

Mrs. Schieffelin President Harrison's Daughter Has Leg Broken by Hunter Falling

Serious Accident Revealed Through Her Return Home From Hospital.

On her return yesterday from the Morristown Hospital to the Gables, the country place at Morristown, N. J., of her parents, it became known that Mrs. George R. D. Schieffelin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scribner, had her leg broken by her hunter falling on her while riding with the Essex County Hounds two weeks ago. She now is convalescent.

When the accident happened Mrs. Schieffelin was well up in the chase. Her horse in taking a blind jump failed to recover and fell with its rider. One of Mrs. Schieffelin's legs was caught under the animal and broken. The other riders quickly went to her aid and hurried her to the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Schieffelin made their home with her parents, and when in the city live at 9 East Sixty-sixth street.

Pitou's Daughter Wed 3,000 Feet Above the Ocean

Mrs. Wolf and S. L. Bates Married in Seaplane at Atlantic City.

SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE NEW YORK HERALD. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 30.—While their bridal seaplane was 3,000 feet above the ocean, and volleys of cheering New York and daughter of Augustus Pitou, theatrical manager, and Samuel L. Bates of Philadelphia were being broadcast during the wedding, Mrs. Wolf and S. L. Bates were married in a seaplane at Atlantic City. "I don't mind telling you I feel badly," said Mrs. Bates after the plane alighted. "I suppose the excitement combined with the novel experience has been too much for me."

The bridegroom did not undertake to say much. He was plainly groggy and his face was pale and pinched. The pilot was Capt. Frank Fitzsimmons, who was with the Lafayette Escadrille during the war and was shot down in the Argonne. Recorder Goldenberg and the bride's party were the only passengers, but there were witnesses who remained below, among them Mrs. Wolf's children, Ruth and Billie. Wolf, the couple were wed while the aircraft was volplaning, because otherwise it would have been impossible for them to hear the questions of the Recorder.

The ceremony was held in Philadelphia, and in 26 years old. He served with the 104th Engineers in France. He resides here. Mrs. Bates has been making her home in Ventnor, near here, for two years.
