

HARVARD FAVORITES IN TIGER AND BATTLE

NO PUBLIC ODDS IN FOOTBALL CLASSIC

'Betting Market' Lacks Stability and Activity—Tigers May Surprise.

BIG CONTEST IN HARLEM

Polo Grounds Likely to Be Filled When Cornell Encounters Dartmouth.

By DANIEL.

In regard to the Harvard-Princeton football festivities, which will hold the center of the stage to-morrow, a most salutary situation exists. There is a maximum of interest and a minimum of betting. Down in the financial district yesterday there was a lot of speculation over the outcome of the battle, but nearly all of it was of the verbal variety.

The "betting market"—whatever there was of it—lacked stability and public odds. There was a disposition to concede the Crimson something over the Tigers, and some few enthusiasts were willing to lay 6 to 5 that Harvard would win. But there was not enough of that sort of money around to establish the odds as a public standard.

An outstanding feature from the Harvard side is the rampant, unbounded confidence of the Crimson. But this does not generally extend to the financial side in the form of odds. And that is as it should be. These meetings between major elevens are contests between teams whose past performances may not be used as indices to their probable showing against each other. The breaks most often decide. A fumble, a long forward pass and run, a cash on an intercepted pass, a muff and a field goal—these most often settle the issue and no man may foretell them.

Harvard Looks Stronger.

As we analyze the proposition, Harvard seems to have the better chance. But that does not argue that we are certain that Harvard will win. The Crimson, we believe, has a superior defense both against an inside attack, a sweeping offensive or a scoring effort from the air. We believe the left side of the Princeton line to be superior to serious inroads. We think Harvard has the better balanced eleven, a more highly organized and stable attack and a better set of center backs. We do not forget the quarterback situation, with Charley Buell leading the Harvard team.

Our summarization of the qualities of the Crimson may make it appear like a one-sided proposition. But Princeton is far from beaten. Victories against scores on the field, and a superior set of backs, all the things which may be said about Bob Fisher's pupils, they will have to show the Tigers out there on the chalk marked turf. We look for the game to develop a lot of scoring, and far more open football than the old rivals have shown in the past.

Princeton will win if it can build a continuity of attack—no matter with what agencies—and keep making points faster than the Johnnies. This attack of the Tigers may lack the deceptive and highly organized quality of the Harvard offense. It may even veer toward the haphazard, shot gun variety. It may even be the first cousin of the "shot string" and knock all fixed ideas some play and strategy galley west. But it may win.

Cornell Under Examination.

It looks very much as if Cornell and Dartmouth to-morrow will draw the biggest football crowd seen at the Polo Grounds at a game other than the Army-Navy battle. Yesterday the New York club had nothing to boast of in its eleven, and above all a fighting team. The burden will be mainly on the Crimson. It has not lost to Princeton at Cambridge since 1894—though there has been hiatus in their relations between that year and 1911. Harvard, like Chicago, will have to do most of the showing and the Tiger may sneak in.

Kepler Reports at Rutgers.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. NEW BRUNSWICK, Nov. 9.—(Forster Sanford's) best fullback returned to duty today when Kepler reported with his right shoulder, which was dislocated in the West Virginia game two weeks ago, strapped, so that he can start in the battle with Lafayette here Saturday. Coach Sanford to-day made a change in the line, replacing Kingman at guard with Glatzko.

Football Game Called Off.

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 9.—The Tulsa University football game with the annual gridiron battle, scheduled for next Saturday, has been called off. Coach Howard M. Archer of the Tulsa school informed E. C. Gallagher, athletic director of Oklahoma A. and M., that Tulsa would not play against Rex Thomas, who Archer declares is a professional.

Parke H. Davis to Write Technical Review of Big Football Games

RESPONDING to the extraordinary public interest in the Harvard-Princeton, Princeton-Yale and Harvard-Yale football games, The New York Herald has specially engaged Parke H. Davis, Princeton's celebrated football expert, to write the technical review of these great gridiron battles.

