

SENATORS OPPOSE CUTTING PRESENT NAVY PROGRAMME

Two Disarmament Proposals Now Before Foreign Relations Committee.

ADMIRAL IS CALLED IN Chief of Naval Operations Reports on Sea Power of Other Nations.

BORAH PLAN EXPLAINED

Reduction for U. S., Britain and France Proposed—Walsh for Action Under League.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
New York Herald Bureau, Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.

Wide differences of opinion as to the methods by which reduction of defence armaments may be consummated throughout the world developed in the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations to-day in its first meeting of the session to consider the subject.

The committee has before it two resolutions suggesting different ways in which disarmament may be accomplished, one by Senator Borah (Idaho) proposing that America, Great Britain and France hold a conference to discuss a 50 per cent. annual reduction in naval armament for five years; the other by Senator Walsh (Mon.), Democrat, to have the President accept the invitation of the disarmament commission of the League of Nations council for American participation in disarmament discussions.

Before considering either the committee heard from Admiral Robert E. Coontz, Chief of Naval Operations, a comprehensive outline of the comparative naval strength of the United States, Great Britain and Japan. His testimony was presented in secret session and facts laid before the committee were not made public. It is understood on reliable authority, however, that he discouraged any move by the United States toward naval reduction at this time, and advocated a continuation of our naval building programme in accordance with the recommendations of Secretary Daniels.

Strength of Three Powers.

Here are figures which in substance give the relative standing of the three naval powers referred to in the Borah resolution, as presented by Admiral Coontz. The figures include ships built, building and projected:

Great Britain, 846 ships, with a total tonnage of 2,529,951.
United States, 582 ships; tonnage 2,067,478.
Japan, 322 ships; tonnage 899,425.

The present fighting craft of Great Britain comprises 812 ships now built and thirty-four building and projected; the United States, 330 ships built and 243 building and projected; Japan, 129 ships built, with 203 building and projected. Japan has twenty-four submarines and proposes to have eighty additional; the United States has 100 submarines and contemplates building sixty-seven others, while Great Britain now has 300 submarines, with twelve more either building or projected.

Great Britain has 52 battleships now, the United States 31 and Japan 11. Under construction or projection Great Britain has 12, the United States 12 and Japan 4.

Other details as to the relative strength of these naval Powers were furnished by Admiral Coontz and by Rear Admiral Long, head of the Newport Naval War College.

Borah Explains Measure.

No action was taken by the committee to-day except to agree that another meeting of the committee will be held next Wednesday to permit Senator Walsh to explain his resolution. Senator Borah made a statement to the committee in regard to his own measure, and insisted it was learned that the proposed conference ought to be confined to the three nations named therein. He believes that if France were invited it would render an agreement impossible, for the reason that France is impelled to maintain a great navy for fear of possible future attack by Germany, her ancient enemy; therefore France, it is argued, although with no navy of compelling power, would not subscribe to a principle of disarmament for fear it would look to the abandonment of her present military force.

Other members of the committee believe that in any disarmament conference both France and Italy should be represented. In fact, one member said that if the Borah resolution were reported by the committee, it would be "changed" probably to include other nations.

Senator Walsh will insist to the committee that any programme of international disarmament should contemplate military as well as naval reduction. He believes also that this country should accept the machinery already provided for the discussion of the disarmament agreement rather than attempt to set up any other machinery for it; that to have two separate commissions working for the same object might easily lead to discussion of separate programmes for the same nations which obviously could not be agreed to.

Against Navy Reduction.

It developed to-day that the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs is much opposed to any present reduction in our own naval programme, especially in the three-year building programme now under consideration by the House Naval Affairs Committee.

Senator Poindexter (Wash.), member of the Naval Affairs Committee, said that even though the Senate were to agree to a disarmament conference with other nations, he thought naval programmes at the present stage ought not to be affected by it in any way.

ENGLAND-JAPAN ALLIANCE DECLARED FRIENDLY TO U. S.

Tokio Ambassador at London Confirms Northcliffe View That It Incurs No Obligation to Make War on America.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Interviewed by the London Times concerning Lord Northcliffe's explanation that the Anglo-Japanese Alliance involved no obligation to Great Britain to join with Japan, in the event of war with the United States, Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Ambassador at London, says: "I welcome the statement as a timely warning to both Japan and the United States."

The Ambassador denies the existence of any secret agreement between Great Britain and Japan, and strongly emphasizes that although only federal phrasing is employed in the wording of the alliance its intention is obvious and the alliance would never stand in the way of a good understanding between Great Britain and the United States or be used as a means of exerting pressure upon Japan's old friend, the United States.

ARMY CAPTAIN HELD FOR IRELAND MURDER

LONDON, Jan. 3.—An officer described as an army captain has been arrested at Kilmallock, Ireland, in connection with the shooting at Ballybrood on Thursday of Richard Leonard, school attendance officer to the Limerick District Council, according to a Limerick despatch to the Central News. He will be charged with murder.

Other reports said that three officers were placed under arrest, but that two of them were released.

CONFIRM DE VALERA REACHED IRELAND

Definite Advice From Dublin Say He Has Landed.

