

GRAND JURY AND GAMBLING.

At Last Winsor's Charges Are Being Investigated.

SOME WITNESSES SUBPOENAED.

In the Meantime Prosecuting Attorney James McElroy is Said to Believe That Special Prosecutor King is Responsible for Many of His Troubles and, as a Result, They Are Not Good Friends.

At last the gambling issue is before the grand jury. That body, which has been in session for several weeks past in the library of the courthouse, yesterday morning began an investigation of the matter by issuing subpoenas for witnesses. Up to 5 o'clock not many of the witnesses had been examined, and the inquiry will proceed this morning.

Up to date the grand jury has brought but little to any one concerned in its investigations. Prosecuting Attorney McElroy still feels hurt at the manner in which he was handled by the jury, and a row is again brewing between the prosecuting attorney's office and Special Prosecutor King.

It will be remembered that when the report of the grand jury on the Smith case was made to the court it contained the recommendation that the prosecution of Smith be again taken up. In the report was incorporated the finding that, in the grand jury's judgment, the prosecuting attorney had erred in accepting the plea from Smith, and in moving the dismissal of the case.

For several days there has been a rumor in circulation at the courthouse to the effect that the prosecuting attorney was contemplating making an effort to assume charge of the deliberations of the grand jury, as he is by law empowered to do, but Mr. McElroy would not affirm the rumor. According to the story, it is said that Mr. McElroy had a finding in the Smith case, advising that the prosecution of Smith be taken up as if nothing had ever been done in the matter. The story was further to the effect that Special Prosecutor King objected to this form of the report, stating that it was necessary to point out where in the former prosecution of Smith was at fault.

According to the information that has reached Mr. McElroy and others at the courthouse, Mr. King was responsible for the insertion of that section in the report, in which the grand jury went on record as saying that Mr. McElroy had erred in his conduct of the case, and by accepting the money from Smith rendered his official connection with the case of little or no value.

It is understood that Mr. McElroy, hearing of these matters, quietly began an investigation on his own behalf, and obtained enough evidence to cause him to give some credence to the story. "Do you intend to assert your right to take charge of the grand jury as the prosecuting attorney of the county?" was asked of Mr. McElroy yesterday. He was interviewed, saying he had no objection to make at this time. Again being pressed for an answer, he said that he did not contemplate taking such a step at this time.

Mr. McElroy refused to discuss the report of the grand jury and the part played by Prosecutor King in its formulation.

An interesting development of the past few days in connection with the inquiry now being conducted by the grand jury at the courthouse is the fact that the witnesses and others interested in the suit recently brought by ex-Head Supervisor Robert against the county have been interviewed by the grand jury. An indictment among the possibilities that may be expected. It is understood that evidence was introduced tending to show that the work of the grand jury was not authorized.

It is also stated that matters in this transaction were so put to the grand jury as to justify an indictment, growing out of the Robertson case.

It will place the prosecuting attorney's office at a disadvantage, for the issues in the Robertson suit were settled when a jury brought in a verdict a few days ago for $20, the amount claimed by Robertson as being the cost of the work. In fact, it appears that the grand jury, under the guidance of Special Prosecutor King, is about to devote to the prosecuting attorney the task of making a finding on the affirmative by a jury in the superior court. Of course this sort of thing has not had a tendency to make matters any pleasanter between the grand jury and the regularly ordained public prosecutor.

The grand jury will receive more light on the gambling question this morning. Dr. E. W. Young and Gen. J. D. McIntyre were two of the most notable witnesses yesterday afternoon.

HEAVY LABEL SUIT.

The Nippon Yusen Kaisha Asks for $20,000 Damages.

The Nippon Yusen Kaisha, yesterday filed a bill for $20,000 against the Hoenes for damages sustained by the Hien Maru.

The accident, as will be remembered, occurred at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Sunday, February 12. The Japanese steamer was lying on the north side of Arlington dock, bow out. The Huenes was departing from the Schwabacher dock for Alaska. A brisk wind was blowing at the time and the bay was a trifle rough. Through some inadvertence or carelessness, the Huenes ran head on into the side of the Hien Maru, damaging the latter so as to necessitate extensive repairs.

An interesting case tried in the Probate Court at Lewiston.

Lewiston, Idaho, Tribune. An interesting case involving rights of helpship was tried before Judge Stoekey Wednesday. Tom High and California Joe, who are Digger Indians, and half brothers, are in possession of the estate of Eliza Coleman, a deceased Nez Perce Indian woman. They claim the deceased was their sister and an adopted member of the Nez Perce tribe. Recently Mrs. Lane Talamantes, formerly Mrs. Eliza Coleman, claimed that the deceased was a Modoc Indian and her sister. It is the first case brought before the probate court involving legal questions of a Nez Perce Indian allotment.

