

ADMITTS $100,000 BOND ROBBERY; EMPLOYER GONE

Secretary Refuses to Talk of Missing Toronto Theatre Owner.

WILL RETURN LOOT

Mystery in Case of Capitalist Who Dropped From Sight Unsolved.

PRISONER GIVES NO CLUE

Says Last He Saw of A. J. Small Was on Night of His Disappearance.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 23.—John Doughty, former private secretary to Ambrose J. Small, wealthy theatre owner of Toronto, Canada, who disappeared last December, was under arrest here to-night and will start to-morrow in custody for the eastern Canadian city.

Officers who arrested Doughty said he confessed to the theft of $100,000 in Canadian Victory bonds, which were missing after his disappearance.

Doughty said the bonds were obtained in Chicago and promised to deposit them when he goes through that city on his way to Toronto.

Doughty was arrested yesterday in Oregon City, near here, where he was employed in a paper mill and where he had risen from a laborer to an assistant foreman in a department there.

A world wide search has been made for Doughty, Toronto advised last to-day. Constable Edward Fortune of Oregon City, who made the arrest, said that ten days ago he received a Toronto police circular describing Doughty.

Fortune started investigating, and learned that a man resembling the picture worked at the paper mill under the name of Charles E. Cooper.

BOUGHT STOLEN AUTOMOBILES.

City Councilor Ray of Lynn Said to Have Urged Thefts.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 23.—At a hearing in the case of City Councilor E. V. Ray, charged with receiving ten stolen automobiles, testimony was given to-day that he had purchased the cars knowing them to have been stolen.

U.S. NAVY SALE

Any firm selling by catalogue or mail-circular to

Premium Users

can find here a number of profitable and attractive offers to submit to its clientele.

Prices are extremely low. Substantial discounts on large purchases, and 30 days to complete payment.

BUGENE H. TRICOU, Lieut.-Commander (S. C.), U. S. N.

Buy It From the Navy

WEEGHMAN NOT A BANKRUPT.

Court Dismisses Suit Against Federal League Promoter.

PEIRCE'S SLAYERS FLEE 1,000 MILES

Automobile in Which They Speeded From Philadelphia Is Traced South.

Special Dispatch to The New York Herald, PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—The automobile belonging to Henry T. Peirce, in which his murderers fled from Philadelphia, has been traced to a town nearly a thousand miles away.

Early Sunday morning, after crushing Peirce's skull with a heavy wrench in his apartment at 2809 Market street, the murderers jumped into the machine and headed south.

The police are looking for a woman who formerly was the sweetheart of a man now serving a penitentiary sentence for burglary.

At about 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning Peirce picked up this woman and a male companion. The trio proceeded to his town apartment.

The police believe revenge was the sole motive. In a Saturday morning newspaper Peirce advertised his apartment for rent.

Doughty willingly discussed his life with a reporter for the Portland Telegram while being conveyed from Oregon City to Portland.

Doughty said he had been married twice and that his second wife was living. They were separated some time ago, he said.

BOUGHT STOLEN AUTOMOBILES.

City Councilor Ray of Lynn Said to Have Urged Thefts.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 23.—At a hearing in the case of City Councilor E. V. Ray, charged with receiving ten stolen automobiles, testimony was given to-day that he had purchased the cars knowing them to have been stolen.

U.S. NAVY SALE

Any firm selling by catalogue or mail-circular to

Premium Users

can find here a number of profitable and attractive offers to submit to its clientele.

Prices are extremely low. Substantial discounts on large purchases, and 30 days to complete payment.

BUGENE H. TRICOU, Lieut.-Commander (S. C.), U. S. N.

Buy It From the Navy

40 MURDERS IN CITY SINCE OCTOBER 1

Continued from First Page.

been vouched for by attaches of the office. Since then, however, the filing system has been changed.

That article showed there were ten murders in January, which had defied solution. During October there were twenty-five murders, in fourteen of which the police have made no arrests.

Although more than five months have passed since Joseph B. Elwell, the turfman, was slain in his home at 244 West Seventieth street, the police have made absolutely no progress toward a solution.

The investigations in the brutal murder of Miss Ronnie Constance Hoxie of 72 West Eighty-ninth street, on February 2 and of Frederick C. Eckert, the bootlegger, in Staten Island on August 21 have suffered a similar fate.

October 6—Elsie Johnson, 17, shot and killed at 19 Hamilton avenue. No arrest.

October 10—Giovanni Fiorentino, 40, shot and killed in front of 152 De Witt street. No arrest.

October 13—John Mima, 32, shot and killed in front of 93 Sackett street. No arrest.

