

"POP" BREACHES WIDENING.

The Two Factions Are Drifting Further Apart.

BITTER CHARGES ARE MADE.

Leaders Threaten to Disrupt the Party—Each Wing Wooing the Democrats and Silver Republicans to Effect a Coalition—Monkey and Parrot Time in Committee—Question as to Conciliators at Large.

There are two factions in the once harmonious People's party in Seattle, and the breach between the two appears to be widening day by day. The members of each faction are free enough to express their opinions about the members of the other, even to newspaper reporters, and if half the hard things that have been said were quoted, the public press would contain venom and profanity enough to form the basis for numerous personal difficulties.

Just now the latest move on the part of the office-holding faction of the Pops, in which Messrs. Way, Moyer and Hart appear as the most conspicuous figures, is an effort to form an entirely new combination by which they may effect a fusion with the Democrats and the Silver Republicans and thus leave the Jordan faction of the Pops out in the cold. Members of the latter faction claim that the "office-holders" have left no stone unturned to bring about their purpose, going even to the length of misrepresentation. The Jordan men claim that this is the real reason why no more definite dates have been set for the city conventions. They say that the "office-holders" have contrived to induce the Democrats and Silver Republicans with the idea that if those two parties fused with the Jordanites it would be at the expense not only of their political autonomy and the sacrifice of their political platforms and convictions, but, what is still worse in the eyes of some, at the cost of office and political preferment.

From all accounts there must have been a monkey and parrot time at the last meeting of the Populist city central committee, at which the effort was made to reconnoiter the vote excluding salaried office-holders from taking part in the approaching convention. Not the least amusing feature of the convention was the importation of Mr. Robert Bridges all the way from Olympia, only to find that he was curtly excluded from participation in the evening's deliberations. This was done by a motion from the Jordanites to make the meeting rigidly executive. The motion prevailed after a futile opposition, and Mr. Bridges was forced to go outside.

From an authentic source it is learned that one of the office-holding leaders grew so irate at this turn of affairs that he openly avowed his intention of disrupting the party, while Mr. Bridges, who had fallen at his summary ejection from the fold of the faithful, threatened as a last resort that he would move to Seattle, force his way into the convention, and, if necessary, institute legal proceedings to establish his right to a seat.

Meanwhile, an entertaining by-play had occurred between the warring factions of the much-dissevered Pops. A peace commissioner, in the person of one McLean, had been sent by the "office-holders" to sound the Jordanites on the proposition that all good Populists would unite provided all office-holders, salaried or not, were excluded from the convention. As Dr. Jordan himself was not an office-holder, the proposition took rather a personal turn. Jordan avowed his willingness, it is said, to pass under the rod for the sake of harmony, but for some reason his followers suspected McLean's good faith, and the proposition fell through.

Some Existing Conditions. At no time since the inception of the fusion movement has there been such an interesting situation within the camp of the allied forces in Seattle as the present. The Democratic branch of the triple alliance has taken the initiative to bring about a coalition of the kind for the approaching spring campaign. The Silver Republicans, anxious to be sheltered from their loneliness by any protecting body, are hoping that the Democrats will succeed. The Populist organization, however, is dominated by men who are stubbornly opposed to yielding the organization to their party to the Democrats, and will favor fusion only on condition that the head of the triple be given to them.

Inside of the Populist wingman there is an active, persistent and well-organized body of politicians of experience and sagacity. Some of them are office-holders and others have been. These men are opposed to the dominant sentiment of the party, as expressed through the central committee. They are, whether outwardly or not, in favor of a union with the Democrats with a Democrat for mayor. A strong sentiment exists among the mass of the Populists that the party are acting for selfish reasons and are not to be trusted with power to handle the party when the fusion question comes up for final solution. In reply to charges of this nature, the fusion Populists, or those who are allied to the office-holders, say that the influence now in control of the Populist organization is not working to the best interests of the party and that the men who are in the saddle are willing to defeat fusion provided they can remain in control of the reins of government.

These are conditions as they exist, regardless of the merits involved in the different controversies. The big battle for control of the Populist organization will be made on the first day of the convention, which has been set for February 15 by the People's party central committee. Each side will be organized for as interesting a fight as has ever been seen in Seattle. At the head of one element will stand Dr. J. Eugene Jordan, who is credited with effecting the passage of the resolution barring the politicians who feed at the public crib from participation in the convention. Perhaps it would be nearer right to say that the opening skirmish of the conflict will be held with the primaries, for each faction will endeavor to secure control of the convention by electing its men as delegates.

