The Original of Powell's Declaration

Only copies of many old writings of historical value are to be found in the Department of State at Washington, and the Declaration of Independence is one of the most valuable of these. Of course the original is not there, but a fac-simile of it is, and it is from this that the copies are made which are sent to the various foreign countries. The original is in Philadelphia, and is the property of the United States government. It is kept in a safe in the Department of State, and is only taken out when it is to be used by the proper officials. The fac-simile is a large sheet of parchment, and is very much faded. It is not very large, while the lettering is very fine, and it requires a magnifying glass to read it. The first fifty lines of the Constitution read: "We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America." The original Declaration of Independence is in a very much worse condition than the Constitution. It is very much faded, and it will soon have to be copied by the proper officials of the State Department, or it will be entirely illegible. The first fifty lines of the Declaration read: "When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation." The Declaration is engrossed on parchment, and is 24 inches long by 29½ inches wide. The fac-simile is a large sheet of parchment, and is very much faded. It is not very large, while the lettering is very fine, and it requires a magnifying glass to read it. The first fifty lines of the Constitution read: "We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America." The original of the Declaration of Independence is familiar through the numerous fac-similes of it, but there are some facts about it not generally known. Jefferson made the first draft in a lodging house that stood at the corner of Market (then High) and Seventh streets, Philadelphia. The site is now occupied by a banking house. The text of the original is now fading considerably and there have been schemes proposed for restoring it. The signatures remain as perfect as ever. There are several popular errors connected with its passage. No person runs the famous liberty bell in Philadelphia on July 4, 1776. There was no excitement or unusual stir on that day. Congress was sitting in secret session and its proceedings were not made public. It was not known until the 8th of July that the resolution of independence had been passed on July 2d. The passage of this resolution was the great act, worthy of celebration. Our real independence day is July 2d, not July 4th. Samuel Adams, as is well known, wrote home to his wife, in a letter that is preserved, that July 2d would be the great day in American history. Just who is responsible for our national blunder in celebrating the wrong natal day has never been found out. It is an interesting clew for some investigating historian of the future.

Another popular error is the story about the old man waiting for the signal to ring the liberty bell in the steeple of the state house, and of the little boy who cried "Ring, grandpa, ring," when the vote was taken. It is an entire fabrication that first appeared in a novel written by George Lippard. On the 8th of July there was a public demonstration in Philadelphia, but it was not great, only the Declaration being read in the state house yard. Whether the liberty bell was rung or not there is no record. It was not cracked at that time, as is generally supposed.

Small account is generally taken of the original of the bill of rights of 1689, but it is really one of the greatest documents of any civilized people. It will be remembered that James II. ran away from Whitehall between two days, leaving a pretender to the throne, but leaving a real heir in his eldest daughter Mary. This daughter was the wife of the Prince of Orange, and she found life in Holland so agreeable that she declined to leave it, even for the throne of England. The nephew William, therefore, found himself partially master of the situation. Even after he had entered London in triumph, however, he boldly declared that he would not play gentleman usher to any queen, and that unless he was provided for, he would take his wife and return to Holland. Parliament was then forced to declare the throne vacant, and to offer it to William and Mary jointly. Before doing so, however, it drew up a declaration of rights, which the sovereigns were obliged to accept. This document is in the Parliament House, London, and is still carefully preserved. It is written on parchment, and is in a very much better condition than the original Declaration of Independence. Nothing has the original, without question, but the amendments adopted within a year or two of the date of the Constitution itself, is there, and then that is cut up into a round compass and simply pasted in an immense work. A photographic copy of the original has been made and mounted, and, after being exhibited in the possession at Philadelphia, is to be presented to that city, to be placed among its archives. It is the next best thing to having the real thing, for it is the only exact reproduction of it that has ever been made.

The original of the greatest paper of modern American statesmanship is to be in the same precarious downward. Mr. Lincoln prized his great paper with his own hands. The Emancipation Proclamation covers four pages of letter-sized official note paper. It is folded once. The title, date, and all are in the president's hand, down to the part beginning "I do at the City of Washington," etc., which is in the hand of Secretary Seward. The second and third paragraphs are in type, having been set from the preliminary proclamation of Sept. 22d, and pasted by Mr. Lincoln himself upon his sheet, in order to save rewriting them. There are no divisions of the document into sections, nor are there any insertions, the draft having first been carefully drawn up before being put into its permanent shape. Mr. Seward's handwriting is not unlike that of Mr. Lincoln, only it was rather small more regular. Where the great chief always ended his "g's" and "y's" with the down stroke, Mr. Seward brought the line back, sometimes with a flourish. When the latter went to add his part the pen evidently had a revelation in it, for the first four or five "Done at the City," are blurred and heavy. The balance, however, shows that it was written carefully and fast, and the attesting signature of the secretary of state was written in at the same time. Mr. Lincoln's signature shows a tremulous hand, not at all so clear and firm as in the body of the paper. This was due to the fact that on that New Year's morning on which the previously prepared paper was signed, the president had shaken hands with several hundred people and was fatigued. The pen with which the signature was affixed was a common steel one in an ordinary holder that can be bought for a nickel at any stationery store. It is now the property of a Boston gentleman.

