

PASSENGERS WERE NERVOUS

SOME OF THOSE ON THE NORTH PACIFIC QUIT THE BOAT.

The Encountered Bad Weather in the Straits and Put Back to Townsend—They Request a Survey, but Revenue Officers Say She is All Right.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. PORT TOWNSEND, Feb. 19.—The steamer North Pacific, which left Seattle early yesterday morning for Wrangell, is detained at Port Townsend and may be here a day or two longer before proceeding on her journey. She started out last evening at 6 o'clock in very nasty weather, but she did not get further than Smith's Island, where she took refuge behind the bluff for a time, then returned to this port.

When she arrived here, at 11 o'clock last night, some seventy-five of the passengers were nervous.

SUB-PORTS MAY BE CLOSED.

Canada Must Cease Discrimination Against American Miners.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Treasury and state department officials have practically prepared their requests, which will be transmitted by wire through the British embassy here, to the Canadian parliament for the stationing of officers at Fort Cudahy and Lake Tagish to issue licenses to American miners on their way to the Klondike. It was stated today by department officials that in event the simple request should be refused, Secretary Gage was prepared to go to the full length of refusing bonding privileges to Canadians, and even of closing the sub-ports of Dyea and Skagway.

Passengers made a protest to the customs officials against allowing the vessel to proceed, and the steward's crew deserted her. An investigation had been made by Collector Hastings, however, as far as his authority extended, and he found nothing in the matter with the steamer and she was given clearance papers.

This morning Capt. Tozier and Lieut. West, of the revenue cutter service, also made an extended examination of the steamer, and pronounced her all right in every respect and perfectly fit to make the trip in safety.

It seems that the North Pacific had a streak of bad luck yesterday, after leaving here in the evening. Her cargo had not been trimmed, and she had a list to starboard, and one of the forward ports had not been properly fastened. The result was that when she encountered the terrible wind storm that prevailed in the straits, the port hole referred to was broken open and the steamer shipped some water on her main deck.

Today some of the passengers have been making an effort to have their money returned, but during the afternoon it is claimed by the charterers of the boat that they are being up everything satisfactorily, and that the steamer will get away on her trip as soon as a new steward's crew arrives from Seattle. Two or three men have been picked up here to take the place of those who left their work, and there is no doubt that the steamer will leave tomorrow or next day. About twenty of the passengers of the North Pacific left her here and returned to Seattle.

MINISTERS NEGLECT A DUTY.

Many Fail to Record Marriage Certificates, as Required by Law.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Feb. 19.—There is a general stirring up of ministers now under way by the county officials to the end that they comply with the law regarding the return to the county clerk of marriage certificates within the time required by law. The legal requirements on this point provide that a certificate of marriage is to be sent to the county clerk within not less than three months after the marriage ceremony shall have been performed.

From the lax manner in which ministers generally have acted in the matter it is generally supposed they are not cognizant of the law on this point, and informal effort is being made to advise them, and have them return such certificates as they may have in their possession. One minister recently sent quite a lot of these certificates to the clerk here from Spokane, where he writes he accidentally found them among his papers. A local preacher yesterday filed six certificates, some of which date back a year or more. The penalty for violation of this provision is a fine of not more than $50, and local ministers are being notified of the law by the county officials. The certificates within the period prescribed by law.

Cold Storage Plant.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Feb. 19.—A new cold storage building and site, located at the foot of Pacific avenue, in the yard of the Northern Pacific railroad, has been leased by the road to what is known as the Pacific Cold Storage Company for a term of twenty-five years, from November, 1897.

NORTHWESTERN NEWS NOTES.

Fish Commissioner Little says he will prosecute all mill owners in the Grays harbor district who are throwing saw dust and mill refuse into the streams. O. W. Maynard, one of the stockholders, has submitted a proposition to the remaining assets of the Commercial State bank, of Chehalis, which went into a receiver's hands.

In the superior court at Chehalis W. B. Allen and Frederick W. Long were appointed administrators of the estate of the late J. H. Long. This is in conformity with the wish of Mr. Long. There is no will.

John Kendrick, a boy employed in the Capital mill, at Anselmo, had his clothing caught in a shaft and made several rapid revolutions around it before he was released by his clothing giving way. He was not seriously hurt.

The high water in the Touchet, in Colville county, has washed out some of the piling under the Star bridge, two miles above Dayton, and the structure has been damaged for some time and vehicles by the road supervisor.

