The MacDougall & Southwick Co. Sole Agents for Seattle.

PASSING THROUGH.

"I had a preconceived idea of this city and was perfectly surprised at it. It occupies a position which will make it one of the greatest cities in the country. The people are getting restless in San Francisco, for Seattle is growing so important that she is dividing the honors."

This expresses the first impressions of Mr. Henry C. Keller, who has recently moved from Leavenworth, Kansas, to San Francisco, where he succeeded D. A. Stevens, formerly of Seattle, as general agent for the Pacific coast of the Westchester Fire Insurance Company.

He is now at the Butler in the course of a tour of his territory, and yesterday fell in with Col. A. N. Hamilton, who was an old friend of Leavenworth, but whom he had not met for 25 years.

The subject of conversation naturally changed to Kansas, and Mr. Keller said: "Such people as Mrs. Lease, who is the enemy petrel of western politics, succeeded as in electing a full routine of Populist state officers once. At the next election the Republicans beat them and we thought the Populists were buried deep, but last fall, by a combination with the Democrats and Silver Republicans under Bryan's free silver banner, they got in the middle again. Hot Populism is the only thing that is the matter with Kansas. The predictions this year will be over $300,000,000 and we have paid off $50,000,000 of mortgages. The banks have become so glib with money that a number of them have gone to Bank Examiner Bradshaw asking if they could refuse deposits. The high price for all cereals surprised the farmers. The first thing they did was to pay off their mortgages and they will probably use the surplus in buying stock and improving and enlarging their farms."

"Will they keep out of debt?" asked Col. Hamilton.

"Will they?" answered Mr. Keller. "The average farmer will get up at midnight to sign a note for something." Then he continued: "Kansas City, under the stimulus of the great crop, is growing and thriving and nearly every town in Kansas is prosperous."

Although it would hardly be fair to say that they came West on the crest of the Klondike wave, Gen. and Mrs. John H. Lewis, of Washington City, are now temporary if not permanent residents of Washington state, and of the city of Seattle primarily because they are interested in the gold discoveries in the far north.

Harold B. Lewis, a promising young man, is preparing to go to the Klondike, as are also Gen. Lewis' nephews, Edwin L. Lewis and W. C. Bolton.

The Lewis are living in the Thomas home in West Seattle, and are greatly delighted with this city. Gen. Lewis was colonel in command of the Fifth Vermont regiment at the battle of the Wilderness in May, 1864.

A rebel bullet took off his left arm, and the colonel laid off for a while till his arm, which was left in a box, was sent to him by order of the other duty in the service of his country, and later saw the grand review of the Union army at Washington.

He was afterwards that south on duty as an army officer, and relieved Gen. Fisk at Nashville. Gen. Lewis lived nearly thirty years in the South, but now calls Washington City his home. He is on the retired list.

Mrs. Lewis is one of the vice presidents of the National Congress of Mothers, the vice president being the wife of ex-Vice President Stevenson and Mrs. Hearst, widow of the late senator from California. She is greatly interested in the work.

Harold Lewis and party expect to go over Chilkoat pass to the Klondike early in February. Messrs. Watson and Koons, of West Seattle, will be members of the Lewis party.

As one of the advance guard of some 50 miners and mining men from Cripple Creek, Colorado, bound for the Klondike, Mr. C. E. Deason arrived here a few days ago. He will stay in Seattle for the winter and with his wife will go to Dawson in the spring. He says every one who gets away from the north end of the Colorado will pass through and outfit here for the northern gold fields in the spring.

Deason is the owner of claims 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 on the gold belt of Cripple Creek, adjoining the famous Independence mine owned by the great mining magnate, W. E. Stratton. He says many hundreds of thousands of dollars will be invested in the Yukon country by Colorado mining men. Seattle, he says, will be their starting and outfitting point.

Mr. Deason believes Seattle a lucky town. Then he said that if he can carry the luck that he has had here into the Klondike country he will get one of the richest claims in the district. He dropped a nickel in a slot machine and rung up a royal flush, entitling him to $19 for his nickel. "I'll stay with a town that gives me such luck," said he.

Mr. Deason says he has a few big means and expects to outfit thirty men here for the Klondike in the spring.

"Labor is rather scarce, although we can get along all right this year," said W. A. Miller, of St. Paul, labor contractor for the Northern Pacific railroad, who is at the Stevens with his wife and two children.

"But next year you will not find enough to supply the West. We cannot get good white labor, for the men will not stick, so I have put in $40,000 to get the Northern Pacific. A great deal of labor has been drawn off to the harvest fields and to the South, where considerable railroad work is going on. The best men we can get are Italians, Swedes, Finns and Poles. The Swedes will not stick and the best men are the Finns. They are big, husky men and do good work. When they begin drinking they will not quit till the money is gone, but when they start work, they stay at it. Irish labor is played out, except a little in the South."

Personal. George L. Rice, of Juneau, is at the Northern.

Mr. A. D. Warner, of Everett, is visiting friends in the city.

Harvey L. Dickinson, of Whatcom, is an arrival at the Butler.

H. Midluck, of Langley, B. C., is among the arrivals at the Butler.

G. E. Hartson, the newspaper man of Mount Vernon, is at the Diller.

Mark T. Kady, an insurance man from Portland, is at the Rainier-Grand.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Baker, of Fairhaven, are guests at the Stevens.

L. B. Paize, of Yokohama, arrived in the city yesterday and is at the Diller.

Mrs. C. W. Cary and Mrs. C. Carlson, of Edmonds, are in town, registered at the Stevens.

F. G. Eastwick, the engineer, came to town from Admiralty Head yesterday and is at the Stevens.

Mrs. Radcliffe Tilton, of Tacoma, was in town yesterday and registered at the Rainier-Grand.

Charles W. Loomis, the storekeeper for the Seattle Coal & Iron Company at Issaquah, is in town, a guest at the Stevens.

Miss L. M. Williams and Miss M. N. Williams, of New York, are at the Rainier-Grand on their way home from Whatcom.

R. W. Levens and P. F. Hardesty, of Baker City, Or., are at the Northern, having just returned from the Klondike.
