

STATE GOVERNMENT NOT MAKING FACES

Miller Says Executive and Legislature Work in Harmony.

OFFERS BUDGET PLEA

Governor and Associates Open Republican Campaign in Kings Co.

ACTUAL RESULTS CITED

Speaker Stresses Importance of Not Spending Before Collection.

Gov. Miller opened his campaign for reelection last night at a meeting of the Kings County Republican General Committee in Kismet Mosque, Herkimer street, Brooklyn. Senator Calder and the other candidates on the State ticket, with the exception of Col. William J. Donovan, also spoke.

The Governor's subject was proper budgetary control. He began by reading from the Democratic platform the plank calling for "amendments to the State Constitution to permit efficiency and eliminate waste by establishing an executive budget and effecting a reorganization of the Government."

"Our opponents," he said, "continue to plead as an excuse for not making the Government machinery work that it is necessary to amend the Constitution."

"This subject of amending the Constitution is one to theorize about, but in practical affairs the conduct of the public business will not change greatly unless those who are administering the public business are imbued with a spirit to render public service."

Budget Needs Machinery.

"I want to tell you briefly what we have undertaken to do. These say in their platform 'Executive budget by constitutional amendment.' We have established a budget system without waiting for a constitutional amendment. We do not call it 'executive' because there is not much in a name. The important thing is to have the right machinery. Now what is that? A budget organization is for. It is to exercise budgetary control. To do this every department and every separate division of every department will try to extend its own activities. We established the principle.

Rum Running Expose to Be Resumed To-Morrow

BECAUSE of the unusual demand for space, caused by extra heavy advertising and the efforts to report fully the doings of the American Bankers convention, together with the daily news of the New York Herald is compelled to omit to-day the story of rum running from St. Pierre, Miqelon. The fourth article of the series will be published to-morrow morning.

"We wouldn't spend money until we had it. We have set up a real budget organization."

"We do not call it either legislative or executive. It is set up under a Board of Estimate and Control, having representatives of both branches of the government. Instead of the Executive and the Legislature making faces at each other, the two branches of the government are now working in harmony."

Many Oppose Idea.

Now, there are lots of people who do not like this budget thing. Many people in the departments prefer the old way, when appropriations went by favor; when the one who had the biggest "pull" got the most appropriations. There are, I fear to say, some even in the Legislature who think that a business method of stating the needs of the State is an interference with legislative prerogatives, but notwithstanding that opposition we are going steadily ahead in the development of this system, and we expect to have a real budget to present to the Legislature which meets in 1923."

The Governor called attention to three reforms under his administration—standardization of the civil service, reorganization of the purchasing system and supervision of State printing.

"Now, these are some of the new methods that we have attempted to inaugurate," he said. "They are only started. They would be kicked over in twenty-four hours by any change of administration, even if a sympathetic administration in favor of continuing them came in. These things that I am talking about can never be firmly imbedded in the State government unless there is a driving, impelling force kept behind them until they are established. I have existed to fulfill that driving force for two years more if the people want me to do it."

Gov. Miller will speak this evening in the People's Training School at Jamaica, to-morrow in Poughkeepsie and Saturday in Troy. Next Monday he will start on a tour of the State and will be on the stump every day thereafter until the election.

The Republican State Committee announced yesterday that Aaron Copson, Goodyear, lumber merchant of Buffalo, had been named treasurer and will handle the campaign funds. His assistants will be George W. Perkins, son of the financier, who will have charge in large part of the financial management of the campaign in New York city. This is his first venture into State politics.

FALL ON BOTTLE KILLS CHILD.

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 4.—Sara Fallan, aged 5, died here to-day from internal hemorrhage and shock. She was hurrying along the street with a quart milk bottle when she stumbled, breaking the bottle and so severely wounding her abdomen that death resulted.

AL SMITH STARTS CAMPAIGN TO-NIGHT

Will Answer Miller at Formal Notification at Democratic Club.

Alfred E. Smith, Democratic nominee for Governor, spent yesterday preparing the speech that he will deliver to-night in the National Democratic Club when he and those on the ticket with him will be officially notified of their nomination at the Syracuse convention. Mr. Smith will reply to Gov. Miller's attack on his administration.

The notification speech will be delivered by Mayor William S. Hackett of Albany, who was chairman of the State convention. In addition to his speech and the speech of acceptance by Mr. Smith there will be speeches by Dr. Royal S. Copeland, nominee for United States Senator; George R. Lunn, Mayor of Schenectady and nominee for Lieutenant-Governor; James W. Fleming, nominee for State Comptroller, and others on the State ticket.