October 14—Whitely F. Wood, 33, shot and killed at 173 Woodbine street. Arrest made.

October 14—Joseph Rice, 34, shot and killed at 265 Leonard street. Two women held as witnesses.

October 20—Dominick Baranello, 54, assaulted at French Cabinet Works, Metropolitan and Flushing avenues; died at hospital. No arrest.

October 21—Giuseppe Guadagnino, 27, shot and killed at front 294 Stone avenue. No arrest.

October 21—Rocco Brocchio, 25, shot and killed at 45 Taaffe place. Arrest made.

October 24—Donald E. McDonald, shot and killed at 29 Skilman street. Arrest made.

October 27—Lorenzo Gioe, 30, shot and killed at Evergreen avenue and Forest street. Two arrests made.

October 30—Anselmo Russo, shot and killed at 724 Lorimer street. Arrest made.

November 1—Raymond Becker, shot and killed. Arrest made.

November 4—Peter G. Bayer, 31, shot and killed at 20 Tompkins avenue. No arrest.

November 18—Joseph Yennish, 37, black-jacked at 1105 Manhattan avenue. No arrest.

October 6—Unidentified child, which had been strangled, found in clothes hamper at St. Joan's Hospital, Long Island City. No arrest.

October 21—William Heasner, beaten to death in a lot at Harmon and Forest avenues, Ridgewood. Two men awaiting trial.

October 11—Walter Jackowski, shot and killed during holdup at 3834 Richmond Terrace, Mariners Harbor, S. I. No arrest.

October 22—Mrs. Jennie Corcoran of 91 York street, Jersey City, strangled to death in woods at West New Brighton, S. I. No arrest.

November 12—George Rivolo, 21, found dead in street at Vanderbilt avenue and Van Duser street, Concord. Police say he was killed by an automobile. Relatives declare he was murdered, as his pockets had been turned inside out. No arrest.

November 5—Giuseppe Levrer, 35, shot and killed in Grand Central Station. No arrest.

November 7—Dominick Caldrella, 25, shot and killed at 29 Monroe street. No arrest.

November 7—Victor Costa, 20, shot and killed at 12 Downing street. Man awaiting trial.

MISSISSIPPI LYNCHERS DRAG NEGRO TO DEATH

Rope Around Neck Is Tied to Automobile Axle.

TELESTOWN, Miss., Nov. 23.—Harry Jacobs, negro, while on trial here to-day for an attack on a white woman was taken from the court room and lynched by a mob which gained access by breaking down two doors to reach the court room.

Despite efforts of court officials and officers who tried to prevent violence, the negro was seized, a rope placed about his neck and he was dragged two blocks through the main street of the town, after which the rope was tied to the axle of an automobile, which dragged him to a bridge, where the lifeless body was swung to the limb of a tree andiddled with bullets.

One man was accidentally shot and is said to be in a critical condition.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

GIRL KILLED TRYING TO BOARD MOVING TRAIN

Daughter of Hackensack Pastor Victim of Fatal Injury.

Miss Miriam Walter, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Andrew Judson Walters, pastor of the North Hackensack Reformed Church, Hackensack, N. J., was killed yesterday morning while attempting to board a railroad train at North Hackensack station.

The girl, who was a student at the Hackensack High School, discovered when she reached the station that she had forgotten her ticket. She ran back to the house and reached the station again just as the train started to pull out.

Miss Walter grabbed a hand rail by one hand and was dangling between the cars when a commuter caught hold of her and tried to pull her to the platform. In doing so both he and Miss Walter fell. The commuter got up and succeeded in ascending the train. Miss Walter also got up and tried to get on the last car. She caught a rail with her left hand, lost her balance and fell between the rails and a concrete curb. Her father witnessed the accident from his front porch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

BOLD ROBBERS IN WORCESTER.

Hold Up, Beat and Steal $60 From Store Proprietor.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 23.—William Marcus, proprietor of a second hand store in Summer street, was held up by three masked men in his store to-day and robbed of $60 after he had been beaten into insensibility, tied with ropes and his body hidden behind a woodpile.

His cries, after he regained consciousness, attracted the attention of a passer-by who released him, but the robbers had made a clean getaway.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Thirty-two persons in the army were sentenced to death by courts martial during the last fiscal year, but in no case was the sentence carried into effect, says Major-General E. H. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, in his annual report made public to-day. Twelve of the death sentences were disapproved, nineteen reduced to imprisonment ranging from life terms to five years and one case was pending on review when the report was compiled.

Only nine of the cases were for military offences. Eight were found guilty of misbehavior in the face of the enemy and one was sentenced as a spy.