Mr. Davis brings to his task the training of a lifetime. For thirty-five years he has been active in football as player, coach, tactician, rule maker, statistician, historian and critic. He not only possesses an extraordinary knowledge of the technique of the game but he has a knack for picturesquely and vividly writing the story of a game. In business life Mr. Davis is a successful lawyer and the head of one of Pennsylvania's large steel industries.

When he takes his seat in the Harvard Stadium next Saturday at 2 o'clock he will expertly observe a game in the making of which he played a major part as member for many years of the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee. The forward pass zone, the numbers on the players, the division of the game into quarters and scores of technical features owe their presence in the sport chiefly to his invention or to his advocacy.

The Harvard-Princeton struggle will present the very culmination of expert football play. If you desire it and enjoy its expertise, however inept you may be, read Mr. Davis's expert review in THE NEW YORK HERALD Sunday morning next.

COLUMBIA VARSITY SCORES FOUR TIMES

Hammers Seconds in Only Scrimmage Drill for Game With Middlebury.

Buck O'Neill put his Columbia varsity through its first and last scrimmage of the week yesterday in preparation for the game with Middlebury at South Field to-morrow. For forty-five minutes the first and second teams kept peeing away at each other, with the regular scoring four touchdowns. The rest of the practice period was given over to another lesson in fundamentals. A different set of forwards than that which took the field against Cornell was in harness yesterday. Fischer and Strech were at the tackles, with Gehrig and Brodell playing guard and Blaine playing center. Myers is now off the injured list and took his regular place at end for the first time since the game with New York University. Tilhonen held down the tight end job, but it is more than likely that Johnson, whose ankle received another setback at Ithaca, will be O. K. by to-day and will start to-morrow.

N. Y. U. Regulars All Fit to Oppose City College

Bonforte and Rosenberg Back in Varsity Lineup.

When New York University meets City College on the University Heights gridiron to-morrow afternoon Coach Thorp will have all his regulars available for service. The two linemen, Bonforte and Rosenberg, both playing in the game at fullback, will track along with Capt. Taylor, who got started again in the Fordham game. Thorp expects a hard tussle with the Lavender eleven, as Coach Neville has been polishing the C. C. N. Y. for this game for weeks.

Neville Continues to Drill C. C. N. Y. in Defensive Play

Joe Neville, football coach at C. C. N. Y., yesterday continued to emphasize defensive work in preparation for the N. Y. U. game, which comes to-morrow. The scrubs were given the ball in a dummy scrimmage and used N. Y. U. formations. They worked the forward pass, but were not given much ground. The varsity players showed the results of the week's drill and broke up most of their plays. O'Brien, star halfback, intercepted three forward passes in the varsity drill. The latter was used in blocking kicks. Flaxer and Garvey did the punting while the first string line tried to charge through. Later in the varsity kicking drill, Garvey, Rosenwasser and O'Brien practiced drop kicking.

Keiler Reports at Rutgers.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. HARVARD STADIUM SURFACE IMPROVES

Hope Rises for Good Playing Field When Crimson Meets Tiger.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 9.—Harvard football coaches and their varsity team were in high spirits this afternoon. After working three days on a wet, slippery and soggy field and a practice this afternoon to practice their plays with better footing than they have had for some time, the Stadium gridiron is still far from perfect, but wind and sun helped a lot to-day, and after to-night's straw covering is removed another right sort of day will do a lot.

The varsity workout was not so hard as that of yesterday, but it was by no means easy. The first team and the one which is counted on to face the Tigers opened up with a vigorous dummy scrimmage against the substitutes, and then worked in the same sort of drill against the best of the scrubs. The varsity remained strictly on the defensive against the scrubs, but took the offensive against the substitutes.

The sub-varsity and the sub-scrubs also had a drill together, and the day's work completed Harvard's preparation for its match with the Tigers except for to-morrow's short workout on kicks and plays.

Phil Coburn, who was used for a time in the backfield last week, did not even get on the field to-day, and neither he nor Pitts, who also played against the Jersey men a year ago, will start Saturday, although Pitts is very likely to substitute for either Holder or one of the backs as the match progresses.