The issue is being spiritedly fought by the opposing parties, as a valuable allotment of land is involved and considerable money estate. The testimony was all submitted Wednesday, and the arguments in the case will be made next Tuesday.

Some interesting testimony was brought out in a trial of the case. It appears from the contention of the plaintiff that Jane Coleman, when a child, was kidnapped and placed in slavery by a tribe of California Indians. Mrs. Talamantes, then residing in Lewiston in the early sixties, was the sister of the plaintiff's sister from captivity, for which he was given $250. Mr. Condon, who is now 70 years of age, testified that he was at one time a justice of the peace in California, and encouraged slavery in his letters by fiddling at night and dispensing justice during the day. He had drifted to Lewiston with the tide of miners attracted here by the gold discoveries. He secured the young lady and brought her to Lewiston. Later the girl married and was adopted as a member of the Nez Perce tribe.

LIVED IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Michael Hubbert, Who Was Killed, Leaves a Wife and Family.

Michael Hubbert, a fireman on the steamer schooner Scotia, who was killed by a Northern Pacific switch engine night before last a short distance south of the Yesler way crossing, lived in San Francisco. He has a wife and two children here, but as yet Coroner Yandell has not succeeded in obtaining their address.

Yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the witnesses to Hubbert's fall assembled at the coroner's office to attend the inquest into the case. There were five of them, and the essence of their stories was that Hubbert was stretched out on the track in the shadow of a building, and that he was not seen in time to prevent his death.

Hubbert had $4 in cash when searched. The bartender at the Union saloon thinks that he is the same man who was in the saloon about a half hour before the accident. Two days later Mr. Gray received his documents in the same way.

Orphan's Home.

At the close of February there were about three children in the Orphan's Home, corner Harrison street and Fourth avenue north. Four fatherless boys were received into the home during the month. The management of this home wish the general public to understand that food or clothing, in fact any of the necessities, are never solicited over the telephone. Donations for the month: Lane House, linen tablecloth; Mr. R. H. Lewis, pocket watch; Mrs. J. J. Galt, corn meal; Dorothy Simpson, books; Mattie Eagle, books and cookies.

The Ruined California Grape Crop.

The partial loss of the grape crop this year, caused by the heavy rains, is estimated to exceed $1,000,000. Farmers and vineyardists all over the northern part of the state have suffered. While this is true, it is equally true that the loss of the crop can be restored by the persistent, systematic use of the great national tonic, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which tones and invigorates the stomach, and restores the activity of the stomach, and prevents malarial disorders. After exhausting diseases have run their course, recovery is greatly assisted by the use of the Bitters, which improves appetite and imparts renewed vigor to the debilitated physique.

"DIAMOND KING'S" WOES.

MUST ANSWER TO THE CHARGE OF BEING A FUGITIVE.

Justice Austin Places Himself at Judge Benson's Side by Overruling Judge Jacobs on the Law Relating to Arrests on Telegrams.

Justice Austin overruled Judge Jacobs in the celebrated "Diamond King" legal fight yesterday afternoon. The day previous Judge Benson practically did the same thing. The "Diamond King," Joseph Schwartz, must appear in court March 12 to answer the complaint, which says that he is a fugitive from justice in California. This is the first respite in a legal battle that has raged incessantly since last Saturday afternoon, when Detective Cuddehe took Schwartz that he was wanted in San Francisco for stealing $1,200 worth of diamonds from Wolfsohn & Lewiston, of San Francisco.

During one of the numerous habeas corpus cases Judge Jacobs said that it was the manifest duty of Justice Austin to give the defendant an immediate hearing, and insisted that he would grant an order to that effect. Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Fulton replied that such an order could not be made except in proper proceedings for a writ of mandamus, and that Justice Austin would then be given an opportunity to vindicate his position. Judge Jacobs changed his tack and decided the case on different grounds, still maintaining that an immediate hearing should have been accorded to Schwartz.

When the case came up yesterday morning on the last warrant issued, Attorney Winstock called Justice Austin's attention to the decision of Judge Jacobs that an immediate hearing was required. While Justice Austin expressed the greatest deference for Judge Jacobs' opinion, he held that his former decision granting a continuance was justly made, and that he was not bound by the opinion of Judge Jacobs, which were not decisive of matters not properly before him.

By agreement the case was continued to the afternoon session. In the afternoon two witnesses were called by the state. Chief of Police Reed and ex-Chief of Police Bolton Rogers. They testified to the arrest of Schwartz and to conversations had with him, tending to show his guilt. Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Fulton then asked for a continuance until Saturday, March 12, to enable the state to obtain evidence from California. Justice Austin granted the application and set the case for March 12, which provides that a magistrate may adjourn an examination from time to time not exceeding in all ten days from the time the defendant is brought before him. In granting the continuance, Justice Austin followed the decision of Judge Woodruff, of the Southern district of New York, in the case of McDonnell vs. The United States.

