

dress and yellow bows. Next came the bridesmaids in twos. Miss Louise Hayden and Miss Carrie Allen, of Spokane, wore gowns of the same material, only they were of a lighter shade. Next came Miss Elena Clancey, of Tacoma, and Miss Gene Graham, of Seattle, gowned in the same manner. The two other bridesmaids, Miss Kellogg and Miss Hanford, were similarly attired. Following them came the maid of honor, Miss Ruth Allen. She wore white silk crepe, trimmed with chiffon, and carried white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids all wore yellow pompons and white aigrettes and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The party marched down the aisle to the church door, where they met the bride and the ushers. The bride wore moiré antique silk, with a tulle girdle and veil. She carried a prayer book and her veil was caught up with real orange blos-

TWO weddings, both of them important, constituted the greater part of the doings of society last week. On Monday evening the wedding of Miss Phillips and Dr. Munday at St. Mark's church was attended by the younger society people, while the older people took a deep interest in the wedding of Miss Allen and Mr. Phipps at Plymouth church on Wednesday evening. The decorations in both instances were pretty, and at the Allen wedding were particularly elaborate.

THE accompanying half-tone is from a photograph of the interior of Plymouth Congregational church taken Wednesday for the Post-Intelligencer just prior to the wedding of Miss Allen and Mr. Phipps. It shows the main feature of the decoration, the gothic arch with the wedding bells hung within. The decorations on this occasion were the prettiest ever seen in this church and have seldom, if ever, been equaled in Seattle.

Other affairs of the week were confined to parties of different kinds in honor of the principals of the wedding. A few card parties were also given. The tea given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Hoge in honor of Mr. Hoge's mother, was the largest affair of the kind during the week.

This week the charity ball is absorbing the attention of every one. It will be given Wednesday at the Donny hotel and will be well attended. The various committees have been working hard to make it a success and Seattle society people are expected to respond right royally to the call of charity.

An affair of more than usual importance in Seattle society, on account of the social standing of the parties, was the wedding on Wednesday evening at Plymouth Congregational church of Miss Grace Caroline Allen, of this city, and Mr. Hugh Phipps, of Los Angeles. The decorations of the church were more magnificent than have been seen at a church wedding in Seattle for many years. In fact they have seldom if ever been excelled in the city. The ruling feature was the lavish use of chrysanthemums. Hundreds of these flowers, in white and yellow colors were used with charming effect. A noticeable fact about the chrysanthemums was that they were all grown in Seattle and were fully as beautiful as those which are imported from the softer climate of California.

The first thing to attract the attention on entering the church was the rostrum from which the pulpit had been removed. It was a complete mass of color. At the rear, almost shutting out a view of the organ, was a large and arch made of ferns and supported at each end by large palms. Hanging within the arch was a beautiful center piece consisting of seven wedding bells in different positions to represent a wedding chime. These bells were made of white chrysanthemums and green leaves and were tied up with white satin ribbon. Over the bells and at different places about the arch were a large number of white doves in different postures of flying. White ribbon was also strung across the arch. From the top of the arch and extending to the center of the church ceiling were long streamers of ivy and asparagus plant. The choir rail was draped in white material and was banked in white and yellow chrysanthemums, ribbon and white and yellow tulle. The place where the minister stood was almost completely surrounded with palms and chrysanthemums and vines. These also extended to the front of the rostrum, on each corner of which stood a large palm tied with ribbons and tulle and surrounded by chrysanthemums. Quantities of white and yellow tulle draped in graceful folds completed the beautiful effect. Over the doors at each side of the rostrum an arch headed by Miss Harriet Allen, who was chief bridesmaid. She wore a gown of yellow silk, with a point d'esprit oversoms. The ushers were Mr. William Jones and Mr. Clyde B. Clancey, of Tacoma; Mr. Thomas Davel and Mr. Wellington Clark, of Walla Walla; Mr. Harold N. Smith, Mr. Manley B. Haynes, Capt. A. B. Wyckoff and Mr. J. Gillison, Jr., of Seattle. The party advanced to the front of the church, where they were met by the groom and the best man, Mr. Lee Phipps. Rev. E. L. Smith, formerly of Walla Walla, but now of Seattle, performed the ceremony. The church was crowded to the doors with the many friends of Miss Allen. After the ceremony the bridal party was driven to the residence of the bride's parents on Harvard avenue, where a wedding supper was served. The house decorations were also elaborate, consisting of white and yellow chrysanthemums and amaranth. Besides the wedding party the following were entertained at the house: Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Clancey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Sharp, of Tacoma; Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Clark, of Walla Walla; Mr. Edwin Whitson and family, of North Yakima; and Mr. George T. Myers, Jr., of Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Phipps left the same evening for the south. After a short stay in San Francisco they will go to Los Angeles where they will reside.

