

CLEMENCEAU IS OFF WITH 25 TERRAPIN

Hopes to Start Diamond Back Farm in France Similar to Baruch's.

IS HAPPY AS HE SAILS

Gets Parting Kiss From Mrs. Gibson and Well Wishes of Many.

WILSON SENDS FAREWELL

Tiger, Proud of His Roar, Says His Ghost Will Return if He Can't Make Trip.

Georges Clemenceau slept peacefully in the French liner Paris, going to his sumptuous suite aboard her after the farewell banquet in his honor at the Hotel Pennsylvania on Tuesday evening, and got up at 4 o'clock yesterday morning with an appetite that disdained onion soup. He sharpened his longing for something more substantial by a brisk stroll in the keen air on the promenade deck and then went down to the saloon and ordered an extra sized portion of bacon and eggs. American style, in the American language. Black coffee completed the meal, the lushest he has had in America.

Clemenceau was in fine humor and said he never felt better, but he refused to oblige the photographers by removing his soft grey hat, not caring to expose his sparsely settled head to the sharp northwesterly breeze. Before the arrival aboard of his friend Bernard Baruch, Clemenceau received a Christmas box that delighted him, he said, as much as anything he ever has looked upon in America. The box contained twenty-five diamond back terrapin from Mr. Baruch's terrapin farm in South Carolina.

Tiger's Growl Like Thunder.
While he was looking into the box his hostess here, Mrs. Charles Dams Gibson, remarked: "Look out! You know they say that if they bite you they won't let go until it thunders."
"Well," Clemenceau said, in mock seriousness, "I can thunder!"
He told then how it happened that Mr. Baruch had sent him the terrapin. "Having tasted a dish of delicious terrapin stew at Mr. Baruch's dinner, I told him I had decided to stock a piece in southern France suitable for the propagation of the famous terrapins, and he sent these to me to start the new crop. I shall populate France with terrapin."
Col. E. M. House, the French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, the French Consul General at this port, and Mme. Liebert, were among a group around Clemenceau when he gave a truly Gallic and gallant farewell to Mrs. Gibson, exclaiming: "Tant she the loveliest woman in the world!" Then he gazed affectionately into her eyes and she kissed him soundly on the lips, saying, "Don't you forget to send me that love letter." He answered that he surely would not forget.

Cordiality Continues to the End.
The reporters were greeted with cordiality, and even the photographers were welcomed smilingly. At first the "Tiger" declared that he would not be interviewed, adding: "I talk too much." Then he related a bit and said that he would return to America, "and if I do not, my ghost will."

More than a hundred persons, many from the French colony here, crowded about Clemenceau on the promenade deck just before the liner sailed to shake his hand or give him good-by. He led them in a swift stroll around the deck while the photographers took him literally on the fly.
Henri Lefevre, who has acted as Clemenceau's secretary on his American journey, was busy all morning sorting a great bundle of letters and telegrams from noted folk all over the country. Former President Wilson sent this: "Allow me to bid you an affectionate farewell and to congratulate you upon the admiration you have won from our people. All good fortune attend you."
"I can but be most grateful for the kind message you have been so good to send me. Your feelings are mine. All your efforts for the best, which you did not spare while in our country, are those of the French people, and can be summed up in these words: 'Justice and peace to all.' Those are France's principles as well as those of America. My wishes for your health and welfare and kindest regards to Mrs. Wilson."

As his well wishers left him at the top of the gangplank Clemenceau gave them a hand shake. To the reporters he said: "Have a good time, and sometimes try to write the truth; try to write the truth." There were many cheers and some tears from the throng on the pier as the Paris backed out in the stream with the rugged old statesman standing on the bridge next to the pilot looking in the direction of France.

VETERANS' HOSPITAL IS TO BE COMPLETED

Builders Get Rush Orders on Chelsea Institution.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 13.—Orders from Washington "to resume work immediately" on the hospital for disabled veterans at Chelsea, Dutchess county, were received by the builders today, according to work received here to-day.
The work was stopped several weeks ago on Government orders. At that time it was stated that a rearrangement of plans was the cause. Now it is said the original plan for a 500 bed hospital would be followed out.

WALKS LINE, IS FREED.

Prisoner Gets Benefit of Doubt After Demonstration.