It was argued by the attorneys that if the defense was not ready by March 12 a continuance would not be opposed. Mr. Winstock intimated that he would take a trip to California for evidence in behalf of his client. Schwartz said that he would give the $1,200 bonds required to take him out of the city.

Clever Boxing Witnessed by the Big Crowd in Attendance.

At the Seattle Athletic Club's men's smoker last evening some clever boxing and wrestling contests were witnessed. The programme was fully up to the high standard already set, and the crowd of credit on Prof. Jack Green, the boxing instructor.

Prof. "Young Dutchy," the famous pugilist and all-around athlete, acted as referee, and W. E. McKee as master of ceremonies.

The first event on the programme was a three-round boxing contest between Dan Dean and N. E. Moore, at 145 pounds. It was the first round that the two men were a slow slugging match toward the end. Honors were about even.

Jack Reager, of San Francisco, met John Lewis, of Seattle, at 135 pounds. Lewis does not pose as a boxer, but is a slow slugging match toward the end. Honors were about even.

In the wrestling match between Billy Lewis, champion light-weight of the Pacific Northwest, and "Old Hink" McLaughlin, featherweight, the latter was outclassed on account of weight. He won the first fall in 2:30, but long then took two falls in quick succession.

The most interesting event of the evening was the boxing contest between "Young" Ross, of Colorado, and Sam Moore, of Seattle. Ross has a reputation for standing his punches, and he was very strong and aggressive, and in the first two rounds things looked dubious for Moore. The last round was a surprise, Moore having easily the better of it in the vicious struggle.

James Scanlan, champion amateur wrestler of Michigan, and E. P. Gaffney, of the S. A. C., gave a very clever exhibition of catch-as-catch-can wrestling. Gaffney won the first fall in 1:30, but his opponent did fast work in the remaining half minute and scored a fall.

The closing event was a three-round bout between Jack Carter, a protégé of "Young Dutchy," and Middleweight Wagoner of Ohio. Carter had easily the better of it.

Accident to City of Columbia.

Harrington Emerson, secretary of the Columbia Navigation & Trading Company, says that the reports sent by way of London and San Francisco as to the recent accident to the City of Columbia are in a large measure untrue. He is an expert on the subject, and has been informed of the mishap, and placed the matter in the hands of the insurance companies and of the local representatives of the Columbia Navigation & Trading Company, and since then have been in daily cable communication with Valparaiso. Ample funds have been provided for the necessary repairs and supplies, and Mr. Emerson says that under date of March 3 he has received telegraphic advice that the steamer will leave Valparaiso for Seattle about March 18.

THE EVANGELIST POTTER DELIVERS A SOUL-STIRRING SERMON.

He Believes There Are Men and Women in Seattle as Completely Damned as They Will Be a Million Years Hence—Curse of Resisting.

An unusually interesting service was held at the Potter meetings in the First M. E. church last night.

Mr. Potter preached from the words: "Quench not the spirit, and the trend of his argument was that many people resist the religious convictions that are as much damned now as they will be a million years hence. They are lost because they will not cry for mercy. I am talking to men who have never resisted God's spirit, and women and children who are as much damned now as they will be a million years hence. They are lost because they will not cry for mercy. How much longer do you expect Him to plead with you? Would it be unreasonable if He should withdraw His spirit from you now? There will be a limit to God's patience with your soul if you do not stop."

At the close of the sermon a large number of penitents came forward. The service last night is regarded as the most effective meeting held thus far by Mr. Potter.

Mr. Potter has received a letter from his co-laborer, Evangelist Miller, announcing positively that he will leave Seattle on time for the services on Sunday. Regarding the Corvallis revival Mr. Miller says: "We are in the midst of marvelous meetings. People stay until 11 o'clock in the night, and then get up to turn out the lights to get them out of the building. We have the leading men of the town interested. Fully 100 have been converted, and I think fifty have joined the church."

Mr. Potter regards Mr. Miller as the best "gospel singer" in America. Among other accomplishments, he can jump as high as the keyboard of a piano while he sings. Amanda Smith, who is expected to help in the services this afternoon and tonight, is an old friend of Mr. Potter. He says she is a queen in Chicago. She came into the city today, and her singing carried the congregation by storm. At the only night service in which she appeared in Portland the church was packed and many were turned away.

Next week an old folks' meeting will be held, at which persons who have been Christians for fifty years or more will have a prominent place. The plan of the meeting is to have the "old timers" up in front and engage in the services by singing old-time songs and giving their experiences. Wherever held, such meetings have attracted large crowds and tend to show his guilt.

Yesterday afternoon the city was divided into districts, and personal workers assigned to distribute invitations to the meetings.