Is Hart Fighting Jordan? Whether rightfully or not, Deputy Prosecuting Attorney John B. Hart is credited with being the central figure in the anti-Jordan wing of the party. At his devoted head are now being slung the shafts of those People's party men who detest official domination of the party organization. There are plenty of old-line Populists who can be found to espouse this sentiment. Their more progressive brethren will scoff at their whisks and all that, but they know the temper of their steel.

Said one of these yesterday: "It is time that John B. Hart became convinced of the fact that he is not the whole thing. Mr. Hart has succeeded in organizing around himself a band of politicians, many of whom are now drawing good salaries from the county or state government. They wish to control the party for their own purposes. It is a tenet of the People's party, as old as the hills, that the party should keep their hands off the party and refrain from attempting to influence its deliberations. This fact seems to have been entirely overlooked by Mr. Hart and his associates."

"The fact of the matter is that these people seek to govern the whole party. They are enjoying fat offices, and, bloated with good living and a sense of party responsibility, they attempt to shove the men who, in their own minds, have waged the fight of the People's party. It is no wonder that the sentiment of the organization should find expression against them."

Mr. Davis, a member of the Populist city central committee, yesterday expressed the sentiment of the majority that voted against a reconsideration of the anti-office holders' resolution Tuesday night. He said: "Mr. Hart's desire to be generally incorporated should not lead him to extreme measures. Such considerations should not induce him to turn over the organization of the party to his Democratic friends and deliver the head of the ticket bodily to them. Mr. Hart now enjoys a good office. He has been a candidate as many and perhaps more times than any other member of the party. He should be satisfied, or at least take heed of the warning conveyed in the overwhelming action of the committee Tuesday night in refusing to recede from its position on the matter of eligibility of delegates to the city convention."

Democrats Are Finishing. The Democratic city central committee, which met in secret session Wednesday night, decided to call the municipal convention not later than February 17. A sub-committee was appointed to prepare the call and report to the committee in regular session next Monday night.

The weight of secrecy was placed on all the members of the committee, who were pledged not to divulge the result of the meeting. It can be stated, however, on authority, that the foregoing is the gist of the committee's action.

There is greater significance in the action of the committee than appears at first scrutiny. The convention, it will be noted, is to be held on the 17th of February. The sub-committee, composed of members of the executive committee, is to report to the committee the language of the call. This was done for the purpose of allowing the sub-committee a chance to try and smooth down the ruffled plumage of the Populist bird so as to bring the two conventions together on the same day.

If sufficient encouragement is given the Democratic terms, will be accepted by the People's party, then the convention will be set for February 15, on the day the Populists have decided to hold their convention. It is, however, to be noted that the Populist organization is controlled by men opposed to accepting the present terms of the Democratic managers, then the convention will be set for February 17.

It is not to be expected that the Populists will organize for the purpose of unshoring the present controlling power on the day the convention meets. Adjourning for two days, or until the Democrats have taken the city, if such a combination will be welded.

If the Democratic call for a convention is couched in the language desired by the majority of the party, it is to be noted that this has ever been promulgated in the history of Seattle.

pal convention on February 17, the date on which the Democrats will meet. Some of the Silver Republicans, or "Goats," as they were known in the last campaign, are saying their party hold the balance of power in the city election. They are figuring that the fight between the Republicans and the fusionists will be very close, and that their votes might determine the election. These claims, taken in connection with the same, may mean that the Silver Republicans will demand a good big share in the distribution of the city offices. Justice of the Peace Austin is being quietly groomed for city mayor. His is the only name that has been mentioned so far.

The Silver Republicans are so few in number that they spend a good deal of their time in keeping up their spirits. They are anxious spectators of the negotiations in progress, and between the Democrats and the Populists. It is said that they stand willing to desert the cause of Populism and embark with the Democrats, in case a deal is not arranged with the Populists. Indeed, some of the Democratic chiefs are using this as a cudgel on the heads of some of the more obstinate People's party men.

It is quietly whispered among the intelligentsia that Rogers is watching the developments in the municipal campaign with great interest. When he visited Seattle, on the occasion of the celebration of Burns' anniversary, he was seen in frequent conferences with Dr. Jordan.

