GEORGE WANTS ANYBODY'S VOTE.

He Explains the Combination of Tickets.

The Bryan Democracy's Leader Says He Is the Candidate for Whoever May Choose to Vote for Him, and Will Not Ask Men to Vote for Any One Else—He Is Sure of Beating All Except Low—Drayton Goes on the George Ticket—Bliss Sends Cheering Words to Tracy—A Test Betters George's Confidence.

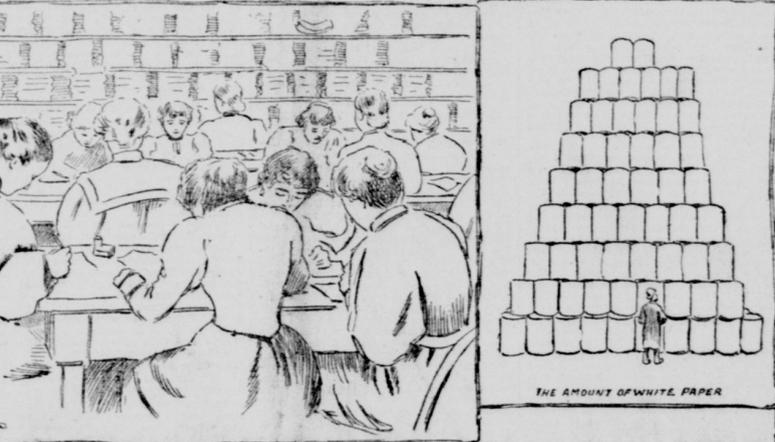

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Henry George, candidate of the Jeffersonian Democracy for mayor, tonight gave out the following letter concerning the recent combination with the Citizens' Union:

"On Tuesday, October 5, in the Cooper Union, I accepted the nomination tendered me—that of the people there assembled, upon the platform and resolutions there adopted; that of the United Democracy; that of the Democratic Alliance; that of the Manhattan Single Tax Club, and that of the People's party.

"In accepting these nominations, it was my intention to do so for myself alone, and not to leave every question of who should run with me for other offices to be settled by the organizations themselves, trusting that this might be accomplished either by a union upon such offices, or by my running for mayor upon the tickets of all, leaving subordinate offices to be filled in by each. As the only way of satisfactorily settling these details in the short time allowed by the necessity of action under the law, I submitted the question of how I should run to a committee appointed by the chairman of that meeting, composed of men for whose probity, prudence and character I could personally vouch. After careful examination the committee has recommended to me that there be printed on the ticket to be given official currency under the emblem of the rooster such names for city offices as may be selected; that there should also be printed the names selected by the Citizens' Union for candidates in the county of New York; by the Democratic organizations for the county of Kings and Queens; and by the Democracy of Thomas Jefferson for the county of Richmond.

"The judgment of this committee, unananimously expressed, comments itself to me and has my entire and unqualified approval. I am the candidate for whoever may choose to vote for me and do not presume to ask him to vote for any one else. But since we have not the pure Australian ballot, it is necessary that I should take the most reasonable means of presenting facilities to the voters for their suffrage. I do this in the manner recommended to me by the committee, who have examined the question in all its bearings, and to put all the associations and organizations favorable to me upon an equality, leaving to the voter the responsibility of electing whom he choose for himself. I have at the same time withdrawn my acceptance of the nomination of the United Democracy, the only organization supporting me that has made a separate ticket. This I carry out in its spirit and meaning the voters made at the people's mass meeting at Cooper Union on October 5."

In an interview Henry George said: "That I can defeat both Van Wyck and Tracy, I do not feel the slightest doubt. In my opinion, the issue is solely between Mr. Low and myself."

Drayton on George's Ticket.
Ex-Postmaster Charles W. Drayton has tonight informed the chairman of the George campaign committee that he would accept the nomination for commissioner of the George ticket in the place of Col. Waring, who has declined.

Bliss Is for Tracy.
A letter addressed to Gen. Tracy from Secretary Cornelius N. Bliss in Washington bearing on the present campaign, was made public today. In the letter Secretary Bliss says: "I am most heartily in accord with those who are working for your election to the mayoralty of Greater New York. When the Republican party is menaced by some of those who have heretofore stood in the front ranks, it is a warning to every voter who is loyal to the principles of his party should let it be known in no uncertain way where he stands."

A Test Convass.
The Evening Telegram has made a careful canvass of fifty-two representative districts in twenty-five of the thirty-five assembly districts in the territory which constitutes the present city of New York. Of 2,336 voters, 1,136 declared for Van Wyck for mayor. Such Low was the choice of 29,000, Tracy of 511 and Henry George of 861. This same district last year gave the Republican candidate for governor a plurality of 1,149. In the Telegram's canvass about one-third of all the voters were polled.