MUNHALL AND BIRCH.

Second Service in the Union Meetings New in Progress.

Messrs. Munhall and Birch last night held the second service in the union meetings now in progress at the First Presbyterian church. The work began with a song service led by Prof. Birch and his church choir. "There'll be No Dark Valley When Jesus Comes." Come, Thou Fount of Every Blessing, sang the congregation in true anthem of praise. Prof. Birch with his cornet is a true master of song.

Dr. Munhall was very hoarse on the previous evening, but in twenty-four hours he had been great improvement, and he spoke with ease and power. In quoting the speaker urged the people to bring out their friends. "When you go home, sit down and write out a list of the people for whom you can pray and work; then both pray and work for them and bring them out."

Dr. Munhall spoke of the words, "For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus." The Bible makes the truth of the text very emphatic and very clear," said he. "There are children of God and children of the devil. Not all people, then, are children of God; you become such by faith in Jesus Christ." Dr. Munhall said that he had seen the work of the world God. With burning zeal the speaker affirms the truth of Scripture as the direct voice of God to men.

It is requested that the members of the chorus meet in the lecture room at 7:45 o'clock.

AMUSEMENTS.

Peary's Contribution to Science.

Lieut. Peary's name is famous the wide world over not alone for his daring conquests, but for his important explorations, but for his discovering and securing the most famous meteorites known to mineralogists. The largest of these was first heard of by Sir John Ross in 1818 when his ship's shipment to Cape York for the express purpose of discovering these valuable objects, but like his predecessors only to meet with defeat.

The British museum had from the first been the most interested in the matter, and one of the special objects of the English Arctic expedition of 1875-76 was to discover and secure these unique specimens. It was left for an American, Lieut. R. E. Peary, to succeed where all others had met with defeat. In May, 1894, Peary, who during his sojourn in these regions had learned all about these meteorites from the Eskimos, and had been told that there were three, namely the "Dog," the "Woman," and the "Tent," made a 200-mile sledging journey accompanied by Lee and a native guide, discovered the meteorites, and secured them.

Later in the year he attempted to take the Falcon up to them, hoping to get them on board, but he could not get the ship within thirty miles of them. In 1895 the Kite he succeeded in getting to them, and with the assistance of Deitch, the commander of the expedition which had been sent north by Mrs. Peary, he secured the "Woman" and the "Dog" on board and brought them to New York. But the large meteorite was still the object of Peary's ambition; in 1896 he succeeded in getting it to New York.

Dr. WURTH'S OPINION OF THE NEW DISCOVERY IN MEDICINE.

A Remarkably Successful Remedy for Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Stomach Troubles.

Dr. Wurtz, in commenting on recent discoveries in medicine, said: There is none which is certain to be so valuable and far reaching in benefit as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the new stomach remedy, because far reaching, because people little realize how important a sound stomach and vigorous digestion is to every man, woman and child.

Indigestion is the starting point of consumption, heart disease, Bright's disease, diabetes, nervous prostration, liver troubles; why is this so? Simply because every nerve, muscle and tissue in our bodies is created and nourished from the food we eat. If that food is, by reason of a weak stomach, compelled to lie for hours, a sour, fermented mass of half-digested food, it poisons the blood and nervous system, creates gas which distends the stomach and bowels, causing pressure on the heart, lungs and other organs and seriously impeding their action.

ceeded in getting it near the shore, but was compelled to leave for fear of the ice passing the ship. But last year when he went up on the Hope he took with him powerful hydraulic jacks, heavy oaken timbers, and every appliance for moving the huge, unwieldy mass, and successfully brought it on board the ship and came back in triumph with his strange, mysterious visitor from some unknown world. There is always a peculiar interest attaching to such strange, rare bodies, those heavenly visitants which issue out of the infinite abyss of universal space and fall upon the earth with loud detonations, accompanied by flashes and trails of brilliant light. Legends more or less mysterious have been woven about them, and many have been objects of veneration, awe and even worship. But none have equaled in size, purity and homogeneity of composition these solid lumps of nickel steel brought from the North by the energy and ingenuity of Lieut. Peary.

Drama and Vaudeville.

A large and enthusiastic audience witnessed the Chapman-Warren company last night in their celebrated drama, "A Race for Life," at the People's theater. The numerous difficult parts were portrayed true to nature by the various members of the company, and kept the audience spellbound during the entire play. After the drama an olio followed, in which twenty artists appeared, making one of the strongest vaudeville shows ever seen in Seattle. In the last six years, the entire bill will be reproduced again this evening.

"The Prisoner of Algiers." "The Merry Widows" will close their engagement at the Third Avenue theater Saturday night. There will be a matinee Saturday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Great interest is already centering around the production of "The Prisoner of Algiers," which opens for a week at this popular house on Sunday night.
