

Real Indians from the mountains looking over New York's towering pinnacles from the roof of the Hotel Commodore. All are of the Blackfoot tribe living close to the Glacier National Park. Left to right: Rose Heavy Breast, Susan Two Guns White Calf, Chief Many Tail Feathers, Judge Two Guns White Calf, Joseph Heavy Breast, Mary Two Guns White Calf, Paul Many White Horse, Chief Owen Heavy Breast and Rain Robin.

Underwood & Underwood.

Col. George Harvey, Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, London, photographed aboard the Aquitania just before sailing for his post.

Underwood & Underwood.

Mme. Marguerite Namara, soprano of the Chicago Opera Company, with her husband, Guy Bolton, and their baby Peggy, photographed just before sailing for Europe on the Adriatic.

International.

Miss Frances Norton, prominent in New York society, who sailed recently with Miss Margaret Kahn on the Aquitania.

Copyright, Paul Thompson.

Miss Elizabeth Sands, prominent in New York society, who sailed recently on the Aquitania.

International.

Wellesley, the great woman's college, recently held its May Day celebration, children's games being featured. Photograph shows the Misses Katherine Brown and Virginia Beresford of New York city, Miss Virginia English of Jersey City and Miss Alva Scott of New York.

International.

Another interesting feature of Wellesley's May Day was this living "1921" formed by the senior class in costume on one of the grassy banks of the campus.

Underwood & Underwood.

Miss Marjorie Wright (on left) and Miss Amy Carpenter, president and vice-president respectively, heading the freshman class at Wellesley on its march between the ranks of the seniors (holding hoops). Part of the May Day celebration.

International.