democrat.

HISTORIC BUILDING DESTROYED.

The Last House in the Once Thriving City of Pinkneyville Burned.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. COLVILLE, Oct. 9.—The last house in the once thriving city of Pinkneyville, the business annex to Fort Colville, established fifty years ago, was burned to the ground at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

It was occupied as a residence by Adam Arnold, who was shot by the late Colville fire. His wife and children were unable to save anything from the flames save a trunk, a sewing machine and a few minor articles.

Fort Colville was abandoned in 1883, and the garrison buildings gradually diminished until there is nothing at the fort excepting the stump of what was once the flagstaff, to evidence the fact that the real live post of Uncle Sam's defenders, in full uniform, ever existed there.

Just half a mile away on the west or north side of Mill creek was the town where business houses existed for a time, along a distance of a quarter of a mile. The United States courts were held at this point, and all the county officers were accustomed to hold their offices here.

PUYALLUP HOP MARKET.

Few Sold, as Growers Hold at Higher Figures Than Dealers Will Pay.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. PUYALLUP, Oct. 9.—At no time has the hop market been so quiet, no sales at all. Some buyers are offering 12, 13 and 13 cents per pound. The growers held for 12 cents when they could get only 11, and for 11 when they could get only 12, always being a cent higher than the market.

THE JUTE MILL WILL RUN.

Arrangements to Overcome the Difficulties Found by Mr. Young.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. OLYMPIA, Oct. 9.—The arrangements are now complete whereby the jute mill at the penitentiary will continue in operation. Inasmuch as no appropriation was made by the legislature for the revolving fund, State Treasurer Young considered himself justified in demanding that the funds now at the penitentiary, arising from the sale of the jute, be paid into the treasury, in which event it must remain until the next legislative meets, and thus the jute plant would be closed.

CLOSE OF MINING CONVENTION.

Best Time to Go to Alaska—Smelters' Methods With Lead Condemned.

SPOKANE, Oct. 9.—This was the closing day of the annual convention of the Northwest Mining Association. L. D. Godshall, superintendent of the Everett smelter, spoke of the advances made in methods of smelting.

THE ST. LAWRENCE IV.

Sealing Schooner With a Light Catch Bound for Seattle.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. PORT TOWNSEND, Oct. 9.—The sealing schooner St. Lawrence, Capt. Calder, arrived here yesterday afternoon from Bering sea, with 188 skins on board. She made the trip from Unalaska to the cape in eleven days, but has been a week making her way up the straits.

THE SUPREME COURT DOCKET.

Of the Cases More Than One-Third Are From KING COUNTY.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. OLYMPIA, Oct. 9.—The supreme court docket for the October session has just been issued. There are 123 cases in all and the term for hearing commences October 11 and continues until November 18. The cases are distributed among the counties as follows: Spokane, 21 cases; Whitman, 21 cases; Walla Walla, 11 cases; Kootenai, 11 cases; Lincoln, 11 cases; Jefferson, 11 cases; Snohomish, 11 cases; Whatcom, 11 cases.
