CONJUGAL EXPERIMENTS MADE BY DR. WILLIS E. EVERETTE.

With Chemically Pure Elements, in a Crucible, Under Enormous Heat and Pressure, He Claims to Have Metals, Not Originally There.

Special Dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer. TACOMA, March 12.—Gold, copper and nickel, with a sprinkling of silver, were noted from antimony, so far as the uninitiated are able to determine, are what Dr. Willis E. Everette has succeeded in showing as a result of chemical experiments. Dr. Everette is an acknowledged expert on assaying and the general treatment of ores and chemicals, and his recent findings, which are closely akin to those of Emmons, of New York, and Theodore of France, have created no small interest. Emmons is the man who claims to make gold in commercial quantities from silver, and sells his product mainly to the military.

Dr. Everette makes no definite claim from his experiments other than what is shown by them. He does not pretend to accomplish anything at variance with the laws of chemistry, but his experiments have given results of such a nature as to lead him to explain them in detail, and have others to judge the why and wherefore. He has accordingly made a written report, in which he sets forth his conclusions or opinion, and states in conclusion he intends to pursue the matter more thoroughly. Below is given a copy of his report in the matter, signed by himself:

Treatment and Results. "Certain proportions of chemically pure metallic antimony, lead, tin, iron, hydrogen, plumbic oxide and carbon, with lime, silica and alumina, in a high-grade refractory crucible, avoiding contact and inserted in the hot blast of a specially prepared furnace at full red heat, a powerful pressure of hydrogen gas, and a blast of twenty-five pounds gas pressure of hydrogen gas, were used in the experiment. The temperature of the furnace was 1,600 degrees Fahrenheit. In two minutes the temperature had risen to 2,800 degrees Fahrenheit, when the antimony took place in the crucible, and long streams of vivid yellow light shot forth from the chimney of the furnace, followed by dense white clouds of sulphurous acid fumes. In ten minutes the temperature had risen to 4,000 degrees Fahrenheit, and a series of constant small explosions were intermittently occurring inside of the crucible. The pressure of the hydrogen gas was beginning to take place, and care had to be taken to prevent a sufficient softening to break down the crucible. At an approximate average heat of between 4,000 and 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit, depending upon the amount of hydrogen gas used, the crucible was kept for several hours, and then allowed to cool down to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, and the contents poured into a prepared polished metal, cooled, ground into powder, re-mixed, and pressed into a pellet. The furnace was cooled, and the crucible was kept for several hours, and then allowed to cool down to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, and the contents poured into a prepared polished metal, cooled, ground into powder, re-mixed, and pressed into a pellet.

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX. There Are 2,500 Delinquents, Who Are Waiting Developments. TACOMA, March 12.—Small property owners are anxiously awaiting the action of the county treasurer in attempting to collect the delinquent taxes due on personal property, amounting to about $10,000. Some 2,500 persons have been delinquent, and of these about 500 have been given notice that the treasurer may make the taxes a lien upon the property.

WALKED AWAY FROM THE PEN. Two Convicts Tire of the Monotony of Prison Life and Leave. SALEM, Or., March 12.—George F. Betz, alias John Bingham, and C. F. Moore, trustees at the state penitentiary, walked away from the penitentiary at 8 o'clock tonight. Both men were doing three years for a burglary committed at Portland, and had only served about a year. The prison officials are on their track and expect to capture them by midnight.

TOWNE TALKS IN OLYMPIA. OLYMPIA, March 12.—Representative Charles A. Towne addressed a large audience in the Olympia theater tonight.

THE TENNIS TOURNAMENTS. Dates Set for the Events to Be Held in Seattle and Other Pacific Coast Cities. BOSTON, March 12.—The executive committee of the National Lawn Tennis Association announced the following dates for tournaments during the coming season: May 28—California L. T. C., San Francisco (open). June 1—Seattle L. T. C., Seattle, state championship. July 1—Pacific States L. T. A. W., San Rafael, Pacific states championship. August 10—Tacoma L. T. C., Tacoma, championship of the Pacific Northwest, eighth annual. September 7—Pacific States L. T. A. A., Del Monte, Monterey, double championship, fifteenth annual ladies' championship, singles.

Probable Cause of Result. "It is possible that, by the extreme heat produced by the explosions which were constantly occurring inside the crucible, together with the great pressure caused by the suddenly formed heat and the rapid condensation of the gases generated, a change of the atomic weights of the elements used actually took place, forming the new elements which were found by the repulsion and attraction of atoms."

Although Barker has been here a week, knocking about with his confederates and dealing faro bank at a well-known gambling house, he was not turned up until about midnight last night.

LETTING CONSUMPTION.

The Cure of Catarrh the Most Potent Factor in the Compass of Medical Science—The Perfection of the Copeland Practice the Culmination of Years of Experience—It Is by This Treatment That Catarrh Is Cured and Consumption Prevented.

Relation of Catarrh to Consumption.

