

BUDGET HEWED TO LEGAL LIMIT OF $346,453,341

On Final Pruning Day Schools Suffer Again. Despite Protests.

NOTHING BUT CLASHES La Guardia and Curran Revolt Because Education Is Treated Unjustly.

TAX VALUES GROW FAST New Assessments Total More Than $50,000,000 Above Previous Figures.

Slashing more than $3,000,000 from the proposed budget in an all day battle, the Board of Estimate adopted a final budget for 1921 whose uncomputed figures as nearly as they could be arrived at this morning are $346,453,341.74.

The adoption was achieved early this morning after political differences and personal feeling had prevented favorable action at 8 o'clock last night, and an adjournment became necessary to force adoption by the smaller requisite majority of a second ballot.

Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, and F. H. La Guardia, president of the Board of Aldermen, voted against the final passage, as they had done on the early ballot last night, for the reason that, in their opinion, the schools have not been sufficiently provided for in the budget.

Within $13,536 of Limit. The apparent total of the money which the city administration, through this budget, proposes to expend next year is $346,453,341.74, less than the $346,466,878.04 which Comptroller Charles L. Craig announced yesterday as the maximum amount the city could hope to obtain from all sources next year, and beyond which the budget could not be fixed without exceeding the constitutional tax limit.

The Comptroller said that revised estimates from Jacob A. Cantor, president of the Board of Taxes and Assessments, indicated that the city might possibly expect an increase of between $10,000,000 and $100,000,000 in taxable values beyond the total of $10,000,000,000 previously announced, thus furnishing a slight margin. He also said he was willing to "take a chance" on the general fund coming to $62,000,000.

Mr. Craig then estimated the city's prospective income next year as follows: General fund, $62,000,000.00; Paid in advance, $1,000,000.00; Debt service, $2,412,984.77; State fund, $2,941,182.77.

Total, $68,354,167.54. The reduction of the budget was wrought with the usual armory of Board of Estimate meetings.

Strangely enough, the Board of Education, already stripped $20,000,000 short of its original request, caught the brunt of slaughter.

The board, on the insistence of the Comptroller that there would be a margin of $1,500,000 in tax notes authorized but not utilized, adopted a resolution assigning that surplus to the Board of Education. But later, having boiled the budget down to within $1,500,000 of its original request, the board reached the end of its rope and slashed the $1,500,000 tax notes out of the budget. The Borough Presidents got together then and made up a sort of budgetary jackpot for the remaining $100,000.

The Department of Plant and Structure came in for a paring of $27,538, of which $19,000 fell upon personal services for the ferries and bridges. The result will be, for instance, that bridge tenders will work 365 days in the year and that the bridges must go with scant painting.

Street Cleaning is Curtailed. The Department of Street Cleaning was chopped down $22,732, a cut which was ameliorated by the fact that the department hopes to save $100,000 in the cost of final disposition through the elimination of contractors and the use of new city owned scoops.

It was stated that the Street Cleaning Department's trouble last winter with strikes and with Rodgers & Haggerty, contractors, who since that time have received the award of the four-house foundation contract, cost the department $500,000.

The $230,000 police pension request was disposed of by cutting it to $190,000 and diverting the surplus of all city departments to take care of that.

The meagre budgetary allowance to the public schools was the cause of bitter outbursts all day long and finally caused the defeat of the budget on the first ballot. Curran and La Guardia cast the opposing votes because they thought the schools had not been properly taken care of in a position which twice before has blocked the budget at crucial stages.

Comptroller Craig refrained from voting until after they had cast their votes, and then announced his intention of voting in the affirmative and entered into an attack upon the sincerity of the two Republican members, who replied in kind.

Mr. Craig, whose idea it had been since the budget making began weeks ago, to leave the big deficiency in the school appropriation for the Legislature to make up, conceded that he does not believe now that the Legislature will provide the money to meet the need.

In the extremity of trying to force cuts the Mayor announced that he would call in his departmental heads and tell them if they did not feel they could get along on the appropriations made their resignations would be in order, and that he would find any of them oversteering their appropriations he would insist upon their resignations.