As soon as the notification ceremonies are over Mr. Smith will begin preparations for a speaking tour of the State. He will follow Gov. Miller, who will start his tour on next Monday. The former Governor said yesterday that he hoped to visit every nook and corner of the State and that he expected to find that he has gained strength rather than lost since 1920. Mr. Smith will be accompanied on his tour by other Democratic nominees.

32,000 LIQUOR ARRESTS IN PHILADELPHIA THIS YEAR

Drunk Total Huge Despite Prohibition Laws.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—More than 32,000 persons were arrested by Philadelphia police in the first nine months of this year for violations of the prohibition laws, according to a report today by James B. Cortelyou, Director of Public Safety, to Mayor J. Hampton Moore.

The figures took no cognizance of large numbers of intoxicated persons merely chased off police beats or advised to go home.

"Drunk and disorderly" still leads among the charges listed on the police blotter, 25,925 cases being recorded.

WARD MURDER TRIAL IS POSTPONED AGAIN

District Attorney Unprepared, Writes to Defendant Counsel.

The trial of Walter S. Ward, son of a wealthy baker, indicted for the murder of Clarence Peters, an ex-Marine, in May last, will not take place at White Plains this month and perhaps not next month, it was learned yesterday. Ward is out on $50,000 bail because of the unusual circumstances surrounding the murder, which Ward said was brought about when Peters tried to blackmail him.

Isaac N. Mills of Mount Vernon, chief counsel for Mr. Ward, stated that he had heard from District Attorney Weeks that he was not ready to go to trial. Mr. Mills said that if the prosecutor failed to move next month he will bring proceedings to have the indictment quashed.

COHALAN TO OUTLINE DRIVE.

Surrogate Cohalan's supporters and friends will hold their first meeting to-morrow evening in the Hotel Astor to complete arrangements for his nomination by petition. Mr. Cohalan will make a speech outlining his campaign.

One Year From Now

The tallest department store in New York is expected to be ready for Macy patrons

A SHORT time ago we called attention to the fact that excavations for the new additional Macy building had been completed. The entire summer had been spent with the excavating, for it had been done for the most part through solid rock.

To-day gaunt steel girders are beginning to rise into view. Within a few weeks they will have risen nineteen stories into the air—when the tallest department store in New York will take on visible form and shape.

One year from now this new Macy addition is expected to be thrown open to the public.

WHAT could be more fitting than that these nineteen new stories should rise upon a foundation of solid rock? For when Rowland H. Macy established his store sixty-four years ago the policy he adopted for doing business was just as bedrock:

At all times to sell merchandise of taste and quality at lowest-in-the-city prices

This policy has not only survived through the sixty-four years that R. H. Macy & Co., Inc., has been in business. It has lifted the Macy store to leadership among the department stores of New York. And this new building that will soon tower above all the other stores symbolizes the continued leadership of this business policy.

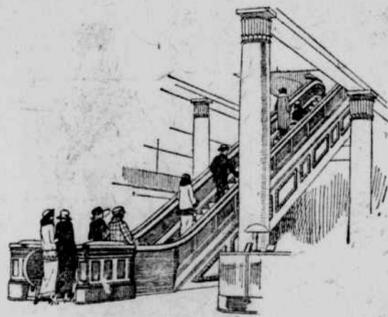

Making the Old Meet the New

When our additional building is opened, it will disclose not only a greatly increased selling space, but many features, too, that will be unique in the added facilities they provide for comfort and profit in shopping at Macy's.

To make the present store fittingly accord with the new, many changes and improvements must necessarily be made. Some have already been made, others are now in progress. Among them:

Oil-Burning Furnaces

To insure adequate heating provision for the gigantic structure of the combined new and old buildings we have installed several oil-burning furnaces. We are, therefore, prepared to heat the present building this winter, and the new one when it is ready, with either the coal or oil system.

The New Escalators

MONDAY we put the new escalators into operation for the first time. Running from the Main to the Second, and from the Second to the Third Floors, these escalators are in addition to those already in operation between the Main and Sixth Floors and to the fourteen elevators that are at your service. 8,500 persons an hour, if need be, can be carried up these new moving stairways!

The New Basement Flooring

The entire Basement floor, both in the new and the present building, will be of terrazzo—a compound of pink Tennessee marble and cement, which, excepting only granite, is the hardest and longest-wearing type of flooring there is. Enough of it has already been laid to give an idea—and little by little the entire Basement flooring of the present building is being changed.