A. Johnson, of Cathlamet, says that the up-river fishermen are putting up very high prices for fish, but that he has no objection to the local cannery at Cathlamet making no preparations for the opening of the season.

A thief entered the room of Henry Fay, in the Reed-Dobson building, at Chehalis, Wednesday evening, and carried away everything it contained that was not nailed fast. The most valuable articles taken were a suit of clothes, a mackintosh and a watch chain.

The will of the late Capt. William E. Hall, the superintendent of the Le Roi mill, was filed for record in the probate court in Spokane Wednesday. The will was made in 1894, and bequeaths the bulk of his estate to his wife.

While firing on an snail last Saturday, in honor of the appropriation for Yakima harbor, near the town of Toledo, Lemmas, close, and his face and hands were badly powder-burned. Some of the grains of powder struck him on the right eye, inflicting a very painful wound.

Fred Hill, while riding a crank to Pendleton, Or., the other day, struck the Ford near the market bridge, and the horse and rider were thrown. The horse was badly managed so that the horse and rider were thrown. The horse was badly managed so that the horse and rider were thrown.

Two new evaporators for preparing vegetables and fruit for the Alaska trade are being put in in Douglas county, one at Grand Forks, on the Columbia, by J. C. Coleman, John Kellogg and E. Merrill, and the second in Waterville, by Malthe & Evans.

The capacity can be increased from one ton each to several tons, if the market justifies it.

A Prosecuting Attorney Fitzpatrick, of Stevens county, has presented a statement to Judge Neal, showing that Jack Martin, who was shot by John J. Lemmas, at Eureka camp, on the Coquille reservation, last October, had left the state and could not be found, without the testimony of Martin a conviction of Heasney for the shooting could not be had, and asked that the case against Heasney be dismissed, and an order was so entered.

Peter Gustavsen was badly hurt at the light point at Chehalis Sunday morning about 3 o'clock, when a fire engine, on duty, had been talking with him in the engine room, and went to fix the fire. A little later he heard a noise as of something thrown violently on the floor, and going back to the engine room, he found Mr. Gustavsen lying senseless, bleeding from wounds in his head, and with one of his hands considerably hurt. He had in some way got tangled up in the machinery. He was laid up for a few days, but is now able to be around, not much worse for the encounter.

In passing upon the proceedings before him to recover money which "Shorty" Brown, a Colfax attorney, had collected and taken to Chehalis, Judge J. M. McDonald, of Colfax, said: "I want to have this matter thoroughly understood before I make any order. Several men came to me and made complaint that Brown was on a protracted sore, that they had paid him money to attend to legal business for them; that Brown was drunk, spending the money and neglecting their interests. Among these men was Mr. Miller, the complaining witness in this case. I determined to put a stop to this work, and I want to see right here and now that I will put penitence to it to occur again, and if Mr. Brown or any other attorney goes on a protracted sore, I will punish all attorneys who go on protracted sores."

W. & O. R. R. PROBABLY SOLD

PRESIDENT TYLER HAS TENDERED HIS RESIGNATION.

It Is Known That the Northern Pacific People Have Been Negotiating With C. B. Wright for the Line—Rumor That a Sale Was Made.

WALLA WALLA, Feb. 19.—Rumors of the sale of the Washington & Columbia River railroad to the Northern Pacific was revived today. President Tyler, directors of the Washington & Columbia River road have been in session here since Wednesday, and at a meeting this morning President W. D. Tyler and Secretary A. R. Burford tendered their resignations, which were accepted.

It has been common talk among railroad men, and others in a position to know, for several weeks, that the Northern Pacific had been negotiating with C. B. Wright, of Philadelphia, the principal stockholder of the Washington & Columbia River railroad, for the purchase of the road, and now it is asserted that the deal has been consummated. President Tyler, when asked concerning the rumored transfer to the Northern Pacific today would neither deny nor verify the rumor.

Immediately after adjournment of the meeting today, President Tyler, accompanied by the board of directors, Western Land Agent Cooper and Assistant Superintendent W. G. Pearce, of the Northern Pacific, and L. S. Miller, general manager of the Seattle & Intercontinental, left on a special train for an inspection of the road.

ITS EFFECT ON POLITICS.

