

Atlantic City as All Year Resort

Remarkable Growth in Winter Patronage Since First Bid for It 45 Years Ago.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 6.—Forty five years ago next Monday the late Frederick Hensley, for nearly forty years proprietor of the Brighton Hotel, undertook to make Atlantic City an all year resort...

From the early efforts of Mr. Hensley, Atlantic City has grown into one of the most popular winter resorts in the world. It is a curious fact that it is more popular with New York folk in winter than in summer.

With the fame of the resort as a winter habitat has come its popularity as a convention Mecca.

Mr. Philander P. Claxton, Federal Commissioner of Education, also was here for the convention.

Mr. and Mrs. William Travers Johnson, Jr., were at the Chelsea. Mr. Morris Hillquit also passed a few days here.

One time Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania passed the resort of the week at the Chalfonte.

The Rev. John E. Kelly and the Rev. Arthur J. Conroy came together from New York for a short stay at the Dennis.

Lieut. Commander J. H. Falge, U. S. N., was at the Traymore, as was Col. Thomas Blair of the New York City Schools.

Mr. Benjamin Peale of New York, who was one of the advisers of Dr. Harry A. Garfield in the Fuel Administration during the war, was at the Traymore with his sons, Messrs. Rembrandt Peale, Jr., and Richard Peale.

At the Traymore were Miss Gail Harrison, Mr. Reginald Brixey, Mr. and Mrs. David Eugene Smith, Messrs. Edward L. Thorndike, Roi Cooper Megrue, playwright; Douglas Deardon, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hume and Miss Elaine M. Kenke of New York.

News of Hotels and Restaurants

A loving cup will be presented to Oscar Tachirby by the Sphinx Club at its twenty-fifth anniversary dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria on Tuesday, which is the silver jubilee of the club.

Miss Sophie Tucker and her five Kings of Syncopation begin their return engagement at Reisenweber's, Columbus Circle, Tuesday night, after a tour of nearly a year. Miss Tucker is bringing with her a collection of over one hundred new songs in addition to an exceptional array of costumes.

The inter-hotel athletic meet held by the Sannaciar A. C. on March 3, was the largest in point of attendance and in number of contestants in the races of the entire series of five given annually by the hotel athletic club.

The Hotel Langwell Restaurant, at 123 West Forty-ninth street, was opened last night.

At the restaurant de La Paix, at 423 Madison avenue, the non-tipping system has proven a success.

At Janssen's Hofbrau a special dinner is served on Sundays. Dancing for those who care to indulge.

At the Hotel Navarre, thirty-eighth street and Seventh avenue, in the very room, rich in artistic touches of the light, and paintings by celebrated artists. Manager Benno Riese recently made reductions in prices on the carte du jour.

The Tally-Ho, at 29 East Thirty-fourth street, makes a feature of serving minute steaks, prepared in home style.

Golden Glades Roof, atop of the Healy restaurants, at Broadway and Sixty-sixth street, has become the rendezvous of the stars of the screen and stage since the advent of the A. Baldwin sloop and his challenge orchestra of soloists and dance melodists.

The new Weston Hotel, at Madison avenue and Forty-ninth street, makes a specialty of its restaurant service. The management of the Hotel Hermitage, Times square, announces a special Sunday evening dinner at a moderate charge. An orchestra provides music for the dinner.

La Mon, the restaurant at 26 West Twenty-eighth street, has decided to allow his patrons to have advantage of the new lower prices and is offering a special dinner, including home cooked chicken, at pre-war prices.

Joan Sawyer, hostess at the Arts Supper Club, is rehearsing a new dance to appear at the new Theatre soon.

March 9 Ernest Hussar and his orchestra in the McAlpin Hotel grill room will celebrate their "three thousandth" anniversary with a special engagement which is an unbroken engagement of length.
