TRIO IN DILLON CASE GIVE UP AND GET BAIL

Kastel Still Missing, but Lawyer Says He Will Be Produced Monday.

GIRL IN JAIL ALL NIGHT

'Dandy Phil's' Secretary Arrested Through Trail-ing Woman to Phone.

WARRANTS CAUSE CHASE

Principals Accused in Bucket-ing Supposed to Have Got Warnings Soon.

Three of the five persons indicted in Montgomery county on a charge of grand larceny as a result of stock transactions of the bankrupt firm of Dillon & Co., surrendered yesterday. Their surrender followed The New York Herald's publication of the arrest of Ruth Smith, secretary to "Dandy Phil" Kastel, alleged backer of the stock brokers, as one of those indicted. Those who surrendered were Richard C. Guest, formerly cashier of Dillon & Co.; Edward N. Post, alleged to have been a drawing partner of Kastel, and Augustus Toohill, a customer's man who already was out on bail upon a previous indictment in Montgomery county growing out of Dillon & Co. transactions.

Kastel alone of the five has not been found. Eugene F. McGee, attorney for the indicted persons and through whom the surrenders were arranged, announced, however, that he would produce Kastel Monday. Bringing Kastel before the District Attorney of Montgomery county will mark an event that Kastel is alleged to have boasted could not happen in the office of the District Attorney of New York county. The charge upon which he will go to Montgomery is one first made before the District Attorney of New York county a year ago and upon which, so far as announced, no action ever has been taken.

Charge by Amsterdam Man.
The complainant in the case is Fay Shaul of Amsterdam, N. Y., who alleges he paid Kastel $5,545 for stock that he never delivered. Both District Attorney Eanton and his assistant, Benjamin F. Schreiber, who has charge of stock larceny complaints, were out of town yesterday when reporters called to ask for comment upon Mr. Shaul's statement that he failed to get action here.
Mr. McGee's "surrendered" his clients upon condition that they be allowed to give bail here and be relieved of a trip

Burglars Oblige Druggist Who Wants Store Cleaned

"CLEAN the store thoroughly." That note, left for an employee by H. A. Kemmer, who has a drug store at 733 Clinton avenue, Newark, when he closed up Wednesday night, was found by burglars who forced an entrance into the store early yesterday. They carried out his directions.

to Fonda, the Montgomery county seat. Lewis Hartigan, Chief of Police of Fonda, who executed the warrants, took the prisoners before Justice Isador Was-serberg in the Supreme Court, who approved bail of $5,000 each furnished by the National Security Company for their appearance in Fonda.

It is expected they will be arraigned before Justice Borst of the Supreme Court in Montgomery next week, and that Newton T. Herrick, District Attorney, will ask that their trials be set for the earliest possible date.
George Gordon Battle appeared for Miss Smith in arranging bond, and it is expected that Mr. Battle will be associated with McGee in the defense of the case.
An unusual aspect of the impending trial is the possibility that Mr. McGee will be called as a witness against his own clients. According to Keyes Winter, trustee, Mr. McGee's testimony last Tuesday before Peter B. Olney, referee, is evidence that Dillon & Co. bucketed many orders.

Warrants Cause Big Scurry.

It was learned yesterday that the moment it became known Wednesday night that warrants were out for the Dillon principals, the news spread rapidly. When detectives called at the home of Post and found him absent, it is said, a woman left the Post home and went to an outside telephone immediately. She was trailed and the telephone number she called was learned from an adjoining booth and later is said to have been identified as that of Ruth Smith.

Immediately after Miss Smith was taken to the police station four bondsmen appeared. Though her father, Capt. John Smith of the marine division of the Fire Department, made protests, no arrangements for her release could be made, since jurisdiction was in Montgomery county.

Miss Smith, therefore, was compelled to remain in prison all night. She stood the ordeal well. She is 25 years old, of blond complexion and pretty.

She is said to have been associated with Kastel as his secretary in at least three other stock brokerage firms prior to her connection with him in Dillon & Co. They are Dunn & Co., predecessor of Dillon & Co.; S. E. Smith & Co., also in bankruptcy, and Goldberg & Helme, the Goldberg member of which recently was released upon a certificate of reasonable doubt after conviction of grand larceny.

The delegation had called to protest against the Mayor's orders to police that Foster be sent out of town as soon as he arrived.

CRAGER CLERK HELD IN ALLEGED SWINDLE

H. I. Ettinger Surrenders, Making Eighth Arraigned of Fifteen Sought.

MORE DETAILS REVEALED

Brokers Said to Have Handled Stock of Cing Outlery and Carlisle Tire.

An eighth individual of the fifteen accused of misuse of the mails in connection with the "reloaded" stock selling operations of Crager System, Inc., surrendered yesterday to Peter J. McCoy, Assistant United States Attorney. He is Harvey I. Ettinger of Yonkers, bookkeeper for the stock sellers, and was held in $7,500 bail.

Benjamin Crager, president, who lives at 710 Riverside Drive, and his father, Henry Crager, vice-president, and Joseph E. Dorn, a stock broker of 2 Rector street, were arrested last Tuesday following a raid by postal inspectors on the Crager offices, 140 West Forty-second street. Four others were arrested in Chicago.

