

THE LOCKWOOD STEAL

REPORT ON PACIFIC COUNTY TREASURY.

A Hoarding of Over $4,000—Fierce Shooting Affray on Spokane Streets—An Actress' Narrow Escape—Supreme Court Decisions.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 30.—Expert C. P. Dam filed his report last night on the investigation in the county treasurer's office. He found ex-treasurer Lockwood hoarding $4,000, which about $3,500 was previously known. He found the accounts of ex-treasurer F. A. Hazeltine carefully and correctly kept and commends the work of the present incumbent, S. H. Echner.

Detecting bank dividends and payments made from accounts turned over to Lockwood, the total shortage, including balance of county funds tied up in the bank, is $15,000. Most of this will be lost to the county as the bonds given for Lockwood were released from all liabilities other than the bank shortage, provided they guaranteed that 70 per cent. of the $11,500 of county funds tied up in the suspended bank would be paid.

The following are Mr. Dam's conclusions: "My examination extended over four weeks of county treasurers, and I have ascertained the results of my examination as per appended report, to correspond with the same. Period covers the time as officer of S. F. Lockwood, and extends from January 1, 1897, to January 1, 1898. I find the net deficiency of taxes collected by said treasurer and not accounted for by him to the county to amount to $11,500. Period covers the second term of office of S. F. Lockwood, and extends from January 1, 1896, to May 3, 1896. I find an additional deficiency of taxes collected by said treasurer during this term, amounting to $1,500, making a total of $13,000. See summary of periods covered in my appended report.

During these two terms the general accounts books of county treasurers, and I find the net deficiency of taxes collected by said treasurer and not accounted for by him to the county to amount to $11,500. Period covers the second term of office of S. F. Lockwood, and extends from January 1, 1896, to May 3, 1896. I find an additional deficiency of taxes collected by said treasurer during this term, amounting to $1,500, making a total of $13,000. See summary of periods covered in my appended report.

I have examined the books and accounts as kept by S. H. Echner, the present incumbent of the treasurer's office, from January 1 to October 1 of this year, and can highly commend the careful manner in which they have been kept. I find them correct in every particular and find all money correctly accounted for.

The grand jury has recommended that in all the offices be expeditious, but the county commissioners have decided that it would be a needless expense. The investigation of the treasurer's office cost $100.

FUSILLADE AT A THEATER.
Lambert Bull Fatally Shot in an Attempt to Stay Barnett, Whose Heroic Wife Saved Him.

EPOKANE, Oct. 30.—As the result of a sensational shooting affray in front of the Grand Opera house at 4 o'clock this morning, Johnnie Bull, an old time gambler, was shot three times, probably fatally. "Glady" (H. S.) Barnett, manager of the theater, had a finger shot off and his wife, better known by the stage name of the "Clayton," received a bullet through the shoulder. The latter's wound is not considered dangerous.

The shooting is said to have been the result of a deliberate attempt on the part of Bull to assassinate Barnett, because he later, in a row two hours previous, had hit Bull a blow on the head with a size. That he would have been successful, all eye witnesses concur, had it not been for the heroic act of Mrs. Barnett, who, to shield her husband from harm, threw herself in front of him, in doing which she received the first bullet in her shoulder. Barnett had pushed his wife to the side and was reaching for his own weapon. Eight shots were fired, two by Bull and six by Barnett, who emptied his gun. In such rapid succession did the reports ring out that it was impossible to count them.

With his smoking revolver, Barnett retreated with his wife into the theater, out of range of the middle of the walk, where he stood in the middle of the walk, while the latter stood in the middle of the walk, when an officer came up and took him into custody. One of the bullets from Barnett's revolver struck him in the chin and lodged near a vital spot in the back of the neck. A second and bullet struck the right forearm and lodged near the bone. A third bullet entered the groin at the right without coming out.
