

PARVETTES RESENTED A CHANGE OF RIDERS

Thoroughbred at Horse Show Let Judge Know She Preferred Miss Fleitmann in Saddle.

RICHMOND IS VERSATILE

Mrs. F. A. de Peyster's Mount Wins Prizes at Riding Club as Saddle Horse and Hunter.

Riding her gigantic thoroughbred mare Palmetto, Miss Lida L. Fleitmann won two blue ribbons at the thirty-third annual horse show at the Riding Club on Wednesday evening, and might have won another if the judge of hunters had been required to try out the competing horses for himself in awarding Dr. Austin Flint's challenge cup.

Although the exhibition at the Riding Club was limited to horses owned by members, it brought out some of the best hunters and saddle horses owned in the vicinity of New York. G. G. Thorne's chestnut gelding Kenwick, ridden by Aiden S. Bidget, was the outstanding saddle horse of the evening.

The exhibition attracted a crowd which overtaxed the seating capacity of the clubhouse at Fifth avenue and Fifty-eighth street. Col. Charles I. De Bevoise judged the saddle classes, Mr. Higginson and Isaac H. Clothier, Jr., the jumping classes and Major R. E. D. Hild the polo classes.

The awards:

- CLASS 1—Saddle horses under 15.2 hands: John R. Townsend's ch. m. Golden Rod, first; W. H. D. Brown's ch. m. Bally, second; John Vanneck's b. s. The Sheik, third; Mrs. A. S. Carhart's gr. m. Fair Knight, fourth.

CLASS 2—Saddle horses not under 15.2 hands: G. Thorne's ch. g. Kenwick, first; Mrs. F. A. de Peyster's ch. g. Richmond, second; R. Lawrence Smith's b. m. chestnut gelding Richmond, having won the ladies' saddle class, finished second to Kenwick in the open class, third to Seth E. Thomas, Jr.'s Broad Run in the heavyweight class and made a clean performance in the class for jumpers.

CLASS 3—Ladies' saddle horses—Mrs. F. A. de Peyster's ch. g. Richmond, first; Miss Margaret Meyer's ch. g. Yellowstone, second; Miss J. A. Hamilton's ch. g. Sheik, third; Mrs. A. S. Carhart's gr. m. Fair Knight, fourth.

Moreland Show Horses Here for Durland Sale

Fine Saddle Nags From Kentucky Under Hammer.

It is not often that the country's leading dealer in show horses disperses a stable full of fresh goods at auction, which fact, perhaps, accounts for the unusual interest that is being shown in Robert E. Moreland's sale at Durland's Riding Academy on Tuesday evening.

Many Eastern buyers have for years looked longingly on the type of saddle horse made famous by Mr. Moreland, but he has been unable to give the sale the comparatively few could afford to own them. Now, however, the young Kentuckian is going to let the public appraise his horses and buy them at their own prices.

Larger shipments of fresh Western work horses than have often been sent to New York have been coming in to the old Bull's Head market for the Monday and Thursday sales. Half a dozen carloads sometimes arrive in a day, to be distributed to buyers from Boston, Baltimore and the country in between, most of them going to dealers who will sell them again. Thus far this season they are a little, to be sure, but they are still far below normal, and it is only the fact that shippers are getting them at low prices in the West that keeps them coming in.

George L. Chetwood, who has been identified with the horse business in Newark and Elizabeth for many years, says he has observed that usually the first weeks of April bring a break in the prices for work horses, the reason being that shippers and dealers often flood the market just at this season, which is about the busiest of the whole year.

James Cox Brady is going to disperse his famous stud of hackney ponies during the Devon Horse Show next month. The sale will put on the market the noted stallion Hamilton Model, three times champion of the National Horse Show and sire of many winners, including Chestnut Horse, twice champion saddle pony of the same show. At Hamilton Farm, Gladstone, N. J., Mr. Brady has a notable collection of brood mares, many of them either champions or winners here or in England.

T. S. Glover of Aiken, S. C., shipped a carload of polo ponies, hacks and carriage horses to New York yesterday. The special sale at Durland's Riding Academy on Friday evening, Mr. Glover gave the buyers in New York and vicinity some very useful animals at moderate prices. The opening leaves a bargain hunter will all be on hand when he sells this week.

William Cook has converted the noted hackney stallions, Haverford and Astburn, into a carriage pair. They are chestnuts, 15.2 hands high, and can go as high as wild geese fly, their owner says. Astburn, who was champion of the National Horse Show a few years ago.

John McE. Bowman, Clifford Hance and George P. Morris have announced the disposal sale of their saddle horse breeding stud in New Jersey. Glen Chief and Margaret Tate, both well known show horses, are among the twenty head to be sold.

The Bergen Horse Company sold another good run of horses of all the common types on Wednesday at the Communipaw avenue stables in Jersey City. Two loads of green ones and a lot of seasoned workers made up the offerings.