2 RABBIS HELP JUDGE DECIDE REBURIAL SUIT Humphrey to Go Over Hebraic Script With Interpreter.

An opinion by two rabbis, submitted in Hebraic script, has been turned over to Judge Burt J. Humphrey of Queens County Court to enable him to decide whether the body of Mrs. Frances Muskatelbluth may be buried beside that of her husband in Mount Zion cemetery.

The husband died in 1907 and was buried in a plot in the cemetery owned by the Independent First Koslover Sick Benefit Society. The wife died in 1919, and as the couple had expressed a wish to be buried beside each other arrangements were made for the burial in the same plot.

It was found, however, that there was no space for the new grave beside that of Muskatelbluth, and the wife was buried a short distance away in a plot owned by the Free Sons of Israel, Jamaica Avenue, No. 21.

Recently, Mrs. Hager of 163 Norman avenue, Brooklyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Muskatelbluth, with her brothers and sisters, asked the Koslover society to permit the removal of the body of the father to the plot in which Mrs. Muskatelbluth was buried. The society declined on the ground that the Jewish laws forbid the removal of the body of the father to the plot in which Mrs. Muskatelbluth was buried.

The Free Sons of Israel lodge, however, consented, quoting the precedent of the sons of Jacob carrying the remains of their father back to his native land. To settle the matter, Rabbi Solomon Galubowski of Beth Jacob Anshe Scholom, South Third street, Brooklyn, and Abraham Fudelschew of Kahal Adath Jesarim, in Eldridge street, Manhattan, were asked to submit their views.

Judge Humphrey said he would go over these papers today with a Jewish interpreter.

WAIT FOR BODY TO RISE. Teachers Keep Vigil at Death Shaft for Dead Professor.

After a fruitless search of seventy-two hours for the body of Hugo C. A. Schmitt, a teacher of Buckley School, Tarrytown, who was drowned in a water filled shaft of an abandoned mine at Mantion, N. Y., Wednesday afternoon, a teacher of Buckley School, Tarrytown, who was drowned in a water filled shaft of an abandoned mine at Mantion, N. Y., Wednesday afternoon, gave up the task of grappling yesterday, leaving three fellow teachers of the dead man to watch the shaft until they could rise to the surface.

Mr. Dalmater said the process of grappling was very difficult, as the iron caught in the many braces supporting the sides and roof of the mine. It is thought the teacher's body is being held below the surface by one of these braces. The three teachers, Ernest E. Pierce, Walter B. Gage and Thomas H. Green, declared they will watch the shaft for months if need be until Mr. Schmitt's body is recovered.

510 SAIL FOR SOUTH AMERICA. Liner Vauban Has a Capacity List of Passengers.

The Lamport & Holt liner Vauban sailed yesterday from Hoboken for South America with a capacity list of 200 cabin, 150 second and 150 third class passengers.

Daniel F. Mooney, United States Minister to Paraguay, who has been spending a short holiday in the country, returned to his post. Mr. Mooney said that whatever the attitude of other South American countries might be, Paraguay was strongly in favor of the United States and anxious to trade with her. Her friendship, he said, dated from the settlement by President Hayes of a boundary dispute.

Among the other passengers were J. L. Cross of the National City Bank, Harry B. Robertson, formerly of the United Press, and Hugh B. Taylor of the United States Steel Products Company.

200 IN SAXONIA'S SALOON. Canarder Sails to Take Place of American Liners.

The Cunard liner Saxonia, which recently was rehabilitated, sailed yesterday for Cherbourg, Southampton and Antwerp with more than 200 saloon passengers. She will be replaced by American line ships which have been withdrawn from service on the Cherbourg-Southampton route during the war.

The Ferdinand Palasciano of the Royal Italian Mail line, sailed for Genoa and Naples with 300 first and 500 steerage passengers.

NOTABLE COMPANY HERE ON AQUITANIA

J. D. Spreckels, Jr., Comes in Fresh Pursuit of Diamond Bill Barrett

PEGGY HOPKINS IS ANGRY British Diplomats, New York Society Folk and Merchants Arrive.

