HOOD'S RUN DECIDES

Governor Cox Throws Out the First Ball While 15,000 Fans Cheer.

Special Despatch to The New York Herald. Boston, April 13.—The baseball season was ushered in to-day under quite satisfactory weather conditions, with upward of 15,000 fans, including the Governor, Mayor Stetson and municipal officials, turning out for the inauguration. Gov. Channing Cox tossed out the first ball. The game was a good one until near the end, when the "out" about the day's proceedings occurred—the Brooklyn Dodgers won by a score of 6 to 4.

The transformation was sudden, and from a Boston viewpoint shocking. At the end of the seventh inning the count was 4 to 0 in favor of the Braves.

Boston's four runs were developed in two innings, one in the fifth on a double by Ford and three in the seventh on a single by Boeckel, a sacrifice by Holke, a base on balls to Ford and a home run to the victors by O'Neil.

Up to that eighth inning Joe Oeschger had allowed only two hits, and it looked as if he would breeze through and win. He went the full nine, and it seems that it was a little too much for him. It so happened that at the opening of the eighth Manager Robinson had a chance to put in a pinch hitter in place of Cadore.

Nels was the man. His selection was a wise one, for he promptly picked Joseph for a single, Olson followed with another. Then, with one out, Wheat dropped a Texas Leaguer back of second that was good for two bases. The four hits producing three runs. The visitors had some luck in getting the other two, that is all in the game.

Cordial Welcome to All. The crowd gave each of the Boston players as they came up to bat a cordial welcome, the reception of the new players being noticeably enthusiastic, which made the newcomers feel that they had come to a pretty fine baseball town.

There were several clever field stunts turned in and one or two were otherwise. Boeckel and Barbee each contributed great plays for the Braves, and Wheat, as usual, covered ground like a shadow in left for the Dodgers.

George O'Neil who came through with the home run with two on, was the particular star at bat. In addition to his hit for the circuit, he cracked out a single and was the only Bostonian to make more than one hit.

After Cadore had given way to a substitute hitter, Marnaux worked for one inning and was followed by Sherrod Smith for another. With the exception of O'Neil, none of the Boston players could get a hit against either.

Ford might have given Wheat's Texas leaguer a battle if he had called for the play and had Barbara and Powell kept off. The visitors benefited through still another break in this same inning, however. With the bases filled, Griffith hit a grounder to Ford. The ball took a hop off the ground just before reaching him, bounding up and hitting the player in the chest.

He did manage to dig the ball out of the folds of his shirt in time to throw Griffith out at first, but if the ball had come true he would have had a double play and the visitors should have been held to one run for the inning instead of three.

Krueger's Fly a Double. The best break—or perhaps it might be better described as loose team play on the part of Boston—came in the ninth. With one down Krueger popped up a fly near the left field line. Either Cruise or Barbee could have made the catch, although it was Barbara's ball all the time, but the latter came in, lost sight of it watching Cruise, so that he overran the play and the hit went for a double.

When Hood came to bat in place of Marnaux, Oeschger hit him. Olson singled to left and the ball was only partially blocked by Cruise. Sheehan, who had been put in to run for Krueger, scored the tying run on the hit, and when Cruise returned the ball to second instead of making the shorter throw to third, kept on to the plate and crossed with what proved to be the winning tally. The score:

Table with 2 columns: BROOKLYN (N.Y.) and BOSTON (N.Y.). Rows include runs, hits, errors, and totals for both teams.

SWARTHMORE IN FRONT.

Special Despatch to The New York Herald. Swarthmore, Pa., April 13.—In a game characterized by free slugging on both sides, Swarthmore had little trouble to-day in defeating Uxbridge by 8 to 5. Twenty-four hits was the total of the slugging bats, thirteen of which were gathered by the Garnet batsmen. The score:

Table with 2 columns: SWARTHMORE and UXBRIDGE. Rows include runs, hits, errors, and totals for both teams.

MARKS A HOWLING RECORD. MONTCLAIR, N. J., April 13.—What is said to be a world's record for ducking bowling was rolled last night in this town by Joseph Crane, who registered a total of 253. The best previous record known was 211, by John Boston. Crane got five in his first frame and then turned in seven strikes in succession. He got a spare in the ninth frame and finished up with three strikes.

THE LISTENING POST

BY WALTER TRUMBULL Copyright, 1921, by The New York Herald.

A FLYING START.

GREATER NEW YORK certainly cannot complain of the result of the first day's offensive. If the Giants, Yankees and Robins will keep on advancing at their present pace the big league war will be over long before October.