A practical question came up in the Republican municipal campaign in regard to the nominations for councilmen. As all good Seattleites know, there are thirteen members of the city council. Under the charter two of these will hold over from the present term, and as a result of the last municipal election these two are James and McArdle. This will leave eleven councilmen to be chosen at the approaching city election. The apportionment among the wards of the nine wards of the city, leaving two to be elected as councilmen at large.

The question which is already being generally discussed is as to the particular quarter of the city from which these two councilmen at large are to come. Some contend that at the first ward will be already represented by McArdle and the Fourth by James, who will hold over as councilmen at large, that those two wards should not be entitled to any further representation in that particular direction. Others maintain that in the selection of councilmen at large, ward lines should be entirely disregarded, and the choice be made from the whole city.

The other name thus far has been prominently mentioned for councilman at large is Louis Schoenfeld, president of the Standard Furniture Company, who hails from the Fifth ward. Mr. Schoenfeld is not an avowed candidate for the place, but numbers of his friends in the Fifth are urging his name.

Street gossip has it that L. A. Treen will be a candidate for city treasurer, and it is generally understood that Mayor Humes will be a candidate for reelection.

City Central Committees. The membership of the city central committee, with the exception of the Silver Republican, is as follows. At the time of the last campaign the Silver Republicans had not organized, and consequently there was no such thing as a distinct municipal committee on their behalf.

The county committee has accordingly taken charge of the work of organizing the preliminaries of the present campaign. The other committees are: Republican Committeemen. First ward—William H. White. Second ward—J. E. Jordan. Third ward—H. S. Keene. Fourth ward—J. H. Calvert. Fifth ward—J. E. Jordan. Sixth ward—Charles Lovjoy. Seventh ward—Frank H. Renick. Eighth ward—E. E. Hume. Ninth ward—Wiley E. Bailey.

Democratic Committeemen. First ward—A. G. Lane. Second ward—R. B. Blakely. Third ward—Andrew Blakely. Fourth ward—W. H. Moore. Fifth ward—J. M. Donald. Sixth ward—J. E. Jordan. Seventh ward—S. Elliott. Eighth ward—L. B. Hart. Ninth ward—A. E. Ryan. At-large—John T. Condon, William Blackman.

Populist Committeemen. First ward—J. C. Dalby, Don M. Kinnon, William Pratt, Louis Hume, John McQuire. Second ward—Mr. Blum, Henry Hill, Mr. Meyers. Third ward—Mr. McDonald, A. Bachman, E. W. H. B. Drees, C. L. Mathews, R. J. Miller, M. F. Terry, J. M. Davis, E. C. Morse. Fourth ward—N. P. Lind, A. T. Hite, L. Spray, C. N. Nelson, C. P. Dan. Fifth ward—Tim O'Halloran, Addison Smith, H. B. Drees, C. L. Mathews, R. Winsor. Sixth ward—H. Hughes, D. McDaniels, C. L. Burns, Winsor, E. Jordan, C. E. Wadsworth, John Thomas. Seventh ward—Mr. Ewert, Fred Binkins, Mr. Roberts.

The Populist city central committee differs from those of the other parties in that it has one member for each precinct, while the other parties have one for each ward. The Populist executive committee consists of Louis Hume, M. F. Terry, Henry Hill, C. N. Nelson, R. Winsor, Jr., C. L. Jordan and R. Winsor.

CITY REGISTRATION. Number of Applicants Shows a Gratifying Increase. The number of applicants for registration at the city hall has shown a gratifying increase within the last two days. On Tuesday the total was 173, and on Wednesday the total was 207. This shows an increase of 34 in the number of applicants in the last two days is nearly 50. The business men of the city, taking kindly to the admonition in Wednesday's Post-Intelligencer, are registering in large numbers. Still even this rate will not be largely improved on if anything like a representative portion of Seattle's citizens take part in the approaching election.

The registration clerks suggest as a matter of convenience to those who come up to register will at least take the pains to ascertain the news names of the streets on which they live. In many instances the work of registration has been delayed for several minutes while the clerk had to identify the old and now disused name of a street with the former regime, there were several duplicates.

SALE OF GOLD MINE CLAIMS.

Six Gold Mines Disposed of by Chris Neebur and Carl Hunt.

EACH ONE CONTAINS A FORTUNE

Deal Closed in This City, the Purchasers Being A. J. McCune, of Utah, and Eugene Short, of Spokane—Some Secrecy as to the Amount Paid—Claims Are on Bonanza, Sulphur and Other Creeks.