Mrs. Phipps is well known in Seattle and in the eastern part of the state, where she lived for several years. She is a daughter of ex-Senator and Mrs. John B. Allen, and has for many years occupied a prominent position in Seattle society. One of the important events to the young society people of Seattle last week was the wedding on Monday evening of Dr. F. K. Munday and Miss Mollie Phillips, of Seattle. The popularity of both young people was evidenced by the large number of friends who filled St. Mark's church, where the ceremony took place on that evening. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion with chrysanthemums. The chancel rail was banked with chrysanthemums and palms while the altar was decorated with chrysanthemums and ivy. At 7:30 the strains of the organ, played by Mr. C. C. Englehard, organist of St. Mark's, announced the coming of the bride. She entered accompanied by her mother and the bridesmaid, Miss McNaught, of Spokane. At the chancel rail they were met by Dr. Munday and the best man, Mr. Charles F. Munday. The bride was given away by her mother, Mrs. E. Phillips. The betrothal ceremony was pronounced by Rev. J. E. Lloyd, and the couple advanced to the altar. While they waited there, Miss Edna F. Witter sang a beautiful contralto solo, after which the marriage ceremony was completed. Miss Phillips wore a gown of white satin trimmed with white lace. She wore a tulle veil and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Miss McNaught was gowned in pink and carried pink carnations. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served at Miss Phillips' home on Eastlake avenue, at which only the wedding party and a few intimate friends were present. Dr. and Mrs. Munday left the same evening for a short wedding trip, and on their return will live with Mrs. Munday's mother. Both the bride and groom are among the most popular young people in younger society circles of the city. Miss Phillips was a member of the Knot-a-Gayne Club while it was in existence, and since then has been a leader among the young people. Dr. Munday has been in the city about two years.

The attention of society people of the city is taken up at present in the charity ball which will be given on Wednesday evening at the Donny hotel. Since the announcement of the date the leaders in the movement have been working diligently to make this year's affair more successful than anything of the kind ever attempted in Seattle. The various committees have left nothing undone to insure the success of the ball. That it will be well attended is a certainty. Seattle people are charitably inclined and are taking a great deal of interest in the proposed new building of the Ladies' Relief Society. Besides, the prospect of a formal dance will undoubtedly be the means of causing many people to attend. This is the first large dancing party since the Assembly ball last May. The guests will be received by Mrs. J. C. Haines, Mrs. H. C. Henry, Mrs. C. D. Stimson, Mrs. John Leary, Mrs. F. S. Stimson, and Mrs. A. W. Engle. Mr. Josiah Collins will be in charge of the floor. The decorations will be quite elaborate. Mr. C. E. Burnside is chairman of the decoration committee. Other heads of committees are: Refreshments, Mrs. F. S. Stimson; printing, Mrs. S. Aronson; distribution of tickets, Mrs. John Leary. A large number of tickets have been sold for the affair. They are on sale at Graham & Moore's and at Stewart & Holmes', or may be procured from any member of the Ladies' Relief Society.