One very encouraging feature of the day's campaign was the fighting spirit shown by the Giants. For many years McGraw's teams had a bad habit of losing whenever they met the Phillies on opening day, but yesterday they gave Donovan's club a fair headstart and then passed it like a limited pass as a freight going in the opposite direction.

The Yankees look and are a very powerful aggregation. They are plenty strong enough to finish out in front if they have the spirit to carry them through the long grind. All their victories are not going to be won as easily as yesterday's and the finish in their league may be so close that it will come to a mere question of gameness and ability to keep going at top speed.

The fact that Connie Mack's youngsters showed a tendency to go up for altitude at times should not be held against them. In the first place the Athletics for some reason are helpless against Mays, and in the second place Mack's outfit needs a certain amount of seasoning. Before the season is over that club is apt to win a lot of ball games. Dugan, for instance, is as sweet a third baseman as we have seen in some time.

Little Jack Coogan, "The Kid" of Charlie Chaplin's movie, attracted about as much attention as Ruth. He had his picture taken with the big slugger and afterward posed with Connie Mack.

Early to bed and early to rise Never has injured a ball player's eyes.

We'd like to see Tom Gibbons box several heavyweights in the game that could make Tom show just how good he is.

The return of Burleigh Grimes has brought with it the return of Wilbert Robinson's well known smile. Robby figures that with Grimes again a member of his pitching staff his team will have a lot to say about where the National League pennant shall fly.

The two most prominent members of the holdout society now are Groh and Roush. They are apt to give the matter a lot of solemn thought as pay day approaches. Meanwhile they are not helping the Cincinnati club get any nearer to a division of world's series money.

Some boxers are perfectly content to lie down and trust to finding the loser's share of the purse under their pillow.

Eleven years ago to-day big Jim Vaughn pitched his first full game for the Yankees. He's a better pitcher now than he was then, although he didn't lose that game. Neither did he win it. The Yanks and Boston played a fourteen inning tie.

We do not believe that Miller Huggins would object to having Vaughn as a member of his twirling staff to-day—but Johnny Evers would not welcome any such arrangement.

When Vaughn was with the Yankees he apparently had as much on the ball as he has now, but he lacked confidence. He certainly has plenty of it now.

Mays made as many hits yesterday as the whole Philadelphia team.

Old King Cole was a merry old soul, A happy old soul with reason; For, this is the truth, he was present when Ruth Made his first home run of the season.

But Babe only got two bases on it, being called out as he rolled into third. This certainly was the longest two base hit made around this vicinity since Hen Hudson dropped anchor in the bay.

Had the Bambino directed that wallop a little to the right or left the ball would now be reposing in the home of some fan—probably locked away with the family jewels and liquor.

We'd like to know how far that ball would have rolled down the fairway of a good golf course. Probably just far enough to reach a trap, in which case the centre feeder would have had to use a nibbler to get it out and the Babe would have had all the time he needed to complete the circuit.

Jack Spratt he liked 'em fet; He says said, "Lean for me!" So during the season he cheered for Ruth, And ate for Slim Salles.

Of course that wallop of Ruth's recalls the famous clout by Leon Ames, which rolled to the flagpole in centre field, back to the days when there were no seats there. Nobody ever knew whether that hit was more of a shock to Ames or to the opposing pitcher.

The Polo Grounds were so packed with spectators that if a canned sardine had been present it doubtless would have complained bitterly of being crowded.

When Babe Ruth slides he reminds one strongly of the Culebra cut.

YALE SWIMMERS TO GO TO HONOLULU

Relay Team and Others to Start in June. NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 13.—Yale's world-beating swimming team, which for two years has had a grand picnic at the hands and feet of all its competitors, is to take a trip to Honolulu this summer, swimming various teams on route. Capt. Lerrin P. Thurston and Charles D. Pratt of the Yale team live in Honolulu, and it is through their efforts that great interest in Yale tank men and their records has been created. Several clubs on the Hawaiian Islands are planning to entertain the Yale men.

The announcement was made to-night at the annual banquet of the swimming team. The team and the university are enthusiastic over the prospects of the trip. The itinerary, as announced to-night, includes meetings in New York, Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco and Honolulu, with others to be made known later.

The first intercollegiate relay team, consisting of Capt. Thurston, R. F. Solley, Edwin Binney, Pratt and Leeming Jellicoe, will be taken along for both the 200 and 250 yard events. These five men will also be entered in several of the individual events, in which they hold either world's or intercollegiate records.