Decision in the Warrant Cases Will Give Fawcett Strength.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Feb. 19.—The decision of the state supreme court in the Bardley warrant suit, in which the court holds the city of Tacoma must pay the warrants in question, was a topic of general interest here today, particularly in official circles. The suit was in the nature of a test as to the validity of certain warrants, and the decision is generally conceded to mean that all of the warrants which have been issued in the immediate future, and which have been in doubt about may have to be paid. City Attorney Judson says, however, that such is not the case, and that points at issue in the Bardley suit will in no wise enter into the question as to the validity of the bulk of these warrants.

The decision, too, is being already used among local politicians, particularly in the ranks of the Fawcett faction, who point out the mayor's close connection with the warrant suit, and how urgently necessary it is to keep him at the helm of affairs, that the fight may be continued along the same lines in the immediate future.

George Hazzard, the chief agitator in favor of Fawcett's renomination, and declares that the factionists will stifle their criticism unless the mayor is removed from office. Besides, so George Hazzard says, Fawcett is the only fugitive in Tacoma who can be elected.

"Here we are indulging the administration of the Democratic party," it has been a good one, without doubt. These howlers against Fawcett endorse it, they are the same as Copperheads of war days, howling against Grant. They are the same as Copperheads of war days, howling against Grant. They are the same as Copperheads of war days, howling against Grant. They are the same as Copperheads of war days, howling against Grant.

MAN OF MANY ALIASES.

Had Endeavored to Swindle a Number of Publishing Houses.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Feb. 19.—Charles Browne, alias Marion Brooks, alias C. R. Brown, alias William Tapp, was arrested here today upon the complaint of Postmaster O. B. Hayden, and will have Uncle Sam as the prosecutor in a case in which he is charged with using a pretense to fraudulently exploit money-making schemes. When the arresting officer attempted to lay hands on the man at the postoffice, the latter ran at a high pace out of the building, but was picked up a moment later by the officer, who proved the speeder of the two.

The alleged crook is charged with having represented himself as a clerk of the local school board, and by this means to have attempted to secure a lot of valuable school books from Eastern publishers, including Rand, McNally & Co., the Western Company, Harper & Bros., and a R. D. Perce, the latter a Salt Lake publishing house.

He was "jobbed" into calling at the postoffice, presumably for a registered package. He is a good looking, rascally, well-dressed man, perhaps 40 years of age, and wears a full black beard. In his pockets were found $25 in cash and a certificate of deposit on a Seattle bank, calling for $100. He will be held in custody until a hearing before United States Commissioner Miles Gifford, and pending it is kept at the city jail.

FOUND AN OLD ACQUAINTANCE.

An Escaped Prisoner Picked Up by Tacoma Detectives.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Feb. 19.—Detectives Sullivan and Ellison last night met an old acquaintance who was making time in a cell at the city jail. Several weeks ago a convict attempted to arrest E. W. Russell, a hard character, but he was too quick for them and escaped by sprinting. The detectives ran a chase, but could not keep up, and he fired a shot at Russell in the hope of checking him. A moment later Russell disappeared in the darkness, and until last night had not been heard from. It was thought that the shot fired at Russell struck him, and last night, when he was arrested, this was confirmed. Russell had just got well at work upon a victim whom he was trying to keep up, and he had been shot in the leg, and the wound is not yet fully healed. Russell had succeeded in escaping after being shot, and is said to have run several blocks before he broke down. He is booked at the police station on a charge of assault.

STRIKE SITUATION UNCHANGED.

Organizer Blackman Takes the Men Into the Federation of Labor.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Feb. 19.—The strike situation at the Tacoma mill remains the same today as yesterday, so far as the striking workmen are concerned. State Organizer Blackman, of the American Federation of Labor, is here investigating the matter, and the men announce they will remain out until their demand shall be complied with.

A meeting of the men held last night at a local organization of the American Federation of Labor was effected, all the strikers, as well as a few employees of other mills, joining the new order. A charge was made from the new organization waited upon Manager Hanson at the mill today in the hope of adjusting their trouble. The committee was accompanied by Mr. Blackman, but made no progress toward a settlement of the difficulties, as Mr. Hanson positively declined to consider their demand for a raise of 10 cents per day per man.