There is today nothing of such vital importance to the people of this country as the prevention of consumption. There is nothing that so prepares the system for the entrance and development of the seeds of consumption as does catarrh. There is nothing that will so speedily rid humanity of the most insidious and terrible of diseases—consumption—as will the cure of catarrh.

While Catarrh Does Not Cause All Cases of Consumption, It is Also True That All Those Who Have Consumption Have Been Subject to Catarrh.

While catarrh does not cause all cases of consumption, it is also true that all those who have consumption have been subject to catarrh. All consumptive were catarrh victims. They took cold; catarrh had prepared the way for consumption. Tubercular consumption ever requires a break in the membranes which line the breathing tubes. Catarrh furnishes the broken places in the form of raw spots. The germs only enter the system when they find a raw, sore, discharging surface. Catarrh creates just such a surface. Every catarrh sufferer is in danger of contracting consumption whenever he or she breathes the air that has just been breathed out by one who has tubercular consumption.

While no intelligent or self-respecting doctor of today claims that all cases of consumption are of a catarrhal character; still, the history of every case of consumption was written, it would be found to consist of the story of frequent colds that were left unremoved; colds that did not get well themselves; colds that came every spring and got better in the summer, but came back worse in the fall and winter; colds that were followed by catarrhal symptoms—a discharging from the nose, sore and inflamed throat, hawking of mucus, with coughing and spitting. As is well known, the fatal form of consumption so common in our midst is due to the entrance into the blood of tubercle bacillus, which settles in the lungs and sets up lung disease.

The expelled air of a consumptive frequently contains the seeds of the disease. The material which consumptives cough up also contains these germs, which, after having dried in the air, are blown around and inhaled by other persons. It is seen at once that those who live in a section where consumption is prevalent would be very particular to keep their bodily health at a high standard and never allow themselves to have a catarrh-affected nose, inflamed, discharging throat or raw, raw, inflamed, or through which the consumptive germs may gain admission to the system. The most potent element that can be used to banish consumption is the cure of catarrh, the disease that makes the development of consumption possible.

When catarrh has existed in the head and upper parts of the throat for any length of time, the patient living in a district where people are subject to catarrhal affections, and the disease has been left unremoved, the catarrh almost invariably extends from the throat down the windpipe, and thence into the bronchial tubes. These tubes convey the air into the different lobes of the lungs. The pain which accompanies this condition is of a dull character, felt in the chest behind the breastbone, or else it is present under the shoulder-blade. The cough that occurs at this time is dry, some at times, the patient coughing in a character, and is usually most troublesome in the morning upon arising or on going to bed. This peculiar character of the cough is often the first evidence that catarrhal disease is extending into the lungs.

At this stage of the trouble in some cases there will be found streaks of blood mixed with the mucus that is expelled by the cough. In certain other cases small masses of cheese-like substances are spit up, which when pressed between the fingers emit a very unpleasant odor. This last is a very serious symptom. In some cases catarrh will extend from the throat into the lungs in a very few weeks. In other cases it may be months, and even years, before the disease has extended into the lungs. During this period following the presence of these symptoms there is liable to be profuse night-sweating. At this period of the disease a further extension is ever induced by a fresh cold, and the fresh cold may be all that is needed to develop rapid consumption.

To show what can be done in the way of preventing consumption, nothing is so convincing as this: Among the hosts that Doctor Copeland every year treats, scarcely a person who has been under his care has been known to develop lung disease. This is proof beyond question that by curing catarrh development of consumption is prevented.

Catarrhal Poison Had Affected Her Lungs.

Mrs. Elizabeth Casper, Bremerton, Wash.—"After more than nine years of suffering from catarrh, I have been restored to health and strength, and entirely free from all traces of the disease through the treatment given me by Dr. Copeland and his assistants. My trouble commenced after an attack of Typhoid Fever, and quickly developed until I had all the symptoms of dry catarrh in an aggravated form. My nose was terribly inflamed and continually bleeding, while my throat was rough and sore. In fact, so malignant was the action of the disease, that the structure of my nose itself was attacked and partially destroyed. Gradually the catarrhal poisons seemed to permeate my entire system until they reached my Lungs. I began to have sharp, shooting pains through my chest and under my shoulder blades, and at times it was torture for me to breathe. For several months before going to Dr. Copeland and Prevoist I had been confined to my bed the greater portion of the time, and for over five weeks I was unable to stand upon my feet. I had become greatly discouraged and despaired of being cured until told by a friend of the cures accomplished at the Copeland Institute in cases similar to mine. This inspired me with the hope of obtaining at least some relief from my suffering, and I commenced a course of treatment. He does not cough any more; he is completely cured of his trouble."

My trouble was Catarrh of Stomach and Kidneys, and as a result of this disease my nervous system was almost completely shattered. I was unable to sleep at night for the frightful dreams I had. Everything I ate was forced into my stomach and seemed to lie there like a lump of lead. I was thin, my strength completely exhausted my all the time, and almost wished I was dead. It was some time after commencing treatment before I noticed any improvement in my condition, but now I feel that I am perfectly cured. I have gained in weight and strength, I have a good appetite and digestion, and