At the solicitation of the British Museum Mr. Lincoln found time, in the midst of all his cares, to make for that institution a second original of his proclamation. It is different from the official one, being on large, square paper, having an engraved heading. The text was written by Mr. Lincoln, but the last part is in a strange hand, while Mr. Seward's name is hurriedly dashed down in the proper space. This copy is elegantly framed and preserved in the manuscript department of the British Museum.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

SEATTLE, Tuesday, Feb. 14.

The dealers in butter and eggs have evidently determined to look to California for a portion of the supply of eggs and butter for this market. The steamer Newburn brought up this trip 2300 dozen eggs and 25 packages of butter.

The price of mutton was advanced today.

The receipts of potatoes today comprised 200 sacks.

One carload of 220 cases of coal oil arrived today for the Standard Oil Company.

The activity in the hop market is becoming more noticeable. Today two more carloads were shipped east and 20 bales were received.

The steamer Premier will tomorrow take from here three tons of crackers for Victoria, and ten tons of wool for Boston.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—During the past 24 hours the produce received in Seattle included the following: 27 packages butter, 129 cases eggs, 200 sacks potatoes, 40 sacks oats, 270 cereals flour, 338 sacks feed, 75 sacks onions, 121 packages fruit, 30 bales hops, 12 bundles hides, 3 coops chickens, 3 bundles ducks, 1 hog and 24 bags oysters.

SHIPMENTS—During the past 24 hours general freights have been sent from Seattle in the following quantities: O. & P. R. Railroad, 15 tons; P. S. S. Line, 10 tons; S., L. S. & E. Railway, 18 tons; Steamers—Augusta, 3 tons; Greyhound, 2 tons; Fleetwood, 2 tons; Edith, 1½ tons; W. F. Monroe, 20 tons, and Olympia, 20 tons.

HOPS—One small lot of 5 bales from the river track and another lot of 25 bales from Coal Creek came in today, consigned to Jerome Cattle. The shipments comprised, besides the carload mentioned yesterday, one carload of 75 bales to Chicago and a carload of 65 bales to Oneonta, New York. It is said that ten cents per pound has been paid for some choice exporters lately, but accurate information in regard to prices cannot be obtained.

MEATS—Beef and pork remain unchanged, but an advance was reported in mutton today. Dressed mutton now wholesales at 11 cents per pound and on foot it brings 3½ cents per pound.

EGGS—The prices have declined a peg. Today cases were wholesaling at 40 cents per dozen and retailers were asking 45 cents per dozen. Receipts for the day 129 cases, including 110 cases from California.

POTATOES—Supplies getting less plentiful although today's receipts amounted to 200 sacks. In small lots retailers have received as high as $1.50 per cwt. Wholesale prices are quoted at from $21 to $22 50 per ton.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, for children teething, is the prescription of one of the best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and has been used for forty years with never failing success by millions of mothers for their children. During the process of teething its value is incalculable. It relieves the child from pain, cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the bowels and wind colic. By giving health to the child it rests the mother. Price 25c. a bottle.

THE GREAT HEREAFT.

The most wonderful part of man, most difficult to comprehend, perhaps, is the nervous system, which touches and controls every part of the body.

Having its root in the brain, its trunk in the spine, and its branches extending into and throughout every muscle, tissue and organ of the entire frame, it carries either life and health or disease and death along its course.

The brain governs a nervous fluid which is responsible to its effects and influences. This nerve-life element travels along the nerves like electricity, from the roots of the hair to the tips of the fingers, and through its tel-graphic communication permeates the whole system. When the nervous fluid is deficient, or when the nerves do not properly transmit it, weakness and disease in the inevitable result. Magnetism, the wonder of the age, names that telegraph and exhibit it to cure disease from its stronghold.

By applying this, it becomes the source of healthy perfection. It penetrates the secret outbreak of disease and exterminates it root and branch.

It removes the wretched symptoms of heathcome maladies and averts their dreadful results. It relieves more agony and suffering than tongue can tell.

It cures most chronic chronic diseases, which have baffled for years the skill of the medical fraternity in many cases with wonderful and startling rapidity. Drs. Darrin, the electro-magnetic physicians, at the International hotel, Cherry street, Seattle, employ this remedy with wonderful success, as the few of the following testimonials will show from the many that they are constantly receiving.

