

HAS HIS OFFICE HERE

Senior Solis, Cuban Consular Agent, Assumes His Duties.

SECRETARY ATTENDS TO NORFOLK

Fear of Local Shipping Men That Change Would Mean Trouble For Them Proves Groundless—Rapid Increase in Trade With Island.

Senior Jose R. Solis the recently appointed consular agent of the Cuban government at this port and Norfolk arrived in this city yesterday and immediately assumed charge of the island republic's affairs for this port.

At the time of Senior Solis's appointment some weeks ago, it was feared among the coal shippers here that he would make his principal office in Norfolk and that it would be necessary for the agents who wished to clear vessels bound for Cuba to go to Norfolk to transact their consular business.

FAMOUS STIRLING DIVORCE SUITS ARE DECIDED

Scotch Laird Who Married American Show Girl is Granted Custody of the Child.

(By Associated Press.) EDINBURGH, March 10.—The sensational Stirling cross-divorce suits were decided today by Lord Guthrie, who granted the husband's petition, awarded him the custody of his child, and denied the cross-petition of Mrs. Stirling.

John Alexander Stirling, laird of Kippendavie, was married three years ago to Clara Elizabeth Taylor, an American show girl, who came from New Jersey.

Last fall cross suits for divorce were filed. Mr. Stirling naming Lord Northland and Mrs. Stirling as co-respondents.

In giving his judgment Lord Guthrie said the case has no legal interest, and that it should not have any public interest.

Most of the evidence had been taken up with the petty questions of selfish and idle lives which contained little or nothing romantic and little that was even mock heroic.

Mr. Stirling, he said, in meeting Mrs. Atherton, had welcomed an introduction he should have shunned. Continuing Lord Guthrie discredited the idea of a plot to get rid of Mrs. Stirling by forcing her to a guilty affection for Lord Northland, but he thought that her letters to Lord Northland were indicative of guilty relations.

Lord Northland's counsel immediately gave notice of an appeal. Both Lord Northland and Mr. Stirling were present in court when the decision was rendered.

The attorney for Mrs. Stirling also announced that he would appeal the decision.

Wonderland Crowded Again. Large crowds again taxed Wonderland's capacity last night, and as on previous two days, King and Mason pleased in their sketch "School Days."

James Dicks, in a novelty black face musical act, will be the vaudeville offering for the last three days of the week. Today will be the last chance to see "Saul and David," pronounced by many of those who saw it yesterday as one of the finest motion pictures ever seen here.

Tonight the name of the winner of the prize in the missing word contest running in Wonderland's program will be announced.

Mr. Charles Improving. Mr. J. S. Charles, an internal revenue collector, who fell in Newport News several days ago and sustained serious injuries, has recovered sufficiently to leave the hospital. He is now at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Hodges M. Christian, in the West End. Mrs. Charles, who came down from Williamsburg, is with her husband.

Make the Best of Things. A jolly temper is not the sign of an empty head. Become a philosopher and skip over troubles and never cross bridges before you reach them.

Social - Personal

Mr. T. R. Woolfolk, of Cristobal, Panama, who has been visiting friends in this city for the past few days, left yesterday for Carolina county to spend a few days with his parents.

Mr. R. L. Davis, Jr., left yesterday for Spartanburg, S. C., where he has accepted a position with the Southwestern railroad in its civil engineering department.

Miss Laura Bartlett, of Elizabeth City, N. C., is the guest of Mrs. N. E. Overton at her home in Twenty-fifth street.

Miss Virginia Banks, of Elizabeth City, N. C., who has been visiting Mrs. E. T. Parks, on Twenty-seventh street for the past few days, left yesterday for her home.

Mr. W. E. Cottrell, Jr., has returned from a visit to Washington.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church held an enjoyable silver tea in the church parlors yesterday, about twenty of the members attending.

Mr. A. L. Evans left yesterday for Richmond to have his eyes treated.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bishop, of Camden, N. J., have arrived in the city to make their home.