John D. Spreckels, Jr., of California, whose wife recently accused William D. Barrett of stealing diamonds worth $100,000 from her, arrived yesterday on the Cunarder Aquitania.

Pull of wrath against the man he said had abused his wife's confidence and sold a pearl necklace and other jewels she had entrusted to him to be insured, Mr. Spreckels declared that no matter where the former army captain might flee he would be caught at last.

"I'll get him," he declared. "No man can lay his hands on me and get away with it."

Mr. Spreckels was not in London at the time Diamond Bill convinced Mrs. Spreckels she had better have her costly jewelry insured. His wife arrived in this country two weeks ago on her way to California. She was much vexed at the time she learned that Barrett, once had Diamond Bill under surveillance, but had permitted him to drop out of sight. Mr. Spreckels will remain at the Ritz-Carlton for several days and will go to his wife in California. He said he would not return to England to prosecute Barrett, but added that his wife would.

Several interesting stories of alleged espionage in England were related by Mr. Spreckels. The former officer was received everywhere because of his marriage with Miss Alice Drexel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, and his two children, Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Doubleday. Mr. and Mrs. Spreckels said that Barrett and his wife ceased to be on friendly terms last summer after the birth of a son.

MOTHER SENT TO BELLEVUE. Mrs. Mary Witz, 33 years old, charged with having drowned her baby, four months old, in a bathtub at her home, 128 West 149th street, was arraigned yesterday in Washington Heights Court and upon the statement of detectives that physicians at Bellevue Hospital had pronounced the woman mentally unbalanced, Magistrate Schwab committed her to that institution. The homicide complaint was dismissed.

Deported Editor Arrives. Leaving much business unfinished in England, Edward J. Costello, managing editor of the English Daily Express, arrived on the Aquitania with a deportation order in his possession commanding him to keep out of the British Isles forever. He was greeted at the pier by representatives of the Central Federated Union and several hundred other labor men, who cheered him, boomed England and displayed cartoons criticizing the action of the British Government in deporting him.

The fact of the matter is that England has an attack of nerves," Costello said. "The presence of any outsider with liberal ideas makes them hysterical. No doubt they know that the day of the proletariat is at hand."

The labor man said he sailed for Europe August 28 and visited England, Holland, Norway, Belgium and Germany, soliciting newspapers to join his syndicate of labor news service. When he returned to England for another visit he conferred with Arthur Henderson, labor leader in Parliament, and other men in union circles. After this conference he discovered in his rooms a Scotland Yard inspector who was searching his trunk and seizing his papers. The inspector

BILTMORE IS LATEST TO CUT FOOD PRICES

45 Items on Bill of Fare to Be Reduced. Management Assures Riley.

CHAIN RESTAURANTS ACT Hotels Throughout City Expected Soon to Fall in With Movement.

The Biltmore has joined in the movement for a downward revision of food prices in hotels and restaurants, it was announced yesterday by Armin W. Riley, special assistant to the Attorney-General. He was accompanied by the management of the hotel that reductions will be made on forty-five items. These cuts will range from five to fifteen cents on various dishes, it was said. The new scale of prices probably will go into effect during the coming week. The management did not say whether similar reductions will be made in other hotels of the Bowman group.

Mr. Riley prophesied that hotels throughout the city, as well as restaurants, will find it necessary to fall in with the movement and offer substantial reductions. Several other hotels, Mr. Riley said, have informed him they are considering either the institution of table d'hote meals at special prices, such as have been introduced by the hotels of the Boomerdy Point group and others, or cuts on the a la carte lists.

The "flying squadron" which works under Mr. Riley is still obtaining data from eating places with respect to the effect upon food prices of overhead expenses, which the restaurant and hotel men say are so great as to necessitate a big gross profit in order to permit them to hold their own. At present the squadron is busy getting a line on the cost of operating the various chain restaurant systems, which have not yet joined in the movement to bring food prices to a lower level.

APPELBAUM RELAPSES, WIFE LEAVES HOSPITAL. Humanitarian Cult Leader Still in Danger.

