Politics Claims Society With Election Day Near

Feminine Interest and Fashionable Flavor Are Greater Than Ever Before in State and City Affairs This Year—Committee Meetings Keep Many Busy.

THE quest of diversion this autumn is a serious matter. The informal luncheon and the hastily arranged tea table are incidentals, such as several of last week's midday meals that were prelates to matinee political committee sessions. During the semi-finals of last week's golf tournament at Hot Springs a young New York woman observed: "I will have to cut the finals to-morrow if I win to-day. I am due in New York Saturday to help our district committee."

In spite of the welter of local politics, which has a larger feminine side and a stronger fashionable flavor than ever, Lenox and the mountain resorts of Virginia and West Virginia, with their glorious autumnal attractions, have the usual strong hold on local society. Easy of reach, with comfortable overnight or daylight trips, the Berkshires, Hot Springs and White Sulphur are filling the traditional October interval.

The death of Mrs. John E. Parsons has cast a gloom over Lenox and Pittsfield. Several members of the Berkshires' united colonies, after a short, impressive service at Interlaken, Mrs. Parsons's Lenox home, journeyed to New York for the Grace Church service last Wednesday to pay their last respects to the memory of a woman whose charm, strong personality and generosity had exerted a strong and beneficial influence over New York society for fifty years and had endeared her to hundreds of persons far beyond the fashionable circle.

Walking alone, Miss Beatrice E. Bishop, the only near relative and a schoolgirl, followed her grandmother's coffin into Grace Church and to Greenwood, where the body was laid by that of the first husband of Mrs. Parsons, David Wolfe Bishop. Mr. and Mrs. Cortlandt Field Bishop, parents of Miss Bishop and only son and daughter-in-law of Mrs. Parsons, were abroad at the time of Mrs. Parsons's sudden death in Lenox, but have started back.

Golf Is Chief Attraction at Hot Springs.

The Hot Springs colony has given itself up to golf, not alone to show how seriously the younger generation takes its sports. In the finals of a tournament for men Mr. Cornelius S. Lee of Tuxedo won over Mr. Harold C. Richard, 2 up. There were evidences of similar close play among the women. In the first round of match play in the women's tournament Miss Rosalie Bloodgood won from Mrs. George Case of Cleveland, 2 and 1. Mrs. Harold C. Richard lost. In the second round on Wednesday Miss Bloodgood made even a better showing, defeating Mrs. Thomas McK. Cook of Pittsburgh 5 and 3.

The gallery included Mr. and Mrs. William Earl Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Brown Scovortz, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Lewis, Mrs. Joseph Aymar, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coster Steers, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gould Remick, who will continue their honeymoon another two weeks; Mrs. Cornelius S. Lee, Mrs. Henry Colwell Beadleston, Miss A. Lee Beadleston, Mrs. Martin J. Keogh and her debutante daughter, Miss Margaret P. Keogh, and Mrs. Bruce Harriman.

Mrs. William Appleton Burnham and Mrs. Charles Henry Mellon, her daughter, had hardly arrived at Hot Springs when they were recalled Wednesday by the sudden death in the Plaza of Mr. Burnham, whose passing removes from active life another popular member of the summer resort. Burnham Gray, a leader among women of wealth and social influence to enter public life, and even run for office, several women of society have stepped from the middle ground of civic work into the higher lights of political activity. They include Miss Mary Jay Schieffelin, a member of the executive committee of the Citizens Union, of which her father, Mr. William Jay Schieffelin, is head. This advance into the public eye of Miss Schieffelin is typical of the feminine side of her large family circle. For several years she has been an executive force in the Junior League of New York, and is instrumental in bringing about a union of junior leagues throughout the country into an incorporated organization of national extent. She was one of the incorporators. Her younger sister, Miss Louise Vanderbilt Schieffelin, who made her debut two years ago, is taking a special course in history, economics and Spanish in the University of Wisconsin while her fiance, Mr. Abram S. Hewitt, namesake of his grandfather, the late Mayor Hewitt, is a student at New College, Oxford. Her cousin, Miss Louise Morris, who is another of the great granddaughters of William H. Vanderbilt, is a Vassar graduate. For the marriage of Miss Morris and Mr. Abram S. Hewitt, November 8 Miss Louise Schieffelin will come from Madison to serve as a bridesmaid.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Webb has just been elected associate chairman of the Democratic County Committee of Putnam county, a position that is the Democratic counterpart of the Republican hold in this county by Mrs. John H. Harriman. Mrs. Webb, who is naturally by her Democratic principles, being a daughter of Mr. William Church Osborn, who is a power in the Democratic party. There is a family link between the political associations of Miss Schieffelin and Mrs. Webb. Mr. Vanderbilt Webb is a first cousin of Mr. J. Griswold Webb, who was elected to the State Assembly last autumn from Dutchess county on the Republican ticket.

