On last Friday night the little spirit of H. M. Atkinson's infant child soared up to the realms whither its mother preceded but two weeks prior. On Sabbath morning its little form was followed to the cemetery by a large concourse of citizens who would fain mingle their grief with that of the doubly stricken father.

As the light of day softened into twilight, the tones of a harp melt into the distance, or the fragrance of a sweet flower ceases to please the sense, so has the spirit of the little one flown.
But "of such is the kingdom of Heaven." Little Grace is now a gem, in the diadem of Him whose Kingdom is made of such.

On last Sabbath night, at 11 o'clock Judge J. R. Whitney breathed his last. The Judge was one of the oldest and best known citizens in Brownville, and died universally lamented. Since last winter he has been in declining health, and confined much to his home. On Friday night he was taken with cholera morbus, and on Saturday when a physician was called it was evident that recovery was hopeless, but little vitality remaining. At Sabbath he was unconscious, and at night dissolution took place without the infliction of pain or suffering.—His age was 55 years.

The following "Card" explains itself. In addition, however, we will add, that after ascertaining that the author of the following would not accept the honor (?) conferred, one of our Liberal Republicans offered him $25 to withdraw his "Card" and go to Lincoln. The bid was too small, and was contemptuously rejected.

NO CROW IN MINE.
BENTON PRECINCT, NEMATHA CO., August 28th, 1872.
Editor Advertiser:
I learn that the so-called Liberals, in convention on last Saturday, selected me as one of their delegates to the State Convention at Lincoln.

Such use of my name was wholly unauthorized. I wish it distinctly understood that I am an unwavering Republican, and will vote for Grant and against Greeley in November, and for the straight Republican ticket in October.

Yours respectfully,
WM. WINDSHIFFLE.

The Model School comprises two departments, Primary and Intermediate or Preparatory. The studies in the Primary are such as are usually taught in that department. The studies of the Intermediate or Preparatory are as follows:

Third Term.—Spelling, with use of dictionary; special attention given to etymology, definition and synonyms, etymology, geography, grammar, arithmetic and drawing.

The design of the Model School is fourfold; first, to give to students a thorough drill in elementary studies; second, to furnish a school which should be as nearly as possible a model, where Normal students can see in successful operation the best methods of primary instruction; third, it is a practicing school in which, under the eye of competent critics, the advanced pupils in the Normal department can acquire actual experience in teaching; and lastly, it is a preparatory school in which students unfit to enter the Normal department, can be prepared. Special attention will be given to this work in the intermediate or preparatory year.

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT.
The design of this department is three-fold; first, it furnishes the basis of Normal training, as will be further set forth; second, it furnishes to students, who are unable to pursue a more extended course of study, a good practical education; third, it is designed to fit students for college, by giving them a thorough drill in the common branches, a short course in mathematics and the natural sciences, with two years' study of Latin and one of Greek. The full course comprises four years, and is as follows:

FIRST YEAR.
First Term.—Grammar, Geography, Arithmetic and first lesson in Botany.

FIFTH YEAR.

Second Term.—Latin, Greek or Modern Language and Mental Science.

Third Term.—Latin, Greek or Modern Language, Civil Government and Moral Science.
The Normal Department has three distinct courses of study, viz: the Elementary (English, the Advanced English and the Classical Course. The first occupies two, the second three and the third four years.

The first comprises the studies of the first year of the academic department and a year of professional study. The second comprises the first two years of the academic course and the professional year, and the third takes the studies of the first three years of the academic course, and the studies of the last or professional year. These are the following:

First Term.—School Economy, Method of Instruction, History of Education, (Lectures), Inventive Drawing and practice in Teaching.
Second Term.—Mental Science, Methods of Instruction, Philosophy of Education, (Lectures.) Object Drawing and Teaching.

Third Term.—Moral Science, Civil Government and School Law, Perspective Drawing, and Teaching.
No student can enter the Normal Department who cannot pass a satisfactory examination in the studies of the preparatory year, and no student can graduate from this department who has not taken the studies prescribed in the professional year. Any student who pursues the studies of the Elementary English course will receive a diploma of the third grade; those who pursue the studies of the Advanced English course will receive a diploma of the second grade, while those who pursue the studies of the Classical course will receive a diploma of the first grade. A student can enter at any stage of the course, but passing a satisfactory examination. No student who takes the classical course will be entitled to the degree, N. G. (Normal Graduate)

The New Preceptress.

The Oswego (N. Y.) Commercial Advertiser of August 7th, thus speaks of Miss E. C. Morgan, the new Preceptress of our State Normal School at Peru:

PERSONAL.—Although Oswego at present, and for the past ten years, blowing her own horn with regard to the superiority of her schools, yet the fact that her Board of Education is continually being called upon to re-trench, re-visit, and re-organize, and that successful teachers are yearly leaving for more lucrative and honorable positions, is a most significant one. And the more forcibly are we impressed with the idea just at the present time, from noticing the unusual call for teachers in the west. A large proportion of the classes graduated from the Normal School, accepted at other positions somewhere in our mighty "new country," while one by one the older, and more tried and true of our city teachers also move in this direction.