The coaches again followed every motion of their team carefully. Vally Trumbull, former Yale's coach, giving the entire special tutoring in close scrum line work. A long kicking drill followed the scrimmages, with Owen and Gehrig both getting splendid practice, and the coaches again followed every motion of their team carefully.

Owen, Harvard Halfback, Makes Hit at Mass Meeting.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 9.—George Owen, varsity halfback, made a big hit at a mass meeting of the Harvard students to cheer the team before the Princeton game when, called upon by repeated cries for "George," he delivered the address. Owen, who is a member of the Harvard Union, where enthusiasm was given a free rein.

Fifteen hundred students jammed the living room of the Union, where Owen, who is a member of the Harvard Union, where enthusiasm was given a free rein.

Biggest Entry Announced for Collegiate Cross-Country

Eighteen Teams Compete at Van Cortlandt Nov. 27.

Two hundred and eighty-seven athletes, representing eighteen colleges, will compete November 27 at Van Cortlandt Park in the annual cross-country championship of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. Association. The list of entrants shows an increase of three over last year's list, and while Cincinnati, Holy Cross, Lafayette and Williams have withdrawn from the list, Princeton, Harvard, Cornell, Rutgers and Carnegie Tech.

Gargan Attempts to Correct Faults of Fordham Eleven

After a day's rest, their only one of the season, the Fordham football players were back practicing yesterday. Frank Gargan, however, did not give his scrubs much practice, but let them off with a blackboard lecture, a dummy scrimmage and signal drill.

The faults of the team in the N. Y. U. game that were noticeable, not to the fans, who saw none, but to the watchful Gargan and Moriarty, were gone over in detail. Joe Manning, who started the game at quarter, and Gargan, who was in the game, succeeded Manning at this difficult position, were given a particular talk on the many ways and wherefores that are connected with the assignment of the center.

On the gridiron Gargan worked at length with the players in an attempt to build up a suitable defense against the three mile course, but the scrubs will cover the distance only once. Most of the running will be on grass over an almost level polo field, with four hurdles and two other barriers which must be cleared by the barriers.

Army Prepares Defensive Against Notre Dame Plays

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. WEST POINT, Nov. 9.—Real football weather prevailed to-day and the Army took its final rough workout before meeting Notre Dame on Saturday. The only briefest kind of drill on the offensive, the coaches played the varsity against Notre Dame plays as used by the Mules for the greater part of the afternoon.

Bill Wood did a lot of punting, getting away some high spirals with a lot to carry them. Ed Garbisch and Smythe kicked field goals and goals from placement with accuracy. The scrubs formations were consistently broken up by the Army forwards, with Breister and Mulligan featuring in this work.

The Hoosiers are expected to reach here to-morrow noon and will have a drill on the plains gridiron during the afternoon.

Stevens Institute Specializes in Defensive Formations

In yesterday afternoon's scrimmage Coach Lawrence specialized in defensive formations for the Massachusetts Aggie tussle. It is expected that the Engineers will line up against the New Englanders with the same team which faced Delaware. The probable lineup follows: Balch and Gazda, ends; Janos and D. Turnbull, tackles; O'Mahoney and G. Turnbull, guards; Laverie, center; McConfer, quarterback; Allen and O'Callaghan, halves, and Etnebeck, fullback.

Notre Dame Football Squad on Its Way to West Point

Four 'New York Herald' Stars to Cover Game

THE Harvard-Princeton football game to be played at Cambridge Saturday is a sport classic in which hundreds of thousands of persons are interested. This fact requires the most interesting and detailed report of which a metropolitan newspaper is capable. With this in view THE NEW YORK HERALD will have on the side lines four of the greatest football reporters in America to insure its readers the most complete and interesting and colorful stories available. They are: W. O. MCGEEHAN, sports editor of THE HERALD.

PARKE H. DAVIS, football expert, who will write the detailed play and analyze the game.

WALTER H. TRUMBULL, who will cover the day's sidelights.

"DANIEL," who will see that nothing else gets by THE HERALD staff.

