FREE MEDICAL CARE
One Million People Receive Treatment Every Year in New York for Nothing.

Over 1,000,000 persons, a number equal to about one-fourth the total population of city, receive medical attention during the year at the dispensaries and public clinics of the metropolis.

This great number of persons who fall sick and cannot take care of themselves is a pitiful outgrowth of the strenuousness of metropolitan life.

Probably the most typical as well as the largest of clinics for free medical treatment is that conducted by the University and Bellevue Hospital Medical College, which is the medical school of New York University.

The medical school, with its spacious laboratories and lecture halls and its great clinic, is situated at the head of what has been called the saddest block in the world.

It is a sad procession that moves in and out of the clinic every day while the doors are open, between the hours of 10 and 3 o'clock.

As the patients enter the spacious waiting room of the clinic they go to the receiving desk, where they tell their symptoms to a kindly-faced man who has the faculty of taking a personal interest in the most unimportant, and receive numbered cards to the physicians in the different departments.

To the straggling line of the straggling line that moves to the desk is heightened by that glimpse of white-clad, alert physicians and nurses bustling in and out of the rooms.

A Few Cases. The first person in the line is a burly truckman, who displayed a lacerated hand, which, he says, has just been bitten by a horse.

"How did you happen to get bitten?" is asked.

"I slammed me horse in the mouth," he says apologetically. A frail little woman with a chalk-white face follows and nods to the attendant as she gets her ticket for medical treatment.

"Both she and her husband are consumptive," he says. "They have eight children already and are likely to have as many more." A tall Irishman with a cut finger is next in line.

Then comes a woman with a badly battered head and face. She "had a fall," she says, though the attendant, who knows the personal history of many of the patients, is aware that this fiction is used to protect her husband, who has been beating her.

Monday is the most crowded day in the clinic, possibly because many of the less frugal of the population have a habit of staying away from work that day to recover from Sunday. Monday is the lightest day of the week.

The Shilling Trick. A wandering sleight of hand man was entertaining some loungers with an exhibition of his tricks.

"But I have one good trick that I call the shilling trick." Of course they all wanted to see that, so he instructed a good number of them to give him a shilling after having marked it and carefully noted the date.

The Making of an American. "Talk about 'The Making of an American,'" said a settlement worker who is occasionally called upon to run over to Ellis Island.

Ragged clothes are the rule on the part of those who come to the clinic for treatment. "Put on old clothes for the free doctor," is a maxim of the gashouse district.

The greatest flour eater in the world is the Frenchman, who consumes nearly two pounds each day or 705 pounds a year.

BIG OCEAN RACE TODAY
Mammoth Turbine Steamer Lusitania to Chase the Lucania.

REGARDED EPOCH MAKING EVENT
Lucania Will Have Several Hours Start, But Her Newer Rival is Expected to Overcome This Time by Her Greater Speed.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 7.—The people of this city and its vicinity today concentrated their attention on what was considered to be an epoch making event—the departure of the giant Cunard line steamer Lusitania, the latest of the Atlantic liners, on her maiden voyage to New York.

Of course the officials of the Cunard line say that no race is contemplated, but the engine-room crews of the two vessels have been busy for a week past, getting everything ready with the expectation that the engines will be called upon to do their best on this occasion.

Garibaldi's Red Shirt. The most popular uniform of its day—perhaps of any day—in Europe was the Garibaldian shirt, whose prosaic origin was little suspected by its adherents.

When the popular Italian patriot visited England in 1864 he saw Tennyson at Farringford. "Did you hear Garibaldi repeat any Italian poetry?" wrote Tennyson to the Duke of Argyll in reference to the occasion.

She'd Thought of It. "Never mind, dear," said a mother to her little girl, having vainly endeavored to persuade her to give one of her dolls to a child who had never owned one.

The womerava is a queerly shaped stick which the Australians use for flinging long arrows against enemies or animals.

FOR TREASURER. To the Voters of Elizabeth City County: I shall be a candidate for treasurer of the county in the general election to be held on Tuesday, November 4, and I will appreciate most cordially your support.
