Touring Car on Way to Links Turns Somersault on Flushing Road.

FORD KNOCKED 40 FEET

Two Others in Separate Accidents in Hospital With Broken Skulls.

A large touring car and a small Ford service car collided with such force at Parsons avenue and Amity street, Flushing, shortly after noon yesterday that the touring car turned a complete somersault and the Ford was knocked forty feet.

Of the six passengers in the larger car, only three were left on their feet. One of the touring car was killed and two others were injured.

These were William H. Sydeman of 222 Fourth avenue, owner and driver of the larger car; Joseph Sydeman, 272 West Ninetieth street, his brother; Sidney F. Spero, living at the Walton Hotel, and William H. Friedman of 49 Edgewood avenue. In the Ford car were Orongo Parcell, a grocer, of 63 Grove street, Flushing, who suffered internal injuries and possibly a fractured skull; Smith and Parcell, with the other injured persons in the Flushing Hospital, are in a serious condition. The police said the brakes of the larger car failed to work.

William Latham, 45, of 201 East Sixty-first street, was seriously injured by a five ton automobile truck carrying a four ton load of thirty-nine street lamps. This accident occurred at Broadway and Latham, who was an employee on Ward's Island, was taken to Bellevue Hospital and operated upon. He survived the operation, but immediately lapsed into unconsciousness.

Latham's head was crushed. The truck, the property of Jacob Vetter, of Spruce and William streets, was driven by George Eastman of 43 Clay street, Brooklyn, who was locked up.

Richard Barthelmess, 54, of 1049 Hancock street, was struck by an automobile at Hancock street and Bushwick avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday and was taken to Bushwick Hospital with a possible skull fracture. The automobile was owned by William O'Rourke of 444 Evergreen avenue and driven by William Ruge, 582 Evergreen avenue.

A request to President Harding to veto the soldier bonus bill, now before him for consideration, was forwarded to him yesterday by James B. Fisher, president of the Brooklyn Real Estate Board, accompanied by a copy of a resolution drawn up by the board at a meeting held some time ago.

Mr. Fisher in his letter to the President stated that while the members of his association are vitally interested in the welfare of the residents of the country they believe that the Government finances at present do not permit of the payment of a bonus to the ex-servicemen.

Continued from First Page. Woman lay with their heads toward the east. In the woman's head were four bullet wounds and there is some question as to whether her throat had not been cut as well.

One bullet had ended the life of the clergyman, there being but one wound, through the head from the back of the neck a little to one side. Over the face of the man his own straw hat had been placed, apparently with care. Over the face of the woman lay her scarf, a long affair, with a pocket in the end.

Love Letters Are Found. Scattered about the ground when police arrived or found in the pockets of one or the other of the pair were several papers that gave abundant proof of the relations existing between the two.

Letter Identifies Her. Another letter led to the corroboration of the identification of the woman, which did not take place until some time after the bodies were found. The letter read: "Please don't laugh at this. I know I'm a crazy cat, but I can't be different."

both were apparently so deeply interested being a little more than a stone's throw from either home. They saw each other almost daily for as the neighbors.

Girl Died of Broken Heart. Hall, when he came here ten years ago, was reported to have had a love affair and it is said that the girl died later of a broken heart. This is, however, just one of the rumors that have followed the killing and there is no substantiation to be found.

He Gets Up at 2 in Morning. Along about 2 in the morning, Mills told Totten, when his wife had not come home he got worried and rose.

One striking feature of the case is the difference in the environment of the two principals. The Hall home, a handsome though not pretentious two-story and a half frame house on fashionable Nichols avenue, stands well back in its own well kept grounds, with broad lawns in front.

The church is a small one of brick and ivy covered in George street, between Commercial and Throop avenues. It has a lawn in front and an iron railing. It is a pretty structure. The Mills home is about three blocks away toward the northeast.

Doubt as to Bullets Fired. Dr. Long, the county physician, said it would require hours for him to prepare the bodies properly and then examine them thoroughly so that his findings would be worth while.

One is never too young to wear, and be thrilled at wearing, a Paris hat. It is the final crowning note of chic to any costume, and if the costume is French too, a Paris hat is indispensable.

mother and they all motored to the lake and back again. Mills was not in the party. He told Totten, and this was corroborated, that both the Halls thought highly of Mrs. Mills.

Receptor's Wife Gets Alarmed. Mrs. Hall, Totten learned, became alarmed on Thursday night when her husband failed to return. This is somewhat of a contradiction to earlier reports, which were that no alarm was felt, as it was realized that Hall might be away all night.

Totten had not paid his visit there yet, but will call to-morrow in the hope that Mrs. Hall will be more in condition to talk with him. He is not convinced, however, that the minister's wife will be able to help him solve the mystery.

GERMAN DEBT INCREASES. BERLIN, Sept. 16.—Germany's floating debt increased during the first ten days of September by 10,345,000,000 marks to 241,676,000,000 marks.

night at a point from which she might have walked to the place. But the detectives are not wholly convinced that the pair were killed where their bodies were found.

In Unsanitary District. Activities in the neighborhood of the Phillips farm brought Totten and his assistants there to investigate. A shooting affair occurred down the road a half mile or so last Sunday night and bootleggers have been caught in near by houses on more than one occasion recently.