FAVORITES SURVIVE AT WHITE SULPHUR

Special Despatch to The New York Herald. WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 13.—The first match round of the White Sulphur Springs annual spring golf tournament was played here this morning with the favorites coming through by a safe margin. C. J. Dunphy of Woodland, the medal winner, had little trouble in disposing of H. H. Howard, the Chicago golfer. He won by 3 and 2 and his shot displayed in this match was equal to that of yesterday.

First Sixteen—A. J. Mendes, Stuyvesant, defeated Sol Smith, Columbia, 2 and 1; W. C. Wither, Cornell, defeated R. E. Edwards, Chicago, 4 and 3; C. A. Dunphy, Woodland, defeated H. H. Howard, Chicago, 3 and 1; C. Casper, Toronto, defeated P. M. Roberts, New York, 3 and 1; L. W. Williams, Madison, defeated G. A. Bowker, Toronto, 4 and 3; H. H. Dean, Nassau, defeated W. F. Wood, Virginia, 1 up (nineteen holes).

Second Eight—Charles Reid, Toledo, defeated P. H. Keach, National, 2 and 1; H. K. Evans, Stuyvesant Hills, defeated P. L. Patten, Waukegan, 5 and 4; L. Maenner, St. Paul, defeated M. J. Brennan, Toronto, 2 up; Dr. J. Freeland, National, defeated J. A. Weeks, National, 3 and 1.

Special Despatch to The New York Herald. NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 13.—In a long drawn out game this afternoon Yale defeated Columbia by 8 to 3 through loose playing by the Morningglow men.

Howard Hellock, Yale's star pitcher, who had the "nut" and could not make the Southern trip, was in the box at the start, but lasted only six innings. Chittenden took his place.

Yale scored early. A base on balls to Murphy, followed by a play on him at second which failed, a sacrifice by Sloan and a single by Eddy gave the Yankees a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Singles by Murphy and Eddy and Korman's triple resulted in two more in the fifth.

Yale all but battered Columbia in the sixth and seventh. Three runs on hits by Hawkes, Peters, Crane, Sloan and Korman.

For Columbia hits by Smith and Lohbe and a sacrifice by Mooschen put a run over in the sixth inning. Aldrich assisting when he dropped a throw from Korman. After Tedford had been hit by the pitcher, Freeman sacrificed and scored.

L. A. HAMILTON ON TOP OF GOLF GAME

Plays Around in 72 to Defeat George Morse 5 and 3 at Pinehurst.

Special Despatch to The New York Herald. PINEHURST, N. C., April 13.—The first match round of the mid-April golf tournament provided more than its fair share of noteworthy incidents at Pinehurst to-day. To begin with, L. A. Hamilton of Garden City, who is playing better golf now than in many years, went around in 28-35, 72. Then Arthur West of Rochester came along with the modest total of seven birdies on his card, and three of the five extra hole matches played during the day wound up with unusual finishes.

One of them was won with a putt for a birdie from off the sand. Another was a 21 hole affair that was brought to an end with a mashie pitch of 30 yards into the cup. And the third was won in a blaze of glory at the twentieth hole by a player who had started the last lap of his round by taking 45, or 17 over four, for seven holes.

George Morse of Rutland, Vt., was the opponent against whom Hamilton considered it necessary to go around in 28-35, 72. Hamilton took the match by 5 up and 3 to play, and registered birdies at the first, fifth and fourth holes. The one at the fourteenth wasn't good enough, however. Morse was hole high, 452 yards from the tee, in 2 and ran down from the edge of the sand for an eagle 5. Morse went out in 38, two strokes worse than Hamilton, and was only 2 down at the turn.

Frank Dyer of Upper Montclair, the medalist, won by 3 and 2 against J. D. Chapman of Greenwich, who explored nine traps in the course of the round. Donald Parson of Youngstown was 1 down at the turn in his match with R. A. Strauman of Toledo, but finally won by 2 up. Parson and Hamilton are expected to come through to the semifinals in the lower bracket and Dyer and Yates in the upper. The summary:

First Sixteen—First round, E. L. Seefeldt, Stamford, beat A. B. Carter, Washington, 3 and 2; Frank Dyer, Upper Montclair, beat J. D. Chapman, Greenwich, 3 and 2; C. H. Gardner, Stuyvesant, beat W. Hillman, Fairview, 2 and 1; Arthur Yates, Oakhill, beat J. W. Bowman, Aberdeen, 1 and 1; Donald Parson, Youngstown, beat R. A. Strauman, Inverness, 2 up; H. C. Fowkes, Oakland, won from R. F.
