ENGLAND REFUSES AID TO VENIZELOS

Curzon Tells Him Fears for Greeks in Thrace Are Premature.

BRITISH VIEWS CHANGE

Ex-Premier Pleads for Allied Occupation if Territory Is Given Turks.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD.

Influenced by the scant comfort received in his conversations with Lord Curzon, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and Sir Laming Worthington Evans, Secretary for War, Elphinstone Venizelos has again postponed his departure for Paris, and is awaiting the arrival to-morrow of M. Kalamanos, the new Greek Minister to Paris.

M. Venizelos outlined what he considered the Greek claims to be, while Lord Curzon reiterated the policy of Great Britain as expressed in the note to Kemal suggesting a conference at Mudania. These views proved far from reconcilable, leaving an unfavorable impression on the mind of the Greek statesman.

M. Venizelos particularly expressed grave fears for the fate of the Greek inhabitants of Thrace if the Greek army were withdrawn, but Lord Curzon assured him that events had changed the British policy and that it was now prepared to recognize certain Turkish claims, but that the British were prepared to do their utmost to protect Greek nationals. He thought M. Venizelos's fears at least premature.

No British Recognition Yet.

The British say the announcement that F. O. Lindley, the British Minister, signed the visitors' book of the new King in Athens should not be misunderstood—that it was merely an act of courtesy and constitutes no sort of recognition. Recognition is not likely to be discussed until the Near East is quiet.

LONDON, Oct. 3 (Associated Press).—M. Venizelos, in a long letter to the Times, protests against the return of Thrace to the Turks, who, since the beginning of the war, he declares, have destroyed in Asia Minor more than a million and a half Armenians.

He pleads that if Thrace must be returned to the Turks it be done under the auspices of allied troops. He holds this would be a protection to the Christian people as well as the Turks, and would insure orderly evacuations.

"I do not speak in behalf of the Greek Government," he continued. "If, however, they do not agree with me, I shall refuse to represent them."

This letter seems to put an end to the report that the Venizelists are in favor of fighting for the retention of eastern Thrace—that is, on the supposition that the new Greek Government is ready to be guided by Venizelos.

Name New Head of Church.

Athens advises that the revolutionary committee has decided to recognize Meletios Metaxakis as Ecumenical Patriarch, head of the Greek Church, in order to terminate church antagonism. The Holy Synod has promised to concur in this decision, these advisers say.

Admiral Condouriotis, former Minister of Marine, will probably assume the Greek Premiership instead of Alexander Zaimis, who has declined because of ill health, says a Central News dispatch from Athens to-day.

LONDON, Oct. 3 (Associated Press).—It is announced that general elections to constitute a new Parliament to succeed that deposed by the revolution will be held November 13.

The British, Italian and Belgian diplomatic representatives have signed the visitors' book at the Royal Palace, and the Greeks interpret this as the forerunner of actual recognition of George II and the new regime.

MILLER-SMITH CAMPAIGN OF NATIONAL IMPORTANCE

is more apparent than real. Neither of them is a Prohibitionist. Gov. Miller has rejected the support of the Prohibition party because he is not in sympathy with their purpose. His position is clear cut and definite. He is for the enforcement of the prohibition law as long as it is law.

The seeming advantage enjoyed by Mr. Smith in the wet and dry issue is due solely to the fact that the platform adopted by his party came out squarely in favor of the manufacture and sale of light wine and beer. The Republican platform made no gesture in this direction. At best the value of the Democratic plank is an empty lure for voters.

Neither Mr. Smith nor Mr. Miller could ordain the return of anything stronger than one-half of one per cent, if either secured a million majority. An overwhelming majority for Mr. Smith of course will naturally be interpreted as reflecting a complete disapproval of the voters of the State of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act. Any change in the existing law will have to be provided by Congress.

For this reason there is a great interest in the Senatorial and Congressional contests. There is no reason to refute the claim of the wets that among the forty-three members of Congress from this State there will be from eight to fifteen more of the moist than of the dry variety at present. Republicans appear to feel justified in declaring the wet sentiment of the State is confined to the cities. In proof of this they cite the nomination of dry candidates in up-State districts.

The contest between the two parties probably will be somewhat affected by the wet issue, but the decision will be largely dictated by the ability of Mr. Smith to cut into the normal Republican vote up the State. Republican leaders concede the probability of Mr. Smith securing a plurality over Mr. Miller in Greater New York. Two and it is categorically declared by Kemal's representatives here that unless the British grant their demands Ankara will break off negotiations and give orders for the Nationalist army to march on Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 3 (Associated Press).—Information gathered in allied quarters here this morning was that the Mudania negotiators encountered considerable difficulties in opening the conference.

One hundred families of British officers and civilians left Constantinople to-day in accordance with the plan of the evacuation of the city by the British in the event an amicable arrangement is reached with the Kemalists for the occupation of the capital. Additional departures will take place as transportation is available. Thus far no Americans have departed, a majority of them having decided to await the final peace conference.