Inquiry among other millmen develops that there has been no demand for higher wages at any mill but the Tacoma. One large establishment is credited with having given notice to its men that on the first of March their wages would be increased. The move is a voluntary one, and the new scale will mean a proportionate increase among all the employees. Organizer Blackman has opposed any effort to get the employees at other mills to join the strike, and says he has told the men at the several mills not to think of throwing up their positions unless they have a grievance of their own. He declares the demands of the strikers to be just and reasonable, and believes Manager Hanson will find much difficulty in securing a new crew of competent men at the wages he offers.

The men were running today, but not at full capacity. The men say that the carriage men and setters can get the raise they demanded from Mr. Hanson, but that they will not work unless all the employees are allowed an increase.

BAIRD'S CASE DISMISSED.

He Is Re-arrested, However, on a Warrant From Superior Court.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Feb. 19.—Henry Baird, charged with bigamy by Mrs. Smith-Baird, his alleged first wife, was a free man for a few seconds this afternoon, owing to the sudden termination of the preliminary hearing in the municipal court. As was expected, when the court ordered that the complaining witness would have to answer an objectionable question and she positively declined to do so, her attorneys took her out of her unpleasant position by moving that the case be dismissed.

Prior to this move a new information was filed in the superior court, from which a warrant for Baird's arrest was issued, and when the case was dismissed in the municipal court a deputy sheriff served the warrant, and he was taken into custody. Half an hour later his bond had been fixed at $100, and the case will now, in all probability, not be heard from until the next jury term, some time in March.

Baird is personally much chagrined at the result of the preliminary hearing, and expresses the opinion that the action of the prosecuting witness proves to him she will not again go on the stand, and that he will have no opportunity of showing the trouble in what he says is its true light.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, Feb. 19.—It is reported here today that F. R. Banks, a stranger who is here waiting to go to Alaska, was robbed near the depot last night by three highwaymen, who relieved the prospective Klondiker of $115. Officers at the city jail say the matter has not been reported at headquarters, and give out that they know nothing about it.

Ismar the Gypsy.

Wonderful interest shown in her remarkably accurate predictions.

No one who ever has been in Seattle has credited so much interest in clairvoyance and palmistry as Ismar the Gypsy. When she was last here it was thought that she would never be equalled by the stitture she was so startling in their accuracy that when she was known she was again in the city, and one who had been to see her or had heard of her at once made preparations to have this strange and talented woman understand what was said. I then decided that something must be done to check the progress of the disease, and took her at once to Dr. Copeland for treatment.

She Is Now Well.

The swelling and soreness of her throat have completely disappeared, and her breath is pure and sweet. Her voice is clearer than it ever was and she hears perfectly with either ear.

"Before her treatment she did not eat enough to keep a bird alive, but her appetite is now splendid and she is gaining daily in strength. She looks and acts like a different child."

Was a Puny Child—Now Strong and Well.

Mrs. Laura Holmerson, 603 Seventh avenue, North Seattle: "The surprising results of the Copeland Treatment in catarrh were shown in the case of our little boy, John. At the age of six years, he was a puny little invalid. He had catarrh all his life and grew worse in spite of all we could do for him. His throat was always sore and his tonsils greatly enlarged; his hearing also was much impaired. He was thin and pale, and without the natural spirits of a child.

"Since his treatment by Dr. Copeland, I am thankful to say that he is a healthy, buoyant boy, and entirely cured of his disease."

Had to Shout at Her Little Boy—Now Hears Perfectly.

Mrs. Martin Stevenson, Interbay, Wash.: "Catarrh almost ruined the health and hearing of our little boy, Louis. He grew dull and stupid, and so deaf that we had to shout to make him understand. There was a purr discharge from his ears that was very offensive to all around him. We took him to Drs. Copeland and Prevost, and he is now entirely well and hears perfectly."

VAGRANT DOCTORS.

The Day Is Happily Passing When They Can Delude Suffering People.

Here Today and Gone Tomorrow—People Have Learned That the Successful, Capable Physician Does Not Travel Like an Organ Grinder or Punch and Judy Showman.