Miss Vivian Bennett will leave today for Farmville to visit her sister, Miss Virginia, who is attending the State Normal.

Miss Bessie McAlpine left yesterday for Lexington, Va., to visit relatives.

Miss Louise Ellington left yesterday for a visit to relatives in Norfolk and Portsmouth.

Mr. Sol Pevsner is confined to his home in West avenue by illness.

Miss Helen Geiger left yesterday for Richmond to spend two weeks with relatives.

The Ladies of St. Martha's Guild of Grace Episcopal church gave a "Lenten tea" yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gogg, 1221 Hampton avenue. The object of the gathering was to promote sociability among the members of the congregation, and a large party attended.

Vaudeville and Pictures

After giving for three days the best vaudeville show ever offered here at picture theatre prices, the management of the Bell promises other good attractions for the last three days of the week. The feature team will be Jewett and Hayes, introducing to dancing and rapid-change sketches. Lester Bernard, a wooden-shoe dancer, and character comedian, will furnish the second vaudeville number.

The picture program for this afternoon and evening will include several of the newest films to be had. Large audiences gathered at the Bell last night to see Rudolf and Lena, the sweet singers, and Miss Violet Moore for the last time. Both of these acts pleased immensely. Rudolf and Lena are entirely out of the class of the average performers seen at the picture theatres.

AT THE ACADEMY

"Yiddes Hartz," a Yiddish comedy with music introduced, was presented at the Academy of Music last night by Edwin A. Reikin's Yiddish company. A small audience composed mostly of people who understood the Yiddish language witnessed the performance.

"Hooligan in New York." Saturday afternoon and night the attraction at the Academy will be "Hooligan in New York," a comedy founded on Oppen's remarkable newspaper cartoon series, with Happy Hooligan as the central character.

Among the fifteen or more characters introduced in the play is Hooligan's dog Flip, played by a real dog that is said to be wonderfully well trained.

Central American Peace Conference. (By Associated Press.) MEXICO CITY, March 10.—According to private advices, President Zelaya of Nicaragua has called another conference between Mexico, Honduras, Guatemala, Salvador and Costa Rica with the view to arranging permanent peace for Central America. The conference is to be held on one of the warships of the American Pacific Squadron now at Amapala.

Daughters of Confederacy. There will be an important meeting of the John W. Daniel Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy at the Pocahontas hotel this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The chapter will discuss Miss Boyson's essay on General Lee, and probably will adopt resolutions in connection with the awarding of the prize for this essay.

Near Death in Big Poind. It was a thrilling experience to Mrs. Ida Soper to face death. "For years a severe lung trouble gave me intense suffering," she writes, "and several times nearly caused my death. All remedies failed and doctors said I was incurable. Then Dr. King's New Discovery brought quick relief and a cure so permanent that I have not been troubled in twelve years."

Mrs. Soper lives in Big Poind, Pa. It works wonders in Coughs and Colds, Sore Throats, Hemorrhages, Latiplex, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough and all Bronchial affections. See and $1.00 Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

ONLY TWO DAYS MORE

Y. M. C. A. Campaigners Nearing End of Their Work.

NEARLY THREE THOUSAND SECURED

Today and Tomorrow the Teams Must Raise $550 If Desired Amount is to Be Completed—Phillips and McMurrin in Lead.

With two days of the "Ten-Day Campaign" for the raising of $3,500 for the local Young Men's Christian Association still remaining, the total amount collected by the workers in the canvass reached $2,947.50 last night just a shade less than $3,000.

The greatest amount collected among the business men was reported by Leader L. C. Phillips yesterday, his men succeeding in securing $117, while the banner team of the day among the young men was that led by Capt. L. A. McMurrin, which turned in $42.

All of the workers engaged in the campaign have been invited to be the guests at a supper to be served by the ladies auxiliary in the association auditorium tonight, when plans will be discussed for the remaining two days of the canvass.