One of the biggest deals on record in Klondike mining properties was consummated yesterday afternoon in this city. Six claims, located on Bonanza, Sulphur, Dominion, All-Gold creeks and French gulch changed hands. The total amount involved in the transaction was between $150,000 and $200,000. No definite terms have been made public, both parties to the deal withholding this information.

The purchasers are E. J. McCune, of Salt Lake, Utah, and Eugene J. Short, of Spokane. They are acting for themselves and for Spokane and New York parties. Mr. McCune is a brother of A. W. McCune, who owns the Montana and British Columbia mining man, owner of the Payne silver mine, in British Columbia. He is also associated in a number of mining properties with Marcus Daly and W. L. Hoge, well known in mining circles in Butte and Anaconda.

Chris Neebur and Carl Hunt are the sellers. Neebur is an Iowa boy, and Hunt mined for several years in the Kootenay and Oregon before coming to Alaska. Neebur was in the Yukon country and Hunt spent three years there. Both were in the Klondike early in the spring of 1897, before the stamped from the states. They secured a number of valuable claims on the principal gold-bearing streams in the camp. After taking out a large quantity of gold from No. 2 above Discovery on Bonanza, they sold a half-interest in the claim for $20,000. They also sold the claims sold to McCune and Short.

No. 27 below discovery, on Bonanza creek. This claim was valued at $50,000 last summer in the Klondike. It has been developed sufficiently to show the presence of the pay streak, similar in character to other paying properties on Bonanza.

No. 1 above upper discovery on Dominion creek. In two weeks' prospecting, during which a space ten feet square was drilled out on bedrock, Hunt and Neebur took out $1,020 in nuggets and coarse gold. No. 22 on French gulch, a tributary of the creek, on which good prospects have been struck, running from 25 to 75 cents per pan.

No. 23 below discovery on All-Gold creek. This property has been prospected sufficiently to determine the existence of gold. It has not been developed to any great extent.

No. 38 below on Sulphur creek, a tributary to Dominion.

No. 24 below discovery on Quartz creek. The deeds executed. Deeds to these properties were executed yesterday afternoon. Negotiations were begun nearly a week ago between Neebur and Hunt on one side and Mr. Short and Mr. McCune on the other. Mr. McCune makes his headquarters in Salt Lake City, and came to Seattle with Mr. Short for the purpose of purchasing desirable Klondike properties. He said yesterday: "There is very little to be told about this deal. You can say, however, that experienced mining men all over the West are watching the reports from the Klondike with the purpose of assisting in the development of that country. In fact, more interest is now taken in the Klondike by mining men in any other district. Mr. Short is a well-known Spokane mining man. He followed the tide to Seattle, believing that this city was the proper place to engage in Klondike enterprises. He left for Spokane yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock, and within a few days will go east on business."

Two Lucky Prospectors. Neebur and Hunt arrived in Seattle from Dawson on January 17 on the steamer Corona. They are among the lucky Klondike winners, but their riches came to them only after long periods of hardship and toil. Neebur is something of a veteran in the Yukon. He went in in the spring of 1894 and spent eighteen months on Stewart creek. Hunt followed Neebur into the Yukon three years ago. They mined fortunes in the French creek district. When the news of the strike in the Klondike camp reached them, they boarded the first steamer—the Weare—but were frozen in before they had proceeded four days' journey. They were returned to Circle and started with four dogs and 2,000 pounds of provisions over the ice. This was December 5, 1896. They were fifty-five days making the journey. They took a "short-cut" for the entire distance, covering in all nearly eight hundred miles. They took a large amount of provisions, because they knew that the miners in the Klondike were short.

After striking Dawson, they secured a half-interest in No. 9 above discovery on Bonanza. They worked the claim, sinking several prospect holes to bedrock. They took out considerable gold and then disposed of their interest in the property for $20,000. In the summer they prospected on the newly discovered creeks in the district, and purchased where they believed the best was to be found.

"We took out over $100,000 from a single prospect hole on Dominion creek," said Mr. Neebur, yesterday. "I am satisfied that Dominion and Sulphur creeks will be found to be as rich as Eldorado and Bonanza."

Regarding his experiences on Stewart river, Mr. Neebur said: "In the two summers and one winter that I passed on the Stewart, I earned good money washing gravel on the river bars. The best money I made was on the bars at the mouth of McQuestion creek. By simply raking the pay gravel, I made as high as $3 per day. It is my belief that when the Stewart river country is opened up, as it will be eventually, it will be found to be very productive. The difficulty has always been in the shortage of provisions. When Hector Morrison and I started on the Stewart, we were obliged to call on Harper at Sixty-Mile for supplies. He was short, but told us to take as little as we could get along with and that a steamer would be sent up the river that summer. Well, there never was a time when there was enough grub on the Stewart."

