

COLVILLE RESERVE.
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS
ABUSE JURISDICTION.

Statutes Will Be Enforced and the Unlawful Element No Longer Be Unrestrained - Sheriff Denny to Round Up Offenders.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. COLVILLE, Jan. 26.—The county commissioners of Stevens county have concluded to assume jurisdiction over the reservation, which was thrown open for settlement February 20, 1896. In consequence of this assumption of authority, the law will be enforced against the reservation, and all things authorized or allowed by the laws of this state, to be done as fully as though there had never been an Indian reservation in existence. All this has been done upon the board.

YAKIMA SCOTS CELEBRATE.
Second Annual Dinner Given by the Caledonian Society.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. YAKIMA, Jan. 26.—The Caledonian society of Yakima, an organization numbering many members in Yakima county, most of them were present, commencing the celebration of the second anniversary of the coming of the Scotch immigrants to this country, by a banquet at the hotel here, which was held last evening. The banquet hall had been handsomely decorated by the ladies, who also superintended the preparation of the dinner. The evening was a most enjoyable one, and the festivities being interspersed with contributions to a "feast of reason" from many well-known local Scots.

WANTED IN NORTH DAKOTA.
Young Man at Whateom Making a Hard Legal Fight.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. WHATEOM, N. D., Jan. 26.—W. Nelson, of Fessenden, N. D., is making an interesting legal fight here for his liberty. He was arrested on a telegram from the sheriff at that place, charging him with a steady transaction in wheat. His attorneys tried him from the superior court jurisdiction through a writ of habeas corpus, and as seen as he stepped outside the door he was again arrested on a warrant issued by a justice of the peace in the same county. The sheriff from Fessenden is expected here on Friday, and it is the intention to hold the prisoner till he comes, through a series of arrests.

APPEAL FOR A NEW TRAIL.
State Accuses Judge Clancy of Bias in the Moody Murder Case.

BUTTE, Jan. 26.—The supreme court today granted a writ of mandate directing the stenographer of Judge Clancy's department in the district court to immediately prepare a transcript on appeal in Frank Moody's case. Moody was charged with killing Paul Kroeger, because he resisted when held up. On the trial the jury returned a verdict of guilty, and the state wished to appeal at once, as the time for it has about expired.

Applications for Pardons.

OLYMPIA, Jan. 26.—A considerable number of applications for pardons await action by the board, which would have met on Monday but for the absence of two members, who were away on business Monday and Tuesday. Today Mr. Jenkins is busy upon the board of state land commissioners, and the board of pardons will probably be brought together tomorrow.

Call for State Warrants.

OLYMPIA, Jan. 26.—Notice has been given that state warrants Nos. 20,421 to 22,155, inclusive, on the general fund, and Nos. 2,002 to 2,175, inclusive, on the military fund, will be paid on presentation at the state treasurer's office, and will not draw interest after February 8. The amount of the call on the general fund is $2,464,982; on the military fund, $12,138.79.

Pike Street Theater.

A really excellent programme is offered at the Pike street theater this week, consisting of a charming curtain raiser, "The Child and the Dame," and a very laughable comedy, "Wanted, a Wife," in which the splendid stock company excel, the live lady introduced being a beauty and a hit.

Only Bank in Killekitat Closes.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. GOLDENDALE, Jan. 26.—The First bank of Goldendale, the only institution of the kind in Killekitat county, has gone into voluntary liquidation. Depositors are notified to withdraw their deposits in full and without delay. The action of the bank managers has been expected, and creates no surprise.

Buying Horses for Alaska.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. ELMA, Jan. 26.—Joseph Mathews, who left Elma December 24, is here buying horses for Skagway and is expected to be ready for packing. He has been quite successful in this locality, having nearly a car load ready for shipment.

Not an Idle Man in Town.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. GRAND FORKS, B. C., Jan. 26.—There is not an idle man in town who wants to work. There has been a great demand for laborers on the water and light systems that are being constructed in this city.

Sent to the Insane Asylum.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. NORTH YAKIMA, Jan. 26.—A young man named Ed O'Donnell, who has been adjudged insane and will be taken to the Medical Lake asylum.

NORTHWESTERN NEWS NOTES.

The Old Fellows will organize a lodge in Wenatchee February 5. The highest little daughter of Ed O'Donnell, of Hartford Junction, is the Lake Stevens mail carrier. At Colville Monday night the thermometer registered 18 degrees below zero, the coldest of the season.