VALE GIVEN SCORE BY SCRUB PLAYERS

Touchdown Near Close of Scrimmage Saves Regulars From 3-0 Defeat.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—The Yale varsity faced stiff opposition on the part of the scrubs this afternoon and until the final moments of a hard scrum were trailing by 3-0. The varsity's right halfback, fullback, and left halfback kicked a field goal from the 35 yard line and it looked as though the regulars were in for a beating, when Wight and the right halfback, who was the varsity's only score. The scrimmage ended after two more plays. Steady line hitting by Jordan, Wight and Lench put the ball on the scrubs' 10 yard line from which point Wight scored.

The varsity was weak on the offense and at times the line bent and broke under the attacks of the scrubs. Three times the first team was driven back to its 5 yard line, but each trip the scrubs forfeited the ball on downs.

Tom Jones again made several changes in the line and backfield and to-night it was announced that Becker, who has been disabled for the last month, would probably start the game at quarterback against Yale Saturday. This will allow Neidlinger to take his regular place at left halfback. Wight and Scott or Bench will be the other backs.

Jordan probably will witness the Harvard-Princeton game, so Jones will use more or less of a trial backfield against Maryland. Bill Mallory watched as at center. This line, and the possible exception of Eddy at left end, will face Maryland.

Interest in the Harvard-Princeton game this year is greater than usual and the two best rivals of Yale are due to battle under the critical gaze of various members of Yale's football faculty, student body and squad members.

Record Demand on Railroad for Accommodations to Boston

According to C. F. Doran, ticket agent of the New Haven Railroad at Grand Central Station, there is record interest here in the Harvard-Princeton football game. "We certainly were astounded by the call we got for accommodations to Boston," said Doran yesterday.

"I believe that we will take at least 5,000 persons to-morrow. We have obtained every car the Pullman Company could spare to our help. We will have to run four sections of the midnight to Boston to-morrow. The public certainly is strong for football."

W. Virginia Off for Indiana.

MORANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 9.—The West Virginia University football team minus two regulars, left to-day for Bloomington, Ind., where on Saturday the Mountaineers will play the University of Indiana. Under an agreement with the University of Indiana, the Mountaineers will play the University of Indiana. Under an agreement with the University of Indiana, the Mountaineers will play the University of Indiana.

French, Football Star, Is Private in Army

WALTER FRENCH, former Rutgers gridiron star and star of the last two seasons' sensational West Point halfback, is now an enlisted man in the regular army and is stationed in Baltimore.

French was unable to take the civilian examinations for a commission last month and is now pursuing this method of coming up from the ranks to gain his long sought second lieutenantcy.

He is playing on the eleven of the Third Corps headquarters and will participate in the coming game with the Quantico marines when the new marines stadium is opened.

TIGER QUITS JUNGLE BOUND FOR BOSTON

Princeton Off to Engage Harvard in Twenty-sixth Football Game.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. PRINCETON, Nov. 9.—Princeton campus reechoed with songs and cheers to-night as the varsity football squad of thirty-three players entrained for Cambridge, where the twenty-sixth gridiron contest between the Orange and Black and the Crimson will be played Saturday. The whole undergraduate body paraded from Van Campus to Alexander Hall, where President John Grier Hibben, Head Coach Bill Roper and Howard Kramer Gray, president of the Varsity Club, addressed a mass meeting preparatory to the send-off.

The squad making the trip comprised the following players: Alfrod, Harry, Baker, Beattie, Bergen, Buckner, Caldwell, Cleaves, Crum, Dickenson, Gorman, Hill, Howard, McMillan, Newby, Pagenkopf, Smith, Snelvy, Snyder, Stinson, Tilton, Thompson, Tilhonen, Treat, Tyson, Vary, Gerbig and Wignate.

A long defensive dummy scrimmage against the Omeletes, using Harvard players, constituted the major part of the last workout on varsity held here this afternoon. The lineup that will start Saturday was used in this drill, Snelvy replacing Howard at guard and Tilhonen at end and a good deal of the time. Each of these men played against Chicago and will get in the game at some period.