Waller & Potters supplied Long Island buyers with a large number of farm horses in their Tuesday auction last week at the Rutledge street stables in Brooklyn.

Wednesday and Saturday are now the regular auction days at the old Raymond horse market in Brooklyn. G. Leaver is the manager and Henry Schaefer the auctioneer.

Stadler & Stadler of Fifth avenue and Sixtieth street report an unusual number of orders this season for riding clothes of the highest class for exhibitors at the Brooklyn and New York spring horse shows.

Joseph Wiesenfeld, Baltimore's largest dealer in English saddlery and riding equipment, is filling orders from all parts of the country this spring.

Brill Brothers are specializing in riding suits for men at their Broadway store near Forty-ninth street.

M. B. Newcomb, 324 Seventh avenue, has two stables filled with saddle horses and is boarding out four more that he cannot put away.

H. Kaufman & Sons are showing a large and varied stock of imported English saddles and riding bridles at their Division street building.

Lawrence Fitzpatrick has some exceptional finished polo ponies in the lot he recently brought in from Wyoming to Hugh Gormley's riding school in Flushing. He reports they are now about ready to show with mallet and ball.

W. H. Maddison of Glenville, Conn., has several fine saddle horses and hunters ready to show in Brooklyn and at Durland's. He reports a few sales of late.

Ozons Park now has a regular weekly horse auction every Wednesday at the stables of Plato & Villo, in Ocean avenue. N. D. Gratton is the auctioneer.

E. Q. McVitty, who recently sold six polo ponies of his own breeding and development to the Duke of Westminster, is also showing a splendid hunter.

OPTIMISTIC OWNER IN BUSINESS RACING

Secretary of National Trotting Association Pays a Tribute to Owner of Sunshine Stable.

By W. H. Gocher.

Everybody has seen the optimistic owner. The twinkle in his eye gives the world confidence in racing. His presence is like sunshine on race day. His nod touches the button that turns the wheels. The spring in his step is contagious. A ray of light follows in his wake and leaves a sprig of joy in the minds of everybody.

The optimistic owner's horses are no better than those controlled by other folk. The only difference is that he has faith in them. He thinks that each and every one of them will supply a few that "also ran." He knows that tomorrow will be a new day, with other opportunities.

Each year the conditions of the futurity bring a thrill to the optimistic owner. As he reads the nominations, he can in his mind's eye see the new crop of foals become yearlings and finally appear on the course ready for the preliminary work incident to racing.

The grumbler and the cheater can never take all of the pep out of this owner. At times they may cause him to stop and look at the hole which the last check made in his bank account after the chestnut filly was pocketed in the stretch in what would have been a deciding heat for her, or the black colt pinched on the turn at a point where the judges could not see which one of the rough riders knocked the skin off his front legs.

With some men a few such jars would flash a good night signal. The optimistic owner, however, takes the bitter with the sweet. He does not cry over spilt milk, but plans to prevent it in the future and occasionally tells the blamers what will happen if they repeat.

The cheerful owner is a winter bloomer variety. He buys and sells a few, either at the auctions or in private, to those who are satisfied they can make champions out of other folks' misfits. Prices do not cut much figure. If he wants a horse, he gets it. He pays the bills, and the selection proves a driver no one knows about it until race day, and not then, if the faded star does not show up. The best of them slip between spring joggling and taking the world.

nature's message, while the new coats of the horses show that they are ready for another whirl. The rainbirds creep from their cocoons. Stomach in hand, their choppy conversation puts a tang into the days that must be chafed of the calendar before the bell rings. The blankets and bandages swing back and forth on the line as the sun slips behind the hill. An automobile stops near the stable. As its occupants leave the car, the optimistic owner appears like the rainbow. To them he is the advance agent of prosperity. His smile is like a seed to the harvest. On dark days he can see the cloud's silver lining. He blazes new paths and encourages others to go on when the footing is heavy.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF SOME SPRING SALES AT DURLAND'S RIDING ACADEMY 5 WEST 66TH ST., NEW YORK.

The property of Mr. R. E. MORELAND of LEXINGTON, KY., who states that he has a fine lot of horses, show and show prospects as he has ever owned, and this will be a wonderful opportunity for any one to get a show horse.

SPECIAL AUCTION SALE OF Kentucky Saddle Horses and Show Prospects

The property of MR. R. E. MORELAND of Lexington, Ky.

Tuesday Evening, April 11, at 8 o'clock DURLAND'S RIDING ACADEMY 5 West 66th Street

Mr. Moreland states that he has as fine a lot of horses, winners and show prospects, as he has ever owned.

This will be a wonderful opportunity to get a good horse

Part of Mr. Moreland's Consignment: TRIUMPHANT, ch. g., 5 years, 15.25. Our judgment and experience are such that this is not a show horse of the first rank. He possesses every requisite for show ring success.

