

SEVEN DAYS' PROCEEDINGS OF THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Permanent Organization Is Effected and the Platform Is Adopted—Senator Lodge's Speech as Chairman.

Roosevelt Again Receives an Ovation, and Quay Is Wildly Applauded at Every Opportunity—His Resolution Causes a Storm—The Chinese Minister.

Convention Hall, Philadelphia, June 20.—It was almost dark when the advance guard of the great army of visitors crossed the Schuylkill and besieged the doors of the convention hall.

It was again Governor Roosevelt who met the convention. Still wearing his Rough Rider hat, he appeared, 68 yesterday, at the main entrance and inactivity of the crowd.

Senator Platt was by his side. The Governor did not appear so sternly austere as yesterday. He smiled right and left, in response to the applause.

Call Order. At 12:30 Senator Quay called for order. Immediately the band started up the "Star Spangled Banner."

At that moment a file of white-haired patriots appeared from the rear, bearing at their head a banner which read "The Old Standard."

When the storm of applause had subsided the delegation read a resolution declaring their unwavering allegiance to the party.

Report Adopted. The friends of J. E. Adickes of Delaware were in evidence when Mr. Payne read of the victory of that State.

Chairman Lodge's Speech. In 1897 we took the Government and the country from the hands of President Cleveland.

Dominant among the issues of four years ago was that of our monetary and financial system.

We fought the war with Spain. We were victorious in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

Should we revert to the old policy of the great American republic? Would any American wish that he had another chance to be elected President?

The new problems brought by the war were not solved in ourselves, and a still deeper confidence in the American people who will deal justly and rightly with the burden and responsibility.

We have no belief in the old slavocratic doctrine that the Constitution, of its own force, will protect the rights of the people.

China and its Trade. We believe that the province of government and legislation we mean to give to the people.

War with Spain. And while the American people, sustained by this Republican legislation, have been achieving these splendid triumphs in their business and commerce, they have conducted, and in victory concluded, a war for liberty and human rights.

Shipping Legislation. Our present dependence upon foreign shipping for nine-tenths of our foreign carrying is a great loss to the industry of this country.

Pension Laws. The nation owes a debt of profound gratitude to the soldiers and sailors who have fought its battles and it is the Government's duty to provide for survivors and for the widows and orphans of those who have fallen in the country's wars.

Civil Service Extension. We commend the policy of the Republican party in maintaining the efficiency of the civil service.

Internal Affairs. Public movements looking to the improvement of the roads and highways of the country meet with our cordial approval.

Lower War Taxes. The Dingley act, amended to provide sufficient revenue for the conduct of the war, has so well performed its work that it has been possible to reduce the war debt in the sum of $60,000,000.

Gold Standard Plank. We renew our allegiance to the principle of the gold standard and declare our confidence in the wisdom of the legislation of the Fifty-sixth Congress.

REPUBLICAN VIEWS BRIEFLY SET FORTH.

Strong Gold-Standard Plank—No Final Policy in the Philippines—Distinction Between Trusts and Combinations—The Boer Question.

The Republican platform declares that the prosperity of the country depends upon the victory of the Republican party.

The protective tariff is praised as one of the twin pillars of prosperity, but the usefulness of reciprocity under certain conditions is recognized.

Trusts are to be condemned when they restrict trade or affect prices, but the right of capital to combine is affirmed.

Imperialism is briefly touched. The idea is that expansion was forced on the nation. The future of our new possessions is not clearly outlined.

A new executive department is favored. Under it will be the consular system. More strict immigration laws and other labor reforms are demanded.

The early admission of Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona to statehood is advocated.

Henry Cabot Lodge, United States Senator from Massachusetts, President of the Republican National Convention.

It shall be appointed to consist of one member from each State, Territory, Alaska and the District of Columbia.

Order of Business. The convention shall proceed in the following order: 1. Report of the Committee on Credentials.

Report of the Committee on Permanent Organization. 2. Presentation of names of candidates for President and Vice President.

Quay's Amendment. Senator Quay, in a light suit, with vest unbuttoned, was recognized as the reader of the report.

War with Spain. And while the American people, sustained by this Republican legislation, have been achieving these splendid triumphs in their business and commerce, they have conducted, and in victory concluded, a war for liberty and human rights.

The future of our new possessions is not clearly outlined. Home rule is to be instituted, in some degree, where possible.

The Boer-British war is noticed with an explanation of our non-interference and a hope that the outcome will be honorable to both sides.

Our participation in the Chinese open-door movement is approved as a matter of business. Another clause calls for the protection of American citizens and their rights.
