The Bird-Nest Boarding House

By VERBENA REED

With Illustrations by OLIVER HERFORD

The bewitching story of a boarding house kept by little Mrs. Worm in last year's bird-nest. Oliver Herford fell in love with it and put his heart into the deliciously funny drawings which illustrate the text. Here you will meet Daddy Long-legs; Winnie Wasp and Lally Ladybug; Colonel George W. Grub-Worm with his dashing span of horse-flies, the little measuring worm tailor, the gossiping Widow Grasshopper, the Reverend Beetle and all the rest of the little folk who live in the grass.

This page does not begin to include the wealth of children's books published by E. P. Dutton & Company. There has been no room to describe that most beautiful group of books "The Kings' Treasuries of Literature" which have the form and rich red beauty of the Temple Shakespeare; send for a descriptive circular. There is the series of "Tales from Many Lands," each with plates in colors such as usually are found only in books treble their price. There are many other books illustrated in colors, and there are corking stories for the older boys and girls.
