REVOLT IN CONGRESS IS THREATENED NOW

Many Republican Members Disgusted With Self-Seeking Chairmen.

BLACK EYE FOR PARTY

House's Failure to Cooperate With Harding Resented in States.

BONUS IS USED AS A BAIT

Mondell-Fordney-Fess Leadership Regarded as Directed by Personal Ambitions.

By LOUIS SEIBOLD. Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

With a little encouragement an insurgent movement which has been smoldering in the House of Representatives for some time might become a conflagration.

State leaders whose opinions are not influenced by the judgment of national legislators report growing dissatisfaction among the men and women voters over the failure of Congress to function satisfactorily.

They attribute this failure to incompetent or misdirected leadership. A large percentage of the Republican members of the House concur in the opinion.

Close observers inside assert that discussion of Congressional conditions in the cloak and committee rooms largely reflects dissatisfaction with the manner in which a small but arbitrary group of important committee chairmen are manipulating legislation for their own personal benefit and to the decided disadvantage of the party.

According to outside leaders the Harding Administration and not Congress has provided the only issues with which to appeal for popular support in the coming Congressional elections.

Members of the majority are beginning to realize this fact and discuss the necessity for a readjustment of party affairs in the lower House and greater independence of the leadership which is neither respected nor deemed beneficial to party interests.

The stories brought to Washington by the outside leaders or communicated to their spokesmen in Congress are pretty much the same in substance: Mr. Harding is held in greater respect than the Congressional representatives of his party.

The balance sheet between the two is cited to emphasize the contention of outside leaders that the policies of the Administration are commanding both respect and indorsement among voters.

RACE FOR CONGRESS IS WORRYING DRYS

Anti-Saloon League Leaders Appeal for Enforcement of Prohibition Act.

SEE 'CRISIS' IMPENDING

Churches Called On to Take Part in Political Campaigns Throughout U. S.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

Prohibition enthusiasts are showing evidences of much concern over the activities of the wet forces in preparation for the approaching congressional campaign.

The Anti-Saloon League, whose political activities have been attacked in the House by members in sympathy with the wets, today issued an appeal to the friends of prohibition enforcement, in which it is declared that the "situation which confronts the people in the primaries which take place between now and October 11 is a crisis."

It required the full pressure of the Administration to overturn the Madden program. The incident is of more than passing importance because Mr. Madden was supported by Mr. Mondell, the majority leader, and most of the chairmen of the more important committees who displayed scant regard for the opinions of the President.

Mr. Mondell, Mr. Fordney and Dr. Fess are candidates for seats in the Senate from Wyoming, Michigan and Ohio, respectively. A great many of their associates who attach importance to the opinions of the outside leaders have no particular objection to lending a helping hand in this venture.

Mr. Mondell's recent speech denouncing as wholly unjust criticism of his management of party affairs in the lower house was still viewed in the nature of a Pickwickian achievement. His determined insistence on the passage of a bonus bill which he and Mr. Fordney had the best reasons for knowing was disapproved by the President is cited by members who are skeptical of his leadership as justification for any move to demote him.

That such a move would be made beyond question if the present session of Congress were not drawing to a close. Mr. Mondell's supporters believe he will not be a member of the next Congress and his critics hope so.

By putting through the bonus bill he has deservedly won and will probably receive the support of the American Legion in Wyoming, whatever it may be worth to him.

If Mr. Fordney ejects to make the race against Senator Townsend in Michigan he will undoubtedly receive all the votes of the American Legion in that State. That can recruit for him in that State.

What was described as the initial step in the nation-wide campaign for the election of candidates favoring the labor cause was taken yesterday at the meeting of representatives and members of the locals of the "Big Four" Railroad Brotherhoods, held in the auditorium of the De Witt Clinton High School, Tenth avenue and Fifty-ninth street.

SOCIALISTS LIKELY TO OPPOSE FUSION

Question of Affiliating With Farmer-Labor Bodies to Be Decided To-day.

CLEVELAND, April 30 (Associated Press).—After a day's debate the national convention of the Socialist party had not decided to-night what action the party should take toward affiliating with labor and farmer organizations for future political activity.

Indications to-night were that the convention may decide to hold aloof from any such affiliation, contenting itself merely with sending delegates to the next meeting or convention called by the conference for progressive political action, such delegates to have no authority to commit the Socialist party to any policy, but to report with recommendations to the next national convention of the Socialist party.

It is believed that the Socialist party will be more friendly to the labor organizations toward independent political activity than it has been in the past.

CANDIDATES IN STATE FACE LIQUOR ISSUE

Revolt Against Volstead Law Seen in Many Districts.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Some members of the "Children's Crusade," organized to obtain the release of 114 war law violators now serving time in Federal prisons, quietly attended church under the same roof to-day with President Harding in a room under the main auditorium where services are held each Sunday for children.

They arrived and departed without attempting any demonstration and were without banners or paraphernalia of any kind. Both the main auditorium and the galleries were packed when President and Mrs. Harding arrived and were shown to their accustomed seats.

There were no vacant seats in the main part of the church when they arrived and outside a procession of children in the room below for the children.