Mrs. Misha Appelbaum, who had been under care with her husband at Knickerbocker Hospital since October 22, suffering from the effects of bichloride of mercury poisoning, was discharged yesterday from the hospital. She was accompanied to her home by a number of friends.

Anxiety was expressed over the condition of Mr. Appelbaum, who is leader of the Humanitarian Cult. He took a turn for the worse Friday and failed to show improvement yesterday. Some fears were expressed for his recovery.

GREEKS HERE FOR OLD KING. 105 Leagues Said to Favor Constantine's Return.

A message was sent yesterday by D. J. Theophilatus, a ship and insurance broker of 17 State street, to King Constantine, at Luzerne, Switzerland. It was signed as representative of the opinion of "105 Greek-American Leagues."

"American Greeks sternly oppose any concession to any foreign influence calculated to deprive Greek people of their inalienable constitutional rights to demand your Majesty's return to the throne of Greece, which by inheritance and tradition belongs to you."

SHELL CAUSES SCARE AT P. R. STATION. Shrapnel Container Proves to Be Harmless.

An exploded three inch shrapnel shell, a souvenir of war, was set down casually on the walk of the driveway leading into the Pennsylvania terminal yesterday either by a person fond of hoaxes or by a traveller who forgot to come back for his relic.

To add to the situation some one dropped a burned match near the shell. The eye of Patrolman Henry Vogel of the West Thirty-seventh street station was the first to sight the projectile. Inside it he saw a brownish powder and what looked like a fuse.

Dashing into the waiting room the officer borrowed a water pail, filled it and came splashing out. He deposited the shell with care in the water and carried the pail and the shell to the police station, where a call was sent for members of the bomb squad. On examination the true nature of the shell was discovered. The brownish powder was found to be rosin.

RICHMOND HILL CAR KILLS MAN AND WIFE

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Vuillemin Struck at 109th Street and Myrtle Avenue.

LIGHTS OUT, POLICE SAY Motorman, Ending Third Day on Job, Collapses After Arrest for Deaths.

Edward L. Vuillemin, 54 years old, and his wife, Mrs. Elsie Vuillemin, 49 years old, of 8418 109th street, Richmond Hill, were run down and killed last night by a surface car of the Myrtle avenue line at Myrtle avenue and 109th street, Richmond Hill. Frank E. Bishop, motorman of the car that killed them, was ending his third day on the job, and when he learned of the two deaths collapsed and required the attention of an ambulance surgeon.

The Vuilleminers, on their way to a musical, started to cross Myrtle avenue after making sure that Bishop's car was far enough away to permit a safe crossing. When half way toward the opposite side of the thoroughfare a second car, about west, according to reports to the police, running with out a headlight, changed its gong almost in their ears.

Discovered by the danger, Mr. and Mrs. Vuillemin hurried out of its path. Both became confused and stopped for a moment before the southeast rails. The second car, speeding down a long hill, struck them. Mrs. Vuillemin was caught under its fender and her husband was flung to one side, his head striking the side of the westbound car.

After Bishop had jumped out of his brakes, he leaped out over the front of the car and tried to seize Mrs. Vuillemin and pull her from under the fender.

POLICEMAN SUSPENDED AFTER FIGHT AT DANCE. Charged With Disorderly Conduct While Off Duty.

Patrolman Patrick J. Grenia, attached to the Bergen street station, Brooklyn, who was suspended Friday night following his arrest for an alleged attempt to break up a dance at 1223 Lexington avenue, was held yesterday in Harlem Court in $500 bail for a further hearing on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Paul Hoffman, manager of the hall, said Grenia, who was off duty and in civilian clothes, arrived at the dance with some friends, all of whom seemed to have been drinking. Subsequently Grenia, it is said, picked up a chair, threatened to knock down several men with it and became so unruly that the women became frightened.

The witness said he found Inspector Thomas Conard and John J. Brady of the Fourth Inspector district in the vicinity and called them into the hall. It was charged in court that he attempted to kick both Inspector Underhill and the detective. The patrolman denied all the charges.