The most positive evidence of the growth of intelligence among the masses is the withdrawal of their patronage from the vagrant "By-by-night" pretenders of the practice of medicine. Time was, not many years ago, when the monthly, flashy dressed charlatans could come into a community, promise everything that was impossible through the columns of the newspapers, rob the gullible greenhorns of a lot of money, give them in return some bottles of worthless nostrums, and before their victims found how badly they had been defrauded, these mountebanks could move on to other fields with well-lined pockets. This business was all profit, and they wore flashy glass diamonds, loud, vulgar clothing, and sought by these means to impress the credu-lous with the idea of their importance. These times, happily for the people, have passed. The glory of the vagrant "doctor" has departed. The people have learned that dress and loud manner no more make a physician than the appearance of one swallow brings summertime. Sensible people realize that a man capable of practicing medicine successfully does not travel over the country like a Punch and Judy showman or an organ grinder. A healer of the sick is successful and locates himself permanently in a community. A pretended healer must change his location as frequently as he is found out—which period ranges from five minutes to ten days—owing to his inability or inability to keep his mouth shut.

People of this community have found out that it is dangerous to take the nostrums of these fellows inwardly; that if they need proper medical treatment they must apply to practitioners who are permanently located here. To such professional gentlemen as Drs. Copeland and Prevost, whose standing is and has been for years publicly testified to by the citizens each week, who are here for their life-work, and whose credentials will stand the light of day, Dr. Copeland is a graduate of Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York; was president of his class in that institution. Dr. Prevost bears credentials equally as notable, and has advanced steadily with him. They represent primarily the best medical training the country affords, many years of continual practice and entire and absolute devotion to the diseases in their specialties, wide and extended experience in treating these diseases, and uniform success.

TREATMENT, INCLUDING ALL MEDICINES, $5.00 PER MONTH.

Curing Catarrh Among the Children.

Mrs. B. H. Hopkins, 2310 Western avenue, Seattle, referring to the effective treatment given her little girl, Eva, at the Copeland Medical Institute, for catarrh of the throat, which threatened to destroy her health and hearing, said: "Eva's trouble was caused by neglected colds, and during the past four years she has suffered very severely. Her throat was constantly sore and inflamed, and at times so swollen that it was impossible for her to swallow anything. Her voice became changed and she seemed to talk through her nose, while her breath acquired a Very Offensive Odor, Which was extremely disagreeable to all the family. She was growing paler and thinner all the time, and no medicine seemed to do her any good.

"I was not particularly alarmed about her condition until I noticed that the disease had reached her ears and that she was Agonies of Rheumatism Readily Removed.

Mrs. Belle Watts, Kingston, Wash.: "Four years ago I was first attacked by rheumatism, and since that time I have undergone almost incredible sufferings from this terrible disease. The trouble commenced in my hips, but gradually spread to all my joints, until my entire body was a mass of most excruciating aches and pains. I grew steadily worse, until I lost the use of my hands, and for months I was unable even to dress myself. Finally became so bad that I was confined to my bed, and endured incessantly for weeks such tortures as no words of mine can describe.

"But the treatment I received from the Copeland physicians has wrought a wonderful change in my condition. Soon after commencing my course I began to improve, and this improvement has continued until my health and strength are restored, and the last trace of rheumatism has disappeared from my system. I am at last free from suffering, and I cannot speak too highly of the treatment that has accomplished this result."

Rome Treatment Restoring Hearing to Deaf Ears.

Mr. Jas. O'Day, Arlington, Wash.: "I took the Copeland home treatment for deafness, also catarrh of the throat and stomach, and the treatment resulted in my cure. I had suffered for over five years from catarrh, and it had become such a hold of my system that my health and constitution were almost completely wrecked.

"I had constant pains across my forehead and through my head, and I was forced to breathe through my mouth most of the time as my nostrils were usually tightly stopped up. My throat was constantly filled with irritating and sickening

Rescued From Living in Pain and Torture.

Mrs. Melvina Clark, Waterville, Wash.: "I have been taking the Copeland Home Treatment through the mails from Seattle, and it has certainly made a new woman of me. For the past three or four years I have been in very poor health, and kept growing steadily worse, notwithstanding physicians' treatment and the many remedies I tried. My trouble was Catarrh of Stomach and Kidneys, and as a result of this disease my nervous system was almost completely shattered. I was unable to sleep at night for the frightful dreams I had. Everything I ate was forced into my stomach and seemed to lie there like a lump of lead. I wasted away in flesh and became so weak that the least exertion completely exhausted my strength. I had the Most Distressing Headaches, and the least excitement would upset me so that I would not recover for weeks. I had awful pains across my back and through my sides, and my husband would run all over me. I was in Pain and Torture All the time, and almost wished I was dead. It was some time after commencing treatment before I noticed any improvement in my condition, but now I am perfectly cured. I have gained in
