

FOR SALE: SERVICES OF SIX, ALL HUNGRY Artist, Playwright, Chemist, Newspaper Man, Two Women, Seek Jobs.

SINGLY OR IN BULK Prepare 'Ad' Stating Their Case But Lack Cash for Its Publication.

IDLE PLAYS; NO BREAD Group From Chicago Offers to Work for Highest-Bidder—Some Known to Fame.

Among the few who did not devote the bulk of yesterday to discussion of the American plan for limiting naval armaments, were an exceedingly hungry sextette temporarily adding on the fifth floor of 143 West, Fourth street. One was a newspaper man, another an artist, the third the artist's wife, the fourth a Hindoo chemist, the fifth the Hindoo chemist's wife and the sixth a male playwright.

They were occupying all the furniture (a collection of miscellaneous things that had cost them a trifle more than $2) and consuming a meal pie slowly, for it threatened to be their last pie of any sort unless things look up a bit and somebody has a job that one or more of the sextette can take. The furniture consisted of a table that once had legs, a chair that needed but two legs and a back to be complete, a synthetic divan that once had been a box, a barrel and the pushing part of a wheelbarrow and three soap boxes.

A reporter for THE NEW YORK HERALD entered, displaying a letter received by his City Editor, which was at once identified by the exceedingly hungry newspaper man.—Frank Poston—as his work. It read thus: "We cannot divert enough cash from bread and cheese to pay for the following advertisement, but we send it in the chance that 'goodness of heart' will overcome business office obstruction to publication.

Jobs Singly or in Bulk. "For sale to highest bidder for services in bulk or separately in any reputable capacity of following jobs. Lot of unemployed, all sound in mind and limb (also appetite). "1.—Newspaper man and publicity expert of long 'big city' experience. "2.—Artist with pictures on exhibition at leading New York city galleries, but not selling. "3.—Chemist, Ph. D. Research in four universities; dye expert. "4.—Play translator and adapter with track record of unsalable and unactable MSS. "5.—and 6.—Wife of artist and wife of chemist, the latter B. A. and specialist in business practice. "Whole group associated on community plan but now without income. What are we offered?"

"Almost immediately an argument between the artist on one side and everybody else on the other, started over the harm publicity might work. The artist declared that some of his material were on exhibition in good galleries here and that the managements of those galleries might throw them out if he was quoted as saying that some of his material were not sufficient business acumen to sell the pictures. "They might just as well throw them

MONKEY ON FIRST DRUNK IS WHOLE SHOW ON LINER

Pulls Feathers Out of Cursing Parrot, Makes Coaster of Seals, Demoralizes Young Brother and Lands Here in Chains and Disgrace.

Mephisto, a trained monkey ten years old and also a large part of an animal show, arrived in the United States yesterday on board the steamship Uluu of the United Fruit Line in chains and in disgrace because of his remarkable appetite for a Cuban wine which has more kick than all the bootleg hootch in the country. Mephisto, it was related with sorrow by Capt. Charles Betts, in whose charge the animal show travelled, got drunk and behaved in a scandalous manner.

One of Mephisto's stunts in the show is to drink out of a bottle, and until three days out of New York he had never drunk anything but water and sugar. But a sailor whose curiosity got the better of him gave the monkey a bottle of the wine and the monkey drank it. He immediately broke a chain with which he had been bound to a stanchion on deck, and after that he beckoned Toto, a very young monkey, to his side and whisked the bottle and threw it at a parrot and the parrot began to curse.

This seemed to give Mephisto the chance he had been looking for. He never had liked either the parrot or his language, but he always had been chained too far away to do anything about it. Now, however, he was free. He grabbed the parrot, pulled all the bright feathers from the bird's tail and then fled up the deck, chattering and grimacing and waving the feathers, leaving the parrot entirely surrounded by gloom. Mephisto, looking around for amusement, spied the trained seals sunning themselves near their tank. He climbed on the head of one and slid down its slick back.

The monkey enjoyed this, even if the seal didn't, and he did it again and kept on doing it on one seal and then another until they became disgusted and dived into the tank, leaving Mephisto stranded with no chance to shoot. The ship's crew got after the monkey when he began throwing things at them and at last they caught him, but not before he had furnished more than an hour's amusement for the forty-seven passengers of the ship.

Excepting for the activities of Mephisto, the run of the Uluu from Havana was uneventful.

WASTE IN INDUSTRY THROUGH BAD EYES

25,000,000 Persons Engaged in Production Here Have Defective Vision.

A large proportion of industrial waste is due to defective vision, says a committee of the Federated Engineering Societies, appointed by Herbert Hoover, in a report just issued. The committee estimates that more than 50 per cent. of the 42,000,000 men and women in American industry—at least 25,000,000 persons—have defective eyesight.