The continued exodus of Europeans, Greeks and Armenians has served to cut house rentals in two and also reduce real estate values. A comfortable apartment, the rental of which previously was $90 a month, can now be had for $45, while a house which before the war sold for $3,000 goes begging at $1,500.

JERSEY PLATFORMS SPLIT ON DRY LAWS

Republicans Stand by Prohibition—Democrats Want Light Wines and Beer.

CANDIDATES DICTATE

Both Parties at Simultaneous Conventions Write Similar Planks on Utility Rates.

TRENTON, Oct. 3.—Issues of the New Jersey campaign were expressed to-day in platforms adopted by the Republican and Democratic State conventions, held simultaneously. In the main the platform followed closely the views of the respective candidates for Governor—Senator William H. Runyon, Republican, and Judge George S. Silzer, Democrat.

The main issue of the campaign involves prohibition. In the Republican platform the only reference to it was a general declaration of allegiance to the Constitution and observance and enforcement of the laws.

The Democrats, too, asserted respect for the law, but reasoned that the national prohibition law classifying beverages as intoxicating by a mere legislative definition is in itself a violation of the Constitution. They said the Volstead act was the product of extremists.

Both parties put forth their best efforts in a public utility plank, particularly in urging lower rates, especially in trolley fares, from the prevailing base rate of eight cents.

The Republicans favored limiting recent authority of the lower Federal courts. They also declared that valuation for rate making should exclude good will, franchise value, past deficits, development costs, hypothetical brokerage fees and deferred maintenance. The Democrats pledged enactment of a law providing that franchise contracts between municipalities and utility corporations shall not be subject to impairment by legislative enactment. The practical effect of such a law would be to reestablish a five-cent fare in practically all municipalities.

HYLAN COMES OUT NOW FOR THE SMITH TICKET

Doesn't Mention 'AI' but Likes Platform.

It took Mayor Hylan four days to decide he would support Alfred E. Smith and the Democratic State ticket. Without a word from Mr. Smith, the Mayor announced he would support the ticket because he liked the platform.

Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, in conference with some of the leaders at the Wigwam again smiled when he was told the Mayor was out for the ticket and platform but made no comment. His first big smile came when William R. Hearst came out for Smith. After the Mayor had made his statement, David Hirschfield, Commissioner of Accounts, also said he was going to support the ticket.

WARD TO HELP DIRECT CAMPAIGN FOR MILLER

Will Succeed Snell to-day on Committee.

William L. Ward of Westchester will be elected to-day as chairman of the executive committee of the Republican State Committee to succeed Bertram H. Snell of St. Lawrence county. Into Mr. Ward's hands will be given much of the important work of directing the State campaign.

For the last two years the Westchester leader has been close to Gov. Miller; indeed, has been regarded as the executive's closest political adviser. He was in conference for hours yesterday with George K. Morris, the new State chairman, Samuel Koenig, chairman of the New York county committee, and other leading new Mr. Morris and Mr. Ward during the day.

CITIZENS UNION TESTS CANDIDATES

Questionnaire Covers Home Rule, State Primaries and City Charter.

ASKS LUSK LAW VIEWS

Opinions Sought on Powers of Mayor, Aldermen and Borough Heads.

A questionnaire was sent to all candidates for the State Senate and Assembly by the Citizens' Union yesterday. In the first place the union craves to know how candidates stand on the home rule constitutional amendment which has been before the Legislature since 1915; how they stand on restoring the State primary law, together with a complete revision of the law, and particularly if they would support a bill for the restoration of the direct primary method of nominating candidates for Governor, for the United States Senate and for State offices. They are quizzed, too, as to whether they would support a bill for the restoration of the judicial primary, whether they would oppose complete abolition of the primary and whether they are against a thorough revision of the primary law.

Still other questions fired at aspirants for public office include: "Whether or not you believe in the retention of the Massachusetts ballot law?"

"Will you oppose mandatory salary increases in city offices where such increases can be made by the city administration?"

"What are your views on special pension legislation?"

"Will you help to eliminate the evil practice of special legislation authorizing the rehearing of charges against civil employees dismissed from the city's service?"

"The Charter Commission, created last year, will probably submit a charter to the Legislature in 1923."

"Would you support a charter with extensive powers of local legislation and exclusive power to fix local salaries?"

"Would you approve the adoption of a workable system of proportional representation for the choice of members of the Board of Aldermen in order to make the body more truly representative?"

"Would you favor a Board of Education appointed by the Mayor, elected by the people or chosen by a commission of the resident regents and the Mayor?"

"Would you favor stopping direct appropriations for pension purposes?"

"Do you believe the Charter should be submitted to the electorate before it goes into effect?"

"Do you favor repeal of the Lusk school laws?"

"Do you favor a tax on outdoor advertising?"

"Will you use your efforts to prevent distortion of proper party action in the case of bills of a non-political or non-partisan character?"