WONDERFUL RESTORATION OF HEARING.

To THE PUBLIC: My little boy has been deaf since he was 18 months old, and was so deaf that he never learned to talk and is now 5 years old. I had concealed a great many physicians and none could do anything for him and said that his hearing could never be restored. As a last hope I consulted the Drs. Darrin at the International hotel, Cherry street, in his ears and they said they could cure him. Now after three treatments the child's hearing is almost entirely restored, and he seems to be deaf no more. Through thankfulness and gratitude to the doctors and for the sake of others that may be afflicted, I give this testimonial to the public. I can be referred to at corner Front and Vine street, Seattle, W. T.

MRS. MEVIE GREGORY.

DEAFNESS CURED IN TEN MINUTES.

MR. EDITOR—Dear Sir: I reside in North Yakima, W. T., I consulted Drs. Darrin for deafness. My left ear was totally deaf. With one operation with Drs. Darrin's electro-magnetic cure, of ten minutes, I was made to hear as well as ever in my life. Can be referred to as to the truth of my statement. C. V. POWLER.

DECIDEDLY VIRUS CURED IN TWO OPERATIONS.

To the Public: I am not in the habit of puffing advertising doctors, but the wonderful and almost miraculous cure of my affliction prompts me to signing my name to this card for the benefit of others, as well as the doctor. I am 18 years old and have been "cross-eyed" since a child, both eyes being turned in so far as nearly to hide the pupil and to seriously interfere with my vision. After two operations by Drs. Darrin of thirty seconds my eye was made perfectly straight. I can be referred to at the Columbia House, Seattle, W. T., and hundreds who know me can vouch for the above. EULA GREGG.

CURED OF CATARRH AND VARICOCELE VEINS.

To the Public: For ten years I have been troubled with a very disagreeable catarrh and bronchitis. I finally got so bad that I had to give up my business of ranching and riding for my stock. The catarrh extended to my lungs and stomach. My physicians gave me up as incurable. Last October I came to Drs. Darrin, and now, after three months' treatment, I consider myself so far restored as to be able to do all my own work. Before treatment I had to give up horseback riding, and could not attend to my stock at all; now I can remain in the saddle nearly all day without fatigue. My wife had also been troubled with dropsy, milk leg or varicose veins, so she could only walk with the greatest inconvenience, and it was painful to the touch, and finally broke out in a running sore. Drs. Darrin sent her medicines, and, to our great joy, she is entirely cured.

The Theatre and Performance.

Both will win and receive public recognition and praise. Facts, which are the substance of general experience, carrying through years of critical and practical test, become as rooted and immovable as the rock of Gibraltar to public opinion, and henceforth need no further guarantee as to their genuineness. The indisputable fact that Swift's Specific is the best blood purifier in the world, is one of these facts, and every day's experience roots this conviction deeper and deeper in public opinion. Every class of our people in America and in Europe, every trade, calling and profession, including the medical profession, have borne voluntary testimony to the remarkable virtues of S. S. S., and its infallible efficacy in curing all diseases of the blood. These testimonials are on file by the thousands and open to the inspection of all. Now among, unquestionably, the most distinguished members of the theatrical profession, who gratefully testify to the wonderful curative qualities of the specific in their individual cases, Their testimonials are herewith submitted to the public without further comment, as the name of the lady is a household word in connection with the Comedy Theatre company of New York, and formerly of the Bidwell Theater, Boston, Germany, and of McVicker's stock company, of Chicago. The gentleman is a well known member of the New York Theatre Theater Company. Both are well known in theatrical circles in this country and in Europe:

CHARLOTTE BARNES THOMPSON,
New York, May 1, 1887.

SOUTH SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.—Gentlemen: Having been annoyed with pimples, eruptions and blotches of the skin from bad condition of my blood, for more than a year, I used a leading preparation of sarsaparilla and other advertised remedies to no effect. Then I consulted a prominent physician, and from his treatment received no benefit. I then concluded to try the S. S. S. remedy for the blood, and after six packages, by a thorough eradication of my trouble and restoring my blood to its pristine, have made me happy; and I cheerfully give you this testimonial for such use and publicity as you wish to make of it.

CHARLOTTE BARNES,

Hugo Hagemeyer's Testimony.

The Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Ga.—Gentlemen: For two years I had a severe case of eczema. I used ten soaps, sulphur soaps and various other remedies, and was prescribed for by numbers of physicians, but found no relief. At last I determined to try the S. S. S. remedy, and after eight bottles had been thoroughly relieved me, and you can use this testimonial in any manner you wish.

The reason assigned by said Lotch for giving the above instructions was to avoid all possibility of spreading smallpox among his customers.
