CHIPPED BY SEVERE STORM

With broken board and torn tarpaulin, the yacht "Witcher" was moored at New York's Battery yesterday evening, after running aground in the harbor following a severe storm. The "Witcher", owned by Mrs. M. S. C. Blodgett, was described by her as being in a condition of complete disorder. The vessel was extensively damaged, with its mast and rigging torn down and its hull punctured by large waves. The crew was rescued by the lifeboat of the Coast Guard, who arrived on the scene shortly after the accident. The "Witcher" had been on a cruise from Europe to New York, and was en route to the United States when the storm struck. The captain of the vessel, who was on watch at the time of the accident, said that the ship had been caught in a sudden gale, and that the vessel had been thrown into a violent list. The crew was able to right the vessel, but the damage was too extensive to allow her to continue the voyage. The "Witcher" was towed into the harbor by the Coast Guard and was later taken to a shipyard for repairs.

John Charged With Receiving Booty After the Old Man Who Had Saved the Village Was Shot

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—The case of the old man who was shot this morning in the village of Kingsbridge, N. Y., was brought to light by Dr. John B. Brown, who accused his fellow doctor of receiving the man's money.

Dr. Brown, who is a prominent physician in the village, said that he had seen the man on several occasions, and that he had always been treated with courtesy. He said that the man had always been a regular patient, and that he had never given him any trouble. The doctor said that he had always been satisfied with the treatment he had received from the defendant, and that he had never had any difficulty with him.

When the man was shot, Dr. Brown said, he had gone to see him to make sure that he was all right. He said that he had found the man dead, and that he had at once called the police. He said that he had then gone to the doctor's home, and that he had found the man's money on the table.

Dr. Brown said that he had then gone to the police station, and that he had told them that the doctor was the one who had taken the money. He said that the doctor had denied the accusation, and that he had told the police that he had never taken the money.

Pain in Your Chest?

Of course you know, it is a little cold set there. Why, you must stay out of the wind! But the wind is blowing; so you will pass off with it.

The cold will pass, but the pain will remain. That's why it's important to take the proper steps to prevent the pain from returning.

Dr. John O. Gowan, a specialists in pulmonary medicine, has developed a new treatment for this condition. The treatment is designed to strengthen the heart and improve its function, which can help prevent future episodes of pain.

The procedure involves the injection of a specially formulated medication into the heart muscle. This medication stimulates the heart to pump more effectively, which can result in a decrease in the pain.

The procedure is relatively simple and can be performed in a doctor's office. The patient will be monitored closely during and after the procedure, and any necessary follow-up care will be provided.
