Sister Against Sister.

There was another development yesterday in the suit of Mrs. Minette G. Klene against her sister, Miss Maude Louise Gerber, for possession of a pair of diamond earrings left by their mother, who died on March 28. The earrings are valued at $450 and to bring the suit Mrs. Klene had to put up a bond for twice the amount to guarantee the expenses of the litigation. William F. Klene, her husband, signed the bond for $500. He lives at No. 406 Labadle avenue and Miss Gerber at No. 359 Finney ayenue. Miss Gerber heard of the bond and yesterday swore out a warrant charging him with making a false affiliavit. In the Information sie alleges that he is not worth $500 and therefore made a false oath when he signed the bond.

Many analyses of cheap cough taixtures and cough and throat lozenges have clearly proven that a large proportion of them contain opiates.

The temperary relief which these cheap. medicines often give in coughs and colds, especially with little children, is because the oplate, by destroying nerve screation, the irritation in throat, which causes the cough, is temporarily removed, but the real cause of the coid is not in any way removed by the oplate and will promptly the long grass by a small green. The hole was haived and Mr. Scudder won the individual match, 3 up. The next 2 were halved. Nother player was at all up to his full speed. They have not had practice.

The excellent playing of Mr. Kennett was the surprise of the day. His work was above par. Eighty-three for the course is very good for this time of year. To be sure, the removal of No. I tee to the infield of the race track makes that hole much easier and the greens were in capital condition, although Nos. 7 and 3 allowed but scant leeway for the necessary long second. Mr. Kennett was a bit lucky to beat boged on Nos. 4 and 6. He seems to have had more golf this spring than any of the others, but he appears good for S5 any day or any time on the course, which is very excellent, in-what, though Air. Ives would, it was figured, give him a hard game, anyhow.

Flaving many strokes below his speed, Mr. McGrew gave Mr. Powe a fine game, coming up the hill all the way, and halving at the finish with true Scotch grit and doggedness. Mr. Walker did creditably against the redoubtable McGee. Mr. Lindell Gorden played somewhat below his game, but Mr. Kennett's tremendous beginning was enough to unfoot even Varden. Mr. Hachmeister took an absent player's part at the very last moment. Although much out of practice, he did excellently and won I up for his side.

Mr. Elting is not in practice, and fell before Mr. Cook, 3 down.

The day was very fine, warm and pleasant. At times the wind was too strong and a bit tricky, It blew northeast diagonally across the course, and made driving toward home a hardship. The ground was fine, though the turf is not yet quite at its best, though the turf is not yet quite at its best. The rapid growth of the last few days has forced the good spots, and the bare places have not had time to catch up. So it was a bit patchy, although very good. The greens were good, but will be better in a few days. Nos. 7 and 9 require two long shots to get them, and are a bit narrow of pitching room.

Two new bunkers and several extended patching room.

Two new bunkers and several extended old ones make the course a bit stiffer than it was last felt. A bunker on No. 5 catches a bad drive, and one on No. 2 gets a bad second and protects the green. No. 1 is a stroke softer than it was last felt. So is No. 8.

OLD EAST SIDE TRACK.

Passing of a Famous Race Course on the Other Side. The old East St. Louis track in the exreme southwestern part of the town is now almost entirely destroyed and is a mere relic of former greatness. Time was when the track was a training ground for the best horses running in the West. In addition, it was a famous practice ground for the best jockeys of the country, who were accustomed to keep In trim by riding at the track when the other courses had closed down for the winter. Winter racing was the great source of revenue at this track and when all the other courses in this part of the country had closed down for the year, things were liveller than ever at East St. Louis, Some good horses were seen on the old track, whose names are now famous in turf history, and many good now famous in turf history, and many good 2-year-olds were developed there.