The soldier who dies on the battlefield with the arrow of a savage enemy stinging in his vitals suffers horrible untold agonies. Even the story of his sufferings as told by his surviving comrades causes the hearer to shudder with pity and horror. There are tens of thousands slowly dying every day with the arrow of some insidious disease poisoning their vitals, and no one stops to try to alleviate. Where death comes to one man on the battlefield it comes to tens of thousands in their homes, through the agency of man's most relentless enemy—consumption. There is a widespread idea for which ignorant physicians are responsible, that consumption is an incurable disease. This is a mistake. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures 90 per cent. of all cases. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It gives zest to the appetite, makes the digestion and assimilation perfect, renders the liver active, makes the blood pure and fills it with life-giving elements of the food, and acts directly on the lungs, driving out all impurities and disease germs. Thousands who had been given up by doctors and lost all hope, are to-day healthy and robust as the result of the use of this great medicine. It is the discovery of an eminent and skillful physician, Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician of the "Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y." In writing to Dr. Pierce for advice the sufferer consults a physician whom his townspeople honor by making him their representative in congress, but whose love for his profession caused him to resign that position that he might give his whole time to the sick and afflicted. He will personally answer all letters from sufferers without charge. His "Golden Medical Discovery" is sold by all good medicine dealers. Stomach and liver troubles with sluggish action of the bowels are cured by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

We lived fairly well that winter but had barely enough provisions to last us through till spring. We prospected some late in the winter on Crooked creek, finding colors from the surface. After we had gone down eight feet we were driven out by water. Both Neebur and Hunt will return to the Klondike after enjoying themselves in Seattle for a time.

TO TRANSPORT THE REINDEER.

Canadian Pacific Gets the Contract Away From American Lines. NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Bids for the transportation of 500 reindeer and their attendants from New York to Portland, Or., or Seattle, have been opened in the office of Deputy Quartermaster S. K. Small. About twenty-five railroads were represented at the bidding, the lowest bid being that of the Canadian Pacific, which offered to transport the reindeer and attendants, with such forage and food supplies for the party, at the rate of $47.00 per car. Other bids ranged as high as $90 per car. The reindeer will be used in the government relief expedition to the Klondike, for which $500,000 has been appropriated by congress. The expedition will leave from the Pacific coast about the middle of February, in charge of Brig. Gen. Henry C. Merriman, U. S. A. The supplies which the government is sending the miners to the Klondike consist chiefly of bacon, bread and coffee. Lieut. D. D. Devore and the Rev. Dr. Sheldon Jackson went to Norway some time ago to buy reindeer to be used in the expedition and succeeded in buying 500 at from $10 to $15 per head. They also hired seventy-five Laplanders, who, with their families and household effects, will be part of the relief expedition. The Allan line steamer Manitoba has been chartered for the trip and is now on the way from Alton, Norway, with the reindeer, Laplanders and sufficient supplies until they reach the Pacific coast.

ALASKA WATERS DISCUSSED.

Western Passenger Association Trying to Adjust the Matter. CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—The roads of the Western Passenger Association met today for the purpose of considering rates and arrangements for the Alaska business. At the meeting yesterday the roads of the Central Passenger Association suggested that the Western roads agree upon the routine matters concerning the sale of the tickets, and that they would then submit the matter to a mass meeting of their lines and if the arrangements offered by the Western roads are at all satisfactory, it is likely that they will be accepted by the Eastern connections. It was expected that representatives of the Canadian Pacific would be present at the meeting today for the purpose of going over the differential matter with the Western roads, but it was not convenient for them to be present and the Western roads took up the routine matters instead.

SNOW LOCOMOTIVES READY.

Will Be Used in the Attempt to Take Supplies to Dawson. CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—George T. Glover, a Chicago inventor, has seven snow locomotives now building in Chicago and New York and thirty-two freight and passenger cars will be made at Portland, Or. These will be at Dyva by February 15, and will be ready for shipment to Dawson over the Dalton trail. These locomotives are practically ready now for shipment to Portland, where they will be assembled and then shipped, together with thirty-two cars to Dyva. Here they will be put up and placed in readiness for the expedition, which leaves that place on February 15 for Dawson in charge of Capt. Brainard, of the United States army.
