fairly comfortable citizens; while vice and crime, hungry and grasping, are always keenly on the alert, banded together by a common cause, standing against the common but sleepy enemy.

Maryland is a beautiful state, Baltimore an elegant city. The people are generally of a superior character—not so energetic or so keenly commercial as those of some other cities, but intelligent and above the average in culture.

Leaders there must be, organization is essential to success. But there is a wide distinction between a leader and a boss; between one who voices the sentiments of the people and champions their rights, and one who sets their rights at defiance and robs them through the machinery of office.

MR. LAMB IS SILENT. Two distinct questions are to be settled by the qualified voters today.

They are (1) the filling of the impending vacancy in the board of school directors; and (2) the adoption or rejection of free text books.

Mr. Lamb has declared himself unqualifiedly in favor of the proposition, and Mr. Bowden has not made public his personal attitude. He is under no obligation to make his views known.

Further to emphasize his position, Mr. Bowden some days since stated in the Post-Intelligencer that the decision of the voters he would regard as final. This declaration was superfluous.

The Post-Intelligencer has no information as to whether Mr. Bowden favors the retention of Superintendent Barnard. The question as to whether the superintendent has or has not been unduly active in Mr. Bowden's behalf does not materially affect the merits of his candidacy.

MR. LAMB AND THE CIRCULAR. Mr. Lamb's letter is a complete endorsement of the Titus circular and all it contains. He repeats and reaffirms its charges, and stands ready to stand or fall by its vicious, extravagant and unwarranted statement and impudent and immature misrepresentations.

MR. LAMB ANNOUNCES THAT HE HAS satisfied himself of the truth of the charges in the circular. But he takes great pains to make no attempt to satisfy the public.

who is friendly to Tacoma, and who manifests his regard in a proper way. But they take very emphatic exceptions to Mr. Perkins' conception of the meaning of loyalty and to his method of displaying it.

If the Populists and Democrats find evidence in Tuesday's elections that the Republican party is losing strength and prestige, they are storing up trouble for themselves.

A specious attempt is being made to have it appear that the fate of free text books is involved in Mr. Lamb's election. The school directorship is an absolutely independent matter.

It has been urged against Mr. Bowden's election that he has the support of Supt. Barnard, and practically every teacher in the Seattle schools.

The first of the promised swarm of invaders in the Klondike district have begun to arrive from England and they are deterring others who follow them.

THE PASSING THROUG.

S. H. Saleno, of San Francisco, the organizer of the Bowers-Bullitt-Yukon Gold Dredging Company, which is to use the Bowers dredging patents in recovering gold along the Yukon river, after a plan already approved by the Post-Intelligencer, has returned from the East where he and Hon. Eugene Semple have successfully financed the enterprise.

Mr. Saleno will leave this morning for San Francisco, but will return shortly to make the plans and construct two dredgers specially designed to handle auriferous gravel.