In the winter of 1881 the track was in its paintiest days. A cleas of horses was being rised there which was sereid to none in merit when compared with those on the other winter tracks farther seath, and several celebrated handleap horses figured in contests upon the course in that period. Crack jockeys were also in evidence at the track in this year, and the place should track in that year, and the place should perhaps be remembered more for their deof the 1017 Third tille, who is well known in 107 code, upheld the honor of their or-lation. One match, that between the power and McGraw, was halved, the Feld Clab proved its superiority. Coney Island on Ogden, Marcus Daly's Scunder won from his youthful opponent, As asual, it was en the putting gr. en that Mr. Stickney lost. His long game was good, in fact exceptionally fine, but in a me cases he took as many as six strokes to get down after reaching the green. Mr. Schider had all the best of the first non-house, being four up when they started on the second round. Mr. Stickney placed remarkable golf then, using a three for the first nule from the short tee. He halved the next two and lost the lake hole by awful patting. On No. 6 he drove some Ze yards with a tremendous spoon left, hooking with the wind. He lay dead on a long second, for he pulled his drive. He missed a sixhahved in four.

Formie 3 herh got good drives, but Mr. Schider silced his spoon while a long cleek into the wind laid his opponent close, but in the long grass by a small green. The hole was haived and Mr. Schider won the individual match, 3 up. The next 2 were halved.

Nother player was a fill in to his for

Nos. 4 and 6. He seems to have had more golf this spring than any of the others, but he appears good for $5 any day or any time on the course, which is very excellent, indeed, for tournament play.

Mr. Joy surprised the cognoscenti by falling an eight down victim to Mr. Carter, Every one figured that if would be a decidedly close match. It was Mr. Joy's had day. He has not been showing his fine form of last fall this spring. Mr. Carter's score was decidedly good, no luck but hard luck in it—that $ on No. 3 for instance. His last nine holes, 5 fours, 3 fives and a 6, being capital golf, really much evener and more impressive than Mr. Kennett's more brilliant effort, Between them, Messrs, Carter and Kennett woa the match for the Field Club.

For the Jockey Club, Mr. McKittrick gave Mr. Semple a sound bearing, and helped his side immensely, Mr. Jones fell down somewhat, though Mr. Ives would, it was figured give him a hard game, anyhow.

Playing many strokes below his speed, Mr. McKirew gave Mr. Powe a fine game, coming a return of the boll all the second of the property of the formed of the fine home stretch, with all the horses leaning far over toward the inside, and the linesh within a few feet of the crowd, was a sight which would arouse enthusiasm on the property of the second of the second of the second of the first of the formed of the first of within a few feet of the crowd, was a sight which would arouse enthusiasm on nearly every occasion. THOUGHT COLISEUM ON FIRE. Twenty-Second Ward Democrats

Alarmed by Fireworks. Intense excitement prevailed in front of the West End Coliseum, No. 3225 Olive street, last right about 8 o'clock. At that time the Twenty-second Ward Democratic Club, headed by a drum and fife corps, was marching to the Coliseum, where a Democratic mass meeting was to be held. Saddenly from a turret on the top of the building flames shot skyward. An instant later all six turrets on the building were surmounted by a tower of flame that lit up the heavens scene of the supposed fire. Policemen left their beats to do duty at the conflaration, and the marching cohorts of the unterrified Democracy of the Twenty-second Ward broke ranks and hurried to the building to extinguish the blaze in their temporary wig-

General Manager Haughton of the Colisa um stood on the opposite corner and chuckled when the salvage corps with hose and reci and ladder and ax rattled through the crowd shouting for room. Suddenly the towers of flame began to subside, and it was discovered that Manager Haughton had only been burning a few Greek fires on the altars of Democracy. The excitement over on the outside, the meeting within was called to order, and a rousing Democratic rally held. French Nelson presided, and introduced the speakers. The following Democrats addressed the meeting: John A. Lee, Ben Clark, Judge Daniel Dillon and ex-Mayor E. A. Noonen.

Stone Commends Railroads.

"Corporate railroads, for instance, are of the greatest-benefit to the community. They are necessities of our life. It requires a very large amount of money to construct railroads and to equip them, and it is expensive to conduct them. When men invest their means in enterprises of that kind they ought to have the support of the community and be kindly treated by the public. The men who invest in enterprises of that kind expect profit from the investment, and are entitled to it, but they ought not be burdened too much.

"Public sentiment should be educated to take very kindly views of these great enterprises, but on the other hand corporations themselves are the creatures of State, and they owe a duty to the public. They must deal fairly and justify with the people. They have no right to increase their stocks or their debts by artificial processes or out of the spirit of speculation or in any other illegitimate way, and then expect to tax the public to pay dividends upon stocks and bonds that do not really represent investments, and corporations must at all times recognize and obey the sovereign powers and not seek to control them."