A MEMORIAL TO WHITMAN.

Board of Foreign Missions Proposes to Honor the Pioneer Missionary of the Northwest.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 12.—At the session of the American Board of Foreign Missions today, the following resolution was adopted on motion of Rev. Dr. Palmer of New Haven:

"Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to report at this meeting concerning the observance of the approaching fiftieth anniversary, November 29, of the massacre of Marcus Whitman, M. D., recommending such methods as seem appropriate thereto in recognition of his relation to this board and its services in its behalf, and that of our country; also to report concerning the propriety of permanent memorials to Dr. and Mrs. Whitman and their associate missionaries of this board."

Rev. S. C. Bartlett, D. D., ex-president of Dartmouth college, for the nominating committee, presented the following as a committee to nominate officials, exclusive of the presidency and vice presidency of the board: Associate Justice D. J. Brewer, U. S. D. of Washington; Rev. J. M. Bourne, D. D. of Brooklyn; Rev. Michael Burnham, D. D. of St. Louis; Rev. G. P. Fisher, D. D. of New Haven; D. Willis James, New York; Rev. Arthur Little, D. D. of Dorchester, Mass.; Judge Nathaniel Shipman, Hartford; Rev. J. G. Voss, Providence, R. I.; and G. H. Whitcomb, Worcester.

Just before the morning session closed it was made known that Associate Justice Brewer and Hon. Samuel B. Catton, of Boston, both of whom have been prominently named in connection with the presidency of the board, have declined to have their names considered.

Post-Intelligencer's Klondike Edition Issued.

SENT OUT IN CAR LOADS.

The City to Be Advertised as It Never Has Been Before.

Two Hundred and Twelve Thousand Copies Not Enough to Supply the Demand—Eight Pages Devoted to Accurate Information Concerning the Great Gold Country of the North, What is Needed for the Trip, Where it Should Be Bought, and the Routes to Be Taken—Each Branch of the Subject Covered.

The Post-Intelligencer yesterday issued a great special Klondike edition, aggregating 212,000 copies. It was the largest ever issued west of Chicago, and it was in all respects a noteworthy achievement. Its success was made possible not only have appeared from the presses of the newspapers of San Francisco.

A Few Figures.
In this edition one and a quarter car loads of paper were used, amounting in weight to 29,800 pounds, and in bulk to sixty rolls of first quality "news" paper. This unprecedented amount of paper entered into the issuing of an edition of 212,000 of the Post-Intelligencer special Klondike number, of which over 100,000 were contracted for before the paper went to press.

More than 100,000 have been distributed gratuitously. This is the Post-Intelligencer's contribution to the advertising of the city, independent of previous pledges. Seventy-two thousand have been sent to the postmasters of the cities, towns and villages of the United States, with the request that the contents be given as wide publicity as possible.

Twenty thousand have been sent to the newspapers of the country, including, besides the exchange list of the Post-Intelligencer, the less important of the papers of rural districts throughout the land, where the effect of the information will cause eyes and thoughts to turn toward the state, and Seattle, its metropolis.

Ten thousand copies have been sent gratuitously to as many public libraries and the mayors of cities and towns, presidents of village councils, and leading men in communities, and to all and separately the special Klondike edition of the Post-Intelligencer goes, carrying its message to the East, the North and South, answering every question that has been asked concerning the gold fields and the way to reach them.

What It Looks Like.
Each copy of the special edition contains eight pages and eight columns to the page, sixty-four columns in all; 24 inches of solid reading matter, by columns, to every Yukon Basin to Become Lincoln Territory.

PLANS OF ALASKA PIONEERS.

Congress Will Be Asked to Make the Main Part of Alaska Into a Territory—Eli Gage for First Governor—The Portland Secures Coal and Will Be the Last Treasure-Ship Down—The Anderson Expedition Starts Up the Yukon—Mayor Wood Cannot Possibly Return.

From the Special Correspondent of the Post-Intelligencer.

UNALASKA, Sept. 29 (per revenue cutter Corwin, at San Francisco, Oct. 12).—Lincoln territory, in all probability before the adjournment of another congress, will have been carved from the vast domain of Alaska. For many months past there have been whisperings of such action, and the movement has gone so far that petitions have been prepared for circulation in this northern country asking congress to create the territory. Briefly outlined, the proposed territory will embrace the Yukon basin from the international boundary line on the east to the sea coast on the west. The northern boundary will be the Arctic ocean, and the southern an irregular line from Mount St. Elias to a point, I understand, about midway between the mouth of the Yukon and the mouth of the Kuskokwim.