We have just learned of the appointment of Miss E. C. Morgan, a lady long the efficient assistant of Prof. Hamilton in our High School, as Preceptress of the Normal School of Nebraska. We can but anticipate a most brilliant and successful future for her. While acting in this city in the position above referred to, she was considered by our citizens as one of the best of Oswego's teachers. This opinion we know to be one entertained by all who were under her charge. Her clear, affable, governing, and kind, rather than by authority, and yet firm when the necessity arose, her success in her new place is a foregone conclusion of the utmost certainty.

Yet, with all our best wishes and happiness at the lady's appointment, a deep regret is felt, as we deem it most certain that when Nebraska once claims her, New York loses forever one of the best of her teachers. Far different from the east, when the west obtains worthy instructors it never allows them to depart. And so we wish Miss Morgan farewell, wishing her in our humble, but multitudinous way, (for we doubt not that hundreds join with us most heartily, a happy and successful life in her new home, and hoping that no matter how far up the educational roll of honor her name may be found, she may always keep as warm and pleasant memories of her Oswego friends and scholars as do they of her.

LETTER FROM COL. FURNAS.
The following, written by Col. Furnas to the Lincoln Statesman, is probably an interesting reading matter in this section as at the Capital, and we therefore reproduce it:

EDITOR STATESMAN:—A friend has handed me a copy of your paper of the 10th in which you copy an abstract from the commission on Agriculture in the Omaha Herald, making some additional comments not particularly flattering to myself. I presume the animus of this thrust is to cause me to feel that I am well understood to cause any serious attack as to the agricultural interests of the State.

My position, adverse to making loans to the farmer, is well known, and is based, not only on twenty years actual personal experience, but that of every well governed and successful agriculturist in the land. I allow no man to excel me in admiration or devotion to that noble animal—the horse. My past record, too, will show that no man in the State has been more liberal in contributing to make up even "horse shows" than myself. And I stand prepared to do my duty at the coming Fair in your city, as usual.

In reply to your reference to personal speculations in my position as President of the State Board of Agriculture, permit me to state that I have written, I may say, thousands of letters to State men, Tree Growers, Implement Dealers, &c., in the East, and even other countries, soliciting introduction into our young country. I am a recipient of highly prized favors in agricultural matters. I have made it a reciprocal rule, however, to endeavor to be as liberal in returning such favors, as in receiving them.

Not a "what?" Mr. Editor, on my farm but what I paid cash for. I take pride in saying that the honorable position I hold has made me a recipient of highly prized favors in agricultural matters. I have made it a reciprocal rule, however, to endeavor to be as liberal in returning such favors, as in receiving them.

PERU ITEMS.

Weather extremely warm. Flies and politicians very thick.
There is considerable sickness in this locality, and a few deaths among children.
A small party of Peruvians started for Colorado to seek their fortunes, this week.

Several of our citizens are preparing to attend the State Fair at Lincoln next week.
Mrs. T. M. Green and Dr. C. C. Wheeler left last week for their new homes in Louisiana.
Fifteen feet is the average height of some of the corn fields in the Peru bottom. Get your ladders ready.

Students for the Normal School are arriving in town every day. House room is very scarce already.
Dr. McGrew was in town last Monday. He intends to move to this burg and enter into the practice of medicine.
Miss Kate Dickerman, the new music teacher engaged for the next term of the Normal School, arrived last Thursday.

Students at the Normal School will consult their interests by purchasing their text books, stationery, &c., at Paterson's Pioneer Drug Store, Peru, Neb.
The most safe, sure, and economical provision a man can make for his family is to provide them with a life policy in the old reliable New York Life. J. W. Bliss, Agent, Peru, Nebraska.

J. W. Brush, Esq., of London precinct, paid a visit to Peru last Thursday. Mr. B. speaks very encouragingly of the political prospect in his locality. We understand he is a candidate for Legislative honors.
Last Friday morning a party of Tecumsehites arrested a man in Peru, said to have been engaged in a shooting affair at Tecumseh the day before. Come again gentlemen, for to such eye are quite welcome.

At a meeting of the directors of the Normal School last week they elected Prof. James Ballangee, Professor of Mathematics. Prof. B. is, we understand, a graduate of the Michigan University, and has taught several terms in the Illinois Agricultural College. He is a practical Architect and is a member of the firm of Balcers & Co., of Lincoln, the Architects engaged on our new school building.
Judge Hewett, of Brownville, uncovered his bare-footed head in Peru one night last week. It was rumored among our Demo-Liberal friends for several days that the same Judge and eminent statesman arrived in due time pregnant with speech, but by some kind intervention of Providence there was a miscarriage in this happy family of D. L.'s. We are sorry our Demo-Liberal friends didn't take kindly to the Judge, as we have all probably missed an eloquent speech which would have been handed down to posterity as the greatest effort of the campaign. Poor Judge, he is not welcome in the home of his new made friends.

Latest from North Carolina. Which party may be successful in the Old North State, is yet doubtful; but no doubt exists about Brown & French selling first class groceries cheaper than they can be bought anywhere else in town. Come and see for yourself.
Why is it? We very often hear this question asked by persons while speaking of the Union Hotel, and expressing wonder at the immense number of travelers and regular boarders who stop there. We will tell you. In the first place George knows how to make every one feel at home, and always has everything the market affords on his table, and served in the best style. Secondly, he knows the benefit of advertising and takes advantage of it.