The complaints were based on alleged fraudulent representations in connection with the sale of stock in the Glass Casket Corporation of Altoona, Pa.

The national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs announced that its investigations showed that the Crager System, Inc., used similar alleged methods in the sale of stock of other concerns.
The vigilance committee's bulletin set forth that last July the Crager System entered into contract with the Cing Outlery Corporation of Elmhurst, Queens, to dispose of 15,000 shares of stock from which the outlery company was to receive an average of $8.60 net a share. The bulletin quoted James L. Wilhoit, president of the outlery company, as saying that while the stock could be bought on the market at from $2 to $5 a share he learned that Crager System was selling it to old stockholders at $40 per share. Mr. Wilhoit was quoted as saying the company immediately canceled the contract, but not before $10,000 worth of stock had been sold in that manner.

The bulletin said also that last May Crager System contracted to sell 16,000 shares of preferred, par value $25, and 4,000 shares common of no par value in the Carlisle Tire Corporation in units of four shares of preferred and one share of common. The Carlisle Tire Corporation, it is alleged, was to receive $75 net a unit, and the Crager System sold the units at $140 on the representation that the stock would go to $200 a share by July, thus making a gross profit of $65 a unit for Crager System.

CERTIFY SOLVENCY, FAIL FOR $1,000,000

Winthrop Smith & Co. Said to Have Reassured Customers Just Before Crash.

PARTNERS KEEP SILENT

Refuse to Answer Leading Questions at Bankruptcy Hearing.

Ten weeks before Winthrop Smith & Co., "blind" stock pool operators, failed for $1,000,000, it sent to its thousands of customers a statement purporting to come from the Penn Audit Company, certified public accountants, assuring the customers of the solvency of the brokers, according to an exhibit placed in the record at a hearing yesterday before J. J. Townsend, referee, 259 Broadway.

Morris S. Rachmil, whose name appears on the letterhead of the statement, was called to the stand to explain how that strange state of affairs came about. He refused to answer most of the questions because, he said, he had been informed that he was about to be indicted on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the case.

Rachmil and A. Lincoln Samuels, with whom he was doing business at that time as a partner in the Sterling Accounting and Audit Company, were indicted in 1919 by a Federal Grand Jury on a charge of conspiring to defraud the United States Government out of income taxes through manipulation of the books of business houses subject to such taxation.

Jacob Atkins, who said his right name was Atkins, bookkeeper for Winthrop Smith & Co., testified that Dr. Leonard K. Hirschberg, one of the partners, drew out $152 cash on the very day that the concern went into bankruptcy. Hirschberg, on the stand later, would not answer questions concerning that testimony.

Atkins, or Atkins, said he is only 20 and that he never had been employed as a bookkeeper before, but that he had complete charge of the company's principal ledgers for the last four months of its existence. He said he never saw a stock record book in the offices of Winthrop Smith & Co. and that the purchase and sales book was kept by an order clerk.

Both Hirschberg and Winthrop Smith, who are accused of using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud, were placed on the stand, but refused to answer any important questions. Hirschberg admitted that he had passed much time at Long Beach, but would not say whether he is interested in realty developments there known as Long Beach Estates and Gould Estates, Inc. He also refused to say whether any real estate he owned ever had been pledged as security for a bond for Smith.
Smith identified his signature on a check for $5,000, with the notation "chg. legal fees" on the stub, but refused to say what it was used for.
Smith said his firm had conducted some of its business through J. Finn & Co. and also through Harvey A. Willis & Co., Consolidated Stock Exchange members. He was unable to remember how Winthrop Smith & Co. got its market quotations and said he did not know whether the Consolidated house was instrumental in helping him get such quotations. He denied that his firm ever bucketed its customers' orders.

DIER CLERK SEIZED IN $92,000 ROBBERY

Harry Spring Accused of Trying to Sell Stolen Bond.

Harry Spring of 233 Lenox avenue, said by the police to have been the manager of the Harlem branch of the defunct brokerage house of E. D. Dier & Co., was arrested last yesterday by Detectives August Mayer and Grover Brown of Inspector Coughlin's staff. He was charged with grand larceny and with criminally receiving stolen goods. According to the police Spring's arrest was made in connection with the investigation into the theft of $92,000 worth of bonds last summer from Clark, Childs & Co., brokers, of 140 Broadway. The detectives said that at the time of his arrest Spring was trying to negotiate a loan of $2,500 on a stock certificate at a brokerage house in 2 Rector street. They said he carried a package which contained a certificate calling for 100 shares of Great Northern Railway stock. This certificate, the police said, was one of those stolen in the robbery of Clark, Childs & Co.

Spring is said to have told the detectives he was acting for a man named Jordan, whom he was to meet last night at Lenox avenue and 17th street. The police for some time have been searching for an Edward Gordon in connection with the robbery. Gordon was a bond messenger, and was sent by the brokerage firm to deliver the securities to the United States Trust Company at 45 Wall street.