By the Associated Press.
DUBLIN, Jan. 3.—The reports that Eamon De Valera had landed in Ireland were definitely confirmed to-day.

By 22 votes to 15 the Dublin Corporation at a meeting to-day declined to discuss proposals for an Irish truce. The negative vote came in spite of a strong appeal from High Sheriff McWalter, who declared it was a "poor honor" to De Valera, who is alleged to be in the country in the interests of peace, for persons professing to be his followers to object to such discussion.

Eamon De Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," in returning to Ireland did so against the advice of Dal Eireanna, the "Irish Parliament," which was anxious that he remain in America to present the "Republic's" claim before the new administration.

This was announced here last night by Harry Boland, De Valera's secretary, who added that "events moved so rapidly in Ireland in the last few months President De Valera decided on his own initiative to return."

The way the man lives at home is a pretty sure proof of his genuineness.

There is not much daylight for the future of our Nation unless our homes are schools of love for the children and well-taught Americanism by the parents, whose example of well doing and affection will remain as an inspiration to the young people growing up around them.

The discontent and selfishness and neglect of forming and framing the future citizenship of the boys and girls of our city is far worse than poverty.

This is the famous Winter Sale that for many years has set the record for value giving and selling, not only in New York City, but in the country. It is the sale that many merchants have tried to imitate. It is the sale at which thousands of men annually have laid in their season's supply of clothing, always at rock-bottom prices.

Although all of this clothing or its duplicate grade has been on sale in our own stocks this season at the higher prices mentioned—some even higher—the market is now so overturned that the mere statement of prices and grades means little or nothing.

But the clothing itself means everything.

What sort of clothing is it? Are the fabrics all-wool? Is the tailoring all it ought to be—the vital parts by hand? Are the trimmings up to the fabric? Are the fashions and patterns correct?

If all these things are RIGHT, then you may safely buy because with the low price you are buying good clothing, clothing that will give satisfaction. In this sale—this Wanamaker sale—the clothing is bound to be RIGHT because it was all made for our regular selling in the Wanamaker Burlington Arcade Store, which has the highest standard of ready-to-wear clothing in the country; a standard so high that separate tailor shops are established in the leading manufactories of clothing so that our work may be given the special attention and additional care that our specifications call for.

As to the Prices---

they are lower than they have been in years. They are lower than they are in any other New York store, quality for quality, as our investigation shows. They are much lower than they will be next spring when the new stocks of clothing yet to be made come through.

For, be it known---

we have taken in from our manufacturers all our clothing for which we were committed; playing fair with them; and we are now making this radical disposal, without regard to cost, to clear our decks and enter the new year without encumbering stocks of any kind.

It's the time to buy!

Bird's-eye View of the Suits

THE SUITS are single and double-breasted; two, three and four button; over 20 models.

THE SUIT FABRICS are fine worsteds, cassimeres, chevots and serges—almost half of them imported. They range all the way from the conservative, almost-invisible stripes and mixtures to the more apparent stripes, mixtures and herringbones.

THE SUIT COLORINGS include the many shades of brown; the lighter grays; the darker oxfords; the wanted blues, and more of the better combinations than we can describe. Plain blues, browns, and grays are also available.

THERE ARE SUITS for fathers and suits for sons; suits for business wear; suits for dressier occasions. Linings and trimmings are telltale features.

---And the Entire Overcoat Family

THE CHESTERFIELD is something of an aristocrat among overcoats because it can be worn on so many occasions. Plenty of Chesterfield models in this sale.

THE BOX COAT is often chosen by young men because it has a youthful swagger.

THE BELTED COAT—or half-belted coat—is represented in the ulsters below.

THE TOWN ULSTER is a typical street ulster—available for street and business wear all the winter through.

THE ULSTER is a man's coat from collar to hem—big, warm, roomy, comfortable.

THESE MODELS are provided in the best of overcoat fabrics—tweeds, Saxonies, chevots, meltons, kerseys and fleeces—in black, blues, browns, grays, plaids and mixtures.

Sizes for Almost All Men

Regular sizes, stouts, slims, longs, shorts. And this applies with equal force to both suits and overcoats.

January Sale Household Linens

Reductions up to 33 1/3%

We have planned that this January Sale shall be the most important of any in our long experience.

By careful and foresighted buying all through the war years we have been able to keep our Household Linen prices at an average of about 20% to 25% below current market prices. Recent reductions made by Belfast Manufacturers, therefore, only bring their prices to the level upon which ours have been based for some time past.

But in order to help in bringing prices back to normal and to meet present conditions, we shall make reductions during January on our Household Linens from these already moderate prices—amounting in many cases to 33 1/3 per cent.

We make these reductions with the full realization that it may be impossible for us to replace the goods offered to be sold at the same price.

The range of goods on which these reductions are made is so wide that all may find what they want.

In addition to the reductions on Household Linens there will be special values in other departments, including Lingerie, Children's Wear, Women's Sweaters and Hosiery, Handkerchiefs, Blankets and Bed Spreads, Comfortables, Laces and Embroideries.