Fred Heinzermann, 36, of the Hotel Cosmopolitan, West Broadway and Chambers street, denied that he had been drunk when arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Levine in Essex Market Court on a charge of intoxication. Magistrate Levine had an attendant draw a chalk line across the court room and demanded that Heinzermann walk over it five times, which he did.
"You get the benefit of the doubt," said the magistrate. "Discharged."

PREDICTS COLLAPSE OF DAUGHERTY CASE

Volstead Says Testimony So Far Fails to Back Impeachment Charge.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Interrupting examination of witnesses, called before the House Judiciary Committee in its hearing of impeachment charges against Attorney-General Daugherty, Chairman Volstead declared to-night he did not believe it possible, judging from the character of the testimony already presented, to make anything out of the case against Mr. Daugherty.
The rest of the hearing was devoted primarily to the conduct of William J. Burns, director of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice. Witnesses included Burns, Senator John S. Gurnea, former Attorney-General, and Samuel Gompers.

Testimony covered a wide range, beginning with the Oregon Land Fraud trials in 1906 and running through the arrest and confession of the McNamara Brothers in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times Building and events of more recent date. Numbering among these was the political feud which developed between Taft and Roosevelt in 1912, and the assistance of the American Federation of Labor in redefining to Representative Keller, Republican (Minn.), in the presentation of some of his charges against Mr. Daugherty.
Mr. Burns, whose alleged activities in connection with the drawing of a jury to the trial of Willard N. Jones, in the Oregon fraud cases was the principal subject of this evidence yesterday, was called to the stand by Paul Howard, attorney for Mr. Daugherty. He not only denied anything improper in his conduct in Oregon, but asserted that President Taft, in granting a pardon to Jones had been "deceived" and that Jones had "paid for" the pardon.

Senator Johnson was called as a character witness for Mr. Burns and declared he had observed the detective under the "pressure and under the fire" in the San Francisco investigation and had commended him to the Attorney-General.

In his testimony Mr. Burns charged that since the arrest of the McNamara brothers Samuel Gompers had "hounded him" at every opportunity. He also charged that A. R. Macely, an American citizen living in Toronto, who wrote to President Harding protesting his appointment, had been arrested in St. Louis on information obtained by the Burns Detective Agency as to the alleged passing of worthless checks drawn against the Canadian Express Company.

With respect to the McNamara arrests Mr. Burns charged that Mr. Gompers had sent an agent to Los Angeles to "prevent" the confession of the McNamara brothers, but that the representatives had arrived too late. He also charged that when the McNamaras were arrested Mr. Gompers issued a statement declaring the arrests to be a "frame-up."

Mr. Gompers in reply testified that the statement that he had sent an agent to Los Angeles for the purpose stated by Mr. Burns was "absolutely without the slightest foundation." He also said he charged that A. R. Macely had issued any statement to the newspapers charging that the arrests of the McNamaras was a "frame-up."
Declaring that it was untrue he had "hounded" Mr. Burns, the veteran labor leader told the committee he had never occurred to him "that this man hunter should regard me as hounding him."

ARMY'S AID REFUSED IN MOONSHINE WAR

Weeks Tells Kentucky Drys Troops Won't Be Used to Enforce Prohibition.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
New York Herald Bureau, Washington, D. C., Dec. 13. Secretary of War Weeks refused to-day to permit the use of military forces to aid prohibition enforcement agents in Kentucky in the campaign planned to round up mountain bootleggers and moonshiners.

As a result of the breakdown of enforcement in the Bourbon State, prohibition officials sent a request for troops to-day. Secretary Weeks replied that prohibition enforcement "did not fall within the purview of the War Department and that he himself had no disposition to permit the use of the troops. He suggested that enforcement agents should appeal to the United States marshal.

The request to the War Department came direct from Kentucky officials and did not pass through the office of Prohibition Commissioner Haynes. The trouble in Kentucky started months ago when the moonshiners of Menifee county, a mountainous stronghold, defied the prohibition agent.

THE STORY OF REVILLON FURS

"MIMEEK"

The eggs of the Eider duck called "Mimeek" by the Eskimo are plentiful in the Arctic in early June. When fresh they are delicious eating and children enjoy them heartily. The color is a soft green mottled with black. Eskimos tell whether these eggs are good by placing them in a pool of water. If the egg is fresh it sinks, but the Eskimo standard in this matter is by no means a high one.