Whoooping Cough has Broken out in a Most Malignant Form on Mill Creek, a Large Settlement Above Old Fort Colville.

The ladies' edition of the Wenatchee Advance is out, the proceeds of which will be used to establish a free public reading room in Wenatchee. The enterprise netted about $80. A horse belonging to Ernest Jonas was across the foot Saturday night, while he was riding to the fair, and he was killed by a society in Echo valley, and died while traveling along the road, the driver not knowing that an accident had befallen the animal.

Twenty-five proprietors of places in which nickel-in-the-slot-machines are kept in Spokane were arrested by the police and fined $5 each. They were notified that this would be a regular thing every month hereafter in substance a license for the privilege of running a gambling house.

Sunday night a farmer named John McLaughlin, living on Dry creek, six miles west of Walla Walla, made an ineffectual attempt to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. He cut six inches in the neck, one on the left side, cutting the neck almost in two and striking the spinal column.

While the men of Stimson's headquarters camp, near Marysville, were eating supper on Monday evening, the camp was visited by William Malone and Peter Merrian, who were entering by sneak thieves and robbing the camp of several hundred dollars worth of clothing, including a pair of trousers and an overcoat, while Merrian was "let down" with the loss of his overcoat.

Capt. J. C. Gore, late of the burned steamer Nakusp, has been promoted to the position of port captain of the Canadian Pacific mail steamer, the "Columbia." Capt. Gore has been assigned to the coast water traffic and Yukon service of the same company. He will superintend the construction of the coast steamers which will be built at the coast.

A short time ago the Franklin Savings bank of Rhode Island, brought suit against John Bond to recover on several thousand dollars worth of special street fund warrants. The supreme court held that the warrants were worthless, and that there now has a judgment against the bank for costs, and has instructed the city attorney to proceed to collect the amount of the judgment.

Justice McKenna Sworn In.

NEW APPOINTEE TAKES HIS SEAT ON THE SUPREME BENCH.
Ceremony Lasts Only Four Minutes - Chief Justice Fuller Briefly Welcomes the Successor to Justice Field - A Large Crowd Present.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Hon. Joseph McKenna today took his seat on the bench of the supreme court of the United States as associate justice. The official ceremony of inducting him into this important office consumed less than four minutes and was simple in character. The court room was crowded in anticipation of the event. When he entered the chamber the new justice stopped at Clerk McKenna's desk, where he remained while the other justices took their respective seats upon the bench.

Chief Justice Fuller announced the presence of the new justice, saying: "It gives me pleasure to announce to the gentlemen of the bar that Mr. Joseph McKenna has been appointed associate justice of this court."

The clerk handed Mr. McKenna a copy of the judicial oath, and he read it in a clear, distinct voice, and then was escorted to his seat on the extreme left of the chief justice. The court remained standing until the chief justice had taken the oath of the hand from Justice White, his nearest neighbor, and with bows from the other members of the court, whereupon all took their seats.

With the superior court of any county in the state, the case is one in equity to recover on the judgment rendered by a jury against defendants in the famous "million dollar suit." Attorney Ben Shook represented the complainants and attorneys Charles F. Fogg, of Tacoma, and Silas W. Pettit, of Philadelphia, act for the defendants.

In his opinion Judge Hanford recites that affidavits were presented in the case of the superior court, which are furnished by reputable persons, and such as the court has confidence in; that it is shown the amount in litigation is so large, in proportion to the amount of annual taxes that every taxpayer in the city and county has a direct pecuniary interest in the suit, sufficient to create a presumption of bias. Referring to the motion of plaintiff to remand the case to the superior court Judge Hanford says: "If it is meant that the circuit court must remain an equity case which has been removed on account of prejudice, and it is shown that all the judges in all the superior courts of the state are so affected by prejudice as to be incapable of rendering a fair decision, the case would be remanded to the superior court, and there would be few cases in which the state circuit court would feel warranted in making a final decision, and to support its jurisdiction. But the statute does not impose so heavy a strain upon the circuit court."

After quoting the decision of Judge Taft, in the case of the city of Detroit against the Detroit Railway Company, in support of his view, Judge Hanford continues: "The evidence necessary to support the circuit court does not have to remove the case into this court is as strong and satisfactory as, in the nature of things, could be expected. It is necessary to the evidence does not justify a finding that the judges of the state court cannot be trusted to render a fair and impartial decision, notwithstanding the prejudice shown to exist in the community. It is the duty of this court to grant the petition, and the motion to remand to the superior court will be denied."