The standing of the various teams up to last night follows:

Table with 2 columns: Team Name and Amount. Includes Group A (Leader W. M. Parker) at $730.00, Group B (Leader L. C. Phillips) at $28.00, Group D (Leader S. R. Bay) at $53.00, Group C (Leader W. T. Chapman) at $206.00, and First day report at $200.00.

Total: $2,159.00

Young Men. Team 5—Captain Chester Ashby: $214.00. Team 2—Captain L. A. McMurrin: 167.00. Team 1—Captain W. D. Chapman: 156.00. Team 4—Captain O. J. Brittingham: 140.00. Team 3—Captain C. A. Sinclair: 120.00. Total: 797.00.

Grand total: $2,947.50

BULLET FIRED BY ELDER COOPER STRUCK HIS SON

heard the witnesses repeat what these two defendants said of the dead man.

General Garner followed Cooper to the first conference in Bradford's office the morning of the killing.

Cooper Applied Epithets. "We find him still cursing and swearing and applying in the presence of a lady, the vilest epithets to Senator Carmack."

General Garner then referred to the efforts of the defense to impeach Miss Lee's testimony that Colonel Cooper was at Bradford's office about noon.

"They say she is contradicted by our own witness, Miss Braxton. You, gentlemen, know that is false. Miss Braxton swore Colonel Cooper was at his daughter's home between 9 and 10 a. m. Miss Lee says he was in Bradford's office between 11 and 12."

General Garner next turned his attention to Judge Bradford, and declared that the latter's testimony had been impeached, adding: "This is the man who said I could have killed Senator Carmack with a little remorse as I would kill a rattlesnake."

Not on Peaceful Mission. The day moves on and the defendants are armed. The three men reach Union street together and start across Union street. They tell you they were going over there on a peaceful mission, yet Sharp says he feared there would be serious trouble, and he was so sure of it that at a single glance he told Miss Skeffington that that was Colonel Cooper shooting Carmack.

"The colonel tells you he did not wait in the corner, but the waiting he pregnant with meaning—an over-act."

"So he thinks it safer to walk down the street behind Mrs. Eastman and come upon Senator Carmack unawares."

General Garner pierced the plot of the scene of the tragedy in the floor, put two books as to represent the poles and demonstrated that it would be a physical impossibility for Carmack to have shot Robin from between the poles. Of course the defense does not admit that the poles were placed as General Garner placed them and as one of the poles had been cut down there is a conflict on this point.

Carmack's Death Wound. "They tell you that after receiving the two wounds in the heart, Carmack turned his head and received the fatal bullet in the neck. Yet these bullets were fired so rapidly that a man—their own witness—says he could not imitate the reports."

"Gentlemen, I see in the location of these wounds the ascending finger of God making it impossible that justice should miscarry. They swore that the senator only turned his head. A Mute Witness. "But listen gentlemen, we have another mute witness which all the lawyers on God's earth cannot impeach. Here is the senator's collar. It has in the center of the back a bullet hole. If Carmack's body did not turn around, and they swear it did not, how could that bullet hole be in the center of the back of the collar, for the collar does not turn with the head?"

General Garner paid a tribute to Mrs. Eastman. "Oh, Carmack, if you had to go with a last blessing on your heart's idol, your son, if you had to leave without a last kiss from your wife, are you not glad that beautiful Mrs. Eastman was there when you went?"

"They say she lied," he exclaimed. "Hell never instigated a blacker calumny."

Excoriates Binning. "And now we come to Binning, the sainted Binning, police judge of Danville, Ill., and cock on a houseboat. Now Binning lied and you know he lied. I want to say that I do not believe that Mr. Meeks had any more to do with securing or drilling Binning than I had. I know how such witnesses come. Binning knew that there were no eye witnesses to the killing except the defendants. So he got into the game."

Coming to the scabbard testimony, Garner said: "Now there is no doubt that the scabbard was in Senator Carmack's possession the night before. But where has it been since?" "I'll tell you. Somebody put that scabbard there after the clothing had been searched three times. Why, I don't know. I would like to know, though, why they are manufacturing evidence."