The subject of creating the territory, I am informed, was thoroughly canvassed during a recent visit to New York by P. B. Weare, and after he had conferred with many public men, including Lyman J. Gage and Senator Carter, the decision was reached to prepare a bill for congress.

The immediate object of the proposed action is to secure government for the immense territory known as the Yukon basin. The unprecedented rush to the placers, which well informed men say will grow next year into the greatest stampede of modern times, makes such action imperative.

What Will Be Left of Alaska.

In case the bill for the establishment of the new territory is passed, Alaska proper will be cut down to a comparatively thin slice of country, including the present coast line to the northward from Vancouver Island and following the ocean, with its innumerable islands, inlets and estuaries, to a point well to the north of the Aleutian islands. In this curtailed territory will be the towns of Wrangell, Sitka, Juneau, Dyea and Skagway; the Chilkoot, Chilkat and other passes on the overland route to the Klondike; Prince William sound, the Kenai peninsula, and the Cook Inlet and Copper river country; the settlement of St. Paul, on Kodiak island; Unimak, Unalaska, Dutch Harbor and other points on the Alaska peninsula, and the Aleutian islands.

The territory of Lincoln, as nearly as I can determine from the data on hand, will form a vast quadrilateral extending over four degrees of latitude and thirteen degrees of longitude. In the southeastern corner will be Mount St. Elias, from which point the eastern boundary will run directly to the Arctic. The southern boundary probably will follow the sixty-second parallel westward beyond the Shushitna, and will cross the Kuskokwim at a point about thirty miles northeast of the confluence of that river and the Tutina. Thence the line will run about two degrees westward to the top of the divide between the Kuskokwim and the Yukon, and probably will follow the divide to the coast in the neighborhood of Nelson island.

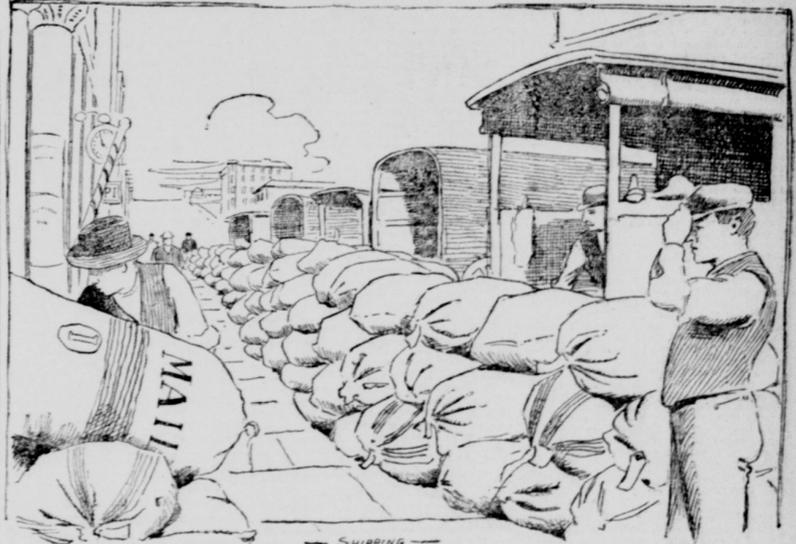

Scattered along the Yukon are the settlements of St. Michael, Holy Cross, Miss, Anvik, Weare, Munook, Fort Yukon and Circle City, having an aggregate white population of at least 2,000. Thousands of miners will enter American territory from Dawson next year, and the population, counting in 10,000 natives, may reach 30,000 before the end of summer.

In the center of the proposed territory is Weare, at the mouth of the Tanana, and this spot, I am told, will be made the capital of Lincoln.

Who will be the first governor of the territory of Lincoln?

There is no more conspicuous possibility than Eli A. Gage, auditor of the North American Transportation & Trading Company. He has friends in high places, and it is thought that the influence of the secretary of the treasury may secure the appointment. There is an unsubstantiated report that Mr. Gage has had trouble with the miners at Dawson. Whether his differences with the miners will affect his political future in Alaska cannot be foretold.

Arrival of Coal Allows the Portland to Return With the Last Shipment of Gold This Season.

From the Special Correspondent of the Post-Intelligencer.

DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska, Sept. 30 (per revenue cutter Corwin, at San Francisco, Oct. 12).—Unexpectedly, the coal famine at this port is at an end, and the Portland will yet be the treasure ship to make the last voyage of the year from St. Michael. Last Thursday afternoon the steamer Bristol, Capt. McIntyre, after a stormy passage