Both Parties Gain From It.

The increase of feminine interest in the campaign this autumn, particularly among women of influence in society, is being capitalized by both the leading parties and is evident to the observer and reader that the Republicans have more working capital of this sort than the Democrats. The latter have able benchwomen in Mrs. J. Norman de R. Whitehouse, Mrs. Vanderbilt Webb, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mrs. E. B. Stebbins, Mrs. Charles H. Stebbins and a member of an old Democratic family of New York. She is an influential worker in the feminine side of the Democratic party.

When questioned yesterday about the numerical feminine strength of the two parties of the campaign, the campaigner has been asked and the body of literature which will be issued within a few days and sent throughout the State. The preface of our pamphlet on the campaign has been issued and the body of literature which will be issued within a few days and sent throughout the State. The preface of our pamphlet on the campaign has been issued and the body of literature which will be issued within a few days and sent throughout the State.

Among Republican women the following are only a few of the many in various capacities, responsible for the leadership of the Assembly district workers:

Mrs. John H. Iselin, co-leader with Mr. William Chivers, former Assistant Corporation Counsel, in the Fifteenth Assembly district; Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, wife of the chairman of the board of the County Trust Company, chairman of the Women's Republican Committee of Suffolk county, Long Island, and the head and shoulders of the feminine Republican movement in Southampton and its vicinity; Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, daughter of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, who started as election district captain and now is assistant Republican leader of the Assembly district; Mrs. Frank A. Varney, who was mentioned as a possible member of the Westchester County Republican Committee; Mrs. John T. Pratt, associate chairman and campaign manager of Representative Ogden L. Mills's campaign committee, with headquarters at 165 West Fortieth street, and Mrs. Courlandt Nicol, the untimely one Page, who is secretary of Mr. Mills's campaign committee, with Mr. A. Perry Osborn as treasurer.

As well as Mrs. Gordon Knox Bell, Mrs. Linzee Blagden, Mrs. Chester Burden, Miss Mabel Choate, Mrs. H. Pleasant Pennington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Demarest, and a granddaughter of the late James O. Eldon; Mrs. Robert D. Fruyn, Mrs. Ogden Reid, Mrs. Douglas Robinson and her niece by marriage, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt; Miss Mary Hoyt Wiborg, Mrs. Hamilton Fish, Jr., whose husband, Representative Fish, has been renominated for Congress in the Twenty-sixth Congressional district; Mrs. J. Griswold Webb, Mrs. F. Trubee Davidson, whose husband is one of the noted freshmen in the school of politics; Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy and Mrs. J. Mayhew Walworth, wife of the Assistant Secretary of War, who is running for Congress from the Twenty-fifth district on the Republican ticket.

Thus, by merely scratching the political surface, the predominance of women of society in the Republican party in New York becomes evident.

Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, a woman of wide popularity in New York society, has heretofore had associations chiefly with the diplomatic world. About that phase of life she has written interestingly. She got back from Europe two weeks ago just in time to cover what is the dust of the local campaign. Yesterday she was one of the speakers at an "Ogden L. Mills day" in the Plaza Hotel under the auspices of the Woman's Republican Club. Mrs. Edward Lawrence Hunt, who is chairman of the club's campaign committee, presided.

Club Colonies Are Interested.

All the members of the country club colonies extending from Meadow Brook through the Wheatley Hills to Piping Rock are in a state of unusual political agitation over the campaigns of three of their best known members—Mr. F. Trubee Davidson, son of the late Henry P. Davidson, who is running for the State Assembly from the Second district, Nassau county, and Messrs. S. A. Warner, Baltazzi and Robert Low Bacon, who are candidates for Congress in their Long Island district on the Democratic and Republican tickets respectively. Messrs. Baltazzi and Bacon are residents of the Westbury colony and, as it happens, members of the same clubs. Bacon, banker and onetime Ambassador to France, Mr. Robert Low Bacon has been identified with Westbury since his youth. His sister, Mrs. George Bacon (Martha Bacon), was married from the Long Island family home.