Fatigue, more frequent accidents and more frequent mistakes, all hampering production, are the principal effects of defective vision in workers, the committee says. The remedy is, of course, the committee says, periodic eye examinations and fitting of glasses.

The responsibility for waste rests principally on management, the report finds, though labor has a real though smaller share. There is a prejudice against physical examinations in many shops, the committee says, with the result that many workers live in subnormal health whose condition is easily remediable.

Remarkable results have been obtained in several plants, the committee says, through correction of sub-standard vision. One company had glasses fitted to 83 per cent. of its employees and got an increase of 28 per cent. in productivity while several others got more than enough additional product to pay for the examinations.

The report carries a general recommendation that a national policy on public health be formulated and put into effect. Defective vision would come under this general head. Further study is required, the committee reports, to discover the actual time labor loss, but says it is obvious that a workman with one fourth, one third or one half standard vision cannot be as competent as a workman with standard vision.

CHINESE BURIED IN THIS CITY WILL BE EXHUMED

Bodies to Be Shipped Back to Their Native Places.

The Chinese societies of New York are preparing, some time during the latter part of the month, to follow their usual custom of exhuming the bodies of all Chinese in the cemeteries of New York and vicinity and shipping them back to China for permanent burial. This is done every five years, the bodies being taken to the city morgue, placed in metallic coffins and then shipped to the locality in China in which the individual was born, there to be interred among his reverend ancestors.

The Chinese do not hold any services over the bodies before they leave this country, but elaborate ceremonies are held in China. Accompanying each body will be a complete history of the man, carefully compiled, together with a list of his property and belongings. During the work of preparing the bodies, which is done by Chinese selected by the societies, no word is spoken, because it is feared that the dead might overhear and carry the remarks back to Heaven.

HOTEL MEN OPENING CONVENTIONS TO-DAY

Exhibition of Modern Devices at 69th Armory.

From every city and good sized town in the country hotel men have been pouring in a steady stream to New York, the biggest hotel town of them all, for the sixth National Hotel Men's Exposition, which begins to-day at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, Twenty-fifth street and Lexington avenue.

The exposition is the big event of the hotel year, and the whole week will be devoted to showing devices and exchanging ideas for making hotels just like home and then some. Although the show at the armory is the main feature there are many other meetings and events.

At the exposition will be displayed every time and labor saving device that has been invented to speed up service. There also will be on exhibition quantities of the finest glassware, table linen, carpets, blankets and all sorts of household and kitchen utensils. Many of the labor saving devices are adaptable for home use on a smaller scale, so the exhibition is a liberal education for the housewife.

The exposition, which has as its keynote increased efficiency and reduction in costs, is under the direction of the New York State Hotel Association and the Hotel Association of New York City.

At 8 to-night the exposition will be opened officially with addresses by Edward M. Tierney, chairman of the exposition committee and president of the American Hotel Association; Elmore C. Green, president of the New York State Hotel Association, and Thomas D. Green, president of the Hotel Association of New York City. During the week the exhibits will be open from 11 A. M. to 10:30 P. M.

47 No money to pay the bills Why this well-to-do family's income was suddenly cut off These are the facts: A New York family had been receiving steady income under a Trust Fund administered by an exceptionally fine type of business man as Trustee. In the course of time, the Trustee died. Then, as there was no one legally empowered to continue paying out income from the Trust Fund, the payments ceased. What happened? First, a long wait occurred while the Executors of the Trustee's own estate made a formal accounting to the court. Next, all the persons interested were obliged to petition the court, through legal counsel, for the appointment of a Substitute Trustee. Weeks and months dragged by. Meanwhile the family funds ran low. Money had to be borrowed under hard conditions at frequent intervals. Lastly, the court when it had examined the accounts of the deceased Trustee, at length approved them. A Substitute Trustee was then appointed. We know this case intimately, because the Columbia Trust Company was the Substitute Trustee appointed. The actual distress suffered by the above family—more serious than the mere stated facts indicate—would have been avoided had we been appointed Trustee in the first instance, years ago. Over and over again we must say this: Individual Executors and Trustees die. It is regrettable but inevitable. The Columbia Trust Company is a corporation whose work goes on continuously. There can be and is no interruption—no halting—no uncertainty. If you have a mind that thinks through to final conclusions, we suggest that you let us explain in detail how this Company would unswervingly carry out your wishes when you are no longer here. The following officers will gladly give you further details. At our downtown office, Mr. Warren, Vice-President, or Mr. Judd, Trust-Officer. At our Fifth Avenue office, Mr. Dunn, Vice-President. At our Harlem office, Mr. Baker, Manager. At our Bronx office, Mr. Berry, Manager.
