Things Decidedly New

With an English Air

As every discerning mother knows, English wash suits for boys have a delightfully clean-cut and just-washed-in-the-face air.

The sailor collar is just the right proportion, a band of blue borders the blouse. In tan, blue or cadet . . . 3.75

White Homespun
For the South

With tweeds and homespuns playing the stellar roles these days, one's white skirts for Southern wear naturally follow suit, as it were. A Skirt with an altogether sportsmanlike air is made of coarse white homespun. The pockets are smart . . . 16.95

This Most Attractive Disguise

The cretonne lady above wears perhaps the most pleasant disguise for an apron that's yet been discovered.

(Those roomy pockets, sash, etc., are of black poplin.)
In fact the only apronish thing left about this frock is the price. 2.95

Now in Its Tenth Edition

Small wonder the white dimity blouse with the Peter Pan collar edged with color has run to its tenth or so edition. For it continues the perfect blouse for most sports occasions.

This representative of a fresh new addition has its double-decker of a collar, trimmed with red-and-white or blue-and-white checked gingham. . . . 2.00

Moire
For the New Frocks

The plainer the smarter are the lines of the new moire frocks for Spring.

This black or seal moire frock has the new full circular skirt, scalloped. And the long basque waist. All further decoration is left to the capricious moire satin sash of cerise or tanna. . . . 79.50