The decision of Judge Hanford in this case is considered a partial victory for C. B. Wright and his associates. A hot fight was made against the petition to transfer the case to the Federal court. The hearing will probably be set for the next term.

WHY THE FUSIONISTS LOST.

"Deep Creek" Jones Gives Pointers on Spokane Politics.
Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Jan. 26.—"Deep Creek" Jones was in Tacoma today. He came from Olympia, where he had attended a meeting of the state Democratic committee, and put in the time here with visits among his friends and political conferees. Jones is considered a valuable "prophet" from east of the mountains. Jones has developed into a rather quiet and conservative member of the triple alliance, and it is like pulling teeth to get him to talk.

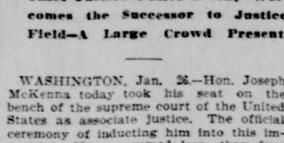

On state politics the "prophet" is as much as the proverbial bliviot, but the side issue, in the matter of the last municipal election at Spokane, does not seem to disturb him in the same degree of discreet silence. When bantered about the defeat of the fusionists and the strange "switch" of the vote at the last election in the inland metropolis, Jones laughed good naturedly and replied: "You fellows over here don't know what we had to carry. If you did you'd feel sorry for us instead of laughing at our defeat. Yes, we had a religiously inclined candidate for mayor on our hands, and the result was neither a surprise to us nor any one else."

"Deep Creek" did not profess his story, nor did he tell it to a Post-Intelligencer reporter, but to a company of friends in the city hall. But it proved too good to keep, and an hour later it was repeated within the hearing of the reporter.

It seems the fusion candidate was called upon by the saloon men to agree to permit them to do business as in the past, under police regulation, and to give his word he would not attempt to interfere with the conditions should he be elected.

It happened that Jones was one of the men who took the saloon men's proposal to the fusion candidate, and after telling the latter about it, he received the candid answer in reply: "The 'prophet' told the story well, and concluded: 'How in the name of all that's right can you expect us to win an election with that sort of people? The only answer I made to Mr. Preacher was that I was going home, and I went home, too. I knew it was no use, and the ranch offered many attractions and inducements at that particular moment, so I pulled out. Sure, I went home and stayed there. No, I don't see how I could have done any good by remaining here, his health would have been compared with the vote of the previous election, but, then, what else can you expect?"

PAVE WITH VITRIFIED BRICK.
Will Be Tested on A and South Tenth Streets.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Jan. 26.—There is a movement on foot in official circles to extend the proposed test of vitrified brick pavement further than the one block covered by South tenth street, and to pave part of a street with the same material. South Tenth street terminates at A street, and on either side of this junction the planking on A street is in a badly damaged condition. This provides for the issuance of bonds to meet the expenses of paving, which are to be called in at stated intervals and canceled with the payments received from the assessments on property owners. The plan gives the abutting property owners ample time to meet the assessment, which is levied in installments, and at the same time gives the city money with which to do the work.

Extensive Street Improvements.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Jan. 26.—The street committee of the council today agreed to recommend the replanking of Jefferson avenue to Twenty-seventh street; also the replanking of Puyallup avenue, out to the Northern Pacific freight sheds. Both these thoroughfares are in a miserable condition, and for several weeks past a controversy has been in progress as to how best to improve them. The council will doubtless adopt the committee's report, and work upon both streets will be commenced at an early day.

Moving the Light Plant.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Jan. 26.—A decided check has been put in the city's lighting business, on account of the removal of the machinery to the power house of the Tacoma Railways company, which furnishes the city all its power at a contract rate. The fire and water committee today decided to turn down all petitions for new lights until the plant shall be moved, and all promises of extension and improved service are for the time being allowed to hang fire.

Registering Sealskin Garments.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Jan. 26.—An official notice has been received from the customs department at Washington by the local customs officials amending the order issued in the matter of registering sealskin garments upon taking them out of the United States. The new order removes the objectionable feature of the original mandate, which consisted chiefly in the regulations prescribed upon reaching a foreign port of entry.

Still Nothing From the Pelican.

TACOMA, Jan. 26.—Northern Pacific steamship Braemar arrived today from China and Japan. She brings no tidings from the steamer Pelican, 135 days out from Tacoma for Taku, China. The cargo of the Braemar comprises tea, curios, sugar and a large amount of matting.