GLORIOUS, ch. g., 6 years, 15.2 hands. One might search the whole country over and not be able to buy one like him at private sale. His glorious trot and exceptional speed accentuate when he is in motion the favorable opinion formed of him when standing still.

HUGUENOT, ch. g., 5 years, 15.1 hands. Horse show habitues of a decade ago will think the peerless champion Poetry of Motion has been rejuvenated when they see this superb animal in the sales ring. He has the exquisite finish and quality of the old champion, with the air, style and magnificence of a Violet Homing. He will win at the leading shows.

SALELY, ch. m., 7 years, 15.1 hands. This mare should be the championship small sized saddle horse of 1922. Unreservedly present this mare to the buying public as the logical winner of the under 15.2 novice and open classes, especially the ladies' events.

ALEUMINUM, gr. g., 8 years, 16 hands. Quite the most extraordinary saddle horse ever in any conditions. She is one of the most graceful animals I have ever owned.

SECURITY, ch. g., 7 years, 15.25 hands. His name just suits him. For a weight carrying road hack I have not seen his equal in many a day. He has a fine trot and is very sensible.

Followed by consignments from Mr. M. L. Brison of West Newton, Mass., who will sell 6 High Class Saddle Horses. Woodin Farms of Chicago, Ill., will sell their stable of Hunters and Jumpers.

Those wishing catalogues of sales please send name and address to William Durland, 5 West 66th St., or phone Columbus 9100.

SPECIAL SALE 20 HIGH CLASS SADDLE HORSES, POLO PONIES AND PARK HACKS 20

MR. T. S. GLOVER, of Aiken, S. C., FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 14th, at 8 o'clock, DURLAND'S RIDING ACADEMY 5 West 66th St.

Mr. Glover writes that he will bring to this market an excellent consignment of well trained and well mannered horses, suitable for anybody to ride.

Part of Mr. Glover's Consignment: ACE OF SPADES, blk. g., 15.2 hands. A real high-class hack, up to any weight; ridden by ladies; black, eye, style and finish.

TANGO, ch. g., 15.1 hands. Absolutely gentle and fearless; in the making of a high-class polo pony.

SILVER PLATE, gr. g., 15.1 hands. Wonderful hack, with perfect manners and fearless; jumps 3 1/2 feet.

CHORUS GIRL, br. m., 14.8 hands. Wonderful thoroughly broken Polo Pony at the Post & Son's polo field, East Williston, Long Island, on Saturday, May 20, at 11:30 A. M.

These ponies were bred by Mr. McVitty on his Bear Valley Ranch, San Miguel, California, and are three-quarter, seven-eighths and clear thoroughbreds. They are by his stallions Denroo, Huston, Satsuma II, and Salvatoris and they represent the result of the past 2 1/2 years breaking and schooling to the game.

Some of these ponies are of international calibre and are equal in quality and playing ability to the six head recently sold by Mr. McVitty to the Duke of Westminster.

Followed by consignments from Mr. R. Ortmann, Mr. August Belmont and Others

Those wishing catalogues of sales please send name and address to WM. DURLAND, 5 West 66th St. Phone Col. 9100.

Important Auction Sale of Imported SADDLE HORSES and HUNTERS

Tuesday Evening, April 18th, at 8 o'clock MR. GEORGE WATSON OF TEANECK, N. J. WILL SELL AT

DURLAND'S RIDING ACADEMY 5 West 66th Street 22—Saddle Horses and Hunters—22 Recently Imported from England and Ireland

Mr. Watson is leaving May 1st for England and every horse will be sold, absolutely without reserve. IN THE AFTERNOON APRIL 18th at 2 O'CLOCK MR. GEO. WATSON WILL SELL 100 Saddles and 100 Bridles by Best English Makers.

Part of Mr. Watson's consignment for Evening Sale: PRINCESS MARY, chestnut mare, 15.1 hands. One of the greatest mares I ever owned.

BRIGHT, gray gelding, 16 hands. A real saddle horse up to carrying 200 lbs.

LINTON KELLY, chestnut mare, 14.3 hands. Has everything a real show horse should possess.

CHERRY BLOSSOM, gray mare, 15.3 hands. Beautiful full weight carrier, ready to hunt.

LADY BEAUFORT, gray mare, 14.3 hands. Full of quality and the making of a real show mare.

BARBARA, bay mare, 15 hands. The making of a real high class polo pony.

PIN CUSHION, bay mare, 15.2 hands. Great show pony for children. First at the last Garden show.

MASTERFUL, b. g., 5 years, 15.1 1/2. This gelding has more things to attract consideration than can be found in one horse in 10,000. A full made, plump horse, with wonderful dash and air. Certain to command careful attention of the judges. Smart, snappy trot, always in perfect balance, and sets himself in form. No horse living has a more disposition.

GRACEFUL, ch. m., 4 years, 15.25 hands. I particularly recommend this mare for a lady to ride. She is very quiet and obedient under all conditions. She is one of the most graceful animals I have ever owned.