Colonel Cooper's defense. If it must rest upon anything must rest upon the trivial that he had no evil intent and this must be supported by a statement which has not been made, that he notified Carmack to this effect.

Col. Cooper's Weapons. "There is one significant fact in this trial. Who knows how many pistols Colonel Cooper had, and to whom they were delivered? Sergeant Meadows says he got this new, shiny, unfired pistol that night at the police station from Sergeant Reid. That was hours after Carmack's death. Where is Sergeant Reid? He was not produced."

General Garner next described Senator Carmack's mental condition before the shooting, when witnesses testified that he was jolly and pleasant.

"Mrs. Eastman says she did not see Senator Carmack fire and she does not think he did fire. If you believe other witnesses you believe Mrs. Eastman perjured herself. She says she saw a young man, Robin, coming up from behind and then the firing began."

Entrapped and Murdered. "And then too, gentlemen, they murdered Senator Carmack. I don't care what your verdict is, whether you acquit or convict, but the Coopers entrapped and foully murdered E. W. Carmack."

"After the murder—listen to what this old shack of Southern chivalry says to his own daughter—'It is all over, it is all over.' Is that the voice of an honest man? Or is it the voice of a murderer?"

"No, it is not all over. That was your day Colonel Cooper; now is the day of the law."

Punishment is Demanded. "Justice demands that the murderers be punished; the law demands that the murderers be punished. The voice of the dead cries to you, gentlemen, for justice."

General Garner closed brilliantly at 2:10 p. m., having spoken four hours. General Washington then began for the defense and he grew fiery at once.

He attacked Garner for intimating that Lieutenant Pilcher had tampered with Carmack's revolver.

Garner arose and said he had not so charged. "I know you did not, you don't dare to do it, but you intimated that the son of old General Pilcher, who bears the star of honor on his brow, was a thief, a scoundrel, a liar and a perjurer, and you can't say or intimate these things when I am around."

His Heart is Touched. This is a sad, sad case. My heart and the heart of my clients go out to that stricken woman, to that beautiful boy. She is an aristocratic Southern girl to the manor born. I am no hero to rob the star from the didium that glitters on the brow of the deceased or to steal one rose from the wreaths of his memory. I am not here to defame the dead. He was a great statesman, a brilliant orator. I know it well. I am here to help to investigate the truth, to strip the glamor from the case and show you the man who wrote with a brilliance that put his name into the literature of the South. He spoke with a fire and power that filled the galleries of the United States Senate. He was all that was great."

General Washington described how brilliant the services of Carmack were but said that on his appeal for re-election he was opposed by Colonel Robert Love Taylor.

His Idea of Carmack. "When a man has the poison of a scorpion in his pen, the sting of a wasp in his words, and the venom of a rattle snake under his tongue, he may be brilliant but people want to men at Washington who can help them."

He said that while Robin Cooper supported Carmack Colonel Cooper committed the unpardonable sin of believing that Taylor would make a better senator than Carmack. Taylor was successful, and the enemy toward Cooper that Carmack gained then, never ended. Cooper opposed Carmack for governor and then Carmack sought revenge by humiliating Cooper and his family and attempting to disgrace him.

The Value of Honor. "What is the worst thing a man can do to you? He can burn your house; you can rebuild it. He can steal your money; you can re-earn money but if he touches your honor he takes what he cannot restore. The most powerful engine for public good today is the public press. It does more good today than any one institution, except possibly the churches. All honor to the press. All honor to those who burn the midnight oil that you may be informed. It is the duty of the press to criticize public officials, and the fear of the press is the greatest deterrent of graft in the world today."

THIRD OPERATION PREVENTED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was so sick that two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation. I had already had two operations, and they wanted me to go through a third one. I suffered day and night from inflammation and a small tumor, and never thought of seeing a well day again. A friend told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her, and I tried it, and after the third bottle was cured."—Mrs. ALYSSA SPERLING, 11 Langdon Street, Chicago, Ill.

If you are ill do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until an operation is necessary, but build up the feminine system, and remove the cause of those distressing aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?