Mr. Baltazzi is a son of the late Xenophon Baltazzi, who was for many years Turkish Consul-General in New York. His mother, who lives in Nice, France, was Miss Emma E. Warner of New York, and for many years during the lifetime of her husband one of the most charming of hostesses. Her son married a sister of Messrs. Henry Wolcott Warner and Franklin Mott Warner, who also have long been identified with nearby Long Island suburban life. In the latest pronouncement the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment lists Mr. Bacon as a vet candidate.

Debutantes Ready to Take Their Places in the World of Society

This Season's List of Debutantes Here Is a Lengthy One

Many Will Be Seen at Tuxedo Club Annual Autumn Ball.

THE list of debutantes of this season is far from complete and there will be frequent additions until the season gets well under way and voyagers return from wanderings abroad and from country places. The first dance that will really be attended by the majority of debutantes will be the annual autumn ball given by the governors of Tuxedo Club, which will take place next Saturday night in the ballroom of the old clubhouse, and the villas of that attractive place will be filled with parties of young people who will remain over Sunday and there will be numerous dinners and other festivities. Among the leaders in arrangements for the ball which always has been given as near as possible to all Halloween are Mrs. Henry Lansing McVickar and Mrs. George B. Saint George.

An interesting debutante just added to the list is Miss Alice Dodge, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Witherbee Dodge and a granddaughter of Mr. Arthur Murray Dodge, who for many years guided the Junior Cottolera, the forerunner of the Junior Assemblies. Miss Dodge will be the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dodge to be introduced in three successive years. She is a talented girl and last winter went to Paris to study the violin, and during that time was with her grandmother and her uncle, Mr. Geoffrey Will Hamill, who was in Southampton last summer, will introduce her daughter, Miss Betty Hamill. Another to be added who passed the summer in Southampton is Miss Frances W. Budlong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Witton John Budlong, who leased the villa of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Burrall Hoffman while they were in Europe.

Miss Sara Kierstede Hudson will be introduced by her mother, Mrs. M. V. Lea Hudson. She is a granddaughter of the late Charles J. Hudson and also of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lea of Philadelphia. Miss Gwendolen Graves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Graves, Jr., of Shadbrook, Irvington, N. Y., and this city; Miss Christina Hurd, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hurd of Locust, N. J., and New York, and Miss Helen Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Jenkins of Byrdway, Madison, Conn., and New York; Miss Constance Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Addison Miller, and Miss Elinor Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Sullivan of Ellinwood, Boonton, N. J., and this city, are among others. Miss Helen Dominick Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Alexander Smith, will be introduced by her parents, and another of the list will be Miss Mary Moore, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Thomas Moore.

Miss Rosamond Minturn Pinchot, daughter of Mrs. Minturn Pinchot, who was in Europe with her mother during the summer, will not be included with this season's debutantes; neither will

Argonne Association Plans Real Rodeo Here Next Month

Will Arrange Novel Contest in Madison Square Garden.

DEBUTANTES will come to the fore in the first Rodeo, a contest of cowboy sports, which under the leadership of Mrs. W. Pierpont Hamilton, will be held for the benefit of the Argonne Association of America in Madison Square Garden from November 4 to 14 inclusive. This association was formed in 1918 as a memorial to the American soldiers who fought in France, and it cares for dependent French war orphans. Miss Louise Y. Barber will be chairman of the program committee, and Miss Margaret Stone the vice-chairman. Others to assist will be Mrs. Langhorne Gibson, a recent bride, who was Miss Marion Taylor, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Taylor; Misses Ruth Wade, Marian Willard, Emily Schiewand, Frances Davison, Katharine Francis, Beatrice Gawtry, Frances Goodhue and Betty Price. There will be additions to this list.

The Argonne Association never has made a public appeal for funds and under an arrangement made with the rodeo management the association will benefit through the sale of tickets sold under its auspices. The box seat sale has been taken over entirely by the association.