A lot of signal drill, in which every member of the squad took part, brought the afternoon's work to a close. Jack Cleaves and Van Gerbig were punting well with the wind this afternoon, the former averaging over fifty yards and the latter well over the time. Both of these men played against Chicago and will get in the game at some period.

While the linemen were putting their shoulders to the bucking machines for the last time before they charge the Crimson forwards, "Red" Howard, "Pink" Baker, Harvey Emery and Harrison Thigmon were rehearsing kickoffs. Baker and Emery got the greatest distance.

The exodus of Princetonians from Tigerville to Cambridge started here this afternoon as the vanguard of the members of the musical clubs, which will give a concert in Boston to-morrow. A number of machines also started their northward journey filled to capacity. By to-morrow night the campus here will be deserted. The few students remaining will get the returns play by play at the Harvard freshmen-Princeton freshmen contest in Palmer Stadium.

"Give us an even break in the luck of the Harvard-Princeton game, I believe that the victory will go to the side that makes the fewer mistakes," declared Donald Grant, Herring, Princeton football expert, here to-day. "For the two elevens are as evenly matched as any two teams can be. The fighting will be hard and clean, but any one who wagers on this did not put his money by reason of pure sentiment."

The Princeton cross-country squad left to-night for Cambridge for the triangular meet with Yale and Harvard Saturday morning. The Orange and Black will be represented by the following barriers: Capt. Conger, Gordon, Hitarot, Kopf, Lesning, Nicholson, Ross, Raymond, Willett and Webster.

Washington-Tennessee Game Off Because of Ineligibility

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—George L. Rider, director of athletics at Washington University, announced this afternoon that the scheduled football game with the University of Tennessee Medical College eleven of Memphis, Tenn., at St. Louis Saturday has been canceled because of inability of the Tennessee team to conform to the eligibility clause of the contract.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 9.—Cancellation of the scheduled Washington University-Tennessee Medical College game was due to the freshman rule in effect in the Missouri Valley Conference. It was stated at the medical college here to-day. Most of the players of the doctors' eleven are freshmen.

Scholastic Athletics

An annual football series, which promises to develop into a big inter-sectional rivalry, will be inaugurated to-morrow when St. John's Prep of Danvers, Mass., at Danvers, N. H., will meet the University of Vermont big job. St. John's of Danvers is undefeated and has not been scored upon this year. Last Saturday the Danvers boys defeated Worcester High, 27 to 0. St. John's has defeated Fitching, 12 to 6; Clason Military Academy, 14 to 13; Far Rockaway, 25 to 6; tied Concordia Prep, 6-6, and lost to New York Military Academy, 13 to 0.

The Lafayette and New York University freshmen will start their annual scrap at Ashland Stadium, East Orange, N. J., to-morrow.

Erasmus Hall High School and Loyola School will soon start hockey practice. They have applied to the 131st Street Ice Palace for practice periods.

Erasmus Hall High School intends to enter a team in the P. S. A. L. golf tournament next spring. Ed O'Connell, coach of the track, cross country and tennis teams at the Erasmus school, and a golfer of fair ability, has taken charge of Erasmus Hall's school boy golfers. Erasmus will meet as many schools as it can in this tournament in order to give its players the experience of match play. The Buff and Blue has met Jamaica, and has a match scheduled with the team of Elmhurst, which has shown exceptional ability as Thomas Hilly, Wesley Pepper, Thomas Bennett and James Green. Three other boys of the team are Ed Hartman, William Devereaux and Kall Traubel.

The fourteenth annual relay carnival of Erasmus Hall High School will open the scholastic indoor season December 5. The relay events open to high schools and preparatory schools are: One mile relay, 880 yard relay, 440 yard relay for 120 pound class, 880 yard relay for juniors and 440 yard for 100 pound class. There will also be three events for junior high school students: 440 yard relay for 120 and 135 pound classes, and 880 yard relay for unlimited weight class.

Erasmus Hall has a track man from San Francisco. He is Bill Rummyer, who has been several of Ed O'Connell's best quarter miler, so that he is expected to make good in the coming indoor meets.
