Quotes Their Slogan of 'Do Little as You Can for All You Can Get.'

WAGES NOT REAL ISSUE

Menace Lies in Unions Demanding Many Men for One Man's Job.

'OUST RADICAL LEADERS'

'Flabby Public' Must Force Labor to Clean Out All of Slacker Workers.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas to-day charged the labor bosses of the country with responsibility for the present industrial crisis and unemployment. He made his statement in a speech before the Bakers' convention.

"Do as little as you can for as much as you can get," quoted Gov. Allen from one radical labor leader. "That is what has contributed to the unrest and industrial stagnation in this country. Every man who was enjoying war profits held on as long as he could to the profits he was making and the man who made brick and the man who laid brick were both grasping at the opportunity to continue the high prices of labor and material."

"I wonder if people realize that some labor bosses who do not work themselves but fatten off the toll of other men are taking $60,000,000 a year from the slender purse of labor. With and subsequent to the war they promulgated the doctrine of less work and more pay, a principle that has been the means of putting 8,000,000 men on the unemployment list."

Gov. Allen then quoted Samuel Gompers: "The right of labor is to keep what it won during the war."

"We must dump the radical slacker out of labor," continued Gov. Allen. "The radical has done all the talking and all the electing. The conservative workman has followed instead of leading. It is his turn now and it is he who can bring back industrial prosperity."

"The slacking laborer killed the goose that laid the golden egg the day we signed the armistice, when he started out to keep everything the war had brought. He preached the doctrine of slacking. He multiplied the men on the job by making each man work below his capacity. The American business man detected it and no just employer will pay for slacking."

"Limiting the amount of work a man may do has been one of the chief factors in bringing on the unfortunate situation in which labor now finds itself. It was done to make labor prosperous; instead it has made labor poor."

"The multiplication of personnel is a real evil. Examine the labor contracts and you will get some light. It isn't a question of wages, it's a question of too many men. Two or three skilled workmen are now employed by the rule of contract to do work that formerly was done by one handy man. The situation runs through the building trades, through industry.

"Labor is beating back right enough, but labor will never clean house until the soft, flabby public now shedding crocodile tears takes a firm stand and says: 'Labor, we're for you and we like you, but you've got to clean house. You'd better begin by getting some real leaders, who have your real interest at heart as well as ours.'"

Faith in the Industrial Relations Court is rapidly spreading to every class of employer and employee in Kansas, Gov. Allen said. In the last eighteen months the court has handed thirty labor cases, he said, and of twenty-eight decided there have been acquittances by both sides of the decisions in twenty-seven. In five cases wages were reduced. Recently employees of the Joplin, Pittsburg and Chelsea Railway, serving southeastern Kansas, dropped elaborate arbitration clauses in their contracts and specified that all wage disputes would hereafter be heard by the industrial court.

EIGHT HOUR WORKDAY IN PRISONS APPROVED

Recommended as Factor to Increase Output.

ALBANY, Sept. 21.—An eight hour work day for prisoners at Auburn, Clinton, Great Meadows and Sing Sing prisons, as a factor to increase the output of the industries carried on in these institutions, was recommended in a report approved by the State Commission of Prisons made public to-night.

Conclusions of Commissioner M. H. Pierce, after a survey, were that less than half of the prison population was employed in the industries conducted here, that there seemed to be an unnecessary number of inmates used in "maintenance," that the men employed in the industries averaged less than six hours a day, that too many interruptions in work were permitted and that the matter of "self-government" had been allowed to interfere with production.

LEAP FROM MOTOR CAR FATAL TO TEACHER

N. Y. Girl Dies of Fractured Skull in Newburgh.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. NEWBURGH, Sept. 21.—Florence Hub, 23, a recent graduate of Hunter College, who was about to begin her work as a teacher in New York, died in St. Luke's Hospital to-day from a fracture of the skull received on Sunday, September 11, when she jumped or fell from the running board of an automobile.

Miss Hub, who resided in Elmhurst, L. I., and Florence Barber of The Bronx left New York Friday, September 9, and walked to Albany, returning through the main highway toward Cornwall.

Outside the city Laurence Ryan of Cornwall came along with an automobile and offered the girls a ride. They told him where they were going, and near Woodlawn Cemetery Ryan turned off the main highway toward Cornwall.

The usual route is by the direct State road to Jersey City, but a detour they did not know of was necessary, and the girls asked to be let out. Miss Hub then opened the door and, standing on the running board, threw herself off, fracturing her skull.

WOMAN HURT IN MOTOR CRASH SUES HER HOST

Lays Blame to Dr. McVey of University of Kentucky.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. LOUISVILLE, Sept. 21.—For injuries alleged to have been received March 30 in a collision between a street car and an automobile Miss Sophonisba Hergesheimer, artist, of Reading, Pa., filed suit in the Circuit Court yesterday demanding $25,000 from Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, her host, and the Louisville and Interurban Railroad Company.

The petitioner said she was seated in the rear seat of the automobile between two other persons, also the guests of Dr. McVey, and that the accident was due to the negligence of her host, who was driving the automobile, and of the motorman of the Interurban car.

In addition the petitioner seeks to recover $905 alleged to have been expended for medical and hospital bills.