Lists Complete. Mrs. Hamilton, who will act as sales manager of the boxes, has practically completed her list of sales force. Mrs. George B. St. George will be chairman of the Argonne Auxiliary Club, November 6, known as Children's Day, will be under the direction of Dr. Royal Storrs Haynes and Mrs. Stephen Birch will be in charge of Argonne Auxiliary Club, November 9; School and College Day, November 10, will be under the direction of Mr. Don Kelley; Col. Elliott C. Bacon will direct Armistice Day, while Argonne Auxiliary Club, November 12, will be under the direction of Mr. Robert L. Bacon.

Each chairman is in charge of a force of workers to help the selling, which has been mapped out so that there will be no duplication of effort. Every "salesman" has been coached personally by Mr. Tex Austin in the lore of the cowboy contests, at a "sales school" held in the home of Mrs. Hamilton.

The Patrons. Among the many patronesses are Misses Charles E. Alexander, Henry White, Frederick H. Allen, Francis M. Ward, Linzee Blagden, Warner M. Van Norden, J. Allen Townsend, Walter Phelps Bliss, J. Stewart Brown, Middleton B. Burrill, William D. Thornton, C. Ledyard Blair, Robert C. Barclay, Charles T. Barney, James L. Trolley, Allen Tucker, Henry G. Bartol, Thatcher M. Brown, J. Eliot Steers, Heyward Cutting, Adolf Favenstedt, Frederick Edey, Harry Harkness Flagler, Walter B. James, W. Eugene Kimball, Pierpont Morgan, Francis Rogers, Herbert L. Satterlee, William G. Rockefeller, Robert Howard Gamble, Harry Morton Merriam, Morton S. Paton, Walter G. Merritt, Willard Straight, Clarence J. Shover, Andrew J. Miller, William Hartony Parsons, Charles P. Swain and Harold M. Kingsland.

Arrangements Completed For the Victory Ball. Details for the annual Victory ball in the Waldorf-Astoria on November 19, Armistice Eve, have been completed. The list of patronesses who include Misses Courlandt D. Barnes, Thomas B. Clarke Jr., Paul D. Cravath, William Hayward Cutting, Henry P. Davison, Charles H. Draper, Harry Harkness Flagler, James W. Gerard, William Pierson Hamilton, W. de Lancy Kountze, Hunter S. Merritt, Edward McVickar, Arthur Frank C. Munson, John T. Pratt, Whitehall Reid, Francis Rogers, J. Mayhew Walworth, Marshall Orme Wilson, Frank S. Withers and Arthur Woods. A number of young married women will serve on a debutante committee of which Mrs. J. Theus Munds will be chairman.

A souvenir book of the ball is being compiled. The volume is to be of 130 pages made up chiefly of a collection of war drawings by noted artists. Mr. Howard Chandler Christy is designing the cover. Mr. Charles Dana Gibson, Mr. Albert Sterner and Major Ernest Clegg of the British army are other contributors. There also will be contributions by Messrs. Henry Reuterbach, the marine illustrator; Harold Brent, Wallace Morgan, Roy Baldrige, Wilnot E. Heitland, Ramsey Micks, Harvey Dunn, Harry Townsend, W. Enright, C. B. Falls and Adolph Frelller.

Executive committee of the ball includes Messrs. P. St. George Bissell, Lester M. Brown, Harold A. Content, George L. Darte, Samuel E. Drishen, Nicholas Engel, Charles Hann, Jr., Frank Jefferson, Vyn M. Logan, H. Allister Morrison, Irwin Ira Rockoff, Henry R. Sedwick, Joseph L. Soligman and Harrison Wright.

Annual Parrot Ball Will Be Held Dec. 14

Arrangements for the annual Parrot Ball are under way and it is proposed to hold this unique entertainment for the benefit of the St. Luke's Hospital Social Service on the night of December 14 in the main ballroom suite of the Ritz-Carlton. It will be conducted by members of the Junior auxiliary of that organization who are designing many original costumes and decorations for the occasion all of which will be suggestive of the parrot. Mrs. Howard B. Jones and Mrs. Samuel Sloan Waller are the head of the committee and their assistants will be Mrs. Casimir de Rham, Henry Morgan Post, Misses Eleanor Hurd, Nancy Potter and Marjorie Cleveland. Markel's Orchestra will play.