The second of the series of dances by the Gaudemus Club, of the University of Washington, was given Friday evening at the Queen Anne club house. While it was principally a university affair, there were a number in attendance from the city. The following is a partial list of those present: Fred and Mrs. Frank P. Graves, Miss May Thompson, Miss Laura Morse, Miss Blanche Winsor, Miss Charlotte Haley, Miss Kate Halsey, Miss Almee Farnsworth, Miss Dryley, Miss Millie Robertson, Miss Jeannette Perry, Miss May Perry, Miss Lillian Gillette, Miss Ethel Phillips, Miss Maud Goldstein, Miss Ella Meagher, Miss Mabel Lynch, Miss Maud Shaw, Miss Blanche Shaw, Miss Hilda Bechtold, Miss Sadie Kellogg, Miss Hamilton, Miss Mary Button, Miss Maud Crane, Miss Bess Kelly, Miss Charlotte Blodgett, Miss Blanche Miracle, Miss Meta Becker, Miss Helen Huntton, Miss Ava Dodson, Miss Birdsey Minkler, Miss Gardner, Mrs. Freda, Miss Luella Dean, Miss Amanda Fiesher, Miss Blanche Kennedy, Miss Donna Phelps, Miss Kunkle, Miss McLean, Miss Lillian Morse, Miss Walker, Miss Lulu Dodge, Mr. Wolcott Ames, Mr. J. D. Alexander, Mr. Erwin, Mr. Max Gardman, Mr. Chris Babbs, Mr. Ed Hammons, Mr. J. G. McGinnis, Mr. Guy Robertson, Mr. Wilkins, Mr. L. O. Vesper, Mr. Van de Venter, Mr. John Storey, Mr. Walker, Mr. Frank Brown, Mr. Glenn Sner, Mr. Prentiss, Prof. J. L. Reese, Mr. J. B. McManis, Mr. Frank I. Keown, Mr. Brackenbush, Mr. Warner Karsner, Mr. Harold Baker, Mr. Rolff, Mr. Fred Bechtold, Mr. Tod Cowles, Mr. Garfield Minkler, Mr. George Tennant, Mr. Chauncey Rathoun, Mr. Charles Gachter, Mr. Will Blain, Mr. Garfield Padden, Mr. E. Earl, Mr. Arthur Calhoun, Mr. Kelly, Mr. Fay Kellogg, Mr. Alex Gardner, Mr. Chris Babbs, Mr. Gilbert Livingston, Mr. Clarence McDonald, Mr. Will Reinhart, Mr. Loyal Shoudy, Mr. T. W. Mitchell.

Amid flowers, pictures and statuary the Bohemians, on Sunday last, entertained representatives of the club which had requested consolidation with them. Social festivities culminated the afternoon, and having partaken of a bounteous repast goodbyes were said amid many felicitations on the delightful nature of the occasion. On Wednesday evening the regular low jinks was held and most of the party for "The Negro Parson's Donation Party" were assigned. This will be the first dramatic attempt by the Bohemians and there are twenty characters besides the congregation, greater stage facilities are required than those afforded by the Art League studio, consequently it is the purpose to give the high jinks, at which the farce will be presented, in some large public hall.

A banquet was tendered Maj. W. W. Robinson, Jr., by the business men of Seattle Friday night at the Rainier-Grand hotel. Maj. Robinson has been in charge of the United States quartermaster's office in Seattle for some years and leaves shortly for Honolulu. Mr. J. W. Cline, president of the Chamber of Commerce, president and Judge Burke acted as toastmaster. After the banquet toasts were responded to by Maj. Robinson and a number of the guests.

A reception was given Thursday night at the Queen Anne club house by the City Federation of Women's Clubs in honor of Mrs. Kate Turner Holmes, president of the State Federation of Clubs. The club house was decorated with flags and in green and white, the club colors. A large number of people were present. Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Francis Guy Prink for a card party to be given on Tuesday afternoon, in honor of her sister, Miss Stafford, of Rutland, Vt., who is her guest. Mrs. James D. Hoge, Jr., gave a tea Tuesday afternoon at her home on Terry avenue in honor of Mrs. James D. Hoge,